CRY OF FRAUD STARTS ROW

CANDIDATE DAY OFFERS REMEDY FOR DRY EVILS

Asks Change in Law to Permit Beer.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Stephen A. Day, Republican candidate for nomination as Illinois congressman at large, has come out emphatically against Volsteadism because he believes the prophecy his eminent father made on the perils of Volsteadism has come true.

STEPHEN A. DAY.

That prophecy was uttered on June 7, 1920, the day the Supreme court of the United States delivered its decision upholding the validity of the Volstead act.

Stephen A. Day, then thirty-seven years old, was riding home from the capitol with his father. For many minutes the venerable jurist, William R. Day, who had been secretary of state under McKinley and whom Roosevelt appointed to the Supreme court, was silent.

Prophecy on Prohibition.

Then turning to his son he gravely uttered the prophecy which a distracted decade has fulfilled to the last syllable.

These were his words:

"What we have had to do today by means of the adoption of the eighteenth amendment will be far reaching. Our foes will not come from without the nation, but I foresee danger from within. There has been planted the seed that will grow into moral discord and ultimate distortion of our system of government, for personal habits cannot be combatted in a nation that has grown to love freedom."

Four years later, when bitter fulfillment of the old statesman's prophetic words began to shock legalists, Stephen A. Day bent to systematic study of the prohibition question in its constitutional, economic, and ethical aspects.

For such study his mind had been disciplined. Under the great James B. Angell he had studied international law at the University of Michigan. He had been secretary to Chief Justice Melville Fuller of the Supreme court of the United States. And as founder of the League for Industrial Justice, he had acquired a comprehensive grasp of economic problems.

Gets Plan for Remedy.

The result of six years of study—and of observation of conditions from [illegible] St. Mary's county in Maryland, where there is said to be "a still on every farm," to St. Clair county, Minnesota, where the countryside is [illegible] about it—is Mr. Day's plan for abolishing bogus prohibition.

Of the twenty-three candidates for Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's position of representative at large from Illinois—of whom seven are anti-prohibitionists—Mr. Day alone has come forth with a specific program of modification.

This is it, as sketched by him:

"The eighteenth amendment by its terms prohibits the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes, but does not define what constitutes intoxicating liquor. That is left to congress and the states concurrently. A definition by congress which would legalize wholesome beer would undoubtedly be upheld by the Supreme court as a proper exercise of the legislative authority granted by the amendment itself.

For Volstead Change.

"While a state cannot act contrary to an act of congress, the legislature of a state could be permitted to act in that state if congress, by a new definition, would relax the one-half of 1 per cent standard established by the Volstead act. This would not be contrary to the eighteenth amendment since concurrent power is granted to congress and the states to enforce the amendment. Where congress has acted on a subject within the field of federal power, that becomes a law for the entire nation.

"By modification of this one-half of one per cent provision the Volstead act would be relaxed to permit the legislature of any state to define wholesome beer, so long as the action of the legislature did not in specific terms violate the mandate of the eighteenth amendment.

"My father wrote the decision by

15TH DECENNIAL CENSUS STARTS ON WEDNESDAY

2 New Features Included in Checkup.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—More than 100,000 enumerators will commence Wednesday the task of taking the fifteenth decennial census. Preparations have been in progress for the last year and an elaborate organization is in readiness for the most extensive census ever attempted.

The earliest censuses covered only population. In the present census these will be included: unemployment, agriculture, irrigation, drainage, manufactures, mining, and distribution.

The new features of the census are those relating to distribution and unemployment. The distribution census relates to retail and wholesale trade and will be made up of statistics of goods sold by merchants and dealers and of the number of persons employed in trade.

Unemployment New.

Unemployment, considered as a separate subject of inquiry, also is new, although some of the previous censuses have included a single question asking the number of months in which persons have been unemployed during the year.

Statistics of agriculture, manufactures and mining have been collected in every decennial census since and including that of 1840. A census of manufactures is now taken every two years and a census of agriculture every five years. The subject of irrigation was added to the list of census inquiries in 1890, while drainage was first covered in the census of 1920.

The 100,000 enumerators will make a house to house canvass under the immediate direction of 574 supervisors. Each supervisor will have under his charge an average of about 175 enumerators, some having as few as 30 in more sparsely settled sections of the country and others having as many as 450 in large cities. In the cities the average enumeration district will comprise about 1,800 people. The enumerators will be paid on the basis of the number of persons counted.

Complete in 2 Weeks.

In the cities the enumerators will be required to complete their work within two weeks, while in the rural districts they will be allowed a month. Then will come the work of assembling and classifying the data, which will require months. Preliminary totals are to be announced locally in the various census districts, which will give an opportunity for corrections to be made before the final figures are compiled in Washington. Under the terms of the law enacted by congress last spring authorizing the census the population figures must be submitted to congress in December as a basis for a reapportionment of congressional districts.

Among new questions to be asked by the enumerators in the census of population is the value of the home, if owned, or the monthly rental, if rented. This will make possible a classification of families according to economic status. Such a classification is desired by individuals and firms using the census figures as a basis for organizing their selling and advertising campaigns.

Another new question asked will be the age at first marriage, intended to give definite information as to the relative age at marriage of persons in different racial and economic groups.

Will Ask About Radio.

A question on radio sets will show how large the potential radio audience is.

Provision is made for classifying the foreign born in five different ways—namely: by country of birth, by mother tongue, by year of immigration to the United States, by citizenship and by ability to speak English.

The census of unemployment will be a part of the regular population census. Young boys and girls will not be included in the unemployment census, but all persons who have finished or stopped school and have actually started to work will be asked if they were employed on the day before the census enumerator arrived. Persons having an occupation but not at work at the time the census is taken will be grouped into two main classes, those who have a job but are temporarily laid off on account of lack of orders, bad weather, sickness, etc., and those who are able to work and want work but cannot find it.

Seek to Find Cause.

From the information to be gathered data will be available concerning the number of men and the number of women unemployed, the average age of the unemployed, how many of the

ACQUIT BENDER OF CHARGE OF TAKING BRIBE

Four hours after retiring to deliberate a Criminal court jury returned a verdict of acquittal at 9:52 o'clock last night in the case of Andrew G. Bender, indicted on a charge of accepting a $1,000 bribe for altering records while he was chief clerk of the bond forfeiture department in the office of the state's attorney. Superior Judge Frankhauser tried the case.

Prosecutors Grenville Beardsley and George Lavin presented evidence tending to show that Bender, in the case of Frank Knefel, an alleged burglar, had altered the record to permit Emil and Rosa Klein to regain a $5,000 bond, forfeited when Knefel became a fugitive. Attorney Albert Olson, a relative of State's Attorney Swanson by marriage, filed the petition upon which the bond forfeiture was set aside.

Defense attorneys argued that Bender was being made a "goat." Bender admitted on the stand that he had accepted $1,000 from the Kleins, but represented the payment as a fee. He took the money only after consulting Attorney Lucius Winchester, at that time his superior in charge of the bond forfeiture department, the defendant said.

WEATHER MAN PROMISES CALM END FOR MARCH

A docile and lamblike end of March was predicted last night by C. A. Donnel, U. S. weather forecaster. Rising temperature, gentle winds, and rain are expected to put the finishing touches to the work of clearing the streets of the record breaking snow which March dumped upon the city in its most lionlike mood.

Cloudy and slightly warmer weather is predicted for today, with increasing cloudiness tomorrow and rain about tomorrow night. The last day of March would be warmer, Mr. Donnel predicted, with the temperature ranging between 34 and 48 degrees, slightly above normal.

Practically all of the main streets and highways were cleared of deep drifts yesterday and traffic was back to normal. Two snowfalls, one early yesterday morning and the other in the evening, threw a scare into transportation companies, but the fall was light in each case, barely covering the ground.

Fiction Folk to Dwell in White House

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Don Quixote, Sherlock Holmes, Tom Sawyer, and Uncle Remus are about to occupy the White House permanently for the mental diversion of America's presidential families.

The nation's booksellers are collecting a home library of 500 volumes as a gift to the executive mansion.

The arbiters of the first family's reading include Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Washington and Douglas S. Watson of San Francisco, both of whom know what a White House is without personally purchased books.

The idea originated with Mr. Watson, father-in-law of Herbert Hoover Jr., the evening after President Hoover's inauguration and before the Hoover private library was installed. Mr. Watson noticed that members of the family wished to turn to books for relaxation and that none was available.

No Books for Diversion.

Although the library of congress contains a million volumes and the executive office has a reference library, there was nothing for the President to read merely for diversion. The American booksellers undertook to present the White House with a comprehensive choice, which now is virtually complete and provides for a catholicity of taste.

Twenty-five detective stories and as many children's books will afford entertainment for every one from the President to his grandchildren.

In addition to a long list of fiction, standard and contemporary, there will be a wide selection of biography, mostly about statemen, 50 volumes on travel, as many on history, and a representative collection of poetry, drama essays, including "The Compleat Angler" by Izaak Walton; philosophy, science and arts.

Presentation in April.

The presentation probably will be made in the last week of April, Frederic Melcher, chairman of the committee on selection, said today.

Those who have helped Mr. Melcher pick appropriate titles, besides Mrs. Longworth and Mr. Watson, are Representative Ruth B. Pratt of New York; George B. Utley, Chicago librarian; Nathan Van Patten, Stanford university librarian; John E. Eckel, Philadelphia collector; Gilbert Grosvenor of the National Geographic society, and John Howell of San Francisco.

A special bookplate has been designed for the library, designating it as "a gift to the nation from the American book sellers." It is printed from a reproduction of the first ornamental type cast in America. This type, of liberty head and eagle-and-olive-branch design, was created just after the War of 1812, or about the time the White House itself was built.

EXPLOSION TRAPS SIXTEEN MEN IN A KENTUCKY MINE

Kettle Island, Ky., March 29.—(AP)—Sixteen men were trapped a mile and a half back in a coal mine here late today with little hope for rescue. The explosion that tore out the brattice work was believed to have been caused by a gas pocket igniting. Their only hope is that they may have been able to work their way back into some unused shaft. The mine is the property of the Pioneer Coal company.

Four men escaped. Among them was Albert Whitely, who was working near the explosion, but who was unable to tell the cause.

Mine rescue squads were ordered here at once from Harlan and Lexington, Ky., and Norton, Va., and a special train was prepared at Pineville to hasten their arrival.

Foul air from the explosion prevented local rescue squads from entering the mine which was believed to be jammed with debris.

'STAR SPANGLED BANNER' HIT BY MUSIC TEACHERS

After disbanding Friday night at the end of a week's convention the Music Supervisors' National conference was reconvened yesterday at the Stevens hotel to protest a possible passage by congress of a bill making "The Star Spangled Banner" the national anthem of the United States.

The supervisors objected on the grounds that the bill would signify a unique endorsement of the song as embodying the ideals of our nation. The text, they contended, is largely the reflection of a single wartime event which cannot fully reflect the spirit of a nation committed to peace and good will. They declared also that the song is too difficult for frequent singing in the school rooms or other assemblages where the national anthem is needed.

"While recognizing the legitimate place of 'The Star-Spangled Banner' as one of our historic patriotic songs," the resolution concluded, "the conference vigorously opposes its adoption as our national anthem."

The conference made no official recommendation for another national song, but it was learned that "America the Beautiful" is a favored substitute. The resolution is to be sent to congress by Mabell Glenn, Kansas City, retiring president.

Woman Faints at Bargain Counter; 4,000 Stage Riot

New York, March 29.—[U. P.]—A woman fainted at a bargain counter today because some one else had just purchased the dress she wanted, and 4,000 women and children rioted in a dress store on Union Square. There was a false cry of "fire" when she collapsed and all shoppers struggled to reach exits.

$150,000 Jury Graft Charged by Prosecutor

The county treasury has been defrauded of between $150,000 and $200,000 by collusion of court clerks and bailiffs in a system whereby fraudulent jurors' checks are issued and cashed, it was charged yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy. He made the charge after a conference with J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, concerning the situation which was uncovered last week with the indictment of a former court clerk, a bailiff, and five men who posed as jurors.

The two officials said they were convinced that the system was not confined to any one court, but was more or less general in all the courts, with the exception of the Circuit court. The latter is the only court which mails out checks to the homes of men who serve on juries and in that manner it keeps track of such payments.

County Jury Bill $906,000.

Jacobs pointed out that the jury bill for the county during 1929 was $906,000. For several years it has been close to that figure.

Jacobs said that an examination of jury pay cards showed that in one instance one man apparently signed fifteen cards. The signatures on each card will be examined by a handwriting expert to determine if the official's suspicion is correct.

Prosecutor Murphy tomorrow will ask for the records of the clerks of the various courts. He then intends to send out a general questionnaire to the men who were paid for jury services to determine whether they really served and collected the money credited to them. The Criminal court alone summoned some 13,000 jurors during 1929. The Superior court figures were not available.

Prosecutor Describes Method.

According to Prosecutor Murphy, the system employed in the alleged defrauding of the county was as follows: A clerk and a bailiff would take the name of a man excused when called for jury service and make out a card for full jury duty in his name. On the last day of the jury's service a "ringer" was planted in the courtroom to respond to that name and call for the jury card. The fake juror then would sign the other man's name to the jury card and voucher, collect the check and forge the indorsement. The conspirators then split the profits.

AUSTRALIA WETS ROLL UP BIG LEAD IN STATE BALLOT

MELBOURNE, Victoria, March 29.—(AP)—With almost 90 per cent of the votes counted, opponents of the prohibition of alcoholic liquors in the state of Victoria tonight had rolled up a lead of more than 100,000 votes over those in favor in a compulsory referendum whether the liquor license in that state should be abolished.

The terms of the referendum required a three-fifths majority in favor of abolition to secure that result. The industrial areas generally voted strongly in favor of the retention of licenses. When the count closed those opposed to abolition of the license were 422,581 and those in favor of it were 326,553. There are still about 200,000 votes to be counted.

Victoria, which has an estimated population of 1,800,000, is the second largest state in Australia. The city of Melbourne and some of its suburbs are dry and an intense campaign was held before the referendum by both sides.

ELECTION BOARD HITS SWANSON POLLS INQUIRY

Prosecutor Opens Fire on Lists.

The board of election commissioners yesterday afternoon issued a formal charge that the state's attorney's office is playing politics and seeking to intimidate judges and clerks of election for political purposes.

This charge, issued through Chairman Fred V. Maguire, followed an announcement from State's Attorney Swanson's office that the grand jury tomorrow morning will begin an investigation of many complaints of fraudulent registration.

Special Assistant State's Attorney C. E. Lounsbury, employed by Mr. Swanson two weeks ago for the announced purpose of investigating election frauds, was assigned to direct the grand jury inquiry.

Worst Ever, Says Roche.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator, whose staff has been gathering evidence, described the recent registration as the worst he has ever known in Cook county.

"More than 50,000 fraudulent names are on the poll books," Mr. Roche said. "Mr. Lounsbury and I are going before the grand jury Monday with these lists of fake names. Copies of the lists will be made, and we shall have a man at each polling place to arrest any one trying to vote under these names."

Election Board Replies.

The members of the board of election commissioners, who are Mr. Maguire, Harry Lipsky and Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, conferred with County Judge Jarecki after the announcement from the state's attorney's office, and then issued the following statement:

"The public announcement coming from the state's attorney's office that a grand jury investigation is to be launched on Monday concerning the March registration is obviously for political effect.

"And if, as stated, judges and clerks are to be summoned before the grand jury at this time, such a move is plainly for political intimidation.

The judges and clerks in the precincts named in the statement emanating from the state's attorney's office have already been removed, as have many others, following investigation from this office.

"If, in addition to the 15,000 voters against whom applications to erase were filed with this board on the days provided by law, the state's attorney had knowledge of other alleged irregularities, the same could have been brought to the attention of this board at that time.

307,009 Names Erased.

"Instead of pursuing the orderly course provided by law, the state's attorney's officer for some ulterior reason chose to adopt another course.

"The board of election commissioners, as the result of canvasses made, has made every effort to purge the election machinery of any irregularities.

"In this connection it will be noted that 307,009 names were erased from the registers, as compared to a total of 230,124 which were erased in 1928. Whenever there is found an instance of wrongdoing the proper procedure would be to notify the board in the manner prescribed by the law, with the object of erasing fictitious or illegal names and removing incompetent judges and clerks. The process adopted in this particular situation indicates clearly that the desire of the state's attorney's office is to intimidate the judges and clerks and to make political propaganda. There is no fault to be found except that the state's attorney's maneuver at this time indicates that the move is not in good faith.

Named Two Weeks Ago.

"Although Mr. Lounsbury two weeks ago was appointed special state's attorney to prosecute election frauds at a time when there was no indication of fraud the board of election commissioners have given him full coöperation. This prior appointment of Mr. Lounsbury, without, and in advance of any, complaint of fraud, is another indication that the present move was planned for political effect.

"Announcement of a grand jury investigation, timed today, the last day for hearing complaints in regard to illegal registration, without charges having been first brought to the board's attention by the state's attorney's office, further tends to corroborate the fact that the prosecuting office is playing politics.

"A more thorough canvass has been made by the precinct boards than heretofore, due in many instances to new appointments. Some old boards had to be ordered to recanvass their precincts.

"An illustration of the diligence with which this process was pursued may be seen in the fact that in one ward 3,975 names had been stricken of persons who had been dead or removed from the ward."

Advised to Ignore Summons.

Charles Center Case, attorney for the election board, declared that he had advised two election officials, who had been summoned to appear in the state's attorney's office to answer to complaints against them, not to obey the summons. Both officials, said Attorney Case, had excellent records and reputations, and came from a precinct of the 42d ward in which Richard Prendergast, Deneen representative in that ward, had created a disturbance at a previous election.

Mr. Lounsbury declined to comment on the charges of the election board and the action of Mr. Case.

The wards in which frauds have been detected, according to the announcement of the state's attorney's office, are the 1st, 2d, 17th, 20th, 24th, 27th, 31st and 42d.

Cites False Addresses.

It was stated that as many as 175 names of persons had been entered with false addresses in single precincts, and that the addresses given in many instances were those of poolrooms, empty houses, speakeasies, and other places not used as residences.

Four election officials were questioned when it was found, according to the state's attorney's charges, that they did not live in the precincts in which they served. Chief Clerk John Rusch of the election board stated that each of the four officials had previously been taken off the rolls.

Mr. Rusch yesterday was served with a subpoena duces tecum from the state's attorney's office, which ordered him to appear before the grand jury tomorrow with the following records:

"All affidavits by persons voting in the judicial election of Nov. 5, 1929, in the 27th precinct of the 48th ward; the lodging house affidavits covering the premises known as the Leland hotel, 1207 Leland avenue, in the same precinct, and the clerks' canvass book in that precinct."

Respond to Suspect Notices.

When the election commissioners concluded their three day session at 9 o'clock last night only about 500 of the 15,369 persons whose registrations were challenged had appeared to fight for their right to vote. The remainder, more than 14,000, were automatically disqualified. With the 290,000 whose names were stricken off the registration books by judge and clerks on registration day, yesterday's disqualifications raised the total to more than 304,000. Approximately 233,000 names were added to the registration books on March 11.

Assistant State's Attorney Lounsbury and several detectives from the state's attorney's office were present throughout the board's hearing on the protests against challenges.

Mrs. Morris Eller, wife of the city collector, followed the lead of her husband when she, too, appeared and successfully defended her right to vote against the charge that she and her husband no longer live in the 20th ward, in which they are registered.

Says Slaying Case Is Ignored.

William L. Dawson, colored leader of the South Side Voters' league, in a statement yesterday charged State's Attorney Swanson with neglect in delaying the prosecution of John Pampinella, a Deneen precinct captain, charged with the murder of the Rev. William Slaughter, a political opponent, on last registration day, March 11.

"It seems that the present state's attorney and his large staff of assistants are too busy scanning ancient pay rolls, seeking to find if a truck was hired or a contract let to clean the alleys as a political favor, in order to find pegs upon which to hang indictments of the political opponents of his sponsor, Senator Deneen, to take cognizance of a mere matter of the malicious killing of a human being," Dawson said.

PARADE CLOSES CONVENTION OF ARMY RESERVES

The annual convention of the Illinois Reserve Officers' association closed yesterday with a parade of 1,000 enlisted men from Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training station through Evanston's slushy streets with two civil war veterans in the lead. Approximately 15,000 Evanstonians witnessed the parade, which was reviewed by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth corps area, and Rear Admiral W. S. Crosley, commander at the Great Lakes.

Col. Frank Seaman of Galesburg was elected president of the Reserve Officers' association at the closing session of the convention. Joliet was designated the city for the next convention.

Evanston Enters 38th Year of City Existence

Evanston's 38th birthday as a municipality passed without official observance yesterday. Pointing out that the city treasury was too near depleted to permit a municipal celebration, Ald. Edward Davidson urged residents of recently incorporated subdivisions to plant trees in commemoration of the day. Although Evanston was granted a municipal charter on April 29, 1892, sentiment for a city government was crystallized at a mass meeting on March 29, hence that day has always been considered the suburb's official birthday.

DENEEN-CERMAK POLITICAL DEAL SEEN BY LOESCH

Sanitary District Trials Balked, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Frank J. Loesch, former assistant state's attorney of Cook county, declared today that he believed the prosecution of Chicago sanitary district indictments has been balked by a political deal between Senator Charles S. Deneen and Anton J. Cermak, Democratic president of the county board.

His own removal from the office of State's Attorney John Swanson last December, Mr. Loesch attributed to "outside pressure," brought "from the moment he began exposing the criminal misapplication of funds" by Timothy J. Crowe, former president, and other canal board trustees.

"The rumors have been abundant that there was some sort of a deal between Deneen and Cermak relating to sanitary district trustees and county affairs, involving the bipartisan nomination of sitting judges and candidates to fill vacancies relating to the disposition of sanitary district and county patronage," Mr. Loesch said. "My own opinion from indications is that some kind of a deal has been made.

Says Pressure Was Used.

"From the moment I became active as first assistant state's attorney investigating the sanitary district's affairs, exposing the pay rolls and showing the criminal misapplication of public moneys, it was clear to me that outside pressure was being brought to get rid of me and that finally resulted in the investigation being taken out of my hands and being put in the hands of another assistant, Mr. Northup."

The 78 year old attorney made these statements during an interview with THE TRIBUNE after his arrival in Washington to attend the hearings of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement, of which he is a member. Although his duties have caused him to spend a large part of his time here recently, Mr. Loesch has been an interested observer of developments in connection with the campaign of Senator Deneen for renomination.

He explained that although he had no desire to project himself into the campaign, he felt he could speak freely and pointedly on facts within his knowledge.

Asked About Carey Case.

Asked if he saw any connection between the delay on the part of State's Attorney Swanson's office in bringing to trial the bribery case of Bishop A. J. Carey, colored head of Mayor Thompson's civil service commission; the sanitary district trial postponements, and the political situation, Mr. Loesch said:

"I know nothing about the Bishop Carey case personally. I had word, however, from one of the men engaged in investigating Bishop Carey's alleged taking of bribes that the testimony was conclusive and that a trial on the indictment should be forced immediately. I do not know why the trial has been delayed."

Concerning the canal board situation, Mr. Loesch spoke carefully but emphatically, weighing his words and approving them in written form when he had finished.

Taken Out of His Hands.

"As to the sanitary district trustee indictments," he asserted, "I can only say that about the time the indictments were voted the investigation was taken out of my hands by Judge Swanson and put in charge of Mr. Northup. The indictments were drawn by Assistant State's Attorney Byrne, who had been selected by Judge Swanson for that purpose. Mr. Byrne had been assistant United States district attorney.

"The indictments are technically good, as I have learned from criminal lawyers who examined them. The claim, however, was made by Mr. Northup that more testimony was needed and that new indictments would have to be secured. During the whole time I remained as first assistant state's attorney to Dec. 3, last, hundreds of witnesses were brought before the grand jury by Northup and his assistants and Northup carried on extensive investigations, the claim constantly being made by him that he needed more testimony.

"Looks Like Killing Time."

"It all looked to me like killing time to enable the statute of limitations to bar criminal conspiracy proceedings. This statute requires the lapse of only eighteen months, sixteen of which now have gone by.

"That investigation had been going on supposedly for fully nine months and testimony was put before grand jury after grand jury without any new indictments. It was claimed that the state's attorney was awaiting developments in the United States district attorney's office, and therefore it was claimed it was not possible up to recently to get that testimony.

"My conviction was that all the testimony necessary to sustain the indictments was that lying open concerning the building and electric lighting of McCormick road and the building of the cinder path, for which there was not the slightest statuary authority. The expenditure of millions of dollars for those purposes was in my judgment indictable as a criminal waste of public moneys."

Says Facts Speak for Selves.

In conclusion Mr. Loesch reiterated the point that what he had to say was "merely a statement of what has happened" and that the facts will speak for themselves.

"Just now," he added, "I am very busy with my task as a member of the President's commission in trying to help solve our law enforcement problems and have nothing personally at stake in Chicago politics. But when the truth needs to be told, regardless of whose shoe it seems to fit, I can see no reason why the public is not entitled to hear it."

$20,000 Fire in Garage of Former Druggan Brewery

A fire, believed to have been started by spontaneous combustion, yesterday caused damage estimated at $20,000 in the plant of the Service Sash and Door company in a garage of the Standard Brewery company, 1235 South Campbell avenue. The brewery was the property of Frank Lake and Terry Druggan until it was confiscated by the federal government several weeks ago.

Deneen Talks on World Court and His Foe's Attack on It

Peoria, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Senator Charles S. Deneen tonight made an address here dealing with the argument, advanced by his opponent, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, speaking here a few days ago.

The senator said he would limit his remarks to the attitude of the Republican party toward the world court. Statements of the Republican party in its national political platforms have well defined its attitude, he said.

On Record Against the League.

"I am the only candidate for the United States senate of any party in the coming primary who has gone on record as having voted against the United States entering the league of nations," the senator said. "I have not changed my views in this regard."

"Mrs. McCormick has repeatedly asserted that the world court is an annex to the league of nations. The attitude of the Republican party towards the league is defined by the expressions of the three Republican Presidents since the league was ratified in 1919.

"Referring to the culmination of the negotiations for the Kellogg treaty, Mrs. McCormick stated in a letter to Rudolph Witte, her campaign manager in La Salle county, that "the outlawry of war program calls for a world court, and this sort of a world court I do support.' But she opposes the existing court and the existing world court is composed of 42 nations. Twelve other nations have signed the constitution and its ratification is awaiting the action of their respective legislative bodies."

"Mrs. McCormick is not in harmony with the efforts of our country to establish peace among the nations. She is against the world court that has required 6,000 years to create and is for 'a court' which no nation will join.

"She is for the court of arbitration, which President Roosevelt and other great leaders of the party wished to have abolished.

Chicago Speech Quoted.

"In the report of her speech at the Chicago university recently, it states that she was asked, 'Will you favor the entry of the United States to the league of nations?' And her answer is reported as follows: 'If the element of force was eliminated by means of a covenant to that effect, I would favor the United States entering the league.'

"The element of force has been eliminated by the Kellogg treaty in which the signatory nations condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations to one another."

"There are many objections to the United States entering the league of nations aside from the elimination of force. They are so obvious that they need no statement. In her effort to revive the old world prejudices and rekindle old world passions, Mrs. McCormick has tried to make the world court an issue in our campaign, but she has been driven, as I said, to favor a court that no other nation will join; to favor the court of arbitration to which few nations will resort and to favor joining the league of nations, if a covenant could be agreed upon by the nations to eliminate the element of force, when in fact the element of force had been eliminated from the league many months ago."

BUSINESS BACKS MOVE TO CLEAR CHICAGO'S NAME

Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of the Better Business bureau, announced last night that sixteen business associations and service clubs had pledged coöperation with the movement to build confidence in Chicago at a meeting held yesterday at the Union League club.

Among those who attended the meeting were E. M. Craig, business manager of the Building Construction Employers' association; S. Pirie Carson, Roland Haynes, Ralph Ibenfeldt, Arthur Perrow, J. K. Blatchford, R. Clark Duncan, Roy M. Kirkland, Newton Farr, C. J. Ferris, James Donnelly, George W. Blossom, George Killinger, A. H. Revell, Jacob Best and W. Frank McClure.

Mr. Wieboldt outlined to the organization representatives the purpose of the dinner meeting which will be held at the Stevens hotel on April 9 under the auspices of the Better Business bureau. He said the dinner will be of importance because it will focus the attention of Chicago business men on means of combating the misrepresentation from which he declared the city now suffers.

MRS. McCORMICK MAKES PLEA FOR LABOR'S SUPPORT

Recalls Her Father's and Husband's Views.

Rock Island, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Ruth Hanna McCormick dwelt upon the world court, farm relief, and the tariff in her campaign in this region today, and at meetings at Rock Island and Moline tonight she threw emphasis upon the subject of labor legislation.

Mrs. McCormick said:

"When I enter here upon the subject of labor legislation I feel that I am walking on familiar ground. One of the strongest impressions made upon my girlhood was the lesson taught me by my father, a lesson which I shall give you in his own words: 'The man who works with his hands and the man who works with his head are partners in toil and they ought also to be partners in the profit of that toil.'

Recalls Visits to Mines.

"My father, before he became senator, sent me as a girl of 16 into the coal fields of Pennsylvania and into the mining regions of the upper Michigan peninsula. He pretended he wanted me to go there as his office representative to study conditions and report to him. I was only 16, and I know now that his real purpose—and I consider that his subterfuge was an admirable one—was to bring me into contact with the miners and their families in such a way that I might understand their problems, just as I probably would later learn the viewpoint of my father, as their employer.

"I have been engaged in various forms of public service for the last quarter of a century and as I look at the past and the present and the future of labor in America I can find no words which so clearly express my own opinion than the words uttered by my father back in the 90s. I want to read you what he said: 'Life is a matter of mutual interests between labor and capital. It is not possible for one to prosper permanently unless the other shares in that prosperity.'

"The Full Dinner Pail."

"It was he who invented McKinley's campaign slogan, 'the full dinner pail.' Those four words are almost a startling revelation of his labor viewpoint. You know of his splendid record as a large employer of men. You know of his success in assisting arbitration as a means of settling disputes, and you know how he was able to avoid trouble with his men through all the years of his active life.

"My husband, Senator McCormick, in later years devoted a great deal of attention to the problems of labor. I shared that interest with him. Senator McCormick was regarded as so clearly in sympathy with labor's chief hopes and aspirations that in 1923 the late Samuel Gompers, then president of the American Federation of Labor, intrusted to him the introduction of the 'child labor amendment' in the United States senate.

"I would not have it thought that I, by any word or suggestion, relied on the fact that my father was a senator and that my husband was a senator, for the purpose of convincing anybody that I, therefore, should have special consideration as a candidate for the senate. I am not referring to the facts just cited for any such purpose. While I am proud of the labor records made by Senator Hanna and Senator McCormick, I am submitting them to you only for the purpose of showing that my present attitude is one which has grown up with traditions which, to me, have become sacred."

Lewis Launches Campaign with Speech at Luncheon

James Hamilton Lewis, candidate for the Democratic nomination as United States senator, a position he held from 1913 to 1919, yesterday made his first speech of the primary campaign before 1,000 women members of the 48th Ward Democratic club. The occasion was a luncheon at the Sheridan Plaza hotel in honor of J. Frank Lyman, candidate for reëlection as Democratic ward committeeman.

Former Senator Lewis said that the Republican party had brought the United States to the verge of a panic and only the uplifting influence of the Democracy could save the country.

Hails Democrats as Saviors.

"This nation is feeling the severe result of financial depression, of nonemployment, of lessening of values, and of the threat of serious embarrassment to the home, the children and the fireside," he declared. "These dangers need not alarm you. The quick adoption of the principles of Democracy will restore prosperity and happiness.

"Grave violations of the law are being performed and permitted at Washington. Great trusts and monopolies are allowed, in open defiance of litigation aimed at abolishing such evils.

"Out to Tell Truth."

"But there is no word about these great outrages. No. But a horrible clamor arises there when some poor woman is found brewing a beverage of slight alcoholic content which she may have been concocting for the sustenance of a sick husband or ailing child.

"There are some who counsel hiding the truth from the public because of a fancied fear of disturbing the nation's confidence. Shall we maintain a skulking silence? Not I! Like St. Paul, in a limited way, your humble servant will go out and tell the truth on his way to Jericho."

MRS. M'CORMICK AND DENEEN BACK IN CHICAGO TODAY

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick and Senator Charles S. Deneen resume their campaigning in Chicago today after a Saturday downstate. Today Mrs. McCormick will speak at St. Sigfried's Swedish church at 4:30 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock this evening she will make a fifteen minute radio talk over W-G-N.

Senator Deneen is billed for a meeting at Carmen's hall, Ashland and Van Buren, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Tomorrow is the day advertised for "blowing off the lid" for the final week. Senator Deneen will appear at noon at a meeting in the Grand Opera house. Mrs. McCormick will make a noonday address at the Apollo theater.

Discovery of Dynamite Leads to Many Theories

Discovery of eight sticks of dynamite, wrapped in a year old newspaper and lying in the street in front of Gary city hall, led police of Gary, Ind., last night to suspect that the explosive was intended for the Gary theater, a burlesque house, which has recently had trouble with the musicians' union. Reports that the dynamite was directed against the city hall or Mayor Roswell O. Johnson were discounted by the police.

HE FINDS ONLY 364 EVANSTON FAMILIES WITH NO CHURCH TIE

Evanston's claim of being the most strongly religious city in the country is seemingly borne out by the survey just completed under direction of Prof. A. Z. Mann, director of the United States Religious survey.

Figures made public by Prof. Mann last night indicate that only 364 out of 11,741 families in the community are indifferent to religion and have no sectarian preference. The numerical strength of fifteen sects in Evanston is indicated as follows:

Methodist Episcopal membership, 2,088 families; Roman Catholic, 2,061; Episcopalian, 1,448; Presbyterian, 1,385; Lutheran, 1,323; Christian Science, 741; Congregational, 673; Baptist, 444; Evangelical, 130; Christian, 128; Swedish Mission, 99; Unitarian, 98; Jewish, 65; United Presbyterian, 60; Free Methodist, 48, and miscellaneous, 585 families.

Prof. Mann considers this record may be improved and announced a rally tonight at the Evanston Y. M. C. A. under auspices of the Evanston Ministerial association to encourage the 364 families with no church preference to make a church affiliation. The Rev. A. J. Ferry of the Edgewater Presbyterian church will speak.

CHARGE DOCTORS VICTIMIZED BY BLACKMAIL RING

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29.—[Special.]—Four attorneys, a "naturopathic" physician and two men said to be lawyers' runners are under arrest and at least thirty persons, including three magistrates, are involved in a blackmailing syndicate preying on physicians in this city, in charges made today by county and city detectives.

The seven under arrest are accused by Dr. Fred W. Faltermeyer, who says he paid $11,500 to protect his professional reputation although not guilty of any illegal or unethical practice.

Patrick McKeewen, chief of county detectives, asserted that the "racket" had its inception in Chicago.

Assistant District Attorney Barr exhibited scores of papers today which he declared revealed similar plots against

Negroes to Fight Parker as Supreme Court Judge

New York, March 29.—(AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today announced it had appealed to Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee to defer action on the nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the United States Supreme court. The association charges Judge Parker made statements which it construes as reflecting on the Negro race.

The charges quoted the Greensboro [N. C.] Daily News' account of a speech made by Judge Parker in 1920 when he was a candidate for governor.

"The participation of the Negro in politics is a source of evil and danger to both races and is not desired by the wise men in either race or by the Republican party of North Carolina."

MICHIGAN U. DRIER THAN POLL INDICATES, PRESIDENT ASSERTS

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 29.—[Special.]—President Alexander G. Ruthven does not believe that the University of Michigan is three to one "wet," as shown by the prohibition poll held here earlier in the week.

Dr. Ruthven declared today that he never has believed in straw votes, and thinks they are seldom representative on controversial issues such as prohibition.

"The 'antis' always rush out to vote, while only a small part of those satisfied with present measures respond," he said. "I know from my own observations that conditions at the University of Michigan are better since prohibition than they were before."

PRINCE PUNISHES MAJOR HE NEARLY KILLS WITH AUTO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, March 29.—Prince Nicholas, who twice in the last fortnight is reported to have had altercations with various subjects, today swerved his car toward Maj. Georgescu, who was crossing a Bucharest street with a young woman on his arm.

The major and his companion narrowly escaped being run down and the officer was so enraged he swung his sword at the prince's car, smashing a back window.

The prince jumped out of his car and sentenced the major to 20 days of "home arrest," which calls for the officer's imprisonment in his own home. Tonight Gen. Gavarscu, chief of staff, publicly reprimanded the major and ordered him to proceed to the royal palace and offer his apologies.

NUN IS KILLED AS SHE FALLS IN PATH OF TRUCK

Miss Ann Grossman, 32 years old, a member of a religious order and a delegate from a Milwaukee Catholic school to the national conference of music supervisors at the Stevens hotel, was fatally injured yesterday when, upon alighting from a south bound Clark street car at Adams street, she was struck by a mail truck.

The nun, known in the religious community as Sister Mathilda, was crossing to the curb with her younger sister, Miss Louise Grossman, and her twin brother, Frank Grossman, whose guest she had been at their home, 4520 Oakdale avenue, when she slipped and fell in front of the truck. Central police released the driver, John McHugh, 59 years old, 2416 West 61st street, after he said the truck was moving at only five miles an hour.

The nun's death and one other yesterday increased the county motor toll this year to 209. The other victim: Fred Gelio, 55 years old, 720 Marion street, Oak Park. Brushed off the rear platform of a crowded Crawford avenue car by a truck at Crawford avenue and Lake street, he fell beneath the truck wheels and was crushed, dying a few hours later in the county hospital. The truck driver disappeared.

ARRESTED AS CHECK THIEF.

Antonio Villeral, 28 years old, was arrested yesterday when he tried to cash a check, which was stolen from Emil Frank, 117 South Peoria street, a coal dealer. He was identified by Frank as the man who robbed him of the check and $10.

SPELLS KIMONO WITH 'A'; LOSES A SPELLING BEE

Congressman Defeated by Newspaper Man.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Kimono, misspelled, tonight brought defeat to Representative Robert Luce [Rep., Mass.], and made Ray Tucker, correspondent of the New York Telegram, victor at the National Press club's revival of the "little red schoolhouse" spelling bee.

Before Tucker won, though, both he and Representative Luce were allowed to continue despite "slips of the tongue." Spelling referable, Tucker called out the letters of the obsolescent "referrible." Representative Luce agreed that Tucker should continue, although "referrible" was not in "Schoolmaster" Senator Simeon D. Fess' "Holmes' Blue-backed Speller" of 1867.

Tucker agreed to let Representative Luce stay in the contest after he had left out the first "a" in stalactite.

Senators Among Competitors.

Senator Fess decided the Holmes speller was not hard enough for the remaining two contestants among the twenty-one senators, representatives and newspaper correspondents who had started the contest, and picked another.

Carlisle Bargeron of the Washington post was first out when he inserted an "e" in salable; Representative Howard of Nebraska left out an "l" in tranquillity; Howard Forrest of the New York Herald-Tribune omitted the second "e" in achievement; Byron Price of the Associated Press transposed the first "i" and "e" in sacrilegious; Representative Abernethy [Dem., N. C.] substituted an "i" for the "e" in liquefaction; Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.] began the last syllable of optician with a "t"; Representative Black [Dem., N. Y.] dropped the first "h" in rhythm; Representative Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] spelled "mortice" while the Holmes speller showed the word only as "mortise"; Fred Emory of the United States Daily inserted an "a" after the "n" in initials; J. Fred Essary of the Baltimore Sun used an "i" for the second "a" in abacus.

Representative Eaton [Rep., N. J.] left out the "a" in the diphthong in anæsthetic; John E. Monk of the New York Times forgot the "k" in bivouacked; Floyd S. Roosa of the Universal Service used two "n's" in buccaneer; Representative Jones [Dem., Tex.] used "eu" for the "o" at the last of carburetor.

David R. Barbee of the Washington Post dropped the second "e" in daguerreotype; Ulric Bell of the Louisville Courier-Journal forgot the second "e" in homogeneous; Senator Connally of Texas transposed the "e" and "n" in indigenous; George R. Holmes of the International News Service used an "i" for the "e" in igneous; Representative McClintock [Rep., O.] used an "e" in the second syllable of logarithm.

Among the words that were spelled successfully were larynx, incommensurability, proselyte, sarcophagus, and somnambulism.

CALIFORNIA STUDENTS SAFE AFTER A BOAT TRIP HALTED BY FOG

San Francisco, Cal., March 29.—(AP)—Twelve chaperoned University of California co-eds and an equal number of man students, forced to spend the night on the beach south of here by fog, which caused mishaps to two ocean vessels, returned gayly from their adventure today aboard the launch Gulnare.

All were safe and were surprised that alarm had been felt for them. The launch left Oakland yesterday morning. After it was several hours overdue on the return relatives and friends of the students became alarmed. The students went to Half Moon bay, down the coast. On the return trip fog forced the launch to anchor off the coast for the night and the students camped on the beach.

The Japanese tanker Rhine Maru went ashore off Point Sur, 110 miles south of here, last night, and the lumber schooner Claremont was beached inside the Golden Gate. All aboard each ship are safe.

5-POWER NAVAL PACT? TOMORROW WILL TELL STORY

Delegates to Spend Today in Secret Talks.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—Foreign Minister Briand of France tonight spiked rumors in naval conference circles of a breakdown in Anglo-French discussions toward clarifying article 16 of the league of nations covenant as the basis of the proposed security pact which France wants. Negotiations will be resumed at a meeting of the experts tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile at Prime Minister MacDonald's country home the British leader will spend the day conferring with Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

Secretary of State Stimson will be at Stanmore, not far away, but he is not expected to enter into the conversations because the Americans have taken the stand that Great Britain and France must reach an understanding on the security guarantees which the French demand as the price of a substantial naval tonnage cut before the United States will agree to the proposed consultative pact.

Tomorrow Will Tell Story.

Italy's demand for naval parity with France is one of the big political factors in the dickering over a European security pact, and therefore Mr. MacDonald's talk with Sig. Grandi is expected to have considerable bearing on the Anglo-French negotiations.

In fact, close observers of the conference tonight declared that Monday will tell the story whether a five power naval limitation treaty is possible of attainment at this conference

"I have seen many conferences," M. Briand said, "and during most of them it has been declared at one time or another that they had failed. Generally conferences have not failed and I don't think this one will. Nothing has happened since yesterday to justify reports of a deadlock in the Anglo-French relations."

Then he turned to the American position in the present negotiations.

"I have no intention of suggesting that the United States commit herself to anything that would pass reasonable bounds, considering her special position," he said.

Fights to End Wars.

"I have been looking at the question only from the French point of view. All the nations want security, and I seek a security pact in which all the nations can join. As for the ordinary man, he is not interested in numbers and tonnages of cruisers, destroyers and submarines. What he wants is the guarantee that there be no more war. And that's what I'm after."

M. Briand admitted the difficulty of the task of drafting a security pact which will satisfy France and the rest of Europe. France has been seeking to obtain a clearcut interpretation of the powers' attitude toward an aggressor in case of war for more than six years, he said, and added that her efforts would continue, regardless of the outcome of the present pourparlers.

The Big Stumbling Block.

Investigation indicates that the stumbling block now lies in the amount of tonnage reduction France will concede in exchange for what it calls a European pact.

The British insist France must not exceed 550,000 global tonnage, or the tentative figures arrived at between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald at the Rapidan river camp will have to be revised and Great Brittain will require four more cruisers.

Secretary Stimson has already explained to Mr. MacDonald that he cannot consent to this increase and that the Rapidan figures must be the basis for a five-power agreement.

French Hint at Cut.

The French have expressed a readiness to cut their requirements to about 630,000 tons, leaving a disparity of 80,000 tons.

Mr. MacDonald is anxious to try to force the French to agree to the abolition of submarines as part of the bargain, but, in view of the Paris government's firm attitude and because admiralty experts are of the opinion that submarines no longer constitute the menace they did in the world war, due to improved anti-submarine measures, their abolition will not be insisted upon.

A DAY OF RUMORS

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, March 29.—Naval conference circles were filled with rumors today. One purported to reveal a bitter quarrel between Secretary Stimson and Ambassador Dwight W. Moody over the latest American proposal for a consultative pact.

Another rumor is that Prime Minister MacDonald is annoyed at Mr. Stimson because the latter is again backing out from the position into which he had been maneuvered at the beginning of the week.

The third rumor of consequence is that Aristide Briand of France is angry at everybody because the bright hopes of a security pact, which brought him back to London, seem to be fading into a mirage.

The one thing which seems to be clear in this typical London fog is that Mr. MacDonald is not disposed to commit Great Britain too far to France's defense, unless America also makes a similar sacrifice.

THE HAND OF MORGAN

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29. — Having brought about a resumption of the negotiations between the French and British by a promise of American acceptance of a European consultative pact, the American delegation has now turned its attention to the settlement of the differences between France and Italy caused by the latter's demand for a parity with the former.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, famed for the compromises he has effected as a lawyer and diplomat, is concentrating on this undertaking this week-end. He had a long talk at the American headquarters today with Alexis Leger and Louis Aubert of the French delegation. Before they had departed Capt. Don Fabrizio Ruspoli and Gino Buti of the Italian delegation arrived for a protracted conference with the American delegate. Participants in the two conversations refused to talk after the conferences.

It was reported during the day that the return of the French to the conference and the resumption of negotiations between France and Great Britain and between France and Italy was due in an important degree to the influence of the J. P. Morgan banking firm, which is to float the issue of German reparations bonds in the United States.

According to a report, representatives of the Morgan firm advised the French government that a favorable reception of the reparations bond issue in the United States could not be guaranteed if the London naval conference were to fail through the apparent fault of France.

The intimation was that if France were to be held to blame for the failure of the London conference the resultant unpopularity of France in the United States would react unfavorably on the sale of bonds, of which France is to be the chief beneficiary as the largest reparations creditor of Germany.

Morrow Takes a Hand.

The fact that Ambassador Morrow, a former partner in the Morgan firm, has been specializing on the negotiations with the French and had an important hand in bring about a resumption of the activity to procure a five power treaty was deemed to lend color to the report that the return of the French delegation was due to Morgan influence.

At both the American and French headquarters, however, it was denied that Morgan, so far as was known, had anything to do with the matter. According to the French, it was the promise of the American delegation to commit America to a European consultative pact that brought Foreign Minister Briand back to London this week.

SECURITY PACT INVOLVING U. S. ROUNDLY SCORED

President Is Backing U.S. Naval Delegates.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Senate opposition to American participation in any consultative or security treaty as a basis for naval reduction flamed up afresh today as new developments indicated the possibility that the Hoover administration may be considering such a step.

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], ranking majority member of the foreign relations committee and one of the leading opponents of American adherence to the world court, the league of nations, and other European entanglements, issued a statement announcing that he would be found in the ranks of the opposition if any pact was signed which tied the United States in with European controversies.

Like Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee; Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], ranking minority member; Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.], and other senators who have protested against proposals for American adherence to political pacts, Senator Johnson contended that this country could not join a consultative treaty with European powers without being drawn into their quarrels.

Hoover Backs Delegation.

The Johnson statement was issued immediately after Acting Secretary of State Joseph P. Cotton had issued a formal statement announcing that President Hoover stood squarely back of the American delegation, which in the last few days has indicated that it was considering the possibility of American adherence to some kind of a consulting agreement which might clarify the atmosphere at the London five power conference.

"There are no differences of view between the President and our delegation in London," Mr. Cotton said after a conference with Mr. Hoover. "The delegation has always had, and now has, his unqualified support and authority. The delegation is in London patiently to explore every suggestion made and every possibility that leads to the great purpose of the conference—that is, the reduction and limitation of naval armament and the preservation of the peace of the world. It is the high hope that a plan for so doing can be evolved which will meet the approval of the American people and will be consonant with our traditional policies and ideals."

Arranges for Statement.

Widely published reports that a rift had developed between the President and his secretary of state.

The reports of disagreement were due to the divergent views expressed in Washington and London on the political pact situation. While Washington newspaper men were sending out dispatches based on high authority stating that the American government had turned thumbs down flatly on all types of political pacts, the American delegation was being quoted as stating that the United States was prepared to give open minded consideration to any proposal for a consultative agreement which would include the United States.

After publication of the Washington reports that no political or consultative pacts would be interesting to the Hoover administration, senatorial opposition to the consultative pact idea began to become articulate in formal statements. The senators opposing the treaty were under the impression that President Hoover was turning a deaf ear to consultative pact proposals. Senatorial perplexity increased as dispatches from London continued to indicate that Mr. Stimson was looking into the consultative pact proposition.

Interpretations Differ.

The result is that two widely different interpretations of the present situation have developed in Washington. One group advances the idea that Mr. Stimson and the President are now in agreement because the secretary of state has been persuaded to give up his interest in consultative pacts, in so far as they might affect the United States. The other view is that Mr. Stimson has been representing the Hoover views at all times.

Out of the quagmire of apparent contradictions one point appears to be clear. This is that President Hoover is unalterably opposed to American participation in any type of political pact which, in his opinion, might conceivably force the United States to use military or naval pressure to enforce. Whether the President would agree to some "mild" form of consulting agreement which he considered not in conflict with American traditions is not plain.

That a bitter senate battle will ensue if anything in the nature of a consulting or political agreement is entered into at London was made certain today when Senator Johnson issued his statement.

Senator Johnson Perplexed.

"I confess a great perplexity about what is happening in London," Mr. Johnson said. "I have taken it for granted up to this time from the press articles that there was no possibility of our representatives abroad entering into any pact which might be construed in the slightest degree as political.

"It goes without saying that if any such agreement should be made which ties us in with European controversies or difficulties it will meet with the most determined opposition here and I shall be very glad to count myself one of its opponents."

GEO. W. PEPPER TO DEBATE HERE ON WORLD COURT

Former United States Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania will uphold the world court reservations proposed in the United States senate in 1926 in a debate to be held under the auspices of the Chicago Forum this afternoon. Senater Pepper's opponent in the debate will be Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago lawyer, who was active in behalf of the Kellogg peace pact and who last summer assisted in revising the world court statute at Geneva.

Francis X. Busch, president of the Chicago Bar association, will be chairman of the debate, which is set for 3 p. m. at the Adelphi theater.

Mr. Pepper, it is understood, will take the position that the requirements of the senate reservations of 1926, designed to safeguard the adherence of the United States to the world court, have not yet been met, while Mr. Levinson will endeavor to show that the spirit and legal basis of the court are now in accord with American ideals.

USURIOUS PLOT LAID TO BANKER IN JULIAN CASE

36 Indicted, Including Brokers and Realtors.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—(AP)—Charged with conspiracy to commit usury in connection with the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum corporation stock overissue of 1927, twenty-eight bankers, brokers, business men, and real estate men today surrendered and were released on $5,000 bail each. Eight others of the thirty-six indicted by the county grand jury have not been apprehended.

M. H. Flint, Los Angeles banker, one of those indicted, cabled to his attorneys from London that he had booked passage for America and would surrender. Deputy Sheriff Arthur Adams, now in London, had been ordered to proceed to Paris to arrest the banker, but this was canceled on receipt of Flint's cablegram. Flint had been living in Paris recently.

One Coming from Illinois.

Joe Toplitsky, reputed millionaire real estate operator, telegraphed the sheriff's office that he was on his way from Illinois and would surrender as soon as he arrived. The sheriff's office reported it had located four of the eight yet to surrender.

ITALY ABLE TO RUN OWN NAVY, LONDON CONFERENCE IS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 29.—Discussing Italy's attitude toward a Mediterranean pact and what is considered as renewed attempts to put pressure on the Fascist government by other powers at London, the Giornale d'Italia says tonight:

"Italy has only one word to say to two, three, or four power pacts. It has spoken this word and will not change it. The possibility of a four power pact without Italy makes no impression on us. We never counted on the friendship or solidarity of any one. This is a new direction in Premier Mussolini's teaching to the Italians.

"Italy will be most happy to stand alone and watch the other four powers do what they like. It will stand alone, free to construct what ships it likes and when it likes for its own defense. It will remain free to proclaim to the world that this disarmament conference is a comedy, just like the sad comedy held at The Hague in 1914 before the outbreak of the world war. Make your four power pact then. So much the better for us."

BUREAU HANDLES CALLS FOR POLICE UNDER NEW RULE

Russell in Second Step of Reorganization.

Commissioner of Police Russell yesterday took the second step in the reorganization of the police department. An order, effective tomorrow, will send all "Police 1313" calls of the Central police division to the new telephone switchboard at the detective bureau instead of to the individual stations in the division.

Besides the telephone innovation, Commissioner Russell has under consideration the establishment of a city-wide traffic division and the installation of a new system of crime records. The release of sixty men for street duty has already been accomplished, he said, through the first step of the reorganization, the coördination of the patrol wagon service.

Plan to Include Other Calls.

"On Monday all calls of 'Police 1313' in the Central division, which embraces the territory between North avenue, 39th street, the lake, and the river, will be cut in on the South State street headquarters switchboard," said Commissioner Russell. "When the operators of the new board have familiarized themselves with the arrangement other divisions will be added until all of those calls will come to the one board.

"The information from these calls will be sent to the districts by telephone or on the teletype machine and a record of the complaints will be kept at headquarters. When the radio is in service all calls for aid will be broadcast, at a saving of time, to the stations and to the cruising police squad cars."

Under the city-wide traffic plan the loop traffic corps, commanded by Capt. Frank Matchett, would be used as the nucleus of the larger division which would be formed by the addition of traffic police assigned at other stations. All traffic police, he said, would attend a school to study the traffic rules and hear lectures by traffic engineers.

May Ask Increased Appropriation.

"If the plan worked out successfully I would go before the council and ask for an appropriation to make the division of sufficient strength to cope successfully with traffic problems on a city-wide scale," said Commissioner Russell.

The uniform criminal record plan calls for the centralization of all records and statistics at the South State street headquarters and control over records and investigations from that point. It was recommended by the citizens' committee and is now in the commissioner's hands for approval.

The first of a series of discussions on the proposed record system has been called for Wednesday afternoon. Commissioner Russell said the men most familiar with record work will be asked to express their opinions.

Stege Opposes Record Plan.

At a meeting yesterday in the commissioner's office attended by Col. Philip R. Crippen, secretary of the department, Chief of Detectives Stege opposed the adoption of the record system. Stege said that the system would tend to hamper the investigations of the detectives.

"Secrecy is required and often a detective is the only one who knows what he is doing in a criminal investigation," said Stege. "Under this system a detective would be required to report at intervals on the progress of his work. That is not the correct method of crime detection"

JAILED MOSLEM CHIEF BARED AS ROBBER BARON

LONDON, March 29.—[U.P.]—British police have raided the castle of Pir Pagaro, powerful Moslem leader of the upper Sindh, and disclosed a strange situation, the Daily Mail's Karachu correspondent said today.

Pir Pagaro himself, the police said, was found to be a robber baron, a revolutionist, and a bootlegger. In his fortress, the invaders discovered a huge cache of illicitly distilled liquor, smuggled drugs and arms, all stolen property. In one room they came across a man imprisoned in a wooden box. He revealed he had been kidnaped because his mother had informed police of wild affairs at the fortress last January.

In the raid, Pagaro's brother and a former mistress of the harem, known as "Emma," accompanied the police as informers. Trapped in the fortress, Pagaro was unable to escape. On the way to prison, Pagaro instructed his followers not to engage an attorney, as he intended to offer no defense at the trial.

"India will get home rule the moment I am jailed," he cried.

Principal Honored

An exhibition of work done by students of the Lucy Flower Technical High school for Girls was held yesterday at the Woman's City club, 360 North Michigan avenue. Pottery, millinery, textile art, sewing, interior decorating, house planning and other forms of applied art were among the exhibits. At noon a luncheon was given for Miss Dora Wells, principal of the school, which is situated at 3545 Fulton boulevard.

SEEK STANDARD CRIME CODE FOR MENTAL CASES

Joint Committee Offers Tentative Plans.

A standardized code of procedure in criminal cases involving mentally defective defendants is sought by the committee of psychiatric jurisprudence which held its third annual conference at the Stevens hotel yesterday. The committee comprises representatives from the American Bar association, the American Medical association and the American Psychiatric association.

Problem "Difficult One."

"The problem of the mental defective who commits a crime has for decades been one of the most difficult of solution," declared Prof. Rollin M. Perkins, head of the department of criminal law at the University of Iowa, who was one of the bar association representatives present.

"There is a widespread dissatisfaction with the present method of handling such cases, but so far nobody appears to have worked out a better system. Three years ago the bar, the medical and the psychiatric organization got together and appointed our group and set us to work to find the solution. We have held a number of conferences, but I'm frank to say we haven't yet made any conclusive recommendations."

Outlines Tentative Proposals.

Prof. Perkins detailed several tentative recommendations which may be worked into a legislative proposal. They are: A psychiatric service for every criminal and juvenile court and for every penal and correctional institution; a provision that no person be sentenced for a felony where the judge has discretion as to the duration of sentence until a psychiatric report is included in the record; a requirement that every convict be given a psychiatric examination before release; a proposal to establish a system of administrative transfer and parole in each state, and that a psychiatric report be made in connection with transfers and paroles.

Louis S. Cohane, Detroit, Mich., and Alfred Bettman, Cincinnati, O., also represent the bar association on the committee; Dr. H. Douglas Singer and Dr. William C. Woodward, both of Chicago, represent the medical association and Dr. Karl A. Meninger, Topeka, Kas., represents the psychiatric organization.

Of the 23 candidates, 15 are from ok county and 8 from downstate. the issue of prohibition nine Cook unty candidates and one downstate ke a pronounced stand for repeal or dification. Seven candidates keep a ofound silence, the rest are dry or addle, and carry only the customary e of samples, tariff, farm relief, etc. The Democrats have two candidates, th modificationists, for the two aces.

The Candidates Portrayed.

Brief portraitures of the Republican ndidates and their stand are as fol- ws:

STEPHEN A. DAY.

Lives in Evanston, born Canton, O., 2, son of William R. Day, justice of ited States Supreme court and sec- ary of state in McKinley cabinet; lived in Evanston since 1908 and cticed law in Chicago; has been rsonal attorney for Charles G. Dawes eral years; gives special attention federal practice and matters of con- tutional law. Day ran for nomina- n as congressman at large in 1920 1922, and though defeated carried ok county both times. Is a member American Legion, Advertising Men's st No. 38. On Volsteadism Day is a onounced modificationist. He is also phasizing anti-communism, pro- ion labor, and anti-world court.

EDWARD J. HARGRAVE.

Head of a Chicago detective agency. s been an abstainer all his life and s been touring the state on an em- atic wet plank. Goes the route for dification in the interest of temper- ce and sobriety. Hargrave has ver run for office before, and says is not tied up with any factions. came to Chicago 35 years ago and rked for the Pennsylvania railroad, n established the secret service or- nization of which he now is head.

ROBERT W. McKINLAY.

A Chicagoan. Is for repeal of the hteenth amendment, repeal of the lstead act; substitution of the Cana- n or Swedish system. McKinlay s born in Scotland in 1878, has lived Chicago since 1884, and is a Presby- ian and an Odd Fellow. McKinlay s been a Democrat. He was in the islature as a Democrat in 1907, and d hardly taken his seat before he ted the Springfield regulars by try- to get a change in the house rules rectify certain evils such as bill loroforming in committee. The L. L called him "fearless, independent, d honest." He was a county com- ssioner from 1918 to 1922, and while the county board was active in hting the Lundin-Thompson crowd. 1923 he was chairman of the elec- n board. In 1926 he was the candi- te of the Dunne-Harrison-O'Connell mocrats for the Democratic nomina- n for president of the county board, t got only 7,987 votes against A. J. rmak's 143,000. In the last mayor- y campaign, McKinlay, who was ainst George Brennan, supported ompson against Dever.

EDWARD I. WILLIAMS.

A Chicagoan. Wet plank. Goes the lt in his expressions for modifi- ion and repeal, but is not making ch of a campaign apart from warm- a chair at Deneen headquarters. illiams was a sanitary trustee. Is a neen man, but that group is not king any indorsements on congress- n at large. Williams is for modifi- ion of the Volstead act and ulti- te repeal of the 18th amendment.

FRANCIS W. PETERSON.

Lives in La Grange. A lawyer. Start- in the office of the late William E. son. Peterson is emphasizing the gionnaire vote. He served with the d field artillery and went to France th the headquarters troop of the h division. After the armistice, he s assigned to duty with the judge vocate of Paris district and was en a citation by Gen. Pershing. is now with the law firm of Taylor, ller & Plamondon. Peterson has been tive in Legion work, and for two ars has been secretary of the La ange Legion Sunday Evening club. has been campaigning, he says, nearly all the counties. He is lay- stress on farm relief, Illinois water- y, child welfare, disabled veterans' lief, and employment problems. On e prohibition issue he does not pear to have taken a stand.

ELLIS S. COOK.

Lives in Oak Park. Ex-service man, rved five years. Disabled in France d placed on retired list as major. vice president Acorn Building and an association. President Suburban siness colleges, Inc., of Oak Park d Maywood, and has been in com- rcial education for 20 years. Cook ys he is for a big navy and adequate service, relief for disabled veterans, re and better schools, farm relief, relief, etc. On the prohibition issue says he is a candidate who will ither wreck nor reform the country. says he believes the wet and dry estion should be settled by a "na- nwide referendum at the next presi- ntial election—that the people should whether the Volstead act should enforced, modified, or repealed." ys he is not a politician and has factional affiliations.

FRANK L. SMITH.

Home is in Dwight. Elected senator 1926 and was refused his seat by e senate. Three times Republican ate chairman. For six years chair- n of the state commerce commis- n. Probably has more organization pport than any other of the 23 can- ates.

RICHARD YATES.

Of Springfield. Present congressman large. Ex-governor. Has been in ngress since 1918. A dry. The only ndidate for congressman at large in- sed by the Anti-Saloon league in its port issued for publication today. st in the primaries two years ago d was put on the ticket to fill the cancy caused by the death of Con- ssman Henry R. Rathbone.

JUSTUS L. JOHNSON.

Of Aurora. Active in Republican itics for years and has wide ac- aintance. Has been clerk of the pellate court, Second district of Illinois [32 counties in northern Illinois] since 1920. Presidential elector in 1928. Member of the Republican state committee since 1918 and has been chairman of a committee at Republican state headquarters in the last three national and six state campaigns. Member Aurora public library board. Was president John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois 1908 and 1909 and has been active in that Swedish-American organization. Johnson worked on Chicago and Springfield newspapers 1900-'06, and was elected Circuit court clerk of Kane county 1908, and has been in office ever since. He was chairman of the organization committee at state headquarters when Emmerson was elected governor. Johnson argues that of the 23 candidates, 15 are from Cook county, 5 are from south of Springfield, 3 north of Springfield and outside Cook, and that he is the only resident candidate in the 31 heavy Republican counties of Illinois outside Cook. This and his acquaintanceship, he argues, give him a good chance. On prohibition he seems as silent as the majority of the downstate candidates. He's a seasoned downstate politician and has a good reputation and is a member of the Congregational church, the Elks, Masons, etc.

FRANK H. FUNK.

Lives in Bloomington. Was state senator four years and Bull Moose candidate for governor in 1912. Was congressman from the Bloomington district from 1921 to 1927. For seven years was member of Illinois public utilities commission by appointment of Governors Lowden and Dunne. Funk is a grandson of Isaac Funk, who settled in Funk's Grove, near Bloomington, in 1824, and is a son of Benjamin F. Funk, member of congress 1893-'95. He owns and operates a 2,200 acre farm. He is a graduate of Yale and played on its varsity football team. Funk has a platform ranging from farm relief, anti-world court, to protective tariff. His platform says he supports enforcement of state and federal constitutions and laws, which is characteristic dry stuff, while he opposes encroachment by the federal government upon state's rights and local government, which sounds moist and looks like a straddle.

GEORGE EDMUND FOSS.

A Chicagoan. Was in congress more than 20 years; for 11 years was chairman of naval committee; says he is called by naval officers "father of the modern navy." Foss was born in Vermont and was graduated from Harvard in 1885, and in 1894 was elected to congress from Chicago. He has dropped out of sight in politics since he ran for the senatorship in the 1918 primaries and finished a poor third, Medill McCormick getting 192,000, William Hale Thompson 132,000, and Foss 62,000. Foss in his booklet says he is for federal aid for the Illinois waterway, for flood control, and other measures enumerated in the Republican national platform. Among other things he is anxious to go to congress to "promote and safeguard the interests of the coming world fair." On prohibition his booklet preserves a deep silence.

DR. PATRICK J. H. FARRELL.

A Chicagoan. Served in Philippine islands during Spanish-American war and in France during the world war. Decorated by the President for gallantry in action. This soldier-doctor is past national commander of the Spanish-American and Philippine Veterans and past national commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Gen. James E. Stuart, a veteran of the civil, the Spanish-American, and the world wars, has announced Dr. Farrell is indorsed by the Illinois Republican ex-service men of the world war and the Spanish-American war. The announcement says he is for farm relief and waterways and "for enforcement of the federal laws to uphold the constitution of the United States and maintain law and order throughout the land."

THOMAS K. DAVEY.

A Chicagoan, 45 years of age; a granite cutter by trade and for years was an itinerant mechanic, working in every state in the Union. He settled in Chicago 20 years ago, served 3 terms as president of the Chicago branch of the granite cutters' organization. Davey was two years in the army, one year overseas. Is chaplain of Englewood post No. 61 of the Legion, and has completed 2 years as chairman of unemployment committee, Cook county council, American Legion, an honorary position. Davey says he is seeking the office at the request of ex-service men. On prohibition he says: "If elected I would urge the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of Volstead act. This law has never won the sanction of the common conscience."

JULIUS KLEIN.

A Chicagoan. German-American newspaper man. A wet.

JAMES P. MARZANO.

A west side undertaker, who ran against John Powers in 1919 for alderman of the old 19th ward. Says: "I am for a referendum on the modification of prohibition." Has been campaigning downstate and in Chicago.

S. E. BASINSKI.

A Chicago lawyer since 1919. Born in 1892 in Chicago. Served with coast artillery in France. Judge advocate of Polish American War Veterans post, No. 7. Director and organizer of the Independence Building and Loan association, past director of Polish National alliance. Says he is for modification of the 18th amendment.

FREDERICK W. BEACH.

Born in Chicago in 1882. Is for "amending the 18th amendment so that it can be enforced." Ran in primaries four years ago for congressman-at-large and finished fifth in a field of six.

WILLIAM GRANT WEBSTER.

The hardy Chicago perennial who at various times has run in nine or ten states for offices ranging from President to congressman. In 1906, under the first preferential primary on senator, he was a candidate against Cullom and Yates in Illinois and without campaigning got 12,000 votes. He ran again in 1908 and got 14,000. In 1916 Webster entered the presidential primaries in three states and for Vice President in Oregon and Iowa. He won in the Oregon primaries and the delegates were instructed for him although he had never been in that state.

CHARLES R. ECHOLS.

A resident of Loraine. An unknown in politics.

CHARLES R. HARRIS.

A resident of Herrin. Another unknown in politics.

LESLIE S. LOWDEN.

A Chicagoan and another political unknown—name not in telephone directory. Two years ago he ran against Carl Chindblom in 10th district getting 13,000 votes to Chindblom's 83,000. Is for state rights on liquor.

JOHN T. WOOD.

Lives in East St. Louis. Unknown in Chicago. Has a wet plank.

W. H. H. MILLER.

Of Champaign. Former director of the state department of registration and education under Len Small. Convicted and sentenced as head of a so-called diploma ring mill which conspired to issue fake diplomas and licenses to candidates for medical and dentistry licenses who were not properly qualified. Case pending appeal. He ran for congressman at large in 1926 and finished third, and in 1928 he ran fourth on the list.

The Democratic Candidates.

Only two candidates for two nominations, both wet, both indorsed by the regular Democratic organization, are in the Democratic primary race. They are:

William H. Dieterich, Beardstown.—Former legislator and downstate judge.

Walter Nesbit, Belleville.—Secretary Illinois Miners' union, a follower of Frank Farrington and prominent in downstate labor circles.

CONTINUE WORK ON REVISION OF CAR ORDINANCE

The work of reviewing and revising the legal phraseology of the proposed transit franchise ordinance was continued yesterday by the group of bankers, aldermen, and transportation executives who are preparing the ordinance for submission to the council local transportation committee. At the end of the session, which was held in the office of Attorney Walter L. Fisher, the aldermen reported, as on Friday, that "substantial progress" had been made, but that no definite conclusions had been reached.

One of the sections under discussion is that relating to the pensioning and insurance of employés of the proposed consolidated transportation system. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] presented a proposal to make the company deal with the unions and with elected representatives of the employés who are not unionized in setting up the pension and insurance system. The aldermen said that all the conferees were agreed on the need of a pension system but that no decision had been made concerning its operation.

The sessions will continue tomorrow in an effort to have the ordinance ready for presentation before the full transportation committee this week.

The exposition is sponsored by Miss Caroline McIlvaine and Felix Mendelsohn, co-author of "Chicago and Its Makers," and by sixty-four patronesses, who include society women interested in antiques.

Included in the exhibits will be a collection of Currier and Ives prints owned by Stuyvesant Peabody; furniture belonging to Mrs. Walter Brewster; a collection of old firearms owned by Leonard A. Busby and a silver mug made by one of Chicago's pioneers, John Kinzie.

FRENCH RATIFY YOUNG PLAN BY HUGE MAJORITY

Deputies End Debate by Vote of 530 to 55.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—By a thumping majority of 530 to 55 the chamber of deputies tonight ratified the Young reparations plan, authorizing the president of the republic to affix his signature to this final act for liquidation of the war and its companion piece, the evacuation of the Rhineland. Complete calm reigned at the session.

Hardly 100 deputies were present on the last lap of the historic debate, for the result was a foregone conclusion. Lurid warnings of the Nationalists that the withdrawal of the French troops on the Rhine would release another German invasion and cries from the left that the international bank was a dangerous octopus, failed to arouse enough interest to keep the deputies on the job, and more than 400 had their party leaders vote for them.

Even a small riot staged in front of the Palais Bourbon by a crowd of young royalists, who were apparently convinced the statesmen within were engaged in hog-tieing the country to an eventual German onslaught, failed to lend much color to the proceedings.

Now that France and Germany have ratified the Young plan, it only remains for England and the others to affix their signatures for the world bank at Basle, Switzerland, to open its doors and launch the first mobilization loan, and for final withdrawal of troops on German soil.

"The beauty of the plan," Premier Tardieu said, "is that Germany's interest in its success is substituted for military restraint."

If there is ever a question of default, France is admirably protected by the sanctions clause, he insisted.

In addition to giving France a free hand to spring an economic and financial blockade against Germany if the permanent court finds Germany acted with intent to destroy the plans, the sanctions agreement is in complete harmony with the league covenant and the Kellogg peace pact, the premier averred.

BRUENING PICKS GERMAN CABINET; THREE NEW FACES

Socialists Left Off of New Coalition.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 29.—The new German cabinet, composed of representatives of the middle parties, has been named by Dr. Heinrich Bruening, Centrist leader, who reported his choice to President Hindenburg tonight. Only a few minor points remain to be settled, he told the president, but he expects to present a definite list of new ministers for approval at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Dr. Bruening has not succeeded in forming a cabinet of national union demanded by President Hindenburg after Chancellor Hermann Mueller's resignation. He succeeded in roping in Martin Schiele, president of the Junker Landbund, in the coalition group, but failed to enlist a representative from the Socialist ranks.

Has Minority Cabinet.

His minority cabinet will have to maneuver cleverly to avoid conflict with the Socialists or the Nationalists. His cabinet can count on only 193 votes.

The list Dr. Bruening presented to President Hindenburg tonight, though with only three new faces, gives a dominant rôle to the Catholic Centrists, with Dr. Bruening himself as chancellor, former Chancellor Joseph Wirth as minister of the interior and also minister of occupied territories, Theodor von Guerard as minister of communications and Adam Stegerwald for the important labor ministry.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius and Finance Minister Paul Holdenhauer, both of the German People's Party, will remain at their posts. The former food minister, Hermann Dietrich, a Democrat, gets the ministry of economics. Dr. Joann Victor Brett, a new member, was given the post of minister of justice. George Schaetzel of the Bavarian People's party remains minister of posts. Wilhelm Groener keeps his job as minister of defense. The Nationalist, Martin Schiele, was appointed food minister. Gottfried Treviranus, leader of the National-Conservatives, becomes a member of the cabinet without a portfolio.

Hugenberg Become Big Factor.

Against the 193 votes on which the government can rely, the opposition, the Socialists, Communists and Fascisti, can summon 224 votes. Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists alone can save Dr. Bruening's cabinet in a battle with the opposition. This gives new power to the already powerful Nationalist and enables him to play a decisive part before and behind the curtain of German politics.

Dr. Bruening late tonight told friends that he hopes to present himself and his new cabinet to the reichstag Tuesday afternoon, which would give the 44 year old Chancellor Bruening the honor of being the fastest cabinet builder in the history of the German republic.

GIRLS DUEL WITH PISTOLS FOR LOVE; SECONDS JOIN FRAY

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(AP)—The second duel between women for the affections of a man within three days occurred here early this morning when two waitresses, rivals for the love of a cabaret cavalier fought with pistols under the street lamps of a lonely suburb. The duel was entirely a women's affair. Each duelist had a young woman friend as a second, and the duel became a double duel when the seconds jumped into the fray with knives. All four women were wounded before policemen arrived, ending the battle and arresting the women.

SNOW SPATTERS CANAL SLUSH AT HIS DENEEN FOES

Charges Senator Shares Blame for Scandal.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Controversy in the local campaign yesterday centered almost entirely on the drainage board. Chairman Snow of the Republican county central committee led off by charging United States Senator Deneen's group with responsibility for the scandalous events under the administration of T. J. Crowe as president of the board.

Snow issued a statement reciting the history of negotiations with Deneen prior to the election of 1928 looking toward the organization of the sanitary board on Republican lines in the event the party won a majority of the trusteeships. He said he attempted to renew these after the election when only one Republican, Howard W. Elmore, was elected, but the effort was in vain.

"In my last interview," read the Snow statement, "I pointed out to Senator Deneen that the district had been operating for two years under a Deneen-Democratic combination with the presidency of T. J. Crowe made possible only by the vote of the senator's trustee, Mr. Link, and that affairs were in such shape that scandals were inevitable.

Storm Breaks Swiftly.

"Within a few days and before the date for reorganizing the board the storm broke. It became public knowledge that for two years Link, the Deneen holdover trustee and, through him, the senator's organization, had been profiting from the waste and extravagance of the Crowe administration which had been put into power by the vote of Link.

"Just a mere scratching of the surface demonstrated that a large share of the nearly 5,000 pay roll jobs were held by Mr. Deneen's allies, including fourteen of the ward leaders of his organization. In spite of this, or perhaps because of it, the senator and his group refused to enter into a Republican organization plan but arranged another bipartisan combination of five trustees, three of the five being members of the majority that had controlled things during the two years of waste and extravagance.

"Frank J. Loesch, as assistant state's attorney, made public a vast number of names of those who had been upon the pay rolls without performing any work, including Deneen committeemen and prominent members of the senator's organization. This was naturally very embarrassing and so Loesch was assigned to other work and the mantle of silence was drawn over past sanitary district affairs, a silence that still continues."

Elmore Fires Broadside.

The second attack in this field came from President Elmore who fired a statement at a lawyers' committee campaigning for the "civic ticket for sanitary trustees"—now a part of the Deneen ticket. The committee includes John R. Montgomery, Rusch C. Butler, Abel Davis, Walter L. Fisher, Noble Brandon Judah, Nathan William MacChesney, Silas H. Strawn and Roy D. West and other almost as well known, according to the letterhead.

This committee has sent out letters for the Boal-D'Esposito-Durbin-McKibbin-Moderwell ticket and President Elmore took exception to two statements, one to the effect that "conditions in the sanitary district call for a drastic change in the management of its affairs," and the other that the construction program of the district calls for the expenditure of $384,000,000 during the next six years to meet federal requirements.

"This figure is absolutely incorrect and the statement is untrue," said Elmore. The original figures were approximately $176,000,000 and some of this has already been spent. In our arguments to the United States Supreme court we showed that to load the sanitary district with the responsibility of spending even $176,000,000 was too great a burden for the property owners and home owners of the district. We argued for an extension to from 12 to 15 years.

"I can see but one of two reasons why capable lawyers would make such misstatements as these. Either they do not understand this problem of the sanitary district, from either an economic or a legal standpoint, or they are deliberately misstating the facts in order to minimize the work done by the sanitary district trustees in the last year."

Rio Gallegos is in Patagonia, which, in turn, is in Argentina. Mr. Johnston writes:

"It is a little town of about 250 inhabitants, all living in galvanized sheet iron houses, principally one story. Of course there are no railroads in that part of the country; the only method of outside communication is by coastwise steamer, and, for the interior, ox carts and motor cars. The only industry is sheep raising, and, strange to say, although it is a Spanish speaking country, the bulk of the estancieros, or ranch owners, are Britishers, either English, Irish, or Scotch."

Patagonia, an extensive region comprising the southern extremity of South America, was discovered by Magellan in 1520. Once an independent country, it became part of Argentina in 1881. TWO EX-SOLDIERS IN THICK OF G. O. P. PRIMARY BATTLE

Savage and Ames Seeking County Offices.

BY PARKE BROWN.

While there are almost 200 former soldiers and sailors seeking nominations for public and party offices in Cook county in next week's primary, there are two Republican contests for major county offices in which the service man's cause has been brought to the fore.

These are the fights for the county treasureship and the sheriff's office. For the treasureship, Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, has become the target of his two opponents, Walter E. Bacon and Dr. John E. Stanton, and the fusillade of speeches and statements is growing heavier day by day.

For sheriff, Maj. Carlos Ames has only a single opponent of equal importance, William A. Burmeister, and the hostilities have not been so severe to date; but headquarters predictions are that this scrap will warm up for the final week of the campaign.

The Savage-Ames Parallel.

In the beginning both Savage and Ames were espoused by a service men's organization. The names of both now appear on the Snow-city hall ticket, and both battles are raging over the question whether they are Thompson-city hall candidates.

Bacon, the first man in the treasurership race, was started out at a conference in the Hamilton club attended by a number of his friends who were members of a well known fraternal order. In 1927 Bacon managed the John Dill Robertson independent campaign for the mayoralty. That was Fred Lundin's move against Thompson, and the Lundin followers who knew Bacon from that campaign lined up with him for treasurer.

The next step was a big Lundin dinner for Bacon at the Palmer house. The general theory around various headquarters was that Lundin by this move sought to force United States Senator Deneen into taking Bacon as the Deneen entry on his county ticket under penalty of forfeiting the Lundin small support for a second nomination for the senate.

Last week, after failing to start a candidate of their own, the Deneen group admitted Bacon to full membership.

Vets Bring Out Savage.

About the time of the Lundin dinner at the Palmer house, a group of service men close to Attorney General Carlstrom and Commissioner Phil Collins of the Illinois commerce commission began to bring Howard Savage forward as a candidate either for the state treasureship or the county treasureship. The final decision was in favor of the latter, and his candidacy was announced at a service men's luncheon in mid-January.

Savage had been elected delegate to the national Republican convention in Kansas City as a Deneen man and Carlstrom sought to obtain the Deneen indorsement for him for treasurer. The Deneen people countered with insistence that Savage run for sheriff. The former Legion commander refused.

For a time matters stood thus. For more than a year the city hall had slated Assessor Charles Krutckoff for treasurer. Shortly before filing time Krutckoff determined to run for renomination for his present office and city hall forces caused Gregory T. Van Meter, assistant to County Treasurer Harding, to file for the treasurership.

Here was a three-cornered race, but before the last day for withdrawals Van Meter withdrew and the Snow leaders indorsed Savage, whom they considered a big drawing card. Last week, Edward J. Brundage, who broke away from the Snow leadership early in the winter, also indorsed Savage. He is speaking at both Snow and Brundage meetings.

Denies Van Meter Promise.

There have been rumors that Savage has promised to retain Van Meter as assistant treasurer and to keep most of the Harding employés in the treasurer's office, but the candidate, interviewed on the subject, denied the reports emphatically, saying he has made no pledges of any kind. He insists he will not engage in "mud slinging" with his oppjonents or their friends and will confine his public utterances to his own qualifications and his plans for conducting the treasurer's office if he is elected.

Dr. Stanton entered the race admittedly as an antagonist of Savage's. He also is a Legionnaire and charges Savage with misusing his Legion status for political purposes. Savage is an Insull employé and Stanton charges that Savage helped Commissioner Collins to obtain his appointment on the commerce commission to help Insull and that Insull is trying to get his hands on the treasurer's office as a source of political power.

Bacon was a railroad auditor for years and now, among other activities, is in the lumber and millwork business. Savage is an engineer, having studied his profession at Lewis institute and at the University of Wisconsin. He is president of the north shore park district and is a colonel on Gov. Emmerson's staff. Dr. Stanton is a west side physician and is said to have the backing of an anti-Savage element in the Legion.

Carlos Ames has been president of the city civil service commission for the last year, having been secretary of the Lincoln park board for several years before Mayor Thompson gave him the civil service job. Both places are said to have come to him through Eugene R. Pike, one of Thompson's friends, who was president of the north side park system until last fall.

Ames came out for the Republican nomination for sheriff with the indorsement of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league, of which he, Savage, and Collins are officers. It was not for several weeks that his name was put on the Snow slate, but he is the regular candidate of that organization now. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and in the world war was a major in the 86th division. He has had engineering experience on large canal and railroad projects in Panama and China.

His chief opponent, Burmeister, has not put up an active campaign so far. He is in the investment banking and real estate business. His selection is said to have followed some difficulty the Deneen group encountered in finding a candidate for this place. Burmeister is said to have been selected by United States Marshal Laubenheimer, a Deneen aid on the north side.

Patrick T. Harmon of Stadium fame also is a candidate for the shrievalty, but so far as has been discovered he has not accumulated organization strength. A fourth entry is James E. Tomlinson, former chief of police of Harvey.

2 STATES' ATTEMPTS TO TAX ONE ESTATE ARE ARGUED IN COURT

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—The rights of two states to collect an inheritance tax on the same estate are to be decided in a test case in federal court here. The case was brought by Marion H. Fisher of Jamestown, N. Y., one of the heirs to the estate of the late J. W. Packard, who died in Lakewood, N. J., in 1928.

Fisher inherited 80,000 shares of stock in the Packard Motor Car company, a Michigan corporation. Asserting he already has paid an inheritance tax of $125,000 to the state of New York, he seeks an injunction to prevent the state of Michigan from collecting a tax of $200,000.

Judge Arthur C. Denison of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting with District Judges Arthur J. Tuttle and Charles C. Simons in federal court here, heard arguments today and indicated a decision would be made within the next fortnight.

ANTI-SALOONERS INDORSE DENISON, INDICTED FOR RUM

List Support of State and National Candidates.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Among the indorsements of candidates made public by the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois yesterday was the name of Congressman Edward E. Denison of Marion, Ill., representative from the Twenty-fifth district for the last 15 years.

Congressman Denison is now under indictment for the illegal possession of liquor. Last November he posted a $500 bond, but he did not at that time demand an early trial as he announced in his home city he would do as soon as he reached Washington to meet the action of a grand jury of the District of Columbia.

Michaelson Not Recommended.

The dry organization's recommendations omitted the name of Congressman M. A. Michaelson of the Seventh district, another dry, who went through similar legal proceedings last summer. The Chicagoan was charged with bringing a leaking trunk into Key West, but was acquitted when a brother-in-law, Walter Grimm, testified that the baggage was his property.

The list included only one Chicago congressman, Elliott W. Sproul of the Third district. It did not include Congressman Carl R. Chindblom of the Tenth district, who has been indorsed in the past, nor Congressman Morton D. Hull, Second district, who always has had the dry support. It was rumored around political headquarters that these names had been omitted at the request of the congressmen themselves. Both come from districts that have voted wet in the past.

Indicted in Washington.

The Washington indictment against Denison was returned on Nov. 19, 1929, eleven months to the day after dry agents found a leaking suitcase addressed to John Layne, his former secretary, in care of the congressman, in the Union station at Washington. In Denison's office the dry agents found a similarly addressed trunk which contained a quantity of Scotch whisky and gin.

Layne, indicted with Denison, flatly denied any knowledge of the liquor and Congressman Denison issued a statement saying the trunk had been sent to him by mistake.

Richard Yates was the only one of the twenty-three candidates for congressman-at-large who was indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league, but there were a number of incumbents from downstate districts who were approved by the league. A partial list follows:

11th district—Congressman Frank R. Reid, Rep.

15th district—Burnett M. Chiperfield, Rep.; Julius Kespohl, Rep.; J. Hays Paxton, Dem.

17th district—Congressman Homer W. Hall, Rep.

19th district—Congressman Charles Adkins, Rep.

21st district—Roger E. Chapin, Rep.

24th district—James A. Watson, Rep.; James V. Heidinger, Rep.; Dr. Sam W. Latham, Rep.

25th district—Congressman Edward E. Denison, Rep.; John L. Whiteside, Rep.; Kent E. Keller, Dem.

The Anti-Saloon league's indorsements for the state legislature in some of the districts outside Cook county were as follows:

SENATE.

35th district—George C. Dixon, Rep.; Harry G. Wright, Rep.

39th district—N. M. Mason, Rep.

41st district—Richard J. Barr, Rep.; Lottie Holman O'Neill, Rep.

HOUSE.

8th district—N. L. Jackson, Rep.; Richard J. Lyons, Rep.

10th district—David Hunter Jr., Rep.; Carl O. Nyman, Rep.

14th district—John M. Peffers, Rep.; J. William Marson, Rep.

20th district—Elmer Wilson, Rep.; S. Fred Cummings, Rep.

30th District—Henry C. Allen, Rep.; Alvin Warren, Rep.; Albert T. Tourtillot, Rep.; George S. Brydia, Rep.; Earl B. Buck, Rep.

38th District—Ole E. Benson, Rep.; Earl D. Amsler, Rep.

41st District—John L. Walker, Rep.; Otto A. Buck, Rep.

In the Forty-second district the league list shows that all the other Republican candidates in addition to those endorsed "take a dry position."

COURT TO ACT ON DENISON RUM APPEAL SOON

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[U.P.]—A decision is expected soon on the motion of attorneys for Representative Denison [Rep., Ill.] to quash an indictment charging Denison with possession of liquor.

At present Denison, who is listed as a dry, is at liberty under bond to discharge his congressional duties.

Denison was arrested several months ago after federal agents had reported finding a trunk containing liquor in his room at the house office building.

STORE OWNER ROBBED.

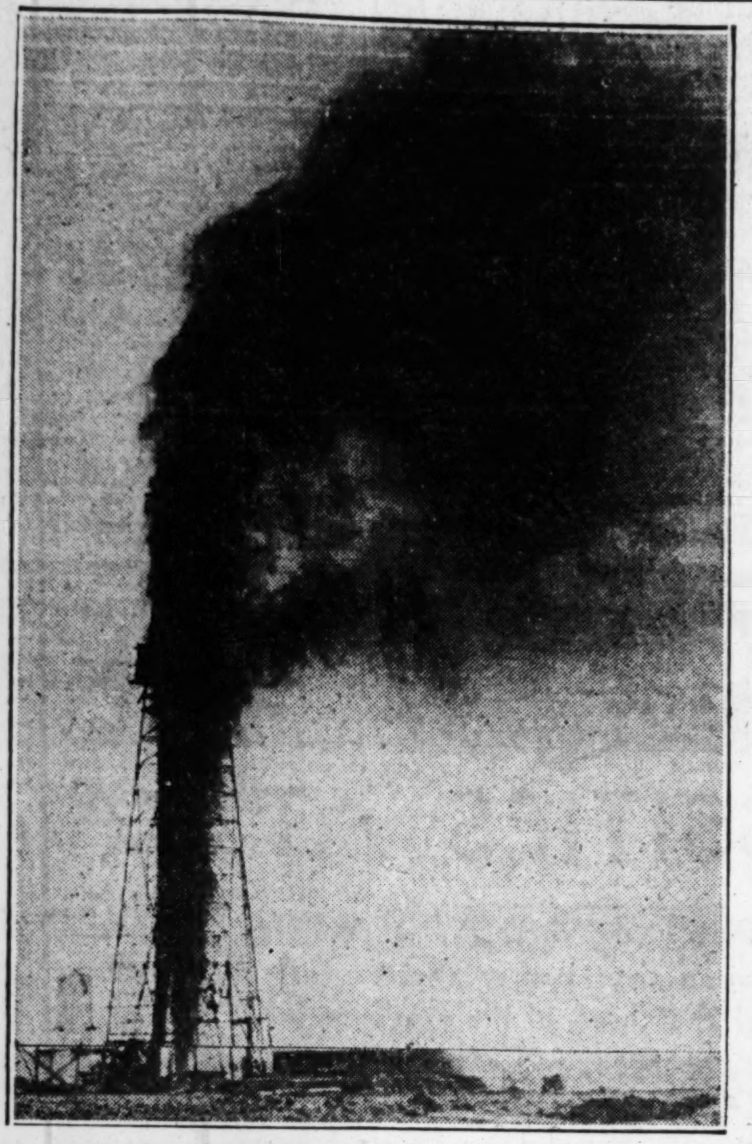
OIL GUSHER DEFIES CAPTIVITY



The No. 1 Mary Sudik well in the South Oklahoma City field which has been spouting away thousands of barrels of oil a day since it blew in last Wednesday. Workers have been unable to curb its flow.

Visible for Miles

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 29.—(AP)—Spouting a costly column of petroleum high into the air, a gusher in the South Oklahoma City field tonight continued to defy scores of oil field workers who sought to curb its large flow of oil and gas.

Oil operators expressed the belief that the spectacular oil and gas well, known as the No. 1 Mary Sudik, which has been roaring unrestrained since it blew in last Wednesday morning, would be brought under control tomorrow.

The oil geyser, impelled by the tremendous pressure of gas, estimated in volume at 200,000,000 cubic feet a day, has reared in a waving brown plume high above the forest of 100 foot derricks and visible from Oklahoma City office buildings seven miles to the north. Spray from the oily fountain has been carried as far as Norman, eleven miles away, by a north wind. The volume of oil has been estimated at around 2,000 barrels an hour.

PLAN TO RAZE OLD FIELD BUILDING, CITY LANDMARK

Estate Negotiating to Lease Site.

Marshall Field & Co.'s old wholesale house occupying the block bounded by Wells, Adams, Quincy, and Franklin streets will be razed in the next few months if negotiations now in progress for the lease of the ground on which it stands are concluded. Field's plans to move its wholesale activities about May 1 to the Merchandise Mart, now nearing completion on the site of the former North Western passenger station at Wells street and the river.

The Marshall Field estate, owner of the property, is arranging to lease the ground to R. G. Lydy, who operates a chain of open air automobile parking stations. It is expected that the lease will be signed within two weeks.

An Old Landmark of City.

With the passing of the old Field building, the city will lose one of its architectural landmarks. The structure was erected in 1886 from plans by H. H. Richardson, one of the foremost architects of his day. It has been noted as an outstanding example of Romanesque architecture.

The structure is best known to Chicagoans for the massive blocks of Missouri granite of which it is constructed. The capstone over the main entrance weighs 22 tons.

Area 61,000 Square Feet.

The site of the building fronts 190.5 feet on Wells and Franklin streets and 323.5 on Adams and Quincy streets and contains approximately 61,000 square feet.

The lease under negotiation is for an undisclosed term, but it contains a clause providing cancellation in the event the Field estate decides to sell the property or to lease it for a long term. Albert H. Wetten & Co. are representing both parties in the transaction.

ELECTIONS TO BE HELD IN COUNTY TOWNS TUESDAY

Lake Forest to Vote on Annexing Lake Bluff.

A number of cities, villages and townships in Cook county outside of Chicago will elect local officials on Tuesday and vote on various propositions. In most of these towns the candidates are unopposed.

The north shore has two of the most controversial propositions to consider. One is the annexation of Lake Bluff by Lake Forest and the other is the proposition to allow Sunday movies in Evanston, which has been defeated twice in the last five years. Sponsors of the Sunday movies are confident of victory this year.

Lake Bluff will vote on April 8 on the annexation to Lake Forest, on which the Lake Forest voters are to ballot on Tuesday. A number of Lake Forest millionaires have opposed the annexation, asserting that the aristocratic flavor of their suburb will be lowered if Lake Bluff were allowed to join the colony.

Aldermanic Race in Evanston.

Seven aldermen are to be elected in Evanston and a hot contest is expected in the Fifth ward, where George G. Hally, colored, is the first of his race to seek a position in the Evanston council. He is opposed by Ald. Peter Jans, who seeks reëlection, and Charles M. Arnous. There are also four candidates for the post of police magistrate left vacant by the death of Charles G. Franklin.

Winnetka will elect a village trustee, treasurer, clerk, and library trustees. There are no opposing candidates to those now in office. Glencoe will elect a trustee, village clerk, collector, and town marshal.

No Contest in Oak Park.

Oak Park voters will choose a village clerk, village treasurer, three village trustees, and two library trustees. The candidates are unopposed. There would have been a contest between Police Magistrate James M. Feron and J. Edward Jones, but the office of police magistrate was abolished after the alleged embezzlement of $15,000 by Feron. Oak Park also will vote on a $45,000 bond issue for increasing the fire department.

Many villages and townships hold elections on April 8, general primary day, and on April 15.

Policeman's Son Killed in Auto Reported Stolen

Sioux City, Ia., March 29.—[Special.]—Leonard Barnholtz, 18 year old school boy and son of Harry Barnholtz, merchant policeman, was shot and killed early this morning by Detective Lou Miller, when the driver of a car in which young Barnholtz and a number of other young people were riding refused to stop on command of the officer, who recognized the car as one reported stolen early Friday evening.

The other members of the party, among them two high school girls, were lodged in the police station. Harry Deal, member of the party, admits he stole the car, but asserts other members of the party did not know it was stolen.

THREATEN DRIVER, STEAL AUTO.

Three bandits who forced Dr. John Smetana, 1031 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, from his automobile at 16th street and Ashland avenue, abandoned the car a few minutes later in the gasoline station of A. B. Mendelson, 2723 Roosevelt road, after robbing Mendelson of $50.

HENRY M. DAY OF SINCLAIR OIL QUITS COMPANY

Served Term in Jail with Harry F. Sinclair.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Henry Mason Day, who served a jail sentence for contempt of court with Harry F. Sinclair as the result of the trials growing out of the Teapot Dome oil scandal, has severed his connection with the Sinclair interests.

His resignation as vice president of the Sinclair Exploration company was announced today. This position is the only one he has held connected with the interests of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, of which Mr. Sinclair is chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Sinclair announced that Mr. Day's resignation had been accepted with great regret.

It was stated that his resignation was prompted because he is to enter another field.

Found Guilty of Contempt.

Mr. Day was found guilty of contempt of court in connection with the jury shadowing activities of the defense. Mr. Sinclair was also adjudged guilty of contempt.

Mr. Day was given a sentence of four months and began serving his sentence in the District of Columbia jail on Oct. 24, last year. When he was released in the early part of October he resumed his duties with the Sinclair Exploration company.

Mr. Day has been associated with the Sinclair interests, principally in foreign development, for the last six years. He has represented the parent corporation in many important negotiations, notably the acquisition of the Venezuela Petroleum.

Mr. Day at one time had had the disposal of exclusive concessionary rights in south Russia covering oil, manganese, tobacco, coal and flax. He is credited with the authorship of the contract with the soviets for the development of the Baku oil fields. He attended the Genoa conference in 1922 and the Lausanne conference in 1924 in the interests of the protection of American oil companies in the settlements under discussion.

I. C. INCREASES BUYING ORDERS BY 2 MILLIONS

Expenditures for equipment by the Illinois Central railroad for 1930 will top such appropriations for 1929 by $2,000,000. The road spent $8,000,000 in 1929 for new locomotives, cars and other improvements, but this year the equipment appropriations will total $10,000,000, it was announced in a statement issued yesterday by L. A. Downs, president.

The road soon will ask for bids on 2,330 units of equipment to cost about $9,000,000, in addition to orders totaling $1,000,000 which already have been placed.

Included in the new equipment will be 9 electric locomotives, 1,000 auto-furniture cars, 1,000 gondola cars, 200 flat cars, 15 mail, baggage and express cars, 15 passenger cars, 20 electric suburban cars, 65 cabooses, 2 rail motor cars and 4 diners.

Lost Bracelets, Valued at $3,000, Are Found by Cops

Mrs. Louis Herschfeld, 3530 Sheridan road, reported to the Town Hall police yesterday that she had lost two diamond bracelets, valued at $3,000, while on her way from her home to 632 Addison street. Detectives Alfred Conrad and Peter McGuire, following her course an hour later, found the bracelets lying in a heap of coal dust where Mrs. Herschfeld had been forced to climb over a snowbank while a load of coal was being dumped on the sidewalk.

The body of a man taken from the lake yesterday at Gary, Ind., was identified through the aid of the Chicago bureau of missing persons as that of Samuel Wylie, 65 years old, 6230 Ingleside avenue, formerly a watchman for a south side dairy company. He had been missing since January. He is believed to have been a suicide as he had been in ill health.

THREE IDENTIFIED IN 15 ROBBERIES AT OIL STATIONS

Four youths were being held at the Kensington police station last night on robbery charges after three of them had been identified in fifteen garage and oil station robberies. The fourth, according to his companions, took part in only a few robberies, directing the others from his automobile repair shop. The police recovered three automobiles and two guns which the youths admitted stealing. The four held are Cyril Dacklin, 19 years old, 9708 Eggleston avenue; Clifford Shirran, 19 years old, 10044 State street; Jacob Housman, 18 years old, 10225 La Salle street; and Harry Thomasen, 24 years old, 510 West 103rd street, who operates a repair shop in the rear of his home.

ING CAMPAIGN HECKS ARISE TO VEX DEMOCRATS

obinson Holds Them Over Huston Critics.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—pecial.]—Senate Democrats who ex-cted to use the lobby committee's port of its Muscle Shoals inquiry as excuse to lambast C. H. Huston, airman of the Republican national mmittee, in floor speeches next ek, may be forced instead, it ap-ared today, to defend one of their n colleagues.

Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., d.] announced today he will match promised report on Huston's tem-rary diversion of contributions to Muscle Shoals lobby for his per-nal use by an individual report of idence before the committee that nator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] cepted campaign contributions from rman Metz, New York importer and nerican agent of the German dye onopoly.

Report Held Two Months.

The Robinson report, prepared two onths ago, has been withheld in re-onse to the requests of King's iends, who insisted the Utah sen-or was too ill to appear before the mmittee with an explanation of his alings with Metz. The latter's $1,000 ntribution in 1922 was not men-oned by King in the report of cam-ign receipts and expenditures filed der the federal corrupt practices t.

King, it became known today, re-vered sufficiently to sail for Europe veral weeks ago without notifying e committee of his intention or re-ying to a letter from Senator T. H. raway [Dem., Ark.], the chairman, ggesting that he either appear or e a statement.

Robinson Gives Reasons.

"I have no objection to a report on e Muscle Shoals inquiry," declared obinson, the only regular Repub-an member of the lobby commit-e, "but I shall insist that if the mmittee does not formally report e disclosures in the King affair it my duty to bring the evidence to e senate in an individual report. nd I expect to present that report e day after the Muscle Shoals lobby port is submitted."

Following the disclosures of his rmer secretary, Samuel Russell, to e committee, King emphatically de-ed any knowledge of Metz's 1922 ntribution, but admitted receiving $1,000 check from the importer in 28 which, he said, was returned un-sed. Since then information has me to the committee, it was said day, that Russell claims to possess ing's receipt for the 1922 contribu-on.

ONOR TO MEDILL M'CORMICK IS PLAN OF LABOR

Officials of the Chicago Technical ngineers' and Draftsmen's union yes-rday telegraphed President William reen of the American Federation of abor at Washington, requesting his pproval to plans to erect a memorial the late United States Senator edill McCormick.

The communication stated the funds fficient for the memorial would be llected by subscription among the ade unionists of Illinois. It pointed t the statue or plaque would record e gratitude of the Illinois labor ovement to the late senator for his ork in behalf of the eight hour law d his work to abolish "sweat shop" nditions for children in industry.

The message says:

"In past expositions Illinois states-en have been honored by statues or aques, so the plan has the sanction f precedent. The lack of such repre-ntation is one of the reasons for e psychological handicaps which nder our cause."

It is proposed to place the memorial the late senator in the Illinois state uilding, which will be part of the hicago World's Fair of 1933.

Beauty Near Death

MISS ALLYN KING.

New York, March 29.—[U. P.]—Victim of the fad for slenderness, Miss Allyn King, former prima donna of the Follies, lay near death in Bellevue hospital today.

Miss King, whose physical and mental health has been broken by rigorous dieting, physicians say, jumped from her bedroom window today and fell five stories to the courtyard of the Greenwich Village apartment in which she lived with an aunt. Both her legs were broken and it was feared her skull was also fractured.

The former stage beauty had lived with her aunt since leaving a South Norwalk, Conn., sanitarium at which she had been a patient for nearly three years following her breakdown.

Miss King joined Ziegfeld's chorus at the age of 17 and after two years became prima donna of the Follies. Later she was leading lady in an Earl Carroll revue and she appeared also in "Ladies of the Night," a farce which had a long run both on Broadway and the road.

GRUNDY VS. DAVIS 'PRELIMINARIES' TO END IN 7 DAYS

All Candidates Must Drop Out Soon or Fight.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—One more week remains of the period for maneuvering in Pennsylvania's tangled political situation. Next Monday is the last day for filing petitions for the primary ballot, but the candidates have one more week in which to decide to stick or drop out.

The big fight is for United States senator and governor. For the senate the principal canidates are Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who is a candidate for the seat which was refused to William S. Vare and to which Grundy was appointed by the governor, and James J. Davis, secretary of labor.

Both Camps Encouraged.

Both Grundy and Davis scored in developments today. In the east, State Senators W. H. Clark of Chester county and John J. McClure of Delaware county, each powerful, announced themselves in favor of Grundy's candidacy. Then, in the west, Charles H. Kline, mayor of Pittsburgh, came out for Davis.

In the fight for governor, Francis Shunk Brown of Philadelphia, former attorney general of Pennsylvania, has the support of the Philadelphia Republican organization headed by William S. Vare, and the Davis forces in Pittsburgh and other parts of the state. Brown's opponents are former Gov. Pinchot, who is running as a dry; Thomas W. Phillips Jr., a "wet" candidate, and Judge J. Ambler Williams.

Any rumors that Senator Grundy can organization of Philadelphia were apparently set at rest tonight by the reply the senator made to Thomas W. Cunningham, sheriff of hiladelphia, a Vare leader. Cunningham yesterday was quoted as saying that he was glad that Grundy was going to stick in the fight as he would receive "the worst licking of his career."

Charles Political Mismanagement.

In a formal statement Senator Grundy said: "When Sheriff Cunningham says that I am due to get the 'greatest licking of my carer' in the approaching primary, he has his facts badly mixed.

"I would remind Mr. Cunningham that the only 'licking' I could have received would have been that which would have come of my accepting an alliance with himself, Charlie Hall, Sam Salus, et al., and with all the political mismanagement and corruption they represent, which alliance they urged upon me with every argument and persuasion they could bring to bear.

"This is the people's fight, far more than it is mine. It will be for the voters and taxpayers of this commonwealth to say whether this corrupt and disgraced coterie of professional politicians, boldly bidding for a chance to control and expend the public funds of Pennsylvania, shall extend their activities to all the important and far reaching relationships between this state and the federal government."

FREDERICK P. KENKEL WILL GET 1930 MEDAL FROM NOTRE DAME U.

South Bend, Ind., March 29.—(AP)—Frederick P. Kenkel of St. Louis, is to receive the Laetare medal, for 1930, The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnel, C. S. C., president of the university of Notre Dame, announced today. The medal is awarded annually by the university to some Catholic layman who has achieved such distinction in his field of endeavor as to reflect credit upon his faith.

Mr. Kenkel is director of the Central Bureau of the Catholic Central Verein of America, German Catholic Social Science society and Editor of the Central Blatt and Social Justice, a monthly publication devoted to social justice.

He has been honored twice by the pope in behalf of his contribution to the Catholic press and his social service work. Mr. Kenkel was born in Chicago, Oct. 17, 1863.

Last year the Laetare medal was conferred upon Alfred E. Smith.

ABSENT AGENTS ARE CRITICIZED BY U. S. JUDGE

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—Irked by failure of federal prohibition agents to appear as prosecuting witnesses in a liquor case, Judge Robert C. Baltzell, in federal court here today, sharply criticized the prohibition office.

"It seems as though the prohibition office is very busy," the judge said. "Its agents apparently can't pay much attention to the federal court."

His remarks were made when the case of Roy Sowers, 25, Terre Haute, on a liquor law case, was called. Arresting officers were not in court Alexander Cavins, assistant United States district attorney, sent to the prohibition office and Henry Small, an agent, was asked to appear.

"Where are the other agents?" asked Judge Baltzell.

John W. Wilkey, deputy prohibition administrator for Indiana, said tonight that he "could not make any statement as to why the agents were not in court."

RUPTURE

Don't submit to avoidable operations or the use of antiquated trusses, as they all set where the lump is and not where the opening is. The opening is seldom larger than a dime (no matter the size of the rupture), and all cases can be retained with the end of a lead pencil.

"The Spermatic Shield-Complex in combination with the Retainer-Simplex (Patent No. 747247 and other patents pending)—a scientific achievement in a highly specialized art. It will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Infinitely superior to any instrument method or operation and producing results in no other way obtainable. All cases are secure a lifetime against further trouble or expense. Large or difficult cases or incisional rupture (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions, with distinguished personal patrons of all nations."

"If you want done what the rest cannot do—see Seeley."

Will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired.

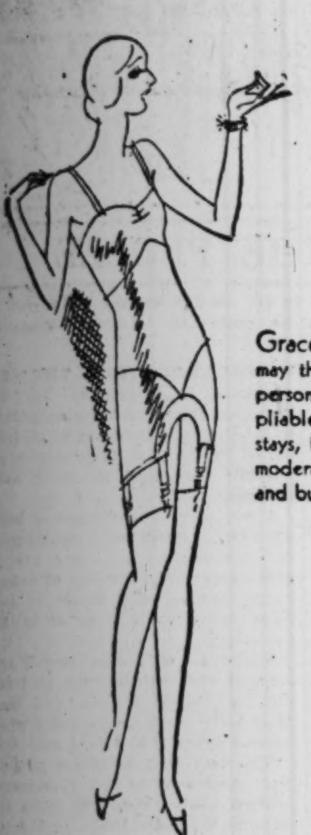
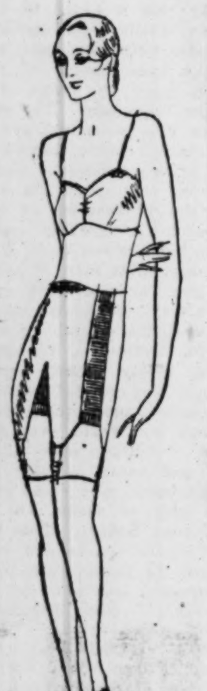
FIRST THE FOUNDATION

THEN THE FROCK

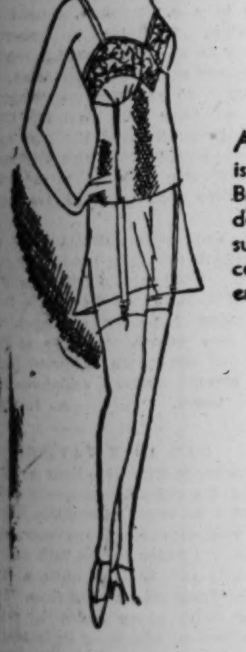
Paris has issued an edict. French designers say you cannot wear last year's figure with this year's fashions. The foundation garment is an absolute necessity. If you would dress becomingly, follow this advice: Do not adopt the new styles until you have first been fitted with the right kind of body-moulding undergarment. To make sure of smartness, choose the foundation first, then the frock.



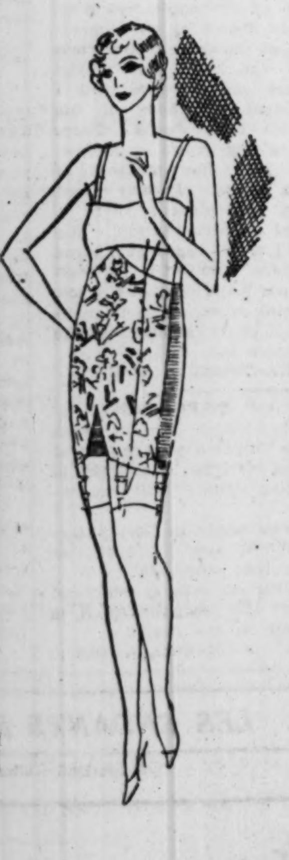
Graceful as a goddess may the slender or average person be in a Tip-Top of pliable Swami. Innocent of stays, it moulds the figure to modern lines, accenting hips and bust, defining the waist.



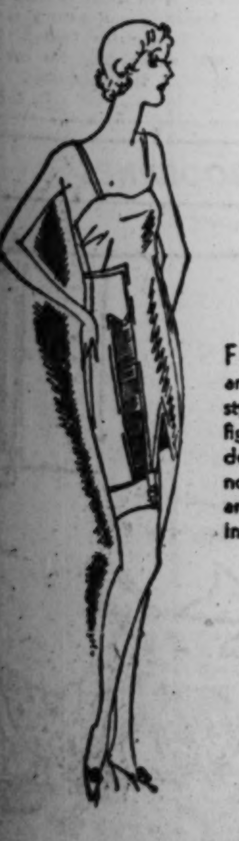
Curved slimness, not flat is the order for figures this season. And it is the correct indication of the hip-line with the Circle Sash that explains why countless women advocate Nature's Rival. Freedom is assured in the model shown for it has no stays.



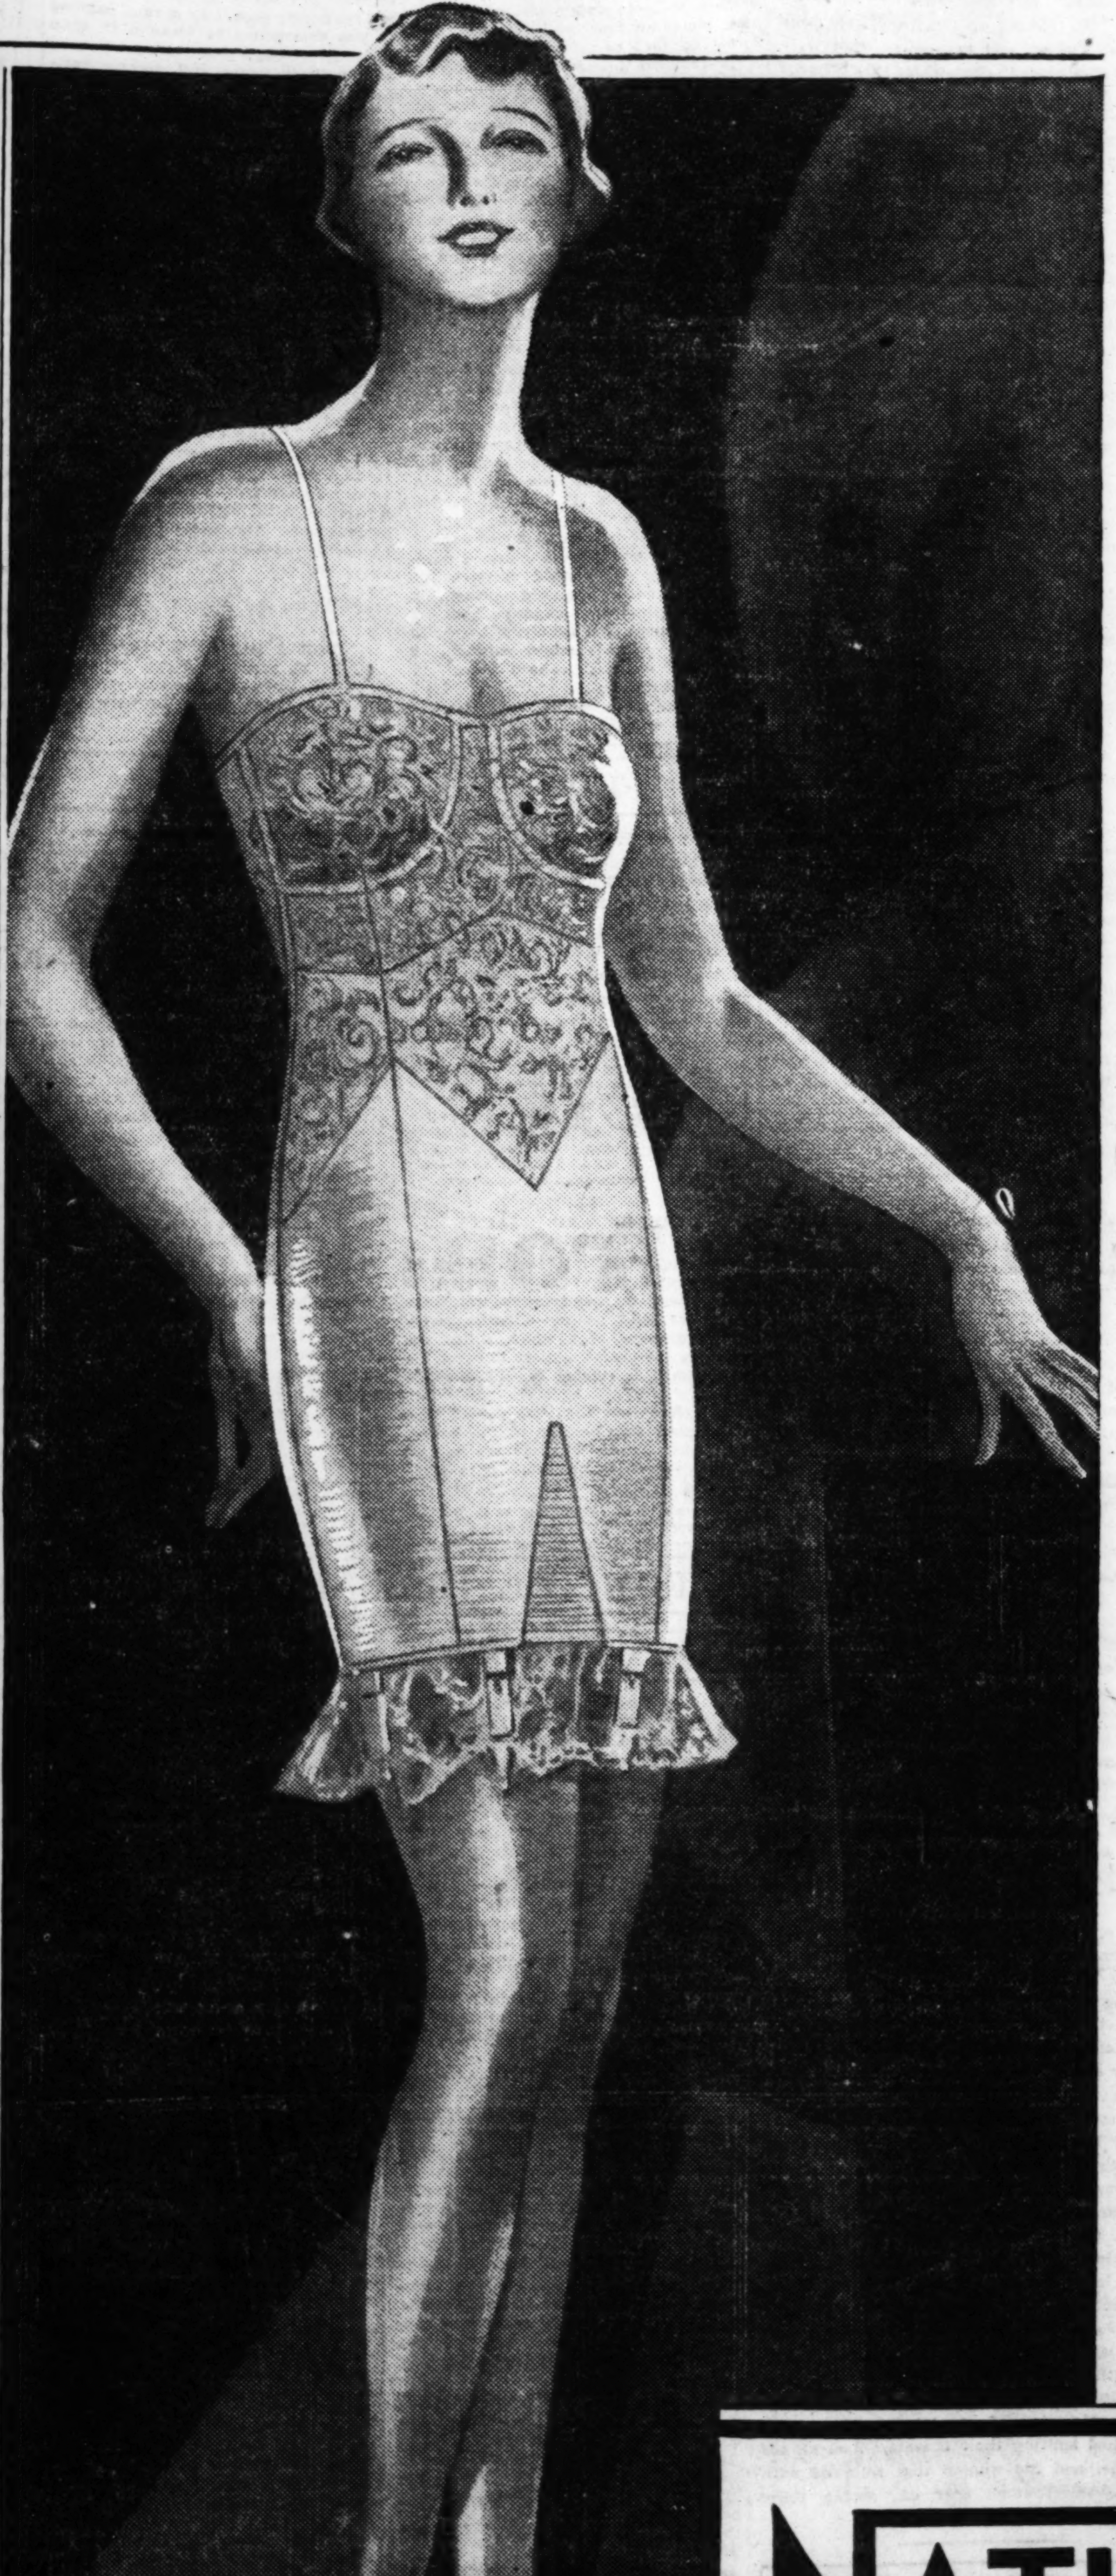
A triple-purpose garment is this well-designed Garter-Brassiere. The materials are delicate and lovely, yet it supports the bust and conceals any "rubber tire" tendency at the waist. Tubs easily.



Good form in figures for those inclined toward stoutness is found in a Nature's Rival Girdle-Brassiere fashioned to lines such as these. It has a boned inner belt to hold the diaphragm flat, elastic to control hips and waistline and fitted bodice to gracefully mould the bust.



Fitted but flexible are several Girdle-Brassiere styles which sculpture the figure to beautiful contours despite the fact they contain no stays. Elastic panels front and back modify the hip curve in accord with new fashions.



for this year of grace ...NATURE'S RIVAL

A period outstanding in fashion history is this year of grace . . 1930. With costumes close-fitting . . frankly feminine . . beautiful figures are the very basis of all style.

To herald this charming era . . and to make it possible for every woman to have a figure that conforms to the present mode in outer apparel . . Nature's Rival now presents a tremendous new array of body-moulding foundations.

Almost breathtaking in their loveliness, these models boast Parisian authenticity. Artful designers co-operating with the leading dress houses of France, created these garments with the definite purpose of sculpturing the wearer's figure to the slim, princess lines of her frock.

See and try on these new foundations. You will marvel at the ease with which they give the flattering figure you want . . slightly indicating the hipline . . defining the normal waist . . and correctly accenting the bust.

Not that they mould rigidly. Quite the opposite. Stiffness and restriction are words not contained in the Nature's Rival vocabulary. Instead, the many models are amazingly supple, flexible, bending freely with the body. Some are lightly boned. Others have no stays. With elastic sections or merely by clever cutting of the goods they accomplish their aim of confining the figure in the most fashionable, comfort-giving way.

Equally as interesting as the variety of styles, is the wide range of materials. Slipper satin with real lace, crepe de chine, moires, brocades and embroidered nets are a few of the Spring possibilities. And for Summer there are lighter-weight offerings in Flesh or White with Sun-tan backs.

ILLINOIS IN CONGRESS.

It has been coincident with the use of the direct rimaries, if not the consequence of making nomi- ations in this fashion, that there has been a duction in value in the Illinois representation in ngress. There are, of course, exceptions to a eneral estimate of the worth of this delegation, ut for many of its members the estimate could ot be high if they are to be measured for activity d achievement.

They are not men of bad character, but they e sluggish and seemingly indifferent to the in- rests and requirements of their state. They are active. They are not forceful enough to make emselves effective. They like Washington life. has many attractions, some of them social, and representative contented with small things can d many of them to satisfy him in political life. e can disappear in them and be of no conse- uence in a pleasant routine.

Illinois needs a more vigorous representation. has a stake in national legislation which has en neglected. It suffers because more aggressive gions put forceful and competent men in con- ess to protect and advance their interests. These ates get more advantages than they should. A litically neglectful state, such as Illinois has en, suffers.

It is only one incident that the state should d it slow work to obtain federal aid in com- eting the Illinois waterway when the state finds elf stopped by the insufficiency of the bond nds. The amount would be a triviality in the deral budget, and the work to which it would be plied would benefit a whole region, but the help om Illinois congressmen, with a few exceptions, s been virtually nothing.

Other states with great interests try to avoid tting a South Sea island representation in con- ess. In consequence they frequently get more an is just. Before Illinois even thought of get- g federal coöperation in completing the Illinois nnection in the lakes to the gulf waterway New ngland promoters had sold the government the ape Cod canal for almost twice the amount eded here. Federal funds go into Boulder Dam d Muscle Shoals, but this state has become so customed to neglect and to the distribution of its xes elsewhere that federal aid is about the last ing it thinks of when the justice of it is clamor- g. It has been fighting hard even to keep water the waterway.

Illinois cannot afford to go along as it is doing. has been too indulgent of indifferent congres- nal conduct. The state must make changes in e personnel of its representation and seek out w men who will first realize what is needed ere and will be determined to get what is due e state from the federal government. Many oper federal functions apply to the states and xes are levied for these purposes. They will not distributed equitably unless there is watchful d active representation.

Some of the Illinois congressmen should be de- ated this year as a judgment upon them for ck of interest in their state's cause. Three in hicago should be retired for this reason. They e Morton D. Hull of the Second district, Elliott . Sproul of the Third, and Carl R. Chindblom of e Tenth. Their services have not been sufficient entitle them to a return to Washington. Their aces should be given to more alert representa- ves. Congressman Michaelson should be defeat- for every reason.

THE SHABBY AMERICAN MALE.

Walk down the avenue and note that women e almost universally well dressed and men some- mes are well dressed. Walk down a side street d note the same phenomenon. Most women end much of their time and thought upon their pearance; they find pleasure in looking as well possible as often as possible. Men are for the ost part relatively indifferent in matters of dress.

The familiar and perhaps the correct explana- n of this curious differentiation between the xes is that the woman is preoccupied with the siness of attracting the male eye and fancy. If , we must face the conclusion that womankind the more subtle, not to say intelligent. Shabby ales say, in effect, that women can go directly the inward truth of character without the out- ard lure of style and neatness to aid judgment; omen cherish no such notions about men. The ris dress up because they know the importance first impressions. And in doing so they are ght.

Man's shabbiness is a liability. It is particularly bility for all men who in one way or another ve occasion in their business and professional ations to meet strangers. A recognized genius may dress about as he pleases, and if the world finds him shabby the world will nevertheless appreciate his talents; but the ordinary practitioner of medicine, law, salesmanship, bookkeeping or what you will enjoys no parallel advantage. The material success he achieves depends first and frequently last upon the cut of his coat, the state of his necktie and the press of his trousers. This fact may be regretted, but it is nevertheless a fact, and it is a fact which men can take advantage of if they want to.

Curiously enough, men often permit their wives and dependent daughters to spend more than a prudent amount for clothes while spending considerably less themselves than prudence would command. Clothes are a business asset to the male. In a considerable measure they affect his earning power. Distasteful as the idea may be to him, he ought to spruce up for his own advantage; and if he won't do it of his own initiative his women folk ought to exert their wiles to make him presentable.

There is no likelihood of creating in this country a nation of fops. The fact is that the men of the richest country in the world are today a pretty seedy looking lot, as any number of foreign observers have noted.

WHY UNRESTRICTED MEXICAN IMMIGRATION?

An orchestra of American Negro jazz players was ordered out of England the other day. It was not alleged that they were undesirable characters. They were not wanted because they were in a gainful occupation in a land where people are suffering from lack of employment. British musicians probably would not be a good substitute for the colored players if jazz was to be the ticket, but British pay was for British workers. The incident illustrates how minutely the British government guards against alien tapping of the diminished British pay roll.

The United States has the problem of unemployment, but the American policy is not conservative. It is unkind to the persons who want work and cannot find it. Immigration laws do not take account of emergencies. When there is an ascending line of unemployment the same inflow of alien labor is permitted, and, moreover, Mexico, a source of much manual labor these days, is not within the quotas. Mexicans may come in or be brought in without restriction.

The political consideration advanced to support this does not justify it. It does in the case of Canada, but not in the case of Mexico. Opposition to it does not arise in unfriendliness, but in economic common sense. It would be sensible to protect American occupations from Mexican labor and have American capital develop occupation for Mexicans at home in their own resources. As they prospered at home they would be customers for American products. As their pay rolls grew fatter their demands would become more numerous. The more nearly neighboring standards of living can be brought up to the American standards the more American goods will be required, and there is a basis in the Mexican natural resources for reciprocal markets.

Mexican labor will disorganize American conditions. For considerable southern field work the Mexican is preferred to the Negro. The latter, if supplanted in the field, will move into industrial areas. The Mexican is taking the place of the Italian in railroad track maintenance. He is a competent and satisfactory laborer, and he is not disorderly, but it is unreasonable to increase the burden of unemployment by permitting an unrestricted flow of alien labor. Friendly relations do not require that this be permitted. If they did it would be just as applicable to Japan or any other country from which labor immigration is either prohibited or restricted. It had been thought that irrespective of unemployment the theory of cheap labor had been exploded.

With unrestricted immigration allowed Mexico, the American protective law defeats itself by inconsistency.

THE WASTE OF BUREAUCRACY.

The fate of the Chicago postoffice project, dragging through years, is a lesson in bureaucracy which we commend especially to individuals susceptible to if not convinced by socialist theories. There is no form of socialism which does not in practice translate itself into a dictatorship of the bureaucrat. What has been happening year after year to the postoffice project would happen to the production of food, fuel, clothing, or any other essential if "socialized." Socialism talks about putting the tools of production into the hands of the people, but what happens is that the productive energies of the country would be in the hands of job holders and hidebound officials, interested not in getting productive results but in making and manipulating rules and regulations, avoiding critical decisions and unobstructing change. Socialists deplore the waste of competition, but it cannot approximate the waste of bureaucratic routine and inertia.

Editorial of the Day

SELF-HELP.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Cincinnati seems to have had foresight enough to prepare well ahead for the emergency. A dispatch from that city says that it decided that the time to get ready for untoward happenings was when the business skies were serene. It had its unemployment survey last summer, during the boom. It mapped out its plan then, employers coöperating. An educational campaign was conducted, the matter of temporary unemployment being handed over to the heads of a hundred organizations. Expenditure of public money was timed. Where practicable, employers agreed to operate plants fewer days in the week with full complement of labor rather than run full time with reduced crews. Systematic methods were followed in finding work for those who were able to work and could find none. As a result, Cincinnati claims that it is passing through the period with little of the distress and suffering ordinarily experienced in lean times.

This example is worth bearing in mind. It is the best approach to the problem of unemployment, since, whatever aid in solving it can be supplied by outside sources, in the final analysis it will continue to be a local problem, the solution of which should not be left to chance or to the time of emergency.

"—Read, Mark, Learn, and Inwardly Digest Them"

The following Bible reading begins with the first verse of the twenty-third chapter of Luke. The American standard version is used. The edition is copyrighted 1929 by the International Council of Religious Education. The only change is in paragraph form and punctuation method:

"I FIND NO FAULT IN HIM"

And the whole company of them rose up and brought him before Pilate. And they began to accuse him, saying, "We found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Cæsar, and saying that he himself is Christ a king." And Pilate asked him, saying, "Art thou the King of the Jews?" And he answered him and said, "Thou sayest." And Pilate said unto the chief priests and the multitudes, "I find no fault in this man." But they were the more urgent, saying, "He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Judæa, and beginning from Galilee even unto this place." But when Pilate heard it, he asked whether the man were a Galilean. And when he knew that he was of Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him unto Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem in these days.

Now when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad; for he was of a long time desirous to see him, because he had heard concerning him; and he hoped to see some miracle done by him. And he questioned him in many words; but he answered him nothing. And the chief priests and the scribes stood, vehemently accusing him. And Herod with his soldiers set him at nought, and mocked him, and arraying him in gorgeous apparel sent him back to Pilate. And Herod and Pilate became friends with each other that very day; for before they were at enmity between themselves.

And Pilate called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people, and said unto them, "Ye brought unto me this man, as one that perverteth the people; and behold, I, having examined him before you, found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him; no, nor yet Herod; for he sent him back unto us; and behold, nothing worthy of death hath been done by him. I will therefore chastise him, and release him." But they cried out all together, saying, "Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas; one who for a certain insurrection made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison. And Pilate spake unto them again, desiring to release Jesus; but they shouted, saying, "Crucify, crucify him!" And he said unto them the third time, "Why, what evil hath this man done? I have found no cause of death in him; I will therefore chastise him and release him." But they were urgent with loud voices, asking that he might be crucified. And their voices prevailed. And Pilate gave sentence that what they asked for should be done. And he released him that for insurrection and murder had been cast into prison, whom they asked for; but Jesus he delivered up to their will.

And when they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon of Cyrene, coming from the country, and laid on him the cross, to bear it after Jesus.

And there followed him a great multitude of the people, and of women who bewailed and lamented him. But Jesus turning unto them said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children. For behold, the days are coming in which they shall say, 'Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the breasts that never gave suck.' Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, 'Fall on us'; and to the hills, 'Cover us.' For if they do these things in the green tree, what shall be done in the dry?"

And there were also two others, malefactors, led with him to be put to death.

And when they came unto the place which is called "The Skull," there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand and the other on the left. And Jesus said, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." And parting his garments among them, they cast lots. And the people stood beholding. And the rulers also scoffed at him, saying, "He saved others; let him save himself, if this is the Christ of God, his chosen." And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, offering him vinegar, and saying, "If thou art the King of the Jews, save thyself." And there was also a superscription over him, "THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS."

And one of the malefactors that were hanged railed on him, saying, "Art not thou the Christ? Save thyself and us." But the other answered, and rebuking him said, "Dost thou not even fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation. And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done nothing amiss." And he said, "Jesus, remember me when thou comest in thy kingdom." And he said unto him, "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise."

And it was now about the sixth hour, and a darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour, the sun's light failing; and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. And Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit"; and having said this, he gave up the ghost. And when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, "Certainly this was a righteous man." And all the multitudes that came together to this sight, when they beheld the things that were done, returned smiting their breasts. And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed with him from Galilee, stood afar off, seeing these things.

THE REAL CHRIST.

Behold him now where he comes!
Not the Christ of our subtle creeds,
But the lord of our hearts, of our homes,
Of our hopes, our prayers, our needs;
The brother of want and blame,
The lover of women and men,
With a love that puts to shame
All passions of mortal ken. . . .

Ah, no! Thou lift of the heart,
Never shalt thou depart!
Not till the leaven of God
Shall lighten each human clod;
Not till the world shall climb
To thy height serene, sublime,
Shall the Christ who enters our door
Pass to return no more.

PREVENTS TOOTH DECAY.

UNTIL recently we had to be content with knowing that certain foods would prevent scurvy, tooth decay, and inflammation of the gums. We begin to accumulate information as to how much of these preventive foods is necessary. It is true, the old shipping regulations specified the amount of fruit juice the sailor was to receive daily, but these directions covered only one kind of food, and they were based on uncontrolled experience in controlling scurvy alone.

The newly acquired information covers several kinds of food and applies to prevention of tooth decay and gum troubles, including pyorrhea. Dr. Eddy informs us that twice as much vitamin C is required to prevent tooth decay and fine tooth changes as is necessary to ward off scurvy. From many sources we learn that one pint of orange juice a day, or its equivalent, will prevent tooth decay. The following are some equivalents of one pint of orange juice: Raw tomatoes, 2 pints 1 ounce; raw bananas, 3 pints (or pounds) 8 ounces; raw apples, 14 pounds 8 ounces; raw peaches, 3 pounds 8 ounces; raw strawberries, 2 pounds 1 ounce; raw grapefruit, 3 pounds 8 ounces; raw Bartlett pears, 10 pounds 8 ounces; raw cabbage, 11 ounces.

Home cooked bananas, 7 pounds 4 ounces; home cooked peaches, 14 pounds 1 ounce; home cooked cabbage, 14 pounds 1 ounce; home cooked peas, 3 pounds 8 ounces; home cooked spinach, 8 pounds 7 ounces; home cooked corn, 14 pounds 1 ounce; home cooked potatoes, 4 pounds 15 ounces; canned apples, 14 pounds 1 ounce; canned peaches, 3 pounds 8 ounces; canned strawberries, 2 pounds 1 ounce; canned pears, 14 pounds 1 ounce; canned pineapple, 7 pounds; canned cherries, 20 pounds 10 ounces; canned spinach, 2 pounds 13 ounces; canned peas, 2 pounds 1 ounce; canned string beans, 13 pounds 8 ounces; canned cabbage, 2 pounds 13 ounces; canned corn, 14 pounds 1 ounce.

The chef of a club found that six California oranges (size 126) were needed to supply one pint of orange juice. The quantity of Florida oranges required to supply one pint of juice was four (96 size).

This table supplies some light on the effect of cooking and canning on the vitamin C content. For instance, the amount of vitamin C in 14 pounds 6 ounces of home cooked cabbage was supplied by 2 pounds 13 ounces of canned cabbage and 11 ounces of raw cabbage. This, however, would vary with the method of cooking. Cabbage cooked for a few minutes would be rich in vitamin C. Cabbage cooked for a long time, or cooked with soda, would contain very little. It varies, too, with the particular food. As a rule, canning is less destructive to vitamin C than cooking, although here, too, foods vary and methods cause still greater variance.

We need information on many other foods.

BARBERS AND BEAUTY CULTURISTS.

Chicago, March 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If I have been given a state license in hairdressing which involves at least twenty different styles in hairdressing, and which styles necessitate the use of scissors to dress the hair, am I infringing on the barbers' rights?

The recent law that was passed says that haircutting belongs to the barber only, but in order to dress the hair in some styles it is necessary to use the scissors. M. L.

The wording of the statute is as follows: "The provisions of this act shall not authorize any registered beauty culturist to cut or clip the hair of any person unless he has first obtained a certificate of registration as a barber."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 30, 1865.

MOREHEAD, N. C.—Mr. Granby, a member of the North Carolina legislature, has reached his home from Raleigh for the purpose of taking the oath of allegiance to the United States. He says Gen. Johnston's rebel forces, all told, will not number more than one-half of Sherman's army and that the combined armies of Lee and Johnston will not outnumber those of Sherman and Schofield. He declares the present legislature admits there is no possible hope for the confederacy to succeed and that the legislature has met for the last time under rebel auspices. People from all sections of the state are bringing great pressure to bear for an immediate submission and return to the Union.

CINCINNATI.—C. L. Vallandigham testified before the military commission hearing the Chicago conspiracy trial. He explained the object of the Order of the Sons of Liberty, completely exonerating the organization from any knowledge of or participation in the uprising to resist the federal authorities or complicity in any plot to release the prisoners at Camp Douglas and sack and burn Chicago.

ST. LOUIS.—A dispatch from Gen. R. B. Mitchell, at Fort Kearney, dated March 28, says his command has captured 150 lodges of Sioux and 90 lodges of Arapahoes 150 miles north of Fort Laramie.

WASHINGTON.—Information from City Point is that losses of the 9th corps in the recent battle are much larger than heretofore reported. From the 1st division there are 160 in the hospital and 30 are known to have been killed. From the 3d division there are 166 wounded and 32 were killed.

CHICAGO. — Albert Aldridge and Emma Jane Yerbury were married on March 26 by the Rev. E. W. Hager. Miss Mary E. Hart of Chicago and John W. Ehrman of Memphis, Tenn., were married at Centralia, Ill., on March 22 by the Rev. C. F. Beach.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 30, 1900.

CHICAGO.—Jacob Rosenberg, retired millionaire and pioneer merchant of Chicago, died at his home, 1620 Michigan avenue, at the age of 81. He was born in Bavaria and came to Chicago in 1842, where he engaged in the wholesale dry goods business.

CHICAGO.—James B. French, a contractor who had been working for sixty days as a foreman in order to divert his mind from grief over the death of a son, may die of injuries inflicted on him by men said to be union pickets. He was working on the Butler building and as he left for home he was attacked by four men with "billies" and revolvers. He was unconscious for five hours after the assault.

LONDON.—The next battle between the British and Boer forces probably will be near Glen, fifteen miles north of Bloemfontein. Already 10,000 British troops are there and Lord Roberts is hurrying up reinforcements. The Morning Post's Bloemfontein correspondent reports that President Kruger boasts his intention of retaking Bloemfontein within a week, and it appears probable that the Boers are advancing in force southward.

CHICAGO.—Miss Jane Addams delivered an address at the home of Mrs. Louis Laflin, 369 East Erie street, on "The New Philanthropy." She declared that drunkenness and laziness are responsible for only 13 per cent of the country's destitution.

MARCH 30, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Thompson issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Chicago to subscribe to a fund for the relief of the hundreds made homeless and destitute in Chicago and vicinity by Sunday's tornado. THE TRIBUNE will accept contributions. Every relief body in the city is bending its energies to alleviate the suffering in the stricken communities. Revised figures place the death toll of the storm in eight states at 181. Of these, 31 were killed in Illinois, 36 in Indiana. Hundreds of carpenters went to work in Elgin, Melrose Park, Maywood, and north shore towns to clear up wreckage and repair shattered buildings. The Red Cross informed Gov. Lowden that it will be able to handle the situation in northern Illinois.

COPENHAGEN.—Crowds fill public squares throughout the city demanding the ousting of King Christian and the formation of a Danish republic. Progressive parties may proclaim a republic as the result of the summary dismissal of the cabinet by the king. All streets leading to the royal palace are held by the police.

CHICAGO.—Paralysis of city business is threatened today as the result of a strike yesterday of nearly 1,000 clerks, stenographers, and bookkeepers employed in the city hall and other municipal offices. Members of their union were ordered to picket the city hall this morning. The strike action followed the refusal of the city council to grant a $300 annual raise of salary. In addition to the clerical force, 136 garbage handlers struck for more pay.

CHICAGO'S PARKS.

Chicago, March 18.—I take this opportunity of commending THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the stand it has taken against buildings in our parks. Parks were designed for the purpose of giving rest and peace of mind to the disturbed mentality of the city residents. They were also designed to bring the living green into the complex of brick and mortar, to bring sunshine and fresh air into the city and a touch of the countryside in an idealized and artistic composition. Park buildings that are necessary for the management of the parks should be quiet in design and subservient to the landscape. The city has the buildings, the parks the green.

With the buildings going skyward, and stone and brick completely dominating the modern city, with the sky at a premium, the importance of our parks is becoming far greater today than in the early days of our city. Yet, those were the days that men of great vision planned our parks, a park system that has always been considered amongst the best in the world. It was the quiet, peaceful landscapes, the broad sunlit meadows, lovely lakes, gentle flowing driveways, the colorful gardens and the fine conservatories that made our parks famous the world over and attracted people of culture and refinement from far and near. It was the time when park-minded men ruled over our parks and men of vision sat at the helm of our park boards. This has all changed. Political patronage now rules in its place. I have often wondered if our citizenry has not lost interest in our parks. JENS JENSEN.

JOBS FOR VETERANS.

Holland, Mich., March 19.—I am an ex-service man out of employment. A week ago I went to the veterans' bureau in Chicago to get a loan on my adjusted certificate. What do you think I found there?

About four hundred women holding down the jobs that rightfully belong to ex-service men. What a joke. Not a man in sight; all women holding down our jobs. How do these women rate these jobs? Can any one tell me? I can beat a typewriter as well if not better than any of these women and I will work for the same salary. R.

THE COLOR LINE.

Chicago, March 21.—I read with great interest your account of President Hoover's speech at the dedication of the white marble Red Cross building in Washington, D. C., on March 19. The President spoke of the noble sacrifices and true devotion shown by our American women and of the debt of gratitude we owe those who gave their loved ones. These are noble words and I hope the President will back up his noble words with noble deeds. There is now planned a pilgrimage of sorrow, a visit of the gold star mothers of America to the graves of their loved ones in France, and already there is proposed racial discrimination, jim crowism in plain words, against colored gold star mothers who wish to visit the graves of their loved ones in France.

This is no social event, but a pilgrimage of sorrow. It is a sacrilege to bring such matters into this.

A QUESTION OF ENFORCEMENT.

Belvidere, Ill., March 17.—On page eight of today's TRIBUNE we are told of the rigid ruling of the Pennsylvania railroad regarding drink. Will you inform me:

1. Does this rule apply to Gen. Atterbury, its president, and his staff, as well as to the other employés?
2. Is this ruling as strictly enforced in the offices of the company as it is in its shops and on the road?

CHARLES S. KOX.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SENATE.

Clinton, Ia., March 17.—Isn't it about time that the United States senate began to take serious notice of what, from published reports, it may expect to have brought home from the naval parley for its approval?

I can see little difference between a Benedict Arnold who deliberately sells out his country and one who blandly gives away the first line of defense, our navy, against the advice of men who have spent their lives studying naval defense.

There is only one sound argument against the maintenance of a big navy by the United States, and that is if they have come to the point where they cannot trust themselves with one.

The fact that delegates to the parley are supposed to be representing the United States does not make them infallible, as individuals, or the fact that they were appointed by President Hoover does not lessen their fallibility.

France should thank God for a man such as Tardieu, who still loves his country well enough to protect her welfare. H. W. ANDREWS.

MR. COOLIDGE'S TASK.

Topeka, Ind., March 15.—It is to be hoped that in writing his 500 word history of the United States to be carved in the rock in South Dakota Mr. Coolidge will avoid such a bare recital of facts as characterizes the two histories which were awarded the major prizes in THE TRIBUNE's recent history contest.

This history should be written in stately, dignified and impressive English. The sentiment should be lofty and the words should flow simply and eloquently like the periods of a great oration, and yet be historical. It should be such a composition as will glorify our country and thrill people who read it a thousand or five thousand years from now. It should be a masterpiece, classical in its perfection, faultless in construction, patriotic in spirit, elevated in sentiment, which boys and girls, ages hence, should be taught to repeat from memory.

Not an easy job! But Mr. Coolidge should keep in mind the high and exceptional honor which this privilege confers upon him and rise to the occasion. His history should ennoble the very rock itself.

THE TRIBUNE's selections are of the kind which one may read in any school history. They are spiritless and uninspiring, though the facts are interestingly and logically arranged, and I fancy one would soon tire of reading either of the prize histories from the rock should either, unfortunately, be carved there. A. J. YODER.

CAR LINE PAVING.

Chicago, March 20.—Your article concerning the car line pavement in today's TRIBUNE is very interesting, but I believe you overlooked one very good argument. I refer to the fact that street car rails are laid in quite a different manner from steam road rails. You can go for miles along street car rails and never find a break or expansion joint, while the steam roads must provide a space between the ends of each section of rail. This takes care of the expansion and contraction of the rails due to temperature changes. On the other hand, the street car rails are all welded together and the rail completely imbedded in concrete and brick. It is this great mass of paving material which absorbs the expansion tendency of the steel.

So, in short, the street car company must have deep paving on both sides of the rails in order to keep their rails from buckling and getting as snaky as the old Toonerville trolley. No doubt you will agree that the car company has need of this pavement.

CAR SICKNESS IS IN EAR, NOT EYE, DOCTOR REVEALS

Describes His Tests at Scientists' Meeting.

Car sickness, that dizziness which comes to less hardy travelers in rough riding railroad coaches and less frequently in automobiles, is an ailment which originates in the ears and not in the eyes, as formerly believed.

This discovery was made by Dr. James E. Lebensohn of Northwestern university, who yesterday reported his experiments in car sickness before a session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, meeting at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Lebensohn said car sickness was not caused by looking out of the window of the moving train or automobile but by a disturbance of the labyrinth of the ear due to the jarring of the car. In his tests the doctor's subjects in the laboratory were able to follow a moving image which caused their eyes to move back and forth for hours without experiencing nausea. But when the motions and shocks of the moving car were reproduced the car sickness type of nausea followed.

Discoveries on Anemia.

Dr. E. J. Cohn of Harvard university reported that investigations over the last three years showed that the substance lacking for patients who suffer from pernicious anemia is a compound of nitrogen. Up to now, he said, the blood production of anemic patients has been stimulated by feeding the patients an extract made from liver. Through his experiments it has been possible to reduce the amount of this extract from 100 grams to one-tenth of a gram.

Dr. R. G. Daggs of the University of Rochester demonstrated the important part played by diet in the ability of a mother to nurse her young and thus provide them with the most natural sort of food. The experiments were conducted with dogs and rats.

He found that in dogs a diet rich in liver greatly increased the milk production. In experiments with rats, he said, it took large doses of eggs and kidney to produce similar results. This indicated, he pointed out, that with different animals different diets are necessary to increase lactation. It was indicated that the experiments with these animals may bring about the development of diets for mothers which will greatly reduce the number of "bottle babies."

Treats Wounds with Sulphur.

A new method of treating wounds was described by Dr. Stanley Reimann of Philadelphia. Preliminary experiments last year showed, he said, that sulphur is useful in treating wounds, but a wide use of sulphur for this purpose was prevented by the fact that there had been no means of keeping germs from reaching the wound. He reported that by combining sulphur and certain antiseptics, sulphur may be used safely in healing wounds.

At the close of the four day convention of the scientists yesterday, Dr. W. R. Bloor of the University of Rochester was elected president of the federation and reëlected president of the American Society of Biological Chemists, one of the four groups included in the federation. Dr. Frederick L. Gates of the Rockefeller institute and Harvard university was elected president of the American Society for Pathology; Dr. George Wallace of New York was elected president of the American College of Pharmacology and Dr. Walter J. Meek of the University of Wisconsin was made president of the American Physiological society.

PANA NATIONAL BANK FAILS TO OPEN AS HOPED

Pana, Ill., March 29.—(AP)—For the first time in more than seventy years, Pana is without banking facilities.

The Pana National bank, closed at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, following a heavy run by depositors, failed to open its doors, despite an announcement late Friday by Guy L. Smith, counsel for the bank, that it would be open today with ample funds to meet all requirements. Smith made his announcement to 100 depositors, many of them miners, after the institution had closed Friday.

Posted on the door of the bank today was a notice reading: "Owing to the tragic death of A. J. Johnson, vice president, this bank has been placed in the hands of the national bank examiner for examination and adjustment."

President C. B. Parrish and Cashier John A. Werner said today they had no statement to make for publication, except that the bank had been "simply gutted by depositors" during the run Friday. The examiner in charge declined to be interviewed by reporters.

It was indicated that a complete examination of the bank would require about three weeks; meanwhile people of Pana are optimistic for the reopening of the bank within thirty days.

Numerous offers of assistance in the present difficulty were received today from St. Louis, Chicago, and Indianapolis wholesale houses.

Another Bank Closed.

Quincy, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—The Farmers bank of Bowen was closed today by order of the board of directors for examination of the books and possible reorganization. Officers stated there would be no loss to depositors. The bank's deposit totaled $625,000 in 1920 and its last statement, issued Dec. 31, showed deposits of $211,000. George Pearce is president and W. C. Roland cashier.

Jury Deadlocked in Case of Accused Woman Robber

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—A jury which tried Mrs. Barbara Dalton, 25, of Norfolk, Va., on a charge of assisting in a $17,000 bank robbery at New Boston, Mich., was discharged tonight as hopelessly deadlocked.

The jury of nine men and three women had deliberated nine hours. Mrs. Dalton admitted on the witness stand that she accompanied the confessed bank robber, Floyd Drennan, to the bank and sat in an automobile outside while he committed the robbery. She said, however, that she had not known that the crime was planned and that after she learned what he had done, Drennan silenced her with threats.

15TH DECENNIAL CENSUS STARTS ON WEDNESDAY

Two New Features Are Included This Year.

unemployed are married and how many single, how long they have been out of work and the leading reasons for unemployment in the United States. These classifications will be available for the different sections of the country, for different elements of the population and for the foreign born as distinguished from the natives.

The census of unemployment will be of particular interest in view of present business conditions. Heretofore there has been no accurate information available as to the number of unemployed.

The census of distribution will furnish for the first time a record of the activities of retail and wholesale business establishments of the country. Decision to include this census is the outgrowth of studies undertaken by President Hoover when he was secretary of commerce. The question was studied by a committee of business men appointed by Mr. Hoover with the result that test censuses of distribution were taken in a number of leading cities including Chicago with the coöperation of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

MUST TELL TRUTH

BY PERCY WOOD.

Your private affairs will cease being your private affairs when the census takers start their rounds on Wednesday. From then on for two weeks, if a man or woman armed with credentials signed by W. M. Steuart, director of the census, stops at your door and wants to know the amount of your salary or how much you paid for your house or your radio, tell the truth. If you don't, you can be sent to prison for one year and fined $500.

Some 3,000 enumerators will begin the job of recording Cook county's population and unemployment condition on Wednesday by asking 32 questions of each resident, and the government's special plea is that you stay at home as much as you can during the fortnight. It is going to be hard enough to pry information from some reluctant persons, Director Steuart has pointed out, and in the interests of accuracy, the least a citizen can do is to be "available" to the enumerators.

No matter how deeply the questioner may pry into your business affairs, no matter how much you squirm inwardly when he wants to know just what your income is—these are necessary adjuncts to the complete mass of material facts which will form the census report. And you must answer them!

The penalty for not answering is sixty days' imprisonment and a $100 fine, but don't worry, you can tell the truth, the whole truth, and yet be in no fear that any one will ever know save Dr. Steuart and his staff.

Seven Sections in County.

No enumerator may disclose one particle of the information given him by an individual under pain of a jail term not less severe than that meted out to whomever answers questions falsely or refuses an answer. During a recent speech here, Robert M. Davis, statistical expert for the census bureau, even went so far as to say that a citizen might give one figure to the bureau of internal revenue to represent his income and another entirely different to the census bureau "but give us the truth," he pleaded.

Cook county has been divided into seven sections for the count. J. E. Veseley was named chairman of the county and will maintain headquarters at 4719 West Madison street. The other six and their headquarters are: Ralph Lee Goodman, Sheridan Trust building, Broadway and Lawrence avenue; Mrs. Estelle Northam, Nichols school, Evanston; John R. Malmquist, 5200 West Chicago avenue; David A. McGilvray, 137 West 69th street; Fred A. Kuhlman, 1126 East 56th street, and Henry M. Porter, 724 West Roosevelt road.

These seven will be in direct control over the 3,000 enumerators and will receive reports daily at their headquarters. Only the total population per district will be announced here. These totals will be given out as soon as the canvass is completed.

ROAD BOOSTERS LAUD GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY POLICY

"Saves Cook County Millions": Quinlan.

BY HAL FOUST.

Gov. Emmerson's new right of way policy, which rescued the road widening program in the metropolitan area from years of delay and exorbitant costs, was hailed with satisfaction yesterday by Chicago proponents of better highways.

"He has saved Cook county millions of dollars," said County Highway Superintendent Quinlan, "by agreeing to lay an additional twenty feet of concrete on the congested radials without waiting for the right of way to be increased, in built up sections, from 66 to 100 feet.

"And he has made it possible for the motoring public to receive the benefits of four lane pavements promptly, rather than having to await the outcome of protracted litigation for right of way purchases."

Commended by Planner.

"The governor can be commended for foresight of future road requirements," said Robert Kingery, manager of the Chicago Regional Plan association, "in his insisting upon setback lines, prohibiting future building on the ultimate 100 feet of right of way, making it possible for the county to acquire the additional land for highway purposes gradually and hence at reasonable prices."

"The governor has grasped the metropolitan viewpoint of the highway problem," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club and chairman of the national road widening committee of the American Automobile association. "He has shown an understanding of city traffic."

The former policy of insisting upon additional right of way before the pavement is widened was based on the theory that property owners were eager to donate a 17 foot strip for highway purposes in return for the concrete.

This theory proved sound in the days of mud roads, when every one wanted a highway to save his property from isolation, and it is still true in undeveloped regions. However, in built up sections along the lines of existing traffic, where the wider pavements are most urgently needed by the motoring public, the creation of facilities for a heavy flow of automobiles frequently is opposed by the owners of abutting property.

Highways More Like Railroads.

The modern through traffic highway has assumed many characteristics of the railroad. Suburban residents desire a homesite easily accessible to steam or electric transportation, but they do not want to live on the tracks. In the same way as a railroad, a heavy traffic route is noisy, dirty, and dangerous.

To some extent this also applies to business property. A warehouse, for example, cannot take advantage of a location on the main line of a railroad unless it has a switch track. Likewise a merchant does not benefit from through traffic passing his door when it interferes with parking. The state has announced it will prohibit parking on its pavement for the benefit of the motoring public.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Parker S. Webster

Funeral services for Parker S. Webster, attorney and banker, will be held at his residence at 521 Belmont avenue at 2 p. m. tomorrow. The body will be taken to Philadelphia for burial. Mr. Webster died at his home on Friday evening after a long illness. He was 74 years old. He was a graduate of Northwestern university and had practised law in Chicago since 1895. He was president of the State bank of West McHenry and of the People's State bank of McHenry. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha B. Webster, and three brothers.

CANDIDATE DAY OFFERS CURE FOR DRY LAW EVILS

Asks Change in Volstead Act to Permit Beer.

which the Supreme court held that two and one-half per cent beer did not constitute intoxicating liquor and hence was not in violation of the wartime prohibition act. That decision is sufficient proof that congress could go far in rationalizing Volsteadism.

Lays Provision to Wheeler.

"As a matter of fact, Wayne Wheeler was responsible for the irrational provision of one-half of one per cent. He took it from the dramshop license statutes. And it was designed to protect not the seller of a mild beer but the seller of beer of full potency. The man who had paid his license desired to keep the other fellow from selling the stronger beers. Hence, in order to prevent a quibble as to whether the other fellow was selling a soft, nonintoxicating drink or an alcoholic drink, the content was made extremely low. Thus violation of the license statute could be easily detected. The mere presence of alcoholic content was enough to compel 'the other fellow' to pay a license fee. Wheeler took a law that was drawn by, and to protect, the liquor interests against the man who had not paid a license fee.

"Of course, one-half of one per cent falls far short of constituting intoxicating liquor, as the Supreme court recognized in its wartime decision validating two and a half per cent.

"Hence I feel confident that if congress passed the legislation redefining alcoholic content which I have outlined the Supreme court would uphold the act.

"But how are you going to do this until you elect honest temperance men to congress?"

Sees No Repeal Hope Now.

Mr. Day believes that those who are clamoring for prompt repeal of the eighteenth amendment are wasting their breath.

"Speedy repeal," he said, "is just about hopeless, because 13 states could stop it. We must move a step at a time, thus creating rational bodies of sentiment to insure the success of further steps toward true temperance.

"But one thing is certain: The prohibition issue is going to figure in our personal and national life right through until it is settled. It is and it will continue to be like the other vital issues which the American people have had to face and settle. It is like the issue of taxation without representation, which it took the revolution to settle. It is like the impressment of seamen, which it took the war of 1812 to settle. It is like slavery, which it took the civil war to settle. It is like inhuman concentration camps, which it took the Spanish-American war to settle.

Step by Step Solution.

"Now the task is to solve this issue of bogus prohibition versus personal liberty in a rational way, step by step and without recourse to violent measures. That means statesmanship.

"This task is nothing so trivial as a mere beverage job. It's a job of repairing damage done to the constitution of the United States and it will not be successfully performed by the average type of politician.

"If one of the masterpieces of a Cellini was to be repaired you'd get the best living talent to do the work. Now Volsteadism is an incrustation on a revered and time honored system of law. We must remove the incrustation before it eats deeper into the system and we must do it without injuring the organism to which it has attached itself.

"This is a task for statesmen, not for tipplers on the one hand or fanatics on the other. It's a sacred task, in my judgment, and there is no element of drink as drink in it. It will be accomplished only by men who thoroughly understand American traditions and who approach it with full appreciation of the effect of their work upon our posterity."

Wants Corruption Stopped.

To make it possible for the people legally to obtain wholesome alcoholic beverages is in Mr. Day's opinion highly important. But he believes it is far more important to eliminate the official corruption bred by the present illegal purveying of poisonous alcoholics.

"That," he said, "is what I mean when I say that the problem of drink per se is not so much the problem now before us as this problem of official corruption.

"Never before was there such pervasive corruption and this nation cannot endure under it. It has reached halls of legislation, courts, police forces, and homes. A foul thing like that can't stay in one place. It is seeping out and out—into schools, into the dance halls of city and village.

"Worst of all is the seepage into the home. The snaky bottle is there. To the young people it is not a disgrace but a joke, and it undoes all the mother's teaching. That is why the women of this country are today becoming more and more like the men in their attitude toward bogus prohibition.

"Sensing Dry Law Peril."

"A horse can sense a rattlesnake and he shys. Many women—most women—may not have calculated the constitutional perils in such legislation as the eighteenth amendment and Volsteadism, but they sense the peril of a general breakdown of moral standards which is threatened by the corruption that such legislation has bred.

"If we legalized beer and controlled the breweries that made it pure and wholesome, we would cut at the roots of the crime and the corruption that are eating their way into the very marrow of our system of law enforcement. You can hide stills and moonshine, but you cannot operate large breweries and deliver the product in large trucks without the protection that has been obtained through bribery.

"Making Whisky Drinkers."

"The Jones law is forcing us from a beer drinking to a whisky consuming people. And the corruption that has sprung from the protected beer routes has brought in its wake the alcohol gangs and hard liquor syndicates.

"Wherever you look you are confronted with the ugly fact that, so long as the corruption of officials that has come with Volsteadism continues, all legislation will be more or less defiled by it. The whole administrative machinery is thrown out of balance by the crazy and debauched operation of enforcement machinery.

"It took me a long time to come to these conclusions, and I came to them painfully. They are crystallizations now. Show me how you can eliminate the corruption that Volsteadism has engendered and I might be reconciled to Volsteadism. But the corruption cannot be eliminated. The temptation to dishonesty is so powerful that human agents to actually enforce Volsteadism cannot be found. Corruption proves that Volsteadism is unworkable.

"Not Asking for Saloons."

"In the large aspects of this question the saloon is in no sense an issue, for neither side is advocating the return of the saloon.

"The issue is our liberties. It has taken us centuries to build our system of law and the safeguards which insure liberty to the individual. It is tragic to see all this noble structure weakened and twisted to meet the demands of those who are attempting the impossible. No denial of beer drinking can ever be a just cause for destroying the fabric of our liberties."

Stephen A. Day's declaration against bogus prohibition adds another name to the list of representatives of American families of the old revolutionary stock who have made emphatic utterances on Volsteadism in the last few weeks. First came James M. Beck, who comes of a line of continental patriots. Pierre S. du Pont of the Delaware Du Ponts, who were supporters of the founders of both the French and American republics, followed. Last week came James W. Wadsworth's arraignment of pussyfooters in his own party, and the Wadsworth line goes back to the hero of Charter Oak. Now comes Day, and one of his ancestors was Gen. Warren, who fell in the battle of Bunker Hill.

The old stock is running true to tradition.

Points on Prohibition by Stephen A. Day

Candidate for Republican nomination for congressman at large from Illinois. Resident of Evanston. Son of late Secretary of State and Justice Day. Student of international law under President Angell at University of Michigan. Once secretary to late Chief Justice Melville Fuller. Founder of League for Industrial Justice. Carried Cook county by 50,000 against Yates in 1920, but lost state.

Every man who pays a dollar to a bootlegger knows he has made a criminal. And that criminal may become a murderer.

You can't drive a truckload of beer through the loop without bribery. There's no blinking that. It's a physical impossibility.

If wholesome beer and light wines were legalized, a public sentiment would be created to help pick up the criminal booze runner.

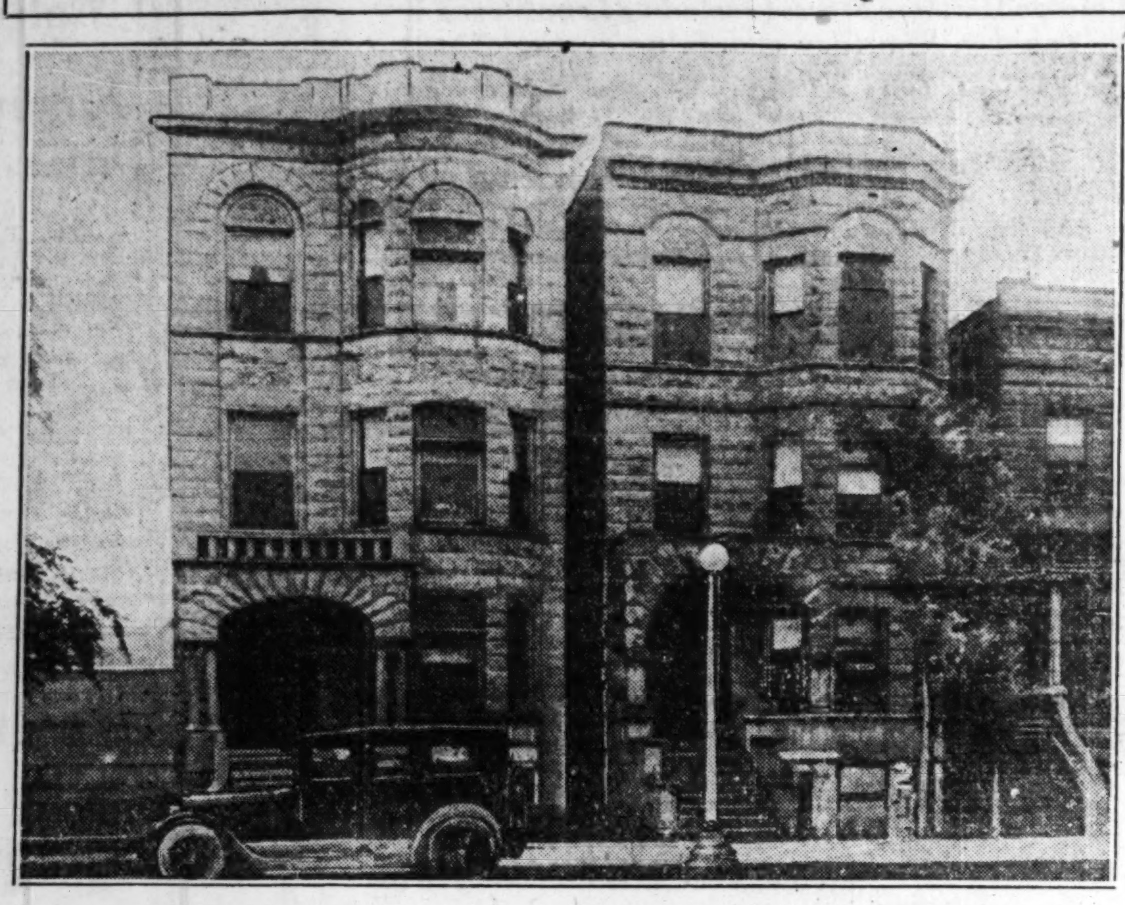
Volsteadism is an incrustation on a revered and time honored system of law. We must remove the incrustation without injury to the organism to which it has attached itself. This is a task for statesmen—not for boozers on the one hand or fanatics on the other.

This is nothing so trivial as a beverage job. It's a job of repairing the damage done to the constitution of the United States.

We have come this far toward a true temperance movement: The people are saying, "Here is a job to be done." Now the time has come for finding men to do it. They will not be the average type of politician.

STEPHEN A. DAY.

REASSESSMENT IRONS OUT TAX INEQUALITIES



Flat buildings at 712 (left) and 710 West Garfield boulevard, where the changes wrought by the Cook county property revaluation are noticeable. Under the old assessment of 1927 the building at No. 712 was valued at $400, while the building at No. 710 was on the books at $1,500. In the reassessment the appraisers reported that No. 712 was the more valuable structure, so its assessed valuation is now $2,985, while the assessed valuation of the building at No. 710 is $2,363.

26,000,000 AUTOS IN U.S. LAST YEAR PAID $347,843,543 FEES

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—There were 2,000,000 more motor vehicles in the United States in 1929 than the year before.

In 1929 the 26,501,443 vehicles paid fees of $347,843,543, the department of agriculture announced today, an increase of $25,213,518 over 1928.

New York state led in registration figures with 2,263,259 licensed vehicles, while the other nine highest were: California, 1,974,341; Ohio, 1,766,614; Pennsylvania, 1,733,283; Illinois, 1,615,088; Michigan, 1,395,102; Texas, 1,348,107; Indiana, 866,715; New Jersey, 832,322; Massachusetts, 817,704.

The district of Columbia and New Mexico, each with a 19 per cent increase in registrations, showed the highest percentage gains.

4 LAKE COUNTY PAPERS MERGED BY FRANK JUST

The consolidation of two Waukegan daily papers and two weekly papers at Libertyville was announced yesterday by Frank H. Just, owner of the Waukegan Daily News and the Lake County Register of Libertyville, who has purchased the Waukegan Daily Sun and the Libertyville Independent. The consolidation of the Waukegan papers becomes effective tomorrow, when they will be issued under the name of the News-Sun.

Just purchased the Sun and the Register from John A. Dickson, M. B. Wieland, and D. M. Noyes of Chicago, who acquired them from William J. Smith, former member of the Illinois commerce commission. The Daily Sun has been published continuously since 1897, while the News was started in 1921 by Just. The combined papers will be published in the Sun's plant.

FIGURES REVEAL TAX CHANGES BY REASSESSMENT

Old and New Valuations on Properties Compared.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A review of the tax valuation was made yesterday on several outlying properties, of which pictures were printed in THE TRIBUNE between March and July, 1928, to illustrate the tax inequalities of the old real estate assessments.

On four out of these seven buildings, which were selected at random, the reassessment has reduced the taxes.

Two of the seven properties are three-flat buildings, standing side by side, on the same sized lots, both with stone fronts and with similar exterior appearances. They are located on West Garfield boulevard. The one at 710 is owned by Dr. Helen B. Flynn and the one at 712 by John Callahan.

Reassessment Changes Figures.

Under the old assessment Dr. Flynn paid 48.5 per cent more taxes than Mr. Callahan. Under the reassessment Mr. Callahan will pay 16.5 per cent more taxes than Dr. Flynn. The building and land appraisers of the reassessment valued Dr. Flynn's apartment building at $9,384 and Mr. Callahan's at $11,067.

After obtaining an appraisal of the property for reassessment the board of assessors decided that the tax valuation should be 37 per cent of the appraised value. Under the old assessment the value of each lot was set down for $1,875. The reassessment puts the figure at $1,110.

The Old Valuations.

Under the old assessment Dr. Flynn's building was put on the tax books at $1,500 and Mr. Callahan's at $400. The appraisers for the reassessment said that Mr. Callahan's building is worth $8,067, after making due allowances for depreciation. Thirty-seven per cent of the $8,067 gives a new assessment on the building of $2,985. Dr. Flynn's building was put down by the appraisers of the reassessment of $6,384, after making allowance for depreciation.

The net result is that Dr. Flynn under the old assessment paid taxes on a valuation of $3,375 and under the reasssessment will pay on $3,473. Mr. Callahan, however, gets a boost in valuation from $2,275 to $4,095. On the basis of the old tax rate of $4.85 for this area, Dr. Flynn's taxes will be increased by the reassessment from $163.68 to $170.44; but Mr. Callahan's taxes will jump from $110.33 to $198.60.

Two Cottages Compared.

Another view of the reassessment is supplied by two frame cottages on West 54th street. The one at 936 is owned by Michael Canfield and the one next door at 938 is the property of Joseph Connelly. Mr. Canfield's property was appraised at $1,531 full value and Mr. Connelly's at $2,062, but under the old assessment Mr. Canfield was paying about 50 per cent more taxes than Mr. Connelly. But under the reassessment the latter will pay about one-eighth more than Mr. Canfield.

The land under the old assessment, which was supposed to be 60 per cent of full value, was put down at $625 a lot, while under the new reassessment, which is 37 per cent of appraised value, the figure is $368 a lot. There is a small saving for both neighbors. Mr. Canfield's cottage under the old assessment was on the books for $800 and Mr. Connelly's for only $300. Under the reassessment Mr. Canfield's cottage has been reduced to $222 and his neighbor's increased to $396. Both will get a tax reduction. Mr. Canfield's will be about 58 per cent because the valuation of his cottage and lot was reduced from $1,425 to $590; and Mr. Connelly's about 17 per cent because his house and lot have been cut from $925 to $764.

Value Under 1927 Assessment.

A three story brick building on a lot 101 by 117 feet is located at 7251-61 Vincennes avenue. It has four stores on Vincennes and two on 73rd street, and above the stores there are eight flats. In the 1927 assessment—the last on which taxes have been collected—the board of assessors said that the land was worth $6,535 and the building $21,800. The owner went before the board of review and had the building valuation reduced from $21,890 to $8,000. That gave a total valuation under the old assessment of $14,835.

The reassessment appraisers report that the property is worth $51,401—$23,345 for the land and $28,056 for the building. Under the 37 per cent rule the new assessment placed the value of the land for taxation purposes at $8,638 and of the building at $10,381—a total of $19,019. This means a boost in taxes of about 28 per cent.

Another picture, printed on March 26, 1928, shows a brick cottage with attic room at 2326 Armitage avenue and a two flat building at 2324 Armitage avenue. Under the old assessment the cottage paid taxes on a lot and a building valuation totaling $1,960. Under the reassessment the valuation has been reduced to $977. For the last taxes paid the two flat building was valued at $4,220, but for the next taxes it will be valued at $2,022.

Old Appraisal of Buildings.

Under the old assessment the cottage lot was valued at $1,060; under the reassessment at $318. The cottage itself was valued at $900, but under the new assessment is reduced to $659. The two flat lot under the old assessment was on the books for $1,680, but under the reassessment it is put down for $477. The two flat building was reduced from $2,600 to $1,545.

Eliminating the large store and flat building on Vincennes avenue, the assessment of the remaining six properties under the old assessment totaled $14,200. Under the reassessment this total has been reduced to $11,921.

It is not claimed that the properties presented are typical of outlying reassessments, but they may be indicative because the total reassessment figures for Chicago indicate a small reduction for the outside territory. In the illustrations presented the increase in the large store and flat building more than offset the reduction on the cottages and small flat structures.

$35,790 REFUND IN INCOME TAXES IS GRANTED FORD

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Henry Ford has been awarded an income tax refund of $35,790 and a credit of $17,215 for the year 1925, the internal revenue bureau announced today.

"The overassessment is caused by the allowance of a deduction for a loss incurred in a transaction entered into for profit and sustained during the taxable year," said Robert H. Lucas, commissioner of internal revenue. "After a field investigation and conferences held in the bureau it is determined that such loss was erroneously omitted in the tax return."

Up to today income and corporation receipts for March amounted to slightly over 550 million dollars.

RUSSIAN GODLESS ENLARGE DRIVE AGAINST RELIGION

Double Program to Fight Prayer Crusade.

MOSCOW, March 29.—[U. P.]—Soviet Russia's latest attack on the foreign "religious crusade" was launched today by the Society of the Godless in a nation-wide call for an increase in atheist forces and intensification of "peaceful agitation" against religion.

The executive committee of the society, which has just ended a conference here, called for 70,000,000 soviet citizens to accept the atheistic principles of the society by 1993, thus doubling the original program which had been approved before the recent agitation abroad against atheism in Russia.

See Spread of Unbelief.

The goal was increased from 35,000,000 atheists because of "the excellent outlook" for atheist propaganda, the committee announced. The society's leaders concluded that the foreign crusade will result "in the growth of atheism among the working masses of capitalist countries as well as here."

The Moscow trade union council will distribute 100,000 free theater tickets for the eve of Easter day to keep Moscow workers away from the churches.

The use of force against believers was condemned and members of the society guilty of coercion were reprimanded in a proclamation issued by the executive council. It was made clear, however, that peaceful agitation against religion must be intensified.

Demand Atheism in Schools.

The society accused the soviet commisariat of education of not cooperating fully with the Godless movement and demanded that greater attention be given to atheism in all schools, emphasizing the importance of a struggle against anti-semitism. Emilian Yaroslavsky, president of the society, cited examples of unjustified use of pressure against believers in many regions where ikons were confiscated over peasant protests, but he claimed that—after allowance for mistakes—the Godless movement has shown many real victories in recent months, with numerous villages and towns and several whole districts reported 100 per cent atheistic.

The executive committee again reiterated the soviet contention that "the whole aim of the clamor against the soviets was to start the fires of war," adding that "under the flag of religion the imperialists are preparing to intervene in the soviet union."

POLAND ENDS 2 WEEKS' CRISIS; PICKS CABINET

WARSAW, Poland, March 29.—(AP)—After two weeks of difficult negotiations and bitter feeling between the diet and the supporters of Marshal Pilsudski, Poland's "strong man," a new Polish government was formed tonight by Col. Walery Slawek, succeeding the Bartel ministry, which resigned March 14.

Foreign Minister August Zaleski and the other members of the Bartel cabinet were retained, except Minister of Justice Dutkiewicz. The ministry of justice was offered to Stanislaus Car, who was minister of justice in the so-called "colonels' cabinet" of last summer and is noted for his hostility toward the diet.

The Slawek ministry is a "strong arm" government, and is sure to come into collision with the diet, which has a long feud with the colonels' group and Marshal Pilsudski. However, the diet probably will be adjourned soon until October, and will thus be in no position to make difficulties for the ministry. It may be specially summoned to ratify the Young plan and the German Polish liquidation agreement, but if so its session will be short.

Mud in Bottom of Pond Yields Clew of Child Death

Orrville, O., March 29.—[U. P.]—The year old mystery of the disappearance of Melvin Horst, 4, came to the fore again today when searchers, draining a pond on the Orrville country club grounds, found a length of hempen rope in the mud of the pond bottom.

Charles Hanna, held in connection with the boy's disappearance, has told several versions of his "murder" of the boy. In one story he said he used a piece of rope to tie the child in a blanket before throwing him in the pond.

Melvin disappeared two days after Christmas, 1928, after he left his playmates at dusk and ran up the alley that led to the rear of his home.

Air Line Claims Exemption from State Highway Tax

Lincoln, Neb., March 29.—(AP)—Exemption of mail plane gasoline from state highway taxes was claimed by the Boeing Air Transport company, in an injunction suit filed here today against Nebraska officials. The company argued that its planes flying between Chicago and San Francisco are engaged solely in interstate commerce and if the company were forced to pay the 4 cent tax provided here, it would lose about $10,000 a year.

REPUTED CHILD OF CZAR HIDES IN NEW YORK INCOG

Anastasia Guest of Oil Heiress.

New York, N. Y., March 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anastasia Tschaikowsky, who is or is not Princess Anastasia, daughter of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, has been entertained for the last few months by New York society as a "Miss Anderson," it was learned today.

Mme. Tschaikowsky's visitor's permit has expired and the department of labor at Washington has been asked to extend it. If it refuses she will be deported should she refuse to leave voluntarily, it is said.

Under the patronage of Miss Anne Burr Jennings, an heiress to Standard Oil millions, Mme. Tschaikowsky has been presented to many of the best families in New York, most of whom were told that "Miss Anderson" was the much disputed woman.

Had Disfigured Jaw.

When Mme. Tschaikowsky first visited Miss Jennings she went into seclusion. Her disfigured jaw, broken by the gun butt of a bolshevist soldier, made her self-conscious, it was said. Since then she has received medical treatment and today she is said to be proud of her appearance. She adopted the disguising "Miss Anderson" to avoid being questioned about her claims to royalty.

It was also learned that Mme. Tschaikowsky has devoted much of her time to writing a book, in which she recounts her adventures—real or imaginary—and sets forth her claims to be the daughter of the czar.

Her Claims Investigated.

Miss Jennings is reported to have sent a special investigator to Europe to look into her guest's claims and to test the truth of the often published charge that she was in reality a Polish maid.

While it couldn't be learned what the investigator reported, the fact that he has returned and that Mme. Tschaikowsky remains a guest of Miss Jennings indicates, it is said, that some substantiation of her claim was found.

Killed as Truck Runs on to Sidewalk in South Bend

South Bend, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—Frank Hutter, 54 years old, was killed here today when a coal truck swung across the sidewalk, striking him and pinning him against a corner of a building. His head and chest were crushed. Thomas Barber, driver of the truck, told police he ran up on the sidewalk to avoid hitting another truck. He was released.

Hits Back at U. S.

Gov. Fred W. Green issued another statement yesterday defending Michigan's defiance of the federal commission in constructing a state police broadcasting station.

The governor was informed in a dispatch from Washington that Harold A. Lafont, member of the commission, had said that relatively few of the broadcast channels were filled with the entertainment programs to which the Michigan executive had referred in a previous statement.

"Commissioner Lafont would get a lot of valuable information by purchasing a radio receiver and listening to it for a few evenings," said the governor. "There is little but jazz and advertising in the broadcast band, which covers about 300 meters. Much of what is broadcast in that band is in violation of the rules of the commission."

J. H. DEFREES' ESTATE IS PUT AT $1,000,000

The inventory of the estate of the late Joseph H. Defrees, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was filed yesterday before Leon Edelman, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. It lists assets estimated at $1,000,000, chiefly in real estate and securities.

Mr. Defrees died in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 5, 1929. He was 71 years old. He was the senior member of the law firm of Defrees, Buckingham & Eaton and had served as president of the Chicago Bar association, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the United States Chamber of Commerce. He was one of the founders of the Indiana solcety and a member of the Chicago, Union League, City, Midday, and Chicago Law clubs. He was a chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France.

His will left most of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Harriet M. Defrees, and a son, Donald Defrees. Mrs. Defrees lives at the Windermere hotel. The will left bequests of $5,000 each to St. Luke's hospital and the Home for Destitute Chippled Children.

Briton Kills Crocodile with Weakness for Women

LONDON, March 29.—[U. P.]—The British sportsman, K. Lee Guinness, has returned from a hunting trip on the Gambia river in British West Africa with the skin of a crocodile which had "a weakness for women." The following objects were found in the animal's stomach: Eight long strings of beads such as native women wear, a necklace of smaller beads, an ornamental bead such as has not been fashionable for more than 100 years, two silver earrings, the bottom of a jam jar, and the neck of a bottle.

MOVING VAN CAUSES DIVORCE.

Mrs. Otillie Smerz, 4926 South Marshfield avenue, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against her husband, Robert Smerz, charging that he beat her because she displayed no enthusiasm over his gift a new moving van.

GERMAN PRINCE LAYS CLAIM TO MONACO THRONE

Attacks Legitimacy of Present Heir.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 29.—Prince Albrecht von Urach, count of Wuertemberg, once possible heir to the throne of Wuertemberg, is now claiming the throne of Monaco.

His claim is based on the fact that his grandmother was Princess Florestine Grimaldi of Monaco. He believes the scandal of Princess Charlotte's divorce will help him win his case and has proceeded to Paris in an attempt to make good his claim.

The house of Urach has always refused to recognize the Princess Charlotte, alleging that she was the illegitimate daughter of Louis II. of Monaco and a well known Paris beauty of Montmartre. Louis adopted Charlotte before ascending to the throne, but the Urach family assert that according to the Monaco constitution such an adoption becomes illegal until all members of the family approve it.

The Urachs, the German branch of the family, were never asked for their approval and never approved the adoption.

The Urachs are the owners of a romantic castle in Liechtenstein, south of Wuertemberg, but Liechtenstein, as big as it is, is not enough for eight young Urachs and so Prince Albrecht is seeking the throne of Monaco, about which his grandmother used to talk.

Hold Elections Today.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, March 29.—(AP)—About 1,000 voters tomorrow will decide the dynastical and financial future of this little principality, the only revenue of which comes from tourists who battle games of chance at the Casino. The campaign has been so hot that 20 men have been added to the police force—or army—giving it a strength of 100.

The elections are to choose both a national and a municipal council, but the main issues are whether Prince Pierre or his estranged wife, Princess Charlotte, shall succeed the reigning prince, Louis, and whether more revenue from the Casino shall go for public improvements.

Mayor Marquet's party, which has been in power some years, is supporting Prince Pierre. The party led by a fiery lawyer, M. Bonaventure, has announced Princess Charlotte's return as hereditary princess as its basic platform.

Prince Louis is understood to be disgusted with the turn of events and would have abdicated in February while he was in Paris had not the French government advised him to await the elections.

2,000 IN PANAMA HEAR U. S. FLAYED BY VASCONCELOS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA, March 29.—While an audience of more than 2,000 warmly applauded Mexico's defeated presidential candidate, Jose Vasconcelos, who once was a professor at the University of Chicago, last night opened his lecture tour of the Latin Americas by denouncing the United States policy in Mexico. Introduced as the spiritual leader of Latin-American youth, Vasconcelos declared that he lived in hope of seeing the Mexican liberated from imperialism.

"Mexico has proved that she can live without the recognition of the United States," he said. "This was shown when Alvaro Obregon remained in power for three years without aid from America. The only opportunities existing in Mexico now are government jobs. Farming and every thing else is controlled by foreigners."

Vasconcelos bitterly denounced the average American's treatment of Mexicans, which, he claimed, is abhorrent. He declared that the 3,000,000 Mexicans living in Texas and New Mexico are treated worse than Negroes, are practically slaves, and are given such low wages that they cannot live decently.

Federal Padlock Broken to Save a Starving Cat

Menominee, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—A famished cat today caused Menominee county officials to violate a federal padlock.

When a building was sealed by prohibition agents two weeks ago the cat was locked in. Since that time its daily caterwaulings had been heard by scores. Each day the calls grew weaker. The sheriff finally took the law in his own hands and broke into the building.

AUSTRIANS MAKE DEAF 'HEAR' BY ELECTRIC WAVES

Invent Ear Drum to Send "Sound" to Brain.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 29.—A new apparatus which it is hoped will wipe out deafness was demonstrated before the Austrian Medical society here last night. The demonstration caused a sensation and newspapers today are filled with columns in which the doctors in this city of doctors discuss the possibilities of this new invention, designed literally to enable a deaf ear to "hear."

The inventors are Dr. Stephen Jellinek, of Vienna university, and Theodore Schreiber, Vienna municipal electrical engineer. Prof. Jellinek claims that human beings can be made to hear not only by a reception of sound waves but by contact with electric waves produced by a microphone. Last night's experiment was necessarily crude but a number of prominent men attending declared it to be "very promising."

"Hear" on Bare Wire.

A gramophone was played in one room where the professor installed a box which transformed the sound waves into electric waves. A wire was strung to a second room out of hearing of the gramaphone and merely by touching the wire to the ears a person was able to hear the music from the talking machine perfectly.

By the use of the apparatus, Prof. Jellinek claims a person whose deafness is not caused by injury of the nerves of hearing can be made to hear.

"Up to now," Prof. Jellinek explained, "we believed that there was only one principle of sound perception. Sound giving mediums emanate rhythmical vibrations called tone waves which put the ear drum in vibration and by the complicated mechanism of the ear it incites the nerves in the brain which results in hearing."

Believes Hearing "Electrical."

He then explained that the so-called corti organs, which is where the central nerves of the ear converge, can be subjected to electrical virbrations as well as mechanical. His experiments seemed to prove his theory that the transmission of sensation by the auditory nerve was an electrical phenomenon.

The present apparatus is bulky but when improved its size will be reduced. It is also at present complicated and dangerous as the sound waves after conversion into electrical waves are highly amplified. If the professor's thesis is correct the new apparatus would be a substitute for the ear drum and would convey "sound" to the brain direct by way of the auditory nerve.

FIRST WRITINGS OF MARK TWAIN FOUND IN FILES

Hannibal, Mo., March 29.—(AP)—Long sought newspaper files containing original first works of Mark Twain, described by him in his autobiography as representing "my first literary venture" have been discovered in Hannibal, his boyhood home.

They reveal the boy Sam Clemens (Mark Twain) in his 'teens, as substituting as editor of his brother's newspaper here and striving to "liven up" the columns of the paper with his wit. His methods reveal him as even then richly possessed of the ingenuity he later instilled in his famed fiction characters, Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

The newspapers were found by the Rev. C. J. Armstrong, Hannibal pastor and long a student of Mark Twain, among seven volumes of old Hannibal papers preserved by the late W. H. League, boyhood friend of Sam Clemens and shelved away by his daughter, Miss Nettie League.

Philippines Seek Ruling from Court on Land Title

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The director of lands of the Philippine islands today asked the Supreme court to pass on title to a large tract of land in the muncipality of Victoria, province of Tarlac. Claiming the land belonged to the United States as public lands, the Philippine government asserted authority over it, and was challenged by Pedro Villa-Abrille and a number of others who claimed large parts of it under Spanish and other titles.

Chicago Woman Accuses Man of Fraud on Race

St. Augustine, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Michael Redfern, arrested here last night on a charge of swindling Mrs. Laura Nikolite of Chicago out of $6,000 in a faked horse race scheme, was released under $10,000 bond today after his attorneys had instituted habeas corpus proceedings before Circuit Judge John P. Baker. Preliminary hearing was set for next Friday. The alleged swindle occurred in March, 1929.

PENNSY TO ADD NEW TRAIN TO N. Y. SCHEDULE

Faster and more frequent service between Chicago and New York will mark the spring schedule of the Pennsylvania railroad, effective on April 27. The revised schedule was announced yesterday by H. E. Newcomet, vice president of the western region at Chicago.

The Manhattan limited will be speeded up an hour, becoming a 20 hour train. While the 20 hour schedules of the Broadway limited and Golden Arrow remain unchanged, a new fast train, the New Yorker, will be placed in service, leaving Chicago at 10 a. m. and reaching New York at 8:25 the following morning.

Schedules of the westbound Pennsylvania limited and Broadway limited will be advanced one hour to correspond with daylight saving time on arrival. The Red Knight will also leave New York an hour earlier and will be renamed the Rainbow, thus becoming a counterpart of the eastbound Rainbow.

L' FOR AUTOS GOING UP FAST IN N. Y. STREETS

New Speedway Is Causing a Realty Boom.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—This city's first real elevated speedway is crawling up the west side on its steel knees at a pace that has surprised even its builders. Today its arrow like frame resembles some unbelievably tall building that suddenly, in the process of construction, has decided to lie down and rest.

Great girders latticed together in a network of steel already have been pushed almost a mile northward between Canal and 23d street. The steel work on the first section is virtually complete and granite work and finishing will be started in a month.

"Automobiles will be using this section of the elevated highway within a year," announced Julius Miller, borough president of Manhattan, after viewing the progress made on his pet project.

Big Curve May Be Necessary.

Mr. Miller also revealed that there may be a hitherto unexpected curve in the upstairs roadway which eventually will stretch from downtown Manhattan to Riverside drive. The elevated highway is being built in sections, each approximately a mile in length. The third section reaching between 38th and 50th streets in midtown Manhattan is where the curve will come and probably will be the last section to be constructed.

It is at this point along the water front that the city is petitioning the government for permission to build a series of 1,000 foot piers extending 00 feet inland in order not to infringe on the Hudson river ship channel. If these piers are built the highway will have to swing to the east in a great curve.

The contract for the second section, according to the borough president, will be let in May.

Property Values Go Up.

New York's first major effort to solve its up and down town traffic congestion traverses a section of the city that will be the next to experience a realty boom. Running parallel with "death avenue" where one of the greatest projects a city and railroad ever attempted is under way—the elimination of all grade crossings and burying of the New York Central's freight lines, at a cost of $150,000,000—the elevated speedway built to carry eight traffic lanes will do its part in bringing comparative beauty to a formerly squalid section.

The road is built high enough and far enough from the sidewalks to permit air and sunlight to reach the ground floors of houses along the way. The outlook from floors above the street level is the same as from business and apartment houses facing a boulevard. Property along the right of way already is rapidly increasing in value.

With the west side highway to Riverside drive assured, regional planners are looking forward to a similar roadway along the east river bank.

COAST TO COAST GLIDER TOUR STARTS TODAY

BERLIN YOUTH, 22, WINS RIGHT TO DRESS AS A GIRL

Herbert Is Now Hertha and Student Nurse.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 29.—Herbert Haase, 22 year old resident oof South Berlin, will henceforth officially be known as Hertha Haase, and will openly wear the girls' clothes he has yearned to wear all his life.

The Berlin social welfare committee, whose decision in social welfare matters have the legal force of a court decree, gave Herbert this permission.

The committee further found Herbert an outfit of girls' clothes and he is already cheerfully launched as a member of the weaker sex. The committee also got him a job as a student nurse in a Berlin hospital. He will associate fully with the other probationers, except that he will have a room to himself.

Happy for the First Time.

Herbert admits that he is happy for the first time in his life. His 22 years have been made miserable by the fact that, although he was a male by sex, he was a girl by temperament. This tendency, which, prominent Berlin psychiatrists assert, in Herbert's case has nothing to do with homo-sexuality, brought down on his head the scorn of his fellows ever since a small boy.

His father early recognized the peculiarity and consulted authorities. They were frankly puzzled at what to do, and finally suggested sending him to a public home. Herbert spent years in this home and was spared the scorn of the outside world, but still suffered from the sarcasm of his fellow inmates. Whenever by himself he wore girls' clothes.

The case came to the attention of Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, famous authority on sex subjects. Dr. Hirschfeld realized the misery in which Herbert lived and did his best to find a remedy. He finally placed the case before the social welfare committee and persuaded the body to officially approve the change in Herbert's sex.

Herbert's photographs in the newspapers clearly reveal that he makes a more convincing girl.

Plans Demonstrations

San Diego, Cal., March 29.—(AP)—A coast to coast glider tour with Capt. Frank Hawks, noted transcontinental flyer, in the frail craft at the snapping end of a 500 foot tow rope will be started here at dawn tomorrow, weather permitting, the aviator announced tonight. Hawks will be alone in the glider on the long flight in the bumpy backwashes of a towing biplane's propeller.

He explained that maintenance of the interest of air minded Americans in aviation and a country-wide demonstration of glider operation were the purposes behind the projected tour.

More than a score of stops will be made, at each of which Capt. Hawks will demonstrate the glider by cutting loose his tow line, circling and drifting to a landing. If wind conditions are favorable exhibition takeoffs with the peculiar power of an elastic snap cord, instead of an airplane and its tow line, may be made at various points en route.

JURY DISAGREES IN FARM BOY'S MURDER TRIAL

El Dorado, Kas., March 29.—(AP)—Failing to reach a verdict after deliberating 27 hours, the jury in the second trial of Owen Oberst, 19 year old farm youth, charged with the murder of his father, Will Oberst, and accused of slaying his mother and five brothers and sisters, was discharged at 6 o'clock tonight by District Judge A. T. Ayres here.

A poll revealed the jurors stood 8 to 4 for acquittal.

At the youth's first trial, here last December, on a charge of murdering his father, the jury also was unable to reach an agreement.

Oberst was accused by the state of slaying his father, mother and his younger brothers and sisters and setting fire to the Oberst home after the seven bodies had been piled inside the dwelling. The bodies were found in the charred ruins of the farm house the night of April 20, 1928.

Army Planes at Cheyenne in Trip Across Country

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 29.—(AP)—Twenty-two planes, comprising the first pursuit group of the first pursuit squadron, United States army air corps, reached Cheyenne today at 4:35 p. m., mountain time, from North Platte, Neb. The group remained here overnight. The planes are en route to the Pacific coast for the annual army air corps maneuvers.

DE VALERA FOES TO AID COSGRAVE BACK TO POWER

Independents See Hope of Voice in Government.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 29.—Dublin's newspapers today regard the reëlection of William T. Cosgrave, who resigned with his cabinet yesterday, to the presidency next Wednesday as a certainty. Labor's proposal to nominate a candidate is ludicrous, says the Independent. The Irish Times praises President Cosgrave's management and calls for his reëlection, at the same time pointing out that the independent group which controls the situation must get a share of the administration in the future.

Previously the independent members, who represent largely the wealth in trade and industry, have not had a part in the government. They frequently vote against their convictions in order to prevent Eamon de Valera from scoring a victory.

Mr. Cosgrave, on the other hand, admits their claim, but cannot moderate his insistence on the compulsory use of the Irish language and other such matters, believing this would mean loss of national prestige.

The new president will be chosen on Wednesday when the Dail Eireann reassembles. Although the Finna Fail party will nominate Mr. de Valera, it is believed he will be beaten by the Labor and independent votes siding with the government.

The combination of the government and the independents will likewise defeat the Labor chief, T. J. O'Connell. The Labor party only musters 13 votes and even with Fianna Fail support could not form a stable ministry.

EX-AFGHAN KING TO BUILD HUGE TRANSPORT LINK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—Amanullah Khan, the former ruler of Afghanistan, intends to stage a comeback as the economic champion of the near east, as well as take back the throne, which he was forced to hurriedly abandon. This was made evident by reports received today in London of his Ankara plans.

With the aid of a German company, which has secured a monopoly of the Afghanistan railway system, and with the backing of an Italian firm, the former king is planning a huge transport company to link Persia, Turkey, Afghanistan and the central Asiatic and soviet republics.

This company will build motor roads for regular service in Turkey, while connecting with the system in Persia. Good roads will also connect Kabul, Afghanistan, and Teheran, Persia. Air service routes will also be developed to connect Kabul, Herat, Kandahar, and Teheran, going to Ankara by way of Tabriz.

CHILDREN GUESTS AT GARDEN AND FLOWER SHOW

School Prizes Announced at 'Largest Exhibit.'

Yesterday was children's day at the Chicago Garden and Flower show in the Hotel Sherman, and school children thronged the aisles of gorgeous flowers of nearly every variety which were declared to make this the largest of all flower shows in Chicago.

Interest was centered in the toy suburb, Fowler park, and in the mass of cut roses brought from many sections of the middle west for the contest. Alpine plants, composing a rare collection from Michigan, came in by truck and were added to other admired groupings of floral beauty.

Model Town Shows Homesteads.

The model town, laid out so that sixty-seven homesteads were shown in detailed relief, furnished new ideas in town planning. In an area 20 by 40 feet the business, school, and church sectors are accurately placed, each with landscaping, while no alleys have been necessary to lay out the streets and provide a bit of park for each homestead.

Thirty models were contributed to the town by suburban schools. Prizes were awarded yesterday as follows: First, Flossmoor school; second, Tinley Park school; third, Northbrook school.

Judge City School Contests.

City schools contributed a number of model gardens for which prizes were awarded as follows: First, second and third to models from Harper Junior High school, 6520 South Wood street. Posters designed by Chicago school children were also judged, as follows: First, Howard school; second, Hibbard High school; third, Morrill school.

Mrs. John O'Connor delivered a lecture on "Wild Flowers" yesterday. Mrs. T. F. Colton talked to children on "Cook County, a Summer Resort for Birds," followed by a talk for adults by Mrs. Linn White on "The Making of a Garden."

The show is open today from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and next week during the same hours. It closes on April 5.

Judge Commercial Exhibits.

Commercial flower exhibits judged yesterday brought ribbons to these entrants:

The Joseph Kohout company was awarded seventeen first prizes for the following exhibits: Cineraria, azalea, calceolaria, pink climbing roses, dwarf polyanthas, nephrolepis, cibotium scheidei, azalea indici fern, group of foliage plants, white hyacinths, pink hyacinths, blue hyacinths, Darwin tulips, double tulips, group of tulips, and group of hyacinths. The Joseph Kohout company was also awarded second prizes for the following exhibits: Red climbing roses, rubber plants and pandanus.

Poehlman brothers was awarded five first prizes for the following exhibits: Red climbing roses, rubber plants, kentia forsteriana, phoenix roebelenii, pandanus. They were awarded second prizes for cineraria and hydrangea.

M. Leider & Son were awarded two first prizes for hydrangea exhibits and second prize for dwarf polyanthas.

Wins on Plant Group.

Peter Pearson was awarded first prize for a miscellaneous group of plants, and two second prizes for azaleas and pots of lilies.

Schultz of La Grange was awarded first prize for yellow callas and second prize for geraniums.

First prizes were also awarded to the following: F. L. Maytag, Lake Geneva, Wis., for a foliage plant; Henry Rohel of Lake Geneva, Wis., for a fern; Vaughan't Seed store for geraniums; Pesche's of Desplaines for pots of lilies, and Amling Brothers of Desplaines for cut flowers, gardenias.

ILLINOIS SHOW APRIL 5

The nine day Central States garden and flower show under the auspices of the Garden Club of Illinois, with its 96 member clubs, will open in the Chicago Stadium on April 5.

Distant points will contribute to the material for the show. The Milles bronze fountain, specially brought from Sweden by the Lake Forest Garden club, has arrived. Two carloads of Wisconsin north woods trees are on the unloading track, with Kentucky and Missouri shipments on their way. Truck loads of spagnum moss and bog plants are coming from Michigan while a group of nurseries and landscape architects of the New York metropolitan district plan to bring their exhibits on a special train arriving Friday.

3 Bandits Hidden in Bank All Night Get $16,000; Flee

St. Louis, Mo., March 29.—[U.P.]—Three bandits, who had waited in the Park Savings Trust company bank all night, pounced on the first three employés of the institution to arrive today, and forced one of them, the cashier, to open the vault. The bandits took $16,000 and escaped.

Bank Messengers Robbed.

Peoria, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Three unmasked bandits, risking interference from throngs of shoppers, stopped a pair of messengers as they were leaving the Commercial National bank at 10 o'clock and relieved them of $7,053 in cash. The bandits escaped in a car.

ARMY PLANS TO STAGE MILITARY EXHIBITION HERE

Plans for the most spectacular military exhibition ever staged in Chicago were announced this week by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding general of the Sixth corp area. The exposition will be held in Soldiers' field from June 21 to June 29.

Airplanes, tanks, artillery, infantry, cavalry, and all other arms of the service will take part in the huge military tournament. The eight day show will include many pageants and parades designed to stimulate public interest in modern means of defense.

Battle of Chateau Thierry.

Arrangements have been completed for the presentation of the historic battle of Chateau Thierry in a realistic manner. The battle will be waged on a large scale before a setting depicting the actual village of Chateau Thierry, and all branches of the service will be employed in close similarity to the actual conduct of the famous American engagement during the world war.

The scene will be enlivened by fireworks and searchlights.

Various large national groups in Chicago will also participate in the tournament, according to plans tentatively drawn up by Gen. Parker and his staff. Pageants, drills, and other exercises presented in native costumes will be given by the different nationalities in the evenings. Two performances will be staged each day, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening.

60 Planes to Take Part.

Sixty army airplanes will fly here from the air corps posts throughout the country to add a dash of speed and thrill to the exposition. The crack squadrons of the military service will maneuver in formation and stage a demonstration of aerial combat, using the latest and fastest ships developed for the air fighters.

The entire receipts from the tournament and exposition, excluding a small sum necessary for staging the event, will be turned over to the army relief society, an organization that assists widows and orphans of regular army soldiers.

The dirigible TC-5 will be flown here for the demonstration and as part of the program will land in the field before the stands in the Grant Park stadium. Anti-aircraft guns will be brought into play on planes flying overhead. The aerial performance will also include parachute jumping, in which four "chute" artists will tumble from planes over the stadium and descend to Soldiers' field with full field equipment.

The 14th United States calvary will play an important part in the exercises. Tanks will also be seen in action, and troops will present a demonstration of tactics on the firing line.

GOES BACK TO JAIL AGAIN.

Edward Murphy, 56 years old, who has spent 25 of the last 28 years in penitentiaries in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Indiana, was released from the Indiana state penitentiary yesterday, only to be arrected by a Chicago detective on a five year old charge of passing a bad check on George Nye, 1631 Carmen avenue.

BETTER TRAINING FACILITIES ASKED FOR WEST POINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Lack of space and training facilities are interfering seriously with the proper training of cadets at West Point, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military academy, asserts in a statement made public here today. Unless the situation is remedied, Maj. Gen. Smith said, the academy will have to turn out second lieutenants only partially prepared for their work as professional soldiers.

"In order to function at its maximum efficiency it is vitally important that the Military academy reservation be substantially enlarged," Maj. Gen. Smith said.

"Several facilities for training found on every large modern post are either totally lacking at West Point or grossly inadequate. This shortcoming in our training program will eventually be evidenced in our graduates. They will leave us and go out into the army only partially prepared to take up their life work as professional soldiers.

"Lack of terrain is seriously affecting instruction in rifle marksmanship, machine gun firing, and artillery. Ground for summer maneuvers and camp sites is also so restricted that this important practical training is materially curtailed. The physical condition of our athletes suffers through lack of athletic fields, and without a landing field practically the only instruction cadets receive in air corps matters is theoretical.

"The very existence of the reservation is seriously threatened because of private ownership of several lakes which support the post with water. Last summer for a period of almost two months we were forced to obtain our water supply from ponds located in the interstate park.

AILWAY BLAMED FOR FAILURE OF BRIDGE RELIEF

rie Accused of Holding Up Compromise.

A minority group of the Chicago aterways association, it was learned sterday, has held out against a npromise which would relieve loop ngestion by extending the present sed bridge hours. For weeks the ate street stores, business associa- ns and transportation companies ve been protesting against the open dge nuisance and the compromise s arranged as a result of these otests.

As it was reported, the Erie rail- d is the chief objector to the com- omise. The road is said to base its jection on the right to move twenty- ht freight cars on barges through p bridges daily. The railroad takes e stand, according to reports, that tending present closed periods a lf an hour a day would seriously erfere with its activities.

Shippers Propose Compromise.

The compromise offer was originally amed and proposed by officers of e waterways association. At present e bridges are closed to river craft om 7 to 9:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 0 p. m., and boats may order open ans any other time during the day night.

Several of the waterways association icers suggested that the morning riod be changed to include the period tween 7:30 and 10, basing their ange on traffic figures showing that affic is heavier between 9:30 and 10 an from 7 to 7:30. For the afternoon ey proposed adding thirty minutes as to keep the bridges closed from to 6:30 from Michigan avenue to osevelt road. To accommodate the turday noon crowds the shippers oposed closed periods from 12:30 to and from 5 to 6 p. m.

Chicago Leaders Protest.

The compromise was proposed after number of associations, companies d individuals had carried their pro- sts against the bridge nuisance to ttorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, spe- al assistant corporation counsel as- gned to the aldermanic bridge com- ittee.

Among those who have demanded tion are Leon Mandel II. and Elmer evens, State street merchants; Karl tel, who spoke as a hotel man and member of the La Salle Street Busi- ss Men's association, and City Traf- Engineer Leslie Sorenson. The est Central, North Central and Cen- al Uptown associations added their otests, and the Rapid Transit com- ny, Chicago Surface Lines, Chicago otor Coach, Chicago Motor club, and e Automobile Club of Illinois joined condemning the situation as a isance.

BEACON TO REFLECT SUNLIGHT TO FLYERS 90 MI. FROM CHICAGO

A huge sun ray beacon visible in daylight from Milwaukee and other points within a radius of ninety miles will be erected soon on top the new 42 story La Salle-Wacker building. This was revealed yesterday by A. N. Rebori, associate architect of the building and designer of the beacon, which is said to be the only one of its type in the world.

Instead of the usual single polished plate of copper, a cylindrical column of parabolic mirrors mounted on a white metal base will reflect the sunlight in all directions. The mirrors will reflect light even when the sun is clouded.

At night the beacon will show as a large red ball by the use of a new type of neon tube. The light will be intensified thirty times by the reflectors. At the base of the beacon will be placed a number of 24 inch projecting lights, which will shoot beams of light 1,000 feet upward.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, prominent in aviation activities in the Chicago area, said he believed such a sun flash beacon will soon be used in marking air routes.

Mr. Rebori designed the beacon with the coöperation of W. D'Arcy Ryan and A. F. Dickerson of the illuminating engineering laboratory of the General Electric company. The light will be mounted by May 1 at a height of 501 feet above the street.

Loftus posted a new bond of $20,000 pending the appeal.

STOCKMEN MEET LEGGE TO SETTLE CO-OP DISPUTE

Ask More Representation on Sales Agency.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chairman Alexander Legge, James C. Stone, and C. B. Denman of the federal farm board, met in Chicago yesterday with representatives of farmers' live stock marketing associations which operate in the middle west under control of the Farmers' National union.

While officials declined to comment on the nature of the meeting, unofficial information was obtained that it was held in an effort to adjust differences which had arisen between the members of the farmers' union and the new $1,000,000 National Live Stock Marketing association created in coöperation with the farm board recently.

This association was designed to serve as the farm board's commodity sales agency, and its membership was to be composed of all existing farmers' coöperatives which qualified for membership. It was said yesterday that members of the farmers' union contended they were not being given a fair representation on the association's board of directors.

Legge Calls Meeting.

Mr. Legge was reported to have called the farmers' union leaders to yesterday's conference in order to reach an understanding. As he left the preliminary session with C. E. Huff, president of the farmers' union, he stated that "the boys were just talking things over," but would not divulge the nature of their discussion.

The farmers' union live stock shipping and sales forces in leading western terminal markets, including Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul, and others, are credited with having the second largest volume of farm live stock sales among existing coöperatives. The National Live Stock Producers' association, created by the American Farm Bureau federation, is said to lead all others in amount of business, and its former president, C. B. Denman, is the live stock member of the federal farm board.

Approve U. S. Coöp Plan.

The plan of the farm board's central coöperative for live stock marketing was approved by coöperative leaders in Chicago on Feb. 26. It was then submitted by the farm board to each coöperative for final approval. The National Live Stock Producers' association, with headquarters in Chicago, is reported to have accepted the farm board's organization scheme, but the farmers' union directorate has not.

In the organization announced by the federal farm board early in March two subsidiaries of the central sales agency were provided, the National Feeder and Finance corporation and the National Live Stock Publishing association.

Publishing Plans Revealed.

The former was to serve as a financing medium for farmers who needed credit to carry on their cattle, hog and sheep feeding operations. The latter association was said here yesterday to indicate the federal farm board's first recognition of a farmers' publishing concern to be operated for profit. It was established, according to recent information, to take over magazines now published by livestock coöperatives and circulated to their membership or prospects. The principal magazine being considered is published in Chicago by the National Live Stock Producers' association.

Reports yesterday indicated that publishers of other commodity organs designed for coöperative members were also asking that provision be made in the farm board plans to include the purchase or leasing of their publications. They maintain, it is said, that the farm board, having provided for live stock publications, should in fairness make similar provision for those edited for wool, grain, or cotton coöperatives' memberships.

The National Live Stock Publishing association, according to the farm board's announcement, would be a subsidiary of the National Live Stock Marketing association, with authorized capital stock of $110,000.

SLAYER SAVED FROM CHAIR BY COMMUTATION

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—[Special.]—After having postponed the execution of Fred W. Edel four times in the last six months, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today saved the convicted murderer from going to the electric chair next Thursday night for the killing of Emmaline Harrington, former actress.

The governor commuted the death sentence of Edel to life imprisonment after several of the jurors who convicted him had appeared before the executive and said that if new evidence uncovered since the conviction had been presented to them it would have created a reasonable doubt in their minds.

These Gardners Win Paris to Pau "Rally"

"The Paris to Pau 'rally,' a sporting event of outstanding significance in Europe, was held on February 18, over a course from the City of Paris to Pau in the southwest of France and return, covering a distance of some 1,000 kilometers (625 miles). It followed a circuitous route through France and required three days to complete, since driving at night was strictly forbidden.

"Twelve American Cars competed and of this number ten remained in the running at the finish: a Gardner, piloted by Roger Robert, taking first place. In addition to the American cars competing, forty-eight automobiles representing Italy, Great Britain, Belgium and Germany were contenders.

"At Pau the cars were subjected to a number of rigid tests as to starting, stopping, gear changing, etc., all of which were put on so as to adequately test their road qualities. The Gardner emerged from these tests with flying colors, an accomplishment it climaxed by winning first place in the long remembered Paris-Pau 'rally.'"

Gardner Makes Economy Run from Canada to Mexico

"Planned to ascertain how long it would take to make a trip from Canada to Mexico without violating any speed or other traffic law, Harry Sperl, president of the Sperl Motor Company, Gardner distributor at Los Angeles, California, recently completed the 1,535.6 mile trip in 54 hours and 40 minutes in a straight-eight Gardner sedan.

"The trip, which was called a 'Law and Economy Run' is held to be the first of its kind made on the west coast. During the entire trip the car consumed less than 60 gallons of gasoline, or an average of 26.8 miles per gallon.

"A total of 101 hours and 44 minutes was required to make the run, 54 hours and 40 minutes for running time and 23 minutes for day stops. The time made during the demonstration is considered significant in that every traffic law was strictly observed on the trip.

"The run was conducted under the direction of C. L. Coppage, vice president and sales director of the Texaco Company.

"The sedan left Vancouver at 7:30 a. m. on October 16 and arrived in Tia Juana at 2:30 p. m. on October 20. The car was accompanied during the entire run by Deputy Sheriff A. H. Russel, who made sworn statements as to its performance."

Gardner Wins Beauty Contest in Holland

The winning of first prize by a Gardner car in the Concourse of Elegance, or automobile beauty show, held recently at Zandvoort, Holland, is told in an article appearing in a late issue of Sports in Beeld (Sports in Pictures), leading sports publication of Holland.

According to Sports in Beeld: the Concourse of Elegance is one of the most notable and outstanding annual society and sporting events in Holland. It is held in the quaint and beautiful sea-coast town of Zandvoort, on a model race course which has become famous as the home of celebrated sporting events. In this year's event, seventy automobiles of American and foreign manufacture were entered and were viewed from the Terrace of the world renowned Hotel d'Orange by members of the royal families of Europe and by notables from all parts of the world. The attractiveness of the Gardner entry, a sport roadster, with top down, resplendent in its chromium bright work and colorful decorative motif, was enhanced by the beauty and graciousness of its driver, Madame J. W. Schiff, wife of the Gardner concessionaire at The Hague.

"The American Gardner made her official 'Joyous Entry' into Netherlands at this contest. Yea, this entrance was full of joy, indeed, for Madame J. W. Schiff of The Hague learned that in class D she received the Red Bow, the mark of First Prize, which decorates the radiator of her brilliant GARDNER. Class D contains open cars at prices from 7,000 to 10,000 guilders," said Sports in Beeld.

1,500 Bishops of Catholic World Will See Rome.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 29.—Pope Pius XI. is preparing the encyclical which will be published at the end of his jubilee year in June, convoking the Ecumenical council or a general conclave of bishops of the Roman Catholic world at the end of next year, according to information from Vatican circles close to the pontiff tonight.

The Ecumenical council is the most important assembly of the church. This council will be a resumed session. The last one was broken off in July, 1870, because of the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war, which caused the withdrawal of French troops protecting the pope from Italy. Italian unification troops then occupied Rome and the papacy lost its temporal power, regained last year through the Lateran treaty.

Will Notify 1,500 Bishops.

The work of preparing for this conference has been going on for some time and it is hoped to have all the preparations complete within 18 months. It is necessary to give each of the 1,500 bishops of the Catholic world much notice in advance, as the councils are prolonged and long absences are required.

The assemblage of bishops will deal with many new matters brought up by the Lateran pact and the settlement of the Roman question.

Expect 200,000 Visitors.

Each of the 1,500 bishops will be accompanied by at least two other persons. Besides, thousands of pilgrims will come to Rome at the same time. In fact 200,000 visitors are expected here during the Ecumenical council year and hotel arrangements will be made long in advance.

U.S. BODY URGES CHINA TO ADAPT GOLD STANDARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 29. — Although the Chinese government is faced with a most formidable rebellion, likely to swallow up all available revenues, the finance ministry today made public the report of the American financial commission headed by Edward Kemmerer, Princeton economist. This report provides for the adoption of the gold standard for currency in China, and if adopted, would eliminate China's fluctuating silver standard currency.

China is the only important country still using the silver standard for currency, considered as chiefly responsible for the country's major financial ills.

T. V. Soong, finance minister, in an interview this afternoon, approved of the Kemmerer report in principle, and said he would recommend that the government take steps for gradual adoption of the system within a short time. The movement should start, he declared, in such financial centers as Shanghai, Canton and Tientsin. The Kemmerer commission, including twenty experts, compltd a yar's financial job in January.

2 Boys in Sedan Killed in Collision with Train

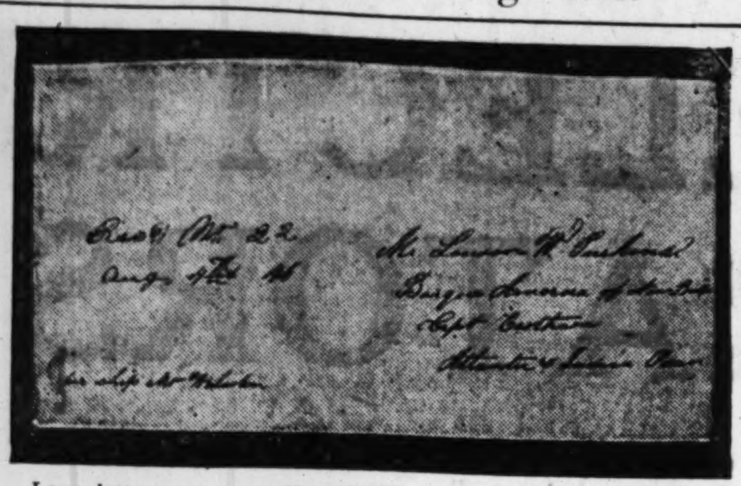
A Stampless Interesting Letter



Love letter sent to a New Bedford whaler eighty-five years ago that took thirteen months to deliver.

A letter written on July 8, 1845, addressed to a Yankee whaler in the "Atlantic and Indian ocean," and delivered thirteen months later, has been received as a contribution to "Interesting Letters," appearing daily in THE TRIBUNE. The uniqueness of this letter—it had neither envelope, stamps or post marks on it—puts it in a class of its own. By clever folding of the letter it was made into a compact form as shown in the accompanying illustration. This served much the same as the present day envelope.

The letter was sent from Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., by Prudence S. to Lanson W. Purkins, a whaler aboard the barque America of New Bedford, whose son, W. L. Perkins, 360 East Garfield boulevard, Chicago, treasures it as a keepsake. As the address shows, the letter was sent "per ship Mr. Wolaston," another whaler plying on the Atlantic and Indian oceans. Not until Aug. 4, 1846, did he find an opportunity to deliver it to Mr. Purkins.

Another curious custom in correspondence of 85 years ago between sailormen and their sweethearts, was to number the letters and carefully note on each the date it was finally received. The one shown above was No. 22 and so noted by Prudence S. on the first page of the letter and by Mr. Purkins on the outer side.

Prudence S. became the bride of her whalering correspondent after his return from his 1845-'46 cruise and in 1848 they started for the west. By way of the Erie canal they reached Buffalo where they boarded a sailboat for Wisconsin. They landed at Westport, now Kenosha, in 1848 and went by wagon to Beloit where they lived the rest of their lives, Mrs. Purkins surviving her husband and dying at the age of 90 years.

UNION LEADER FEARED SLAIN BY ROBBERS

Harrisburg, Ill., March 29. — [Special.]—Fear that W. B. Orr, mine union official, has met with foul play, has started Saline county officers and mine union officials in search of him. He left home Friday morning with the intention of posting local union notices at Peabody 43 mine, announcing that he would return to get approximately $3,700 in local union checks, which he held, to turn them over to other union authorities.

Officers fear persons believing Orr had the checks on his person, killed him.

RAILWAY LABOR ASKS PROTECTION OF COMMISSION

Consideration in Merger Plans Demanded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Strong opposition to unregulated railroad consolidations without safeguards to the interests of employés was registered today by the Railway Labor Executives' association which is in conference in Washington. The association claims to speak for 1,500,000 workers on the standard railroads.

Although officials of the association disavowed opposition to "real improvements in transportation," they declared in a statement of their views that "broad powers should be given to the interstate commerce commission to investigate all factors of the public interest and to impose conditions upon consolidations which will protect it."

Changes in Law Proposed.

Neither existing law nor the measures pending in congress provide adequate protection either to the general public or to railway employés, the statement asserted, adding that the association's counsel has prepared amendments to the interstate commerce act which should be taken up by congress before it acts upon the new consolidation bills on which hearings have been conducted.

These amendments would provide for exhaustive studies by the commission of the effect of any consolidation upon possible losses through unemployment, removal of homes, and other disadvantages to labor which might be imposed as a result of the unification.

Claim Interests Neglected.

"As representatives of railway labor we have watched at close hand the destructive effects upon the employés of changes in the transportation industry, partly the result of programs of efficiency and economy and partly the result of corporate policy not productive of efficiency and economy," the statement said.

"Certainly no effort whatsoever has been made up to date to protect the ultimate interests of the railway employés in the consolidations, and yet the future efficiency of steam transportation service and the continuity of that service must depend upon preservation of the good will and efficient coöperation of 1,750,000 employés who must actually do the work."

U. S. AID IS ASKED FOR 'DEAD' VET IN ALGIERS PRISON

Vincennes, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—Intercession by the United States government to free Merlen Pritchard, world war veteran, from the Algiers prison of the French Foreign Legion was asked today of state officials at Washington by Robert Gephart, local Legion officer.

Pritchard was reported killed in the war and a body supposedly his was sent here and buried. Several months ago Pritchard's mother, Mrs. Eliza Pritchard, received word that a prisoner at Algiers claimed he was her son and identification was made through photographs.

Gephart wired to local Legion members today that the case is complicated and it will be necessary for the United States military attaché in Algeria to secure finger prints of Pritchard before further steps can be taken.

Deprive children of nourishing food and they grow up to be weak, ailing men and women.

Now—while they are growing—is the time to build into their little bodies that sturdiness so important to success in later life.

Of course you buy the most wholesome food for your children. However, the best food can be robbed of its nutritive value by improper cooking. Food that is fried, for instance, should never be given to children because its coating of grease injures its food value and makes it too hard to digest.

Broiled foods are the most easily digested of all quickly prepared dishes—and therefore the most healthful. That is why leading medical authorities the world over recommend them.

And now you can broil in your home as safely and easily as you fry.

The new, patented Universal In-a-Drawer Broiler makes this possible. It pulls in and out like a drawer—makes broiling as convenient and easy as cooking on the top of the range. One hand—one motion. Just a touch of the finger and the entire broiling compartment rolls out on roller bearings into full view.

Steaks and chops are easily turned for searing. Eight pieces of toast are made in a jiffy. There is no bending or stooping. Better yet, all danger of burned hands or face has been eliminated.

PIRATES TAKE THIRD IN ROW FROM CUBS, 5-4

NORTHWESTERN WINS NATIONAL COLLEGIATE SWIM

SCHWARTZ SETS RECORD; TAKES THREE EVENTS

Two World Marks Shattered.

Table of Points
Northwestern	30	Dartmouth	4
Michigan	24	Brown	3
Rutgers	17	Fordham	3
[illegible]	14	Iowa	3
[illegible]	12	Minnesota	3
[illegible]	10	Pennsylvania	2

Cambridge, Mass., March 29.—[Special.]—Aided by the iron-man performance of Capt. Al Schwartz who won three first places, Northwestern's swimming team took the seventh national collegiate swimming championship meet in Harvard pool here tonight with 30 points. Michigan placed second with 24 and Rutgers was third with 17.

Schwartz swam to victories in the 50, 100 and 220 yard events, setting a new national collegiate record in the latter and tying the national collegiate mark in the 50. His trio of firsts marks the first time in the history of the meet that one man has won three first places.

Breaks 220 Record.

The Purple ace won the 50 and 100 yard dashes with ease but had a struggle in the 220 in which Austin Clapp, of Stanford university, and a member of the last Olympic team, forced the pace all the way. Both boys were even at the last turn but Schwartz had sufficient stamina to nose out the far western entry by a stroke at the finish. His time was 2:16.6 which improved the national mark of 2:19.2 held by Shields of Brigham Young university.

Two world marks and another national collegiate record in addition to Schwartz' mark were made by the collegiate stars. George Kojac, of Rutgers, who was second high point man with two first places to his credit, lowered his former mark of 1:38.4 in the 150 yard back stroke by four-tenths of a second. The other world record to be shaded was the 440 yard free style in which Ray Ruddy of Columbia swam the distance in 4:55.6, which bettered the former mark of 4:56 held by Arnie Borge of Sweden.

Northwestern and Michigan fought the meet out on even terms until the 300 yard medley relay when the Purple team of Hinch, Petersen and Wilson won the event in 3:09.2, which lowered the former national collegiate record of 3:09.4. The Wolverines placed third, giving Northwestern the margin that carried off the championship.

N. U. Wins Four Firsts.

The Wildcats won four first places, two thirds and one fourth place while the Wolverines were collecting one first, two second places, three third places and two fourth places.

M. Throndson of Stanford took first in the fancy diving with Wentworth Lobdell of Rockford, Ill., representing the University of Iowa, taking second.

Ray Ruddy of Columbia and Austin Clapp of Stanford staged one of the greatest races of the evening in the 440 yard swim when both splashed over the last lap, matching stroke for stroke. The eastern boy, however, had a bit too much reserve and finished inches ahead of the Cardinal swimmer. Ruddy was clocked in the world record time of 4:55.6. The former record of 4:56 was held by Arnie Borg of Sweden.

Kojac Breaks Borg's Mark.

In the 150 yard backstroke George Kojac, Rutgers husky all-around swimmer, had things all his own way, winning the event in 1:38 which clipped four tenths of a second off his former world mark.

Lowell Marsh of Minnesota sprang a surprise in this event when he beat Hinch of Northwestern who had gained a previous decision over the latter in the Big Ten meet.

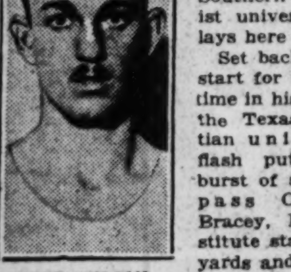
Central States Athletes Top Dallas Meet

Dallas, Tex., March 29.—(AP)—A yard handicap at the starting blocks failed to stop the string of sprinting victories of Cy Leland, flying Texan, in the Southern Methodist university relays here today.



BERT NELSON.

Set back at the start for the first time in his career, the Texas Christian university flash put on a burst of speed to pass Claude Bracey, Rice institute star, at 75 yards and to lead him to the tape a good five feet. He ran the 100 yards in 9.6 seconds, two-tenths of a second more than the meet record set last year by Bracey. Where Bracey had a driving wind at his back a year ago, Leland was fighting a stiff cross.

With today's decisive victory, Leland's series of triumphs over Bracey became almost monotonous. He has defeated the Olympic star four times in the last two weeks, thrice in the century and once in the 220 yard dash.

Central States Lead.

Track stars of the central states grabbed practically all honors in today's track carnival. Marion Hammon, Southern Methodist university husky, gave the southwest its only other victory, in the javelin with a toss of 197 feet 6 inches.

Illinois, big winner in the Texas university relays at Austin yesterday, took firsts in the low hurdles and half mile relay; Butler placed winners in the four mile relay and high jump: Kansas university walked off with the discus and sprint relay, and Northwestern captured the mile relay and pole vault.

Ideal weather conditions and a lightning fast track contributed to the making of seven new meet records. Butler university's remarkable team turned in one of the most spectacular performances of the day in the four mile event. Its time of 18:20.1 was 14 seconds faster than the former mark. Joe Sivak, running the final mile for Butler, was clocked in 4 minutes 26 seconds.

Three Individual Stars.

Lee Sentman, Illinois' great hurdler, Tom Warne of Northwestern, and Bert Nelson of Butler were the individual record smashers. Sentman, who recently set three world indoor marks, topped the low timbers in :23.4, bettering his own mark of :25.5. Nelson soared 6 feet 4 inches in the high jump, beating the former meet mark by two and one half inches. Warne vaulted 13 feet 4⅛ inches, outdoing his own record by half an inch. Henry Canby of Iowa tied him at that height, but Warne called the toss of a coin. Only two competed in the pole vault.

Missouri's relay team set a new meet mark of 3:21.7 for the mile. The former record was 3:24.5. Northwestern clipped three seconds off the two mile relay with a time of 8:02.5. Illinois set a new mark, 1:28.4, in the half mile, and Marquette put up a new figure of 10:34 5 in the university medley. Every relay record except that for the 440 yard event was bettered.

Kentucky Bowler Rolls 774; Sets New A. B. C. Mark

Cleveland, O., March 29.—[Special.]—Larry Shotwell of Covington, Ky., set a new American Bowling congress record today by rolling games of 237, 270, and 267 for a total of 774 in the 30th annual tournament now being played at the Auditorium annex. His score added 25 points to the previous high mark established by Harry Smyers of Pittsburgh at Chicago in 1924.

The 25 year old Kentucky bowler attracted little attention when he rolled 237 in his first game, but the fans jammed around his alley when he followed up with 270.

Shotwell opened the final game with a strike. On the next attempt he left three pins standing and the gallery thought he had begun to crack. He proved he wasn't through, however, by scoring strikes in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth frames.

As he stepped up in the ninth the crowd roared encouragement, for a strike at this point meant the record. Shotwell took plenty of time, then fired. Every pin fell.

He carried on in the tenth frame, scoring strikes on his first two shots. The third left one pin standing.

Shotwell had 29 strikes, 4 spares, one error, and one split in the three games.

AUSTIN M'CARTY, FORMER MAROON GRID STAR, WEDS

Austin [Five Yards] McCarty, famous University of Chicago half back, yesterday married Miss Doris Shafer of Charleston, Ill. The pair left on a trip to an undivulged destination.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jugh J. Spencer, rector, in St. Margaret's Episcopal church. Announcement of the marriage was made by Charles H. McCarty, father of the bridegroom. McCarty earned his nickname by his performances with the Maroon team in 1923, 1924, and 1925. Mrs. McCarty formerly taught in an Evanston private school.

GIANTS DEFEAT SOX, 4 TO 3, AS WALSH TOTTERS

Hose Lose 3-0 Lead in Eighth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., March 29.—Young Ed Walsh this afternoon was unable to complete a swell job of whitewash started by Tommy Thomas and a prospective 3 to 0 victory for the White Sox over the New York Giants was precipitately turned into a 3 to 3 tie in the eighth inning and a 4 to 3 New York victory in the ninth inning.

So most of the joy salvaged from the afternoon's doings was derived from the performance of Mr. Thomas in his first start of the spring. He pitched five innings and allowed only four hits. Whenever the Giants showed any signs of offensive activity, Tommy simply would bear down and the men of McGraw became quite helpless. And as for Walsh—he seemed even more effective until he had two out in the eighth.

The Trouble Begins.

Little Moose started the eighth by striking out Ott for the second time. He and Catcher Berg thought he also fanned Jackson, but Umpire Johnson said "No," and the upshot was a walk for Capt. Travis. Marshall then flied to Reynolds, but Hogan singled to center and Jackson stopped at second.

Reese batted for Judd, the third New York pitcher, and doubled off the center field wall, scoring Jackson and Hogan. Fullis then doubled to right center, scoring Reese with the tying run, after which Farrell flied to Reynolds.

The Sox seemed in a fair way to win the ball game anyhow in the ninth, but a double play dashed their hopes to earth. Smith opened with a single and Cissell bunted. Smith was safe at second and Cissell at first when Parmelee juggled the ball. Reynolds attempted to sacrifice, but forced Smith at third, Terry to Farrell, then Jolley hit into a double play, Jackson to Marshall to Terry.

Winning Run Scored.

The Giants, having thus escaped, made short work of the rest of the performance. Leach singled and went to third on Terry's single, after which Ott was given an intentional pass to fill the bases. But the strategy failed and the game ended when Jackson sent a sacrifice fly to Watwood.

Terry, considered by many to be the best first baseman in the world, did nothing to destroy his prestige this afternoon. He made four assists, all of them in heartbreaking spots from the Chicago point of view, and also made 13 putouts.

His record was made more unusual by the fact that he made one more assist than the two Chicago first basemen—Clancy and Shires—made putouts. Which is no reflection on the Chicago talent, but rather an indication of the manner in which the Chicago pitchers had the Giant batsmen popping up, save in the aforementioned fateful stages of collapse. Clancy had three putouts in five innings and Shires had none in four innings.

Other unusual features of the game were the fact there were eight sacrifice hits, six by the Sox, and also the first man up for Chicago in every inning reached first.

Sox Score in Third.

The Sox started out the day's business with a rush, but were halted before they could get over a run.

In the third inning, however, the Sox got over a run. Smith doubled, held second while Farrell was throwing out Cissell, went to third while Reynolds was beating out a hit to short, and scored on Jolley's sacrifice fly to Leach. Genewich threw out Watwood.

Two runs came across in the fifth. Thomas walked and went to second on Cissell's single to center. Reynolds forced Thomas at the plate, and Jolley walked, forcing in Smith. Cissell scored on Watwood's sacrifice fly. Kamm forced Jolley.

The Sox started off the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth with singles, and two of them got as far as third before perishing.

Today's downfall narrowed the spring series count to five wins for the Sox and four for the Giants. Ted Lyons may go all the way tomorrow at Dallas.

SOX BID WITH PAIR OF ACES

CHICAGO SOX

Donie Bush, who is attempting to make the White Sox a formidable outfit, believes these pals, Ted Lyons, left, and Alphonse Thomas, will have their best season this year. The new pilot is confident the club will provide more hitting for these mound aces, the lack of which deprived them of victories in years past.

St. Patrick Wins K. of C. Cage Title

BULLETIN.

St. Patrick defeated Aquinas, 18 to 17, for the championship of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league last night at the Stadium. Varnes scored the winning basket ten seconds before the final gun.

After trailing from the opening whistle until a minute before the close Loyola-Hyde Park spurted to nose out De La Salle, 26 to 25, for third place. A long shot by Zimney, two free throws by Colosimo and another ringer by Williams counted six points in rapid fire order to turn the score around at the windup. Lineup:

Minnesota Half Back to Coach at Kalamazoo

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 29.—[U. P.]—Harold Barnhart, for three years one of the University of Minnesota's back field aces, has been named back field coach at Western State Teachers' college here, Mitchell Gary, head football coach, announced today.

In the Wake of the News

SPORTSMANSHIP.

FRIEND DON: Well, Don, I'm an old man as the world now estimates years. I feel at home among any group of boys or young people because I'm interested in athletics and they're interested in athletics. We have a common ground. But when a comparatively "young fellow" like Walter Eckersall passes it sort of sobers a chap and causes self-appraisal of whether we are accomplishing enough to justify our existence with the Supreme Being.

You saw the large church filled with mourners from all walks of life come to pay their last respects. That many people would not have been there if "Eckie" simply had been the greatest football player of 25 years ago. Many would have forgotten. It was also because he had accomplished something since.

Eckersall's greatest accomplishment, perhaps, was his teaching and preaching of sportsmanship, which, carried into fields other than athletics, is just another name for giving the other fellow a square deal. So, Don, isn't that just what you and I want to do, too?

Who will say that Stagg and Yost and George Huff, in teaching and preaching sportsmanship and fair play to young people going out into life, are not accomplishing as much as these great business figures who amass millions to leave to charitable purposes after they are dead?

Now, I'm not saying that you and I are doing as much as these others, but to whom must they look for newspaper support of their ideals? Isn't it to fellows like us?

The reason I am writing you about this, Don, is not to sound our own horns because we're serious in our work. But you're a young man holding a position I held for many years before the office lightened my work a bit. And every time I can put it across to a fellow in our work or to chaps working with young people that they are engaged in a serious occupation and probably doing as much or more for the world than our biggest business men in other fields, then I am accomplishing something. As a stimulus to doing something we've got to think we CAN do something.

So I don't want to get sentimental, or what we newspaper fellows call "slushy," but if as many people come to our biers and say as many nice things of our sportsmanship and mourn our loss, won't you think it was all worth while? So will I.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Another Appreciation.

Phil G. Bartelme, now an official of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was athletic director at Michigan from 1909 to 1921, writes:

"For five continuous years Michigan was unable to secure appointment of a western man as official in our annual football game with Pennsylvania. With decided misgiving Penn finally consented to appointment of a western man for the 1911 game to be played in Philadelphia. Michigan named Eckersall as its choice.

"Headlines in Philadelphia and other eastern papers and a considerable part of their stories on that game were devoted to what they termed the sensational work of Referee Eckersall, who, most of them declared, was the greatest football official who ever had officiated in the east. From that time, as long as Michigan played Penn annually, Eckie was referee of those games."

Penn Boxing Captain Dies of Hurts Received in Ring

CORSAIRS TAME UNTIL MALONE LEAVES GAME

Bruins Docile from 7th to 14 Innings.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—The Cubs' third spring effort to whip their old foes, the Pirates, today was no more successful than the previous two. The only difference was that the league champs, instead of folding up in regulation time, carried the struggle into the fourteenth round before letting Pittsburgh capture the run that meant victory. The final figure was 5 to 4, and 12,000 went home satisfied that they had seen a game that bore un unmistakable big league complexion.

Everything went well with the Cubs' cause as long as Pat Malone was in charge of their throwing. Pat was wild at the start, and a run resulted, but he promptly got his bearings and sailed through to the end of the seventh with no more runs and a total of only five hits against his day's record. He had the same speed that made him a terror last season.

Stephenson Day's Best Hitter.

During Malone's regimé the league champions accomplished just enough with their bats to keep themselves in a profitable position. They turned loose a salvo on Ray Kremer that scored a pair of runs in the third, and increased their advantage when Stephenson, one of the afternoon's prominent hitters, peeled off a homer when Steve Swetonic started to hurl in the sixth. It was the last run the Cubs could capture.

The cause of the loss of the lead the Bruins had built up so carefully was Catcher Bool, a fellow who has been drifting from one league to another since the game was invented. Bool exploded a homer with two on while Bud Teachout was endeavoring to southpaw in the eighth. He gave the Pirates a 4 to 3 lead. Then Buccaneer errors gave back the run needed for a tie in the ninth, and from then until the finish it was a brilliant airtight argument with Malcolm Moss carrying the Cubs' mound burden.

Clark had the honor of starting and completing the run that decided the fight in the fourteenth. He opened the inning with a two bagger to right center. Suhr grounded to Grimm, and the Cub captain made a desperate attempt to catch Clark going to third, but the peg drew Blair off the bag. Then Comorosky slapped a long fly to Wilson, and Clark sprinted home after the catch.

Malone Wild at Start.

Malone was so wild in the first inning that it looked as if he might be all afternoon locating the plate. He started by handing a pass to Brickell and was equally liberal with Grantham. P. Waner cracked a hard one to Beck, whose toss to Hornsby forced Grantham at second. The Rajah tried to pivot to make a double play, but his sore heel stopped him. Then Clark walked, filling the sacks. A pass to Suhr forced Brickell home. Malone set down the next two batters.

Malone put himself back in the pickle jar in the second, but got out undamaged. Brickell and Grantham singled with two out, but P. Waner did the Cubs a favor by flying to Stephenson, who had to back against the left wall. The champs also exploded a couple of hits without declaring a dividend in their half of the second. Stevie nearly cut Grantham in half with a single after Cuyler had fanned. Blair popped out, but Zack Taylor lined safely to center. The two runners expired when Malone bounced to Kremer.

Excitement in Pirate Third.

There were no runs but a quantity of excitement in the Pirate third. With one out, Malone walked Suhr and Comorosky scratched a single between Blair and Beck. Bartell flied to right, and Cuyler, while running at top speed toward the foul line, made the catch. He took several more steps and then the ball fell. The two runners started to go and Cuyler, after recovering, tossed to Grimm, who touched first. After considerable argument the two National league arbiters, Reardon and McGrew, decided Cuyler had held the ball momentarily, so the double play was allowed.

Two runs which put the Cubs in front by 2 to 1 in the second half of the third grew from three hits and a pass. Beck opened the assault on Kremer by looping a single to right. Grimm forced him. Hornsby walked. Hack Wilson whistled a single to right center, and Grimm scooted home. Cuyler also singled to shove Hornsby across the plate. That completed the rally, because Stephenson fouled to the catcher and Blair hoisted a fly to Brickell in center.

Homer Greets Swetonic.

For the remainder of his two round workout Kremer induced the Cubs to keep quiet, but as soon as Swetonic appeared in the sixth something happened. Stephenson landed on the first pitch, and it came down into the hands of a shirtless two bit gentleman in the right field bleachers.

The fifth and last hit off Malone was a solid smash that caused a flurry of trouble in the seventh. After two were gone Brickell lined to right for two bases and took an extra sack when Cuyler fumbled. Malone refused to trust himself to the long range hitting ability of Grantham, so issued free passage. This brought up additional annoyance in the person of P. Waner, but he succumbed on a fly to Stevie.

Before letting the Cubs' 3 to 1 lead get away in the eighth Teachout retired both Clark and Suhr on grounders to Hornsby. The next happening was a double to the left field corner by Comorsky. Bartell walked, which probably was more intentional than accidental. Then in stepped Bool with his homer over the barrier in left, giving Pittsburgh a 4 to 3 advantage.

The Cub run in the ninth which brought on a 4 to 4 tie and extra innings began to take form when Swetonic gave Grimm a pass with one out. On a wild pitch that rolled a few yards behind the plate Grimm made a dash for second. Bool heaved the ball there, but Bartell kicked it so far that Grimm continued to third. Grantham recovered the ball and shot it to the far corner, but his aim was bad and Grimm continued to the plate with what proved the last Cub run. Then Hornsby walked and Wilson singled, but Cuyler grounded into a double play.

Blair Perils Bell's Job in Cubs' Infield

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—A battle may yet develop for a regular position on McCarthy's possible 1930 champion Cubs. When the present National league titleholders went into camp last month, every post had its occupant and training was conducted on that basis. In the last few days this arrangement has been slightly upset. Clarence Blair is the reason.

When Lester Bell's throwing arm reached the stage where he couldn't give it one more swing without danger of having it rip loose from the shoulder, Blair was summoned from the bench to handle the third sack job until such time as Bell might feel physically able to resume his work. Blair has shown so much that Bell probably will display a speedier recovery than he would if his employment as a regular wasn't endangered.

Called Natural Hitter.

Since Blair came to the Cubs as an infielder from the Little Rock club a year ago this spring the data on him always has read that he was a natural hitter and a better than fair fielder. There were times last season when it looked as if the tabulated information on his ability was slightly in error, but McCarthy attributed this to the youngster's over anxiety. He hadn't had much experience before the Cubs caught up with him, and when he was tossed into a big league rôle, it was natural for him to feel as if he was over his head.

It was Blair's tendency to display excitement that induced the bringing on of Tolson for first sack duties last fall when Capt. Grimm broke a wrist in a game at the Polo grounds. Blair took over the job, but inside of a few days McCarthy saw that his rookie was so greatly disturbed mentally that he was uncertain as a first sacker. Hence there was a lot of phoning and telegraphing and Tolson was rushed to Chicago from out here. As it worked out, the Cubs might have done better on the field and certainly better in the way of cash if Blair had been permitted to continue in Grimm's place.

Blair got into the show as a regular just a day before the series with the Pirates started here. Since then he has covered himself with what is known as glory. In all of the three games he has played, he has turned in fielding plays that even our recognized third sacker might have missed. For instance, he captured two bounders backhanded close to the bag, and Willie Kamm is the only other who ever could do this consistently. He also handled a few of those bothersome slow rollers in flawless fashion.

As a hitter, Blair can almost convince you by his form at the plate. He swings from the port side and does it in the fashion that indicates accurate and not blind weaving. His batting figure last season was about .306 so he must have something in this line of endeavor. In the games this spring he has hit as good as anybody now gracing the roster. He also is fast on the bases and anybody well acquainted with the Cubs knows that a little more speed from sack to sack wouldn't hurt. Blair is a speedy fellow despite enormous contact with the ground, which accounts for his nickname of "Foots."

If Blair should find himself and develop rapidly enough to force Bell off third base, it would be just another point in favor of the argument that you can't beat fate. For years the Cubs kept on the trail of a third sacker. They were brought in and discarded so rapidly that an expert statistician was needed to keep the records correct. Then the ten year hunt ended last winter when Bell was purchased from the Braves for a reported $35,000. Now Blair may prove that there was no need for the Bell purchase. But just so long as a good third sacker is performing for the Cubs this summer nobody will voice an objection.

Root Nominated to Hurl Against Pittsburgh Today

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—[Special.]—The Cubs and Pirates will bring their four game series to a close tomorrow. Charlie Root will be given a chance to show how near ready he is for the season's opener at St. Louis, April 15. The Pirates pitching will be assigned to Brame and Stoner.

A tentative schedule already has been drawn for a three cornered series between the Cubs, Pirates and Yankees here and in Frisco next spring. All that now remains to clinch the arrangement is to sell Col. Ruppert, the Yank owner, on the idea. The tour should draw well, so Ruppert may be interested.

During today's game Catcher Taylor took a step backward and brought his spikes down on Umpire Beans Reardon's left toes. When Reardon rubbed the injured pedal, the crowd showed its sympathy in the form of a large laugh.

Hornsby's bum right heel was more bothersome than usual today. He did all his walking tip toed. It's about time the effects of the last winter's operation wore off, but the Rajah still refuses to worry about the possibilities of the handicap continuing indefinitely.

Capt. Grimm committed a grievous error in the first inning. He singled off Kremer with one out and then permitted himself to be picked off the sack. On the next pitch Hornsby drew a pass, so it is possible that Grimm's nap may have cost a run or two.

Tom Lieb, former line coach at Notre Dame, who recently took over the grid duties at Loyola of Los Angeles, dropped into the press coop during the game to have a few words with the Chicago war correspondents.

Lyons Likely to Have Best Year with Sox

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex. March 29. — Among the several things that are bringing cheer to the hearts of Manager Donie Bush and other persons interested in the prospects of the Chicago White Sox is the manner in which Ted Lyons has rounded into shape.

One of the predictions on the season of 1930 that is voiced with few qualifications is that Ted is to have one of his best years. He looks better than he ever did in the spring and says his health is better than it has been as long as he can remember.

Ted was one of the first pitchers to get in shape and has pitched more innings against the Giants than any one on the staff. He has appeared in 13 innings against the McGraw chattels, and the National leaguers have been able to score only one run off his stuff. In these 13 innings, he has allowed but 11 hits. The one run was made on a base on balls, a sacrifice and a single. No two of the eleven hits in thirteen innings have been made in the same inning.

Last Year His Worst.

Ted's prospects at this time are especially encouraging, for last year was his worst. Principally because of ill health, Ted lost 20 ball games last year, six more than he won. He was lower than .500 for the first time in his professional career.

Lyon's best year was 1925 when he won 21 and lost 11 with a team buried far in the second division. In 1926 he won 18 and lost 16, but acquired great distinction for pitching a no hit game, the last major league performance of the kind prior to Carl Hubbell's accomplishment for the New York Giants last summer.

In 1927, Ted, along with his buddy, Tommy Thomas, started off at a dizzy pace. Both he and Thomas had a showing of 12 victories and 2 losses before the club, in Cracker Schalk's first season as manager, started to crack. Ted won 10 more games the rest of the way, but he lost 12 during the same span for a 22 won, 14 lost tabulation. In 1928 his health started haywire and he stayed above the .500 line by a margin of one game, winning 15 to 14.

Hurls 104 Big League Victories.

Despite his bad year last season, Lyons has a seven year major league record of 104 victories to 87 defeats. Any pitcher could sign a seven year contract with any major league manager if he were able to guarantee any such ratio.

Despite his seven years in the big show, Lyons is still a young athlete. He won't be thirty until next Dec. 28.

With Lyons and Thomas giving promise of topping their best previous records, Manager Bush refuses to express any pessimism about his pitching problems.

"These boys have lost dozens of games they could have won with so little as a single base hit," says Donie, as he quoted from the clubs confidential statistics. "It is my job to see they get those base hits which were missing in past years. If about three of my players produce the way I think they will, Ted and Tommy would'nt surprise me if they won 50 games between them."

And 50 games, gentlemen, is but nine less than all the White Sox pitchers won last season.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Would a winner take all rule improve boxing?

The Answers.

Harry Labowitch, 3011 Ainslie street, accountant—It would help boxing, but how could the promising fighter—one just coming up—afford to pursue a fistic career? However, such a ruling probably would make for better bouts.

Robert Luxem, 1120 Lake Shore drive, banker—I believe it would. When fighters are guaranteed money it is possible for one to be satisfied with the money which he acquires by merely entering the contest. If the winner took all it would naturally put more spirit into the contest.

D. G. Avallone, manager Gibons & Gibons, 823 South Ashland avenue—This plan surely would guarantee action, for what boxer is not going to give his best when his living hinges on the result of a fight? In this way an inferior boxer never would meet a man too good for him. It would mean better matches as well as more action.

Charles P. Raley, 826 South Wabash avenue, solicitor—That sounds like a good suggestion, but the boxers are not likely to take kindly to the proposal. The fighters might get into cahoots in the back room and fix things to suit themselves. They are not in the habit of fighting for nothing, and they are not likely to take punishment for nothing.

J. G. Lannoye, 2508 West 63d street, real estate—On the winner take all basis a man would be more apt to do his best to win. I believe it would make boxing a cleaner sport in every way. It would prevent "diving," for one thing.

You recognize at once all the subtle touches of smart Chrysler designing.

You can't miss the solid substance of Chrysler quality and the precision of Chrysler craftsmanship.

Here at amazingly low price are the great advantages of Chrysler engineering—such advantages as weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes; a 62-horsepower high-compression engine mounted on rubber; Iso-Therm pistons; low-swung perfectly-balanced chassis; special-type spring shackles and shock absorbers; small base wheels with large balloon tires; and typically Chrysler-styled bodies of new design and construction.

Such a car at such a price is hardly believable, yet here it is. We repeat: There is no reason—now—why anybody should be denied the thrill and pride of owning a Chrysler.

GIVE ALCIBIADES, FILLY, CHANCE IN KENTUCKY DERBY

Regret Last of Sex to Win $50,000 Race.

Louisville, Ky., March 29.—[Special.]—"A filly cannot win the Derby," was an assertion often heard during the first forty years of Kentucky's big race. And then in 1915 Regret, a daughter of Broomstick, galloped home ahead of her field. Another fifteen years has passed and Regret's performance has not been repeated. But there are many sages of the turf who believe that 1930 will tell a different story.

Those who think a filly may win the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby this year pin their faith to the standard of Alcibiades, the fleet racing dame of the Bluegrass. Alcibiades wintered well at Hal Price Headley's farm in Fayette county. She is now quartered at the Lexington track and already has stepped five-eighths of a mile in 1:03. She has grown and filled out and looks all over a great race mare.

Won First Four Stars.

At her best last season Alcibiades showed her heels to everything she faced. She won her first four starts, including the Debutante stakes at Churchill Downs and the Clipsetta stakes at Latonia. She was defeated in her last three efforts. In one of these, the Breeder's Futurity at Lexington, Alcibiades was knocked to her knees after the break and did not have a chance. In the Kentucky Jockey club stakes at Churchill Downs, facing a crack band of colts, she took the track at the rise of the barrier and held the lead until the last jump, when Desert Light forged to the front.

In her final race in the Selima stakes at Laurel she was off slowly and did not show even a flash of her real form. Notwithstanding her clever race in the Kentucky Jockey club stakes, Alcibiades was not the filly in the fall she had been in the spring. She was pounds lighter and looked drawn. With a winter's rest she has come back to training with the same grand appearance that marked her debut last spring, and if she goes well in her preparation she will demand the respect of any colt in the country.

Other Fillies Have Chance.

Besides the Headley filly there are others of her sex in the Derby who are worthy of consideration. This applies especially to Stone and Rucker's Lucile and William Woodward's Flying Gal. Lucile won the Hinata stakes at Lexington and the Debutante stakes at Washington Park as well as a number of purse events. Flying Gal accounted for the Babylon handicap and the Schuylersville stakes, among other victories.

Other fillies named for the Derby are Bartelstein & Unna's Heretiz, A. B. Hancock's Sunstroke, Herbert P. Gardner's Henriette Hardies, C. C. and G. Y. Hieatt's Star Class, Ral Parr's Her Grace, and Harry Payne Whitney's Niato.

The arrival of Victorian, winner of the Agua Caliente handicap, at Churchill Downs has made him the favorite for the $10,000 added Clark handicap, which will be run on the opening day of the Churchill Downs spring meeting, Saturday, May 10. With Victorian at the top of his form, it will take a mighty horse to beat him, but he will find opposition worthy of his mettle when he faces Toro, Misstep, Jock, Clyde Van Dusen, and others of this caliber.

SEASON ENDS IN FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—The bugler called out the thoroughbreds for their last speed test of the winter season at St. John's park here this afternoon. Queen Towton, carrying the silks of A. G. Dunlap, won the final day's feature and equaled the track record when she ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:08 to beat Purple Robe and Jack Howe handily. The meeting here was highly successful, under the certificate form of speculation. The attendance today was the largest of the season.

MOTHER AND SON OUT FOR AIRING

Future Champions of Turf Begin Life of Leisure

BY FRENCH LANE.

The turf champions of 1932 and 1933 are arriving these days at widely scattered thoroughbred nurseries. The Futurity winner of 1932 is somewhere in the lot, and the 3 year old champion of 1933 is being closely watched over by his or her mother in a paddock somewhere in Kentucky, Virginia, Illinois, New York, California, or wherever breeding farms are maintained.

Winning or losing a famous turf fixture is an exciting period in the life of any thoroughbred. But there is no more interesting part of the breeding and racing of horses than the life the young bloods lead as they gradually reach the age where they are taught their first racing lessons.

Assisted to His Feet.

About an hour after Mr. Futurity Winner of 1932 (or the Kentucky Derby, or Arlington Classic victor of 1933) blinks his eyes for the first time in a breeding farm nursery stall he discovers that to get on those precious feet and legs which are later to carry him to fame he must have assistance. The mother would like to do it, but lifting a son or daughter to its feet is not within her power. The strong hands of a stable attendant lift Mr. Futurity Winner of 1932 to his feet, and for a year the young thoroughbred does about as he pleases.

Foaling time at the thoroughbred nurseries begins early in January. It reaches a peak about Feb. 15 and continues until about May 10. And it isn't long after the young foal finds himself standing on those long and often crooked legs until he is out in the open paddock exercising them.

A foal arriving early in the morning is often permitted to go into the open paddock accompanied by its mother on the same afternoon. He spends an hour or so in this first walk, and by the time he is four days old, providing the weather is warm, he puts in practically the entire day in the open paddock. Before he is a week old he learns to gallop. The mother gives him this lesson by stepping away in fast stride while the colt tries to keep pace with her.

Ready for First Halter.

At the end of two weeks Mr. Futurity Winner of 1932 will poke his head into a leather contraption which is entirely strange to him. It his first halter, and he wears this headpiece, or one similar, until he is introduced to a bridle; but that doesn't come until a year later.

When he is six weeks old the thoroughbred gets his first meal not otherwise provided by the mother. He is served a helping of mashed oats, and by the time midsummer arrives his portion of oats, hay, carrots and mash is almost as large as that served his mother. He is permitted to run at the side of his mother until Oct. 1, which is weaning time.

Then will come the saddest days in Mr. 1932 Futurity Winner's life. He is herded into a paddock with others of his age. His mother is led away to a distant paddock or pasture and her youngest son passes out of her life. For three days the colt will make many calls for his mother. He may refuse to eat for the first couple of days. But at the end of a week he has forgotten her. If he hasn't he shows no signs of it.

First Lessons as Yearling.

Comes his first winter. In almost all weather he romps uphill and downhill and across wide pastures and paddocks. He has become what the turfmen call a "good doer." He will eat all the food served him and he grows and thrives on it. This life continues until toward midsummer, when he is a yearling. His first racing lessons follow.

He objects when the first saddle is placed on his back. He rebels when a lad crawls into the saddle and urges him to walk, gallop, and run. But soon this is a part of his daily routine, and by the time the yearling sales are held in August he is thoroughly broken and may have been tried at high speed over a short distance. His more severe speed tests come later in the fall. He is asked to beat others of his own age in these tests.

The shrewd horseman is often able to tell whether the colt is to be great, mediocre, or no good at all, in the early tests. Champion thoroughbreds show their "heart" almost the first time they are asked to run against one another. Those who show the speed and the courage go on to become race horses any time after they are two years old.

Closely Watched Over.

The health of the highly valuable and fragile young animals is closely guarded. But it is their feet which command most attention during their suckling, weanling, and yearling days of leisure.

Without sound feet a race horse cannot reach greatness. By the time he is a month old an attendant is taking a daily look at the colt's feet. By the time Mr. Futurity Winner of 1932 is 3 months old, a skilled blacksmith will be making a daily inspection of them. Defects are remedied. If the blacksmith cannot do it, the veterinarian is called. The colt doesn't wear his first shoes until he goes into training, but until his racing days end his feet continue to be the all important part of the royally bred, nervous, temperamental, fleet running Mr. Futurity Winner of 1932.

He may look grand under silks when he captures the Futurity. But he's also a handsome little fellow today as he scampers about his paddock, his neck arched, his legs moving in machinelike stride and with that look which only a thoroughbred can possess sparkling in his eyes.

NOVICES TO GET CHANCE IN RING SHOW THURSDAY

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29—[Special]—Twenty-two rounds of mitt slinging by novices will precede the ten-round windup between King Levinsky of Chicago and Dave Maier of Milwaukee at the Antlers club show in the Auditorium next Thursday night, Billy Mitchell, matchmaker, announced tonight.

Mitz Minikel, Milwaukee, light heavyweight, who has been absent from the ring since Maier disposed of him by a knockout last summer, makes his return in a six-round preliminary with George Rohrick, of Rockford.

Roy Peters, Chicago Indian, has been signed to box Franklin Cheek of Milwaukee, who has won eight of his last eleven bouts with knockouts in the first round. The third six-round bout will be between Joe Sutter of Milwaukee anad Leonard Bennett of Los Angeles. The four-round opener has been set aside for Joe Kubiak and Frankie Burns.

BOWLERS BEGIN FORTY-FOUR DAY MEET TOMORROW

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Forty-four successive days of competitive bowling will be inaugurated at the Roloff Recreation parlor alleys Monday night at 6 o'clock when S. B. Way, president of the Electric company, rolls the first ball in the twenty-fifth annual tournament of the Milwaukee Bowling association.

Mr. Way has been accorded this distinction because 64 of the 116 teams entered represent the Employés' Mutual Benefit association of the utility company.

SOCCER TEAMS PLAY IN STATE TOURNEY TODAY

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Three Milwaukee Soccer football teams, members of the Wisconsin State Football association, will go into the semi-finals of the Wisconsin challenge cup series tomorrow, providing the weather man's prediction of sunny skies holds true.

The Deutscher Sport club team will meet the Wackers at Vienna field, Cedar Burg road, at 2:30 p. m., while the Milwaukee Viennas journey to the Nash stadium at Kenosha to engage the Racine Vikings. Finals in the series will be played on May 12 between the winners of tomorrow's games.

BREWERS TO GET ED GRIMES FROM ST. LOUIS TODAY

Fort Pierce, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—Rain interfered with the plans of Marty Berghammer today and the scheduled game between the Brewers and St. Louis Browns had to be called off.

The final game of the series will be played tomorrow at West Palm Beach with Dinty Gearin and Herb Cobb pitching. Tuesday the Brewers break camp and start north, stopping at Daytona Wednesday to play Montreal.

The club will pick up Ed Grimes, third baseman, from the Browns today. Berghammer expects Red Bennett, outfielder, to join the club at Memphis. Another pitcher will be delivered to the Brewers in the near future.

SMITH LEADS ST. MARY'S NINE.

St. Marys, Kas., March 29.—[Special.]—Tom Smith today was elected captain of St. Mary's basketball team. Smith, who is a senior, lives in Okmulgee, Okla.

COLLEGIATE MAT TITLE REMAINS IN OKLAHOMA

State College, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Combining their rugged forces in the heavy classes, the Oklahoma Aggies won the National Collegiate association wrestling championship for the third straight year tonight, clinching the title as three of their crack grapplers pulled down national titles.

After the competition for second and third had been run off the final totals gave Oklahoma Aggies first place, with a total of 27 points. Illinois finished second with 14. University of Oklahoma was third with 12. The remainder of the list was: Iowa State, 7; Michigan, 6; M. I. T., 5; Kansas State, 5; Oklahoma Teachers, 5; Cornell college, Iowa, 4; Kansas university, 4; Ohio State, 4; University of Chicago, 2; Harvard, 2; Indiana, Mechanic institute of Rochester, N. Y., Michigan State, Missouri, Northwestern, and Virginia Polytechnic, 1 each.

Big Ten Does Well.

Big Ten matmen were prominent in the final bouts, with Joe Sepora, Illinois, winning the 115 pound class, and Hugh Linn, Iowa, taking the 135 pound class from Lewis Bauerle, Illinois. Otto Kelley, Michigan, accounted for the 155 pound crown, while Lloyd Burdick, another Illini, was the unlimited class runner-up.

Three defending champions, Joe Sepora, Illinois, in the 115 pound division; Lawrence Mantooth, Oklahoma, in the 125 pound bracket; and Earl McCready, Oklahoma Aggie heavyweight, retained their crowns. Two champions of last year, Jack Van Bebber and Conrad Caldwell, both of the Oklahoma Aggies, stepped up a class apiece and won new titles in the 165 and 175 pound brackets respectively.

Only One Fall.

Iowa State, which vies with Oklahoma in the production of college wrestlers, produced one champion in Hugh Linn, conqueror of the 135 pounders, while Otto Kelley, Michigan, took the 155 pound title back to his school. Not an easterner or southerner in a field that comprised 32 schools and 99 combatants was able to win past the semi finals.

Only one final bout was won by a fall, Earl McCready pinning the shoulders of Lloyd Burdick, Illinois, in two minutes 17 seconds. Most of the matches were bitterly hard and close, two of them needing two extra periods for decision. Only Joe Sepora, the Illinois mite, won his title by default when Marvin Leach of Oklahoma university, was forced out with a sprained elbow.

ILLINI BASEBALL TEAM EAGER FOR START OF TRIP

Champaign, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—University of Illinois baseball players are waiting eagerly for April 12, the date of their opening game on their annual southern trip. Coach Lundgren has reduced his squad to 35 players, and there is warm competition for berths on the squad which will penetrate the southland.

The southern schedule will consist of the following games:

April 12, 14, 15—Mississippi A. & M. at Starkville.
April 16, 17—Alabama at Tuscaloosa.
April 18, 19—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.
April 21—Kentucky at Lexington.

Five Letter Men Available.

Coach Lundgren has a scant group of varsity letter men, only five being available from last year's nine which made a fair showing in the Big Ten race. The brightest star in the outfit is Jimmy Lymperopoulos, who is captain. The lad from Argo has played a fine game at third base for two years and last year was unquestionably the best all-around player.

Lundgren's greatest problem will be to develop pitchers as no hurlers of experience are available.

Personnel of Squad.

The members of the squad are as follows:

PITCHERS—G. A. Mills, Waukegan; J. V. Mueller, J. B. Bartulis, and E. M. Hazzard, Chicago; J. D. Friend, Cleveland, O.; H. J. Goss, Pomerania, N. J.; N. C. Labohn, Algonquin; H. L. Krueger, Oak Park, and J. F. Wiese, Brocton.

CATCHERS—W. A. Brinn, Waltham, Mass.; H. C. Troch and R. J. Topper, Chicago; R. J. Marshall, Danville, and R. E. Nusspickel, Boston, Mass.

INFIELDERS—Capt. James Lymperopouloa Argo; F. B. Bisbee, E. Bridgewater, Mass.; D. Brown, Elwood; E. E. Dbur, Chicago; E. E. Trybans, Du Quoin; E. C. Wahl, Arlington Heights; G. L. Duwe, Peotone; A. L. Seidel, M. L. Williams, Chicago, and G. S. Fencl, Cicero.

OUTFIELDERS—D. Salomone, Ottawa; P. W. Steuernagel, East St. Louis; P. W. Engvall, Kingsburg, Cal.; W. G. Fuzak, Chicago; T. C. Witte, Louisville, Ky.; M. E. Dillman, Hinsdale; J. Major, Champaign; H. L. Flagg, West Boylston, Mass.; R. L. Larson, New Haven, Conn.; T. T. Wiley, Champaign, and E. J. Kawal, Cicero.

SCOTTIES PROVE HOLD ON THRONG AT DOG SHOW

Attract Most Interest in Armory Ring.

Of all the fond glances lavished on the 2,000 dogs of various breeds, sizes, and temperaments who yesterday for the second day competed in the twenty-ninth annual dog show of the Chicago Kennel club, the Scotties doubtless had the largest share.

That end of the judging ring devoted during the afternoon to Scotties was bordered by a throng of fashionably dressed women who sang out, "The darlings!" and "The sweets!" and a scattering of men who limited their remarks to sober comments on aspects of a tail or an ear, meant to show how familiar they were with the mysteries of expert dog judging.

Judging Continues Today.

While some of the dogs frisked about jovially, quite out of keeping with their long, solemn faces and mournful eyes, others flatly refused to be nice dogs.

Instead of walking, they slid over the polished floor as their perspiring, anxious masters pulled and cajoled them. Instead of pointing their tails, they assumed a dispirited air, their tails slunk between their legs. One woman almost tearfully pulled at her Scottie's tail but he only looked grieved and sat down.

Judging will continue throughout today.

Of course the barking of the dogs made conversation rather difficult, but above the medley of sound could be heard the admiring visitors.

"Can't we have a wire haired fox terrier this year?" a man asked his companion as they gazed at the animated exhibit of terriers. "Look, isn't this one a fine fellow?"

Fancies Old Fashioned Dog.

Another patted the head of a collie. "You know," he said with an air of guilt, "I'd like to have a big, old fashioned dog, a real dog, for a change. But with the Pekingese on the place it's out of the question."

"Kinak," the only big Alaskan husky entered in the show, drew his share of interest. Three-quarters wolf, he appeared quite gentle. Unlike most of the dogs, he hasn't barked once during the two days of the show. Three "French poodles," with the lionesque trim originated by one of the Louis' of France (one dog comes from Germany, two from England), also attracted attention.

Several bulldogs, their faces powdered so heavily they resembled wrinkled white velvet, their eyebrows plucked, smiled good-naturedly at their visitors.

Easterners Win Awards.

Wealthy dog owners of the east won numerous major awards at yesterday's judging.

One of New York's society leaders, Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge, with a champion beagle, took a best of breed, as did Ernest W. Smoot, Washington, son of Senator Smoot. The English setter owned by Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, won a first of his class, but was beaten for best of the breed by one of the Smoot dogs. Mrs. Dodge, a niece of John D. Rockefeller, owns the Giralda Farms kennels.

James F. Manning, wealthy Philadelphian, with a brilliant Airedale terrier, emerged victorious over the H. M. Florsheim terriers, taking the best of the breed. A best of breed also was won by a cairn terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Dickinson of New York.

A fox terrier owned by William H. Shanks of Euclid, O., won best of the breed. A like award went to a Boston terrier owned by E. H. Morse of Flint, Mich.

Chicago area dog fanciers to take major awards include Mrs. W. Harold Cluxton, T. A. Loftus, Timothy Tooney, T. J. Kellan, the Violet Kennels, Mrs. William Jacobs and Henry T. Shannon.

DOEG AND M'KAY LOSE IN FLORIDA TENNIS TOURNEY

Miami Beach, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., and Jack McKay, Miami Beach, lost to Marcel Rainville, Montreal, and Fred Baggs, New York, in their semi-final doubles match of the South Florida tennis tournament here today, 1-6, 6-3, 9-7.

George Lott, Chicago, and Sam Hardy, New York, were extended three sets to win their semi-finals match from Carroll Turner, Miami, and S. Jarvis Adams, Montauk Point, L. I., 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Lott and Hardy will play Rainville and Baggs in the doubles finals tomorrow, following the finals in the singles division between Doeg and Lott.

JONES TO FACE STRONG FIELD IN GEORGIA GOLF

Augusta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—When Bobby Jones starts play against the field in the $5,000 first annual southeastern open golf tournament here Monday that field will include all but three of the foremost ranking professionals in the game.

Only Leo Diegel, who is in Mexico; Walter Hagen, on a tour in Australia, and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who has not entered, will be missing from the long list of money players who have just ended the Florida tournament season. Foremost among the professional contenders will be Horton Smith.

Penn State Names Higgins to Succeed Hugo Bezdek

Williamsport, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Bob Higgins, All-American end at Penn State in 1919, has been appointed head football and assistant baseball coach of his alma mater. Joe Bedenk, former All-American line man, has been named head baseball and assistant football coach. They succeed Hugo Bezdek, who has retired from active coaching.

STAGE TRAP SHOOT TODAY.

Springfield, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—The Neutral Gun club will give a registered trap shoot tomorrow. There will be ten events of fifteen targets each.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, March 29.—Golf has lost prestige in the White House since Warren G. Harding sheathed his blades for the last time, for Calvin Coolidge never has had a club in his hands and Herbert Hoover's only known athletic indulgence is hurling the medicine ball against the abdomens of his cabinet members—with the exception, I suppose, of Uncle Andy Mellon, whose abdomen is merely nominal — and letting them hurl it back at his own. This is a depraved taste in sport, to my way of thinking, and I doubt that even the presidential sanction will make it popular, if only because a medicine ball is so conspicuous.

Around the house it can't be dropped into a drawer or umbrella stand and probably requires a room of its own, which would make it expensive as well as peculiar. Trudy Ederle carried a medicine ball to France with her when she went to swim the channel, and not only was it always falling out of taxicabs in Paris, but the customs inspector at Cherbourg was very suspicious and wanted to rip the seams to look for undeclared firearms, cigarets, matches, or other dutiable or contraband goods. At last he relented, but I think he had his doubts even then, for as Trudy walked out of the customs shed he still was insisting that the ball was much too big to be thrown any distance or knocked any distance with a club, even by a mad American.

72 Score Good, Was Letter of Introduction.

The last of the golfing Presidents to date, Mr. Harding, golfed enough to do for several succeeding administrations, though. One winter he played every course on the east coast of Florida from Jacksonville to Miami, and in Washington an attested card for a 72 on any fairly respectable golf course was as good as a letter of introduction to the President and an invitation to lunch as well. He was an unhappy golfer, forever asking and trying to act upon advice. The famous pros who came through the capital in his time would show him their many contradictory grips and swings and stances, and he always was unlearning all that had been told him on very high authority the week before and trying to learn some new way.

Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen went out with him in turn, and he watched their sharp, crisp iron shots go arching to the greens with that longing which only the hopeless dub can understand, feeling in his soul, no doubt, that there were other fulfilments in life as much to be desired as the Presidency of the U. S. A. He struggled and persevered, but when, by chance, he had grooved the swing of his woods for a few holes, his short irons began to wobble or his putts would lie down and die yards from the cup, so that the sevens and eights and nines and even the ghastly tens accumulated on his card, just the same.

Seldom Able to Play Easy Courses.

He may have broken 100 once or twice on some pool table course, but he always came trudging in, sad and beaten, from his rounds on the standard layouts. And, as President, he explored few easy pastures, for the more pretentious clubs always were eager to do themselves the honor of entertaining him, and they confronted him with a maddening variety of traps, thickets, quarries, lagoons, and tall grasses.

Woodrow Wilson had been a golfer, too, in his vigorous days, but where Harding was gregarious, Wilson was a cold and unyielding loner. He sometimes golfed with the second Mrs. Wilson, who played an interesting game and seldom needed more than 98, and before their marriage he was seen occasionally stalking over the hilly grounds of the Washington Country club in Virginia with one of his daughters. But he did not golf with men, and generally he played solo, a fairly consistent 95 golfer, or sub-dub as you might say, who never entered the clubhouse or allowed himself more than a perfunctory "thank you" to the people who deferred to his office and let him go through.

Where'd He Learn Golf? And Horsemanship, Too?

His stroke was commonplace and, like so many quiet, methodical players of his age, he made no lunges for distance, but rapped his woods about 175 yards in a straight line and went on with his irons, instead of crashing along and surrounding the green with great loss of strokes, as Harding did. Nobody ever learned from him where he had learned his golf, but long experience showed in his game. Nor, for that matter, did he ever tell where he learned his horsemanship, although he surprised his secret service detail on his first ride by demanding a thoroughbred and riding like one who had followed the dogs.

They brought him a drowsy old nag that day of his first ride, not knowing whether he would need a ladder to mount or whether he could sit there, once aloft, but Wilson refused to get aboard.

"Must I ride this cow?" he asked petulantly. "Can't the remount station find a thoroughbred for the President of the United States?"

So they got him a gay brute from the army's stables, and within five minutes the men of the presidential guard saw themselves being fired in shame and dishonor as the steed went straight up and waved the President in midair like a plume. But there was no struggling, and Wilson came down when the horse did, still in the saddle, and undisturbed.

Taft's Golf No Such Obsession as Harding's.

Mr. Taft played golf, but the game was only a diversion, not an obsession nor a challenge to him as it was to Harding, and in his later years he gave it up. Theodore Roosevelt was no golfer, nor had he any interest in baseball, but, always strenuous, he played tennis and boxed and, of course, rode horses like a cavalryman.

The White House stables have not been overworked since Wilson's idea of a President jiggling on a mechanical steed on a stationary pedestal exaggerated the importance of this synthetic charger in the papers. He mounted the thing only a few times, as a kid might experiment with a new toy at Christmas, then forgot it. Now and again, he would turn on the current and stand back with his equivalent of an amused smile on his never hilarious features, then close the switch and go for his morning walk on the White House grounds.

But one day in the Black Hills of Dakota he called for a shotgun and amazed the newspaper detail by exploding 20 out of 23 clay pigeons. There was no little surprise at this score, and one of the writers told him so.

"O, yes," he said, "I could always shoot fairly well. I learned it when I was a boy. I had a muzzle loading gun and plenty of powder, but shot was too expensive. So I used to load her up with dried beans and toss tin cans up in the air and shoot them full of holes."

Ohio University Trackmen Defeat Cincinnati, 54-39

Athens, O., March 29.—[U. P.]—Ohio university defeated University of Cincinnati in a Buckeye conference indoor track meet here this afternoon, 54 to 39. The Ohioans broke five local records and equalled two in downing the Bearcats.

Neenah Wins Badger Prep Title, 28 to 5

Madison, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—The high school basketball championship of Wisconsin went to the shores of Lake Winnebago tonight, when a team of sharpshooters from Neenah routed Racine Horlick, 28 to 5.

The victory writes a successful end to the three year effort of Coach Ole Jorgensen, 26 year old Neenah coach, to annex the state title. Taking a team which had but one letterman last December, Jorgenson built up a fast running quintet which showed phenomenal accuracy at the basket. Neenah visited the state tournament in 1928 and 1929, but failed to get a look in at the championship.

Neenah piled up a 15 to 3 lead in the first half. Sowickey's free throw and W. Jorgenson's long basket gave Racine its only points.

Capt. Ehlers and Len Neubauer, guards, held Racine to one field goal.

Madison Central defeated Beloit, 18 to 16, for third place. A basket by Ferris in the final minute turning the trick.

Central thus was able to avenge itself on the team which eliminated it from the championship round the second day of the tournament. In that game Beloit was the victor, 13 to 10.

Richland Center won the consolation championship by outshooting Tomah, 28 to 18.

Gaining the topoff through the jumping of Smith, Richland Center played a rebound game. Smith or Kennedy would shoot from long range, while the other made good on the follow shot. Kennedy made five of these baskets, one long shot, and one free throw.

CHURCH CAGERS PLAY TOMORROW IN FINAL SERIES

Final series in the basketball championships of the Church A. A. of Chicago will be played off tomorrow at the Hyde Park High school gym, 62d and Stony Island avenue. At 7:10 p. m. St. James M. E. and Temple Baptist girls will play for second place. Bethany Presbyterian and Wakeford M. P. girls meet in the title game.

Albany Park Baptists and Wakeford M. P. lightweights engage in the last game of their weight, the titular honors already having been cinched by the latter team. Edgewater Presbyterians and St. James M. E. play the concluding game. It is the second round of a best two out of three games to decide the heavyweight championship. The first game was won by St. James.

Aquatic Stars Arrive; Seek A.A.U. Titles

Champion swimmers from all parts of the United States were in Chicago today to put finishing touches on their training for the National A. A. U. indoor meet starting Wednesday at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

One of the strongest delegations in the meet will hail from the far west. Mickey and Johnny Riley, diving champions; Pete Desjardins, Olympic diving champion, and Dutch Smith, runner-up to Mickey Riley in the national low and high board events last year, all hail from California. In addition there will be Austin Clapp of Stanford, Clarence [Buster] Crabbe of Honolulu and Frank Walton of the Hollywood A. C

World Marks in Danger.

At least two world records will be threatened when the swimming aces of the nation meet. Walter Laufer of Lake Shore, who holds the national 100 and 220 yard indoor free style titles, has equaled the world mark for the century in trials this week at Lake Shore and under pressure of close competition may crack the 100 yard mark.

George Kojac of Rutgers, 150 yard back stroke king, came close to a new world mark in his specialty at the collegiate meet at Yale last week and may succeed in setting a new record here.

Three Outstanding Stars.

A close battle for individual honors is sure to be waged by Laufer, Kojac, and Walter Spence, Penn A. C. splasher. Laufer is favored in the 100 and 220 free style events and Kojac will be the man they must beat in the back stroke and 300 yard individual medley. Spence is almost certain of victory in the 500 yard free style, which he won last year, and he may come through in the breast stroke number.

INTER-LEAGUE PREP STARS TO PLAY TONIGHT

The mythical honor teams representing the two Chicago prep circuits will meet at the De La Salle gym, 3457 South Wabash avenue, at 8:15 o'clock tonight. It will be the first game of its kind. Jimmy Custard, Englewood; Andy Anderson, Lane; Melino and Gold of Crane; Bray and Buckner, Wendell Phillips; Godina, Harrison, and many others will be eligible to compete against the Catholic leaguers. All excepting Bray and Buckner are out of competition in the City loop.

The parochial representatives worked out together three times last week. Their competitors functioned together last night in De La Salle gym.

PREP QUINTETS MOVE ON CITY FOR U. S. MEET

34 Teams Entered; Play Starts Tuesday.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Nearly 300 clean limbed youngsters from 34 prep schools have begun to arrive in Chicago for the twelfth and probably the last national high school basketball championship at the University of Chicago. This most colorful of all annual basketball tournaments begins Tuesday and continues until Saturday.

The unexpected entry of two state champions yesterday increased the number of teams to 34. Pairings will be made today.

Eastern Teams Late Entries.

New Brunswick, N. J., and Cambridge, Md., are the last minute entrants. Their decision to compete, along with the fact that four others are coming to Chicago on funds raised by statewide subscription, indicates that interest this year is as high as ever. Roanoke, Va.; Lankin, N. D.; Kavanaugh, Ky., and the Wyoming state champions are coming under the volunteer donation plan.

From every section of the nation except the Pacific coast the teams are chosen. Most of them are state champions and all of them have records that make them worthy competitors for the national championship. By its method of inviting teams the University of Chicago has insured the highest quality of competition.

As an example, three teams from Texas were invited to compete in this year's tournament. Athens, Tex., won the national championship last year. Three times this year the national champions defeated Denton, Tex.; yet in the state tournament Denton won from Athens and went on to the state title. In view of their records, both teams were invited. The third Texas entry is John Reagan High of Houston, runner-up for the state title.

Tourney Reduced in Size.

This year's tournament, though reduced in size from 48 to 34 teams, will bring quintets from as widely separated sections as ever and from towns and cities as varying in size. Some of the lads are sleek youngsters from bigger cities, but half a dozen teams will come from villages where the daily train is an event and one or two from hamlets that aren't even on a railroad. To most of them the week in a metropolitan city will be a new experience and something of an education.

Each year some team from an unknown village bobs up and gives trouble to teams of better known places. Two years ago it was Carr Creek, Ky., which came down from the hills to upset opponents. Last year it was Joes, Colo., which sent basketball fans scurrying to postal guides and maps.

This year two or three of the entrants are of the same class, half a dozen boys from some village which have bowled over opponents to win state or sectional championships. Brazelton, in northern Georgia, is sending a team that is champion of the Cracker state, though Brazelton's total population is only 148.

Homewood, a post hamlet in Scott county of central Mississippi, has enough people to have a state championship team, yet no gazetteer gives the population of the town.

29 Prep Relay Teams to Run at Marquette

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Although initial invitations for the eighth annual Marquette university national high school relay carnival in the Marquette stadium on Saturday, May 3, were sent out just last Monday, every mail at the Hilltop gymnasium brings an additional list of entrants for the annual prep classic.

Up until noon Saturday, Hilltop authorities had received entries from twenty-nine schools in four states and a province of Canada, including many, particularly Wisconsin, schools, which have not previously been entered. Many of the old stand-bys which are certain competitors have not yet sent in their applications.

Marquette authorities felt certain Saturday that all previous entry records will be broken. Last year more than 1,000 boys from sixty schools competed. Central Institute, Hamilton, Ont., which holds several of the carnival records, will compete again this year, and will be accompanied by another Canadian team, Delta Institute, also of Hamilton.

Four Classes Compete.

The carnival will be divided into national, open, private school, and Wisconsin Class B championships. There will be relay races in each division, and special events such as dashes, hurdles, high jump, pole vault, and javelin for individual stars. One of the features will be a special race between two nationally known individual athletes or teams.

Winners of each relay will receive a trophy provided by Milwaukee civic, professional, and business groups. Winning teams will receive medals. In addition, the team scoring the most points in each division will receive a large trophy. John L. Barchard, Milwaukee manufacturer and sportsman, will award the cup for the champion of the national competitions.

Out of State Teams Enter.

Out of state schools which have entered include: Hyde Park and Fenger, Chicago, Ill.; Thief River Falls, Minn.; Frobel and Emerson, Gary, Ind.; Libertyville, Ill.; Waukegan, Ill.; Rockford, Ill.; New Trier High, Winnetka, Ill.; York Community High, Elmhurst, Ill.; and Central and Delta institutes, Hamilton, Ont., Can.

State entries, exclusive of Milwaukee, are: West Bend, Livingston, Port Washington, Ripon, Cedarburg, St. Bonaventure of Sturtevant, Oconomowoc, and Hartford.

The local entrants thus far include: West Milwaukee, Custer of North Milwaukee, East Division, West Division, South Division, St. John's Cathedral, Boys' Tech, and North Division.

Change in Shift Rule Fails to Worry Notre Dame Coach

Notre Dame, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—"The new shift rule will not affect the Notre Dame style of play, but this weather is certainly not helping our prospects for next fall." That was the reply of Assistant Coach Heartley Anderson today when asked whether the lengthening of the time on shift plays by the football rules committee was aimed at Notre Dame.

Anderson explained that the former rule, which was made largely to hamper the Notre Dame shift now used by meany teams through the country, did not slow up the fast Notre Dame attack. The rule, in effect, said teams should pause "approximately a second" before snapping the ball after a shift and the new code says that the time must be "at least a second." The count by the referee has been changed from four to six, but Anderson pointed out that Notre Dame teams have been waiting slightly more than a second before breaking.

Gridders Hope for Thaw.

The freak blizzard came during mid-semester examinations, but with exams behind them, the 250-odd candidates are hoping for a quick thaw and a dry field to work on next week. The track team, which was working outside last week with light drills, was forced inside pending more favorable conditions. The outdoor season does not open for three weeks, but Coach Nicholson is anxious to get his men into the open as soon as possible to get them ready for the Kansas relays, April 19.

The weather has, in fact, put a crimp into every form of athletics here with the exception of handball and boxing. The baseball team, practicing in the gym under Coach George Keogan, is bemoaning the fact that it will take at least a week for the infield to dry up and that there is no telling when the outfield will be in shape for regular outside drills.

Nine Virtually Picked.

Keogan virtually has about decided on his first string lineup, as follows: Capt. Joe Lordi, catcher; Bill Sullivan, first base; Haskell Askew, second base; Joe Palermo, short stop; Dinny O'Keefe, third base; Lefty Moran, left field; Harry Francis, center field; and Ed Feehery, right field. John Lisicki, Jim Dilling, Frank Leahy, and Louis Del Prete look like they will draw the varsity pitching assignments.

Golfers and racket wielders also are biding their time indoors, but the announcement that the student activities council will promote another boxing tournament has spurred campus pugilists, and a large number are training for eliminations bouts. Finals of the show will be held April 11, and the winners will be considered official school champions of their respective divisions.

Rockne Leaves Apr. 10

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Knute Rockne plans to leave here April 10 on his return trip to South Bend. Announcement of his decision was made by the coach who laughed at a report that he planned to retire from coaching for a year.

"I've reservations made already," he said. "I planned to go a bit earlier, but when we heard there was a foot and a half of snow in South Bend, I knew there wasn't much chance for practice."

The Notre Dame coach has improved considerably during his vacation here.

Holland Takes to Soccer Like Duck to Water

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, March 29.—Soccer in recent years has become the king of sports in Holland. When there is an international match in Amsterdam the game is accompanied by community singing. Rugby is played by one or two of the university teams, but soccer is by far the more popular sport.

It was not long ago when Holland's youth passed its Sundays smoking long Dutch pipes, drinking old Dutch gin and flirting with the village queens. Sport was almost unknown—until one day a wandering Dutchman came back home from England and introduced a curious game, which consisted of kicking a ball around the field.

The sport was at first taken up only by the sons of the Dutch upper ten, but it soon found its way among the middle classes, and soccer clubs were started in all parts of the country. Then the Dutch soccer association was established, and within a couple of years the game became the most popular sport in Holland.

The country is divided into four leagues, which compete every year for the national championship, on the same order as the American baseball teams fight it out between themselves. The foremost clubs naturally come from the large cities, Amsterdam, Rotterdam, The Hague, and Harlem.

At Easter time, Whitsuntide, and Christmas international matches are arranged with British, German, and central European teams. For these international matches, the Amsterdam stadium, which seats 40,000, is sold out months in advance.

Dernbach, Chicago, Holds Pin Lead in K. of C. Meet

Cincinnati, O., March 29.—(AP)—Bamby Breads of Newport, Ky., bowled 3,008 here tonight and took the lead in the five men event of the Knights of Columbus national bowling tournament. Bowlers on the early shifts failed to displace W. Dernbach, Chicago, who last week-end took command in the singles and all-events with totals of 699 and 2,033 respectively. Likewise E. Berger and J. Bayes, Louisville, last week's leaders, continued to top the doubles division with 1,237.

Davenport High School Wins Indoor Track Title

Davenport scored 46 3-5 points. Other scores were: Clinton, 34½; Washington High [Cedar Rapids], 25 3-5; Iowa City, 13; Grant High [Cedar Rapids], 12 1-5, and Dubuque, 7 1-10.

THIS PRIZE FIGHT GAME SEEMS TO BE IN DOLDRUMS

Boxers Forced to Work on Commission Basis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With the consistency that the customers have learned to expect on the day before a boxing bout, it is reported that all the contestants in Dick Curley's show tomorrow night at the Ashland boulevard auditorium are in condition.

Promoter Curley's offering is a popular priced show and since it is the only professional presentation scheduled for the week, probably will draw the regulars. With Jack Dempsey in vaudeville, Mique Malloy doing his promoting in St. Louis, and Jim Mullen undecided as to whom he should match, professional fighting has struck the doldrums here.

Amateurs Hold Stage.

This, of course, has been due in part to the amateurs. There hasn't been much of an opening for an honest-to-goodness professional promoter what with the annual tournament of the Central A. A. U. which held the crowds for four days last week and followed closely on the New York-Chicago Golden Gloves contests.

Tomorrow's card boasts a triple wind-up. Walter Madey and Bud Doran of South Chicago are expected to trade punches in a big way. They are heavyweights. Incidentally, Madey has punched a hole in King Levinsky's meal ticket. Or better, Paul Swiderski was responsible when he defeated the former Maxwell street fish peddler last Monday night at White City. As a result Madey was substituted for Levinsky against Doran.

The other two feature bouts are "comeback" affairs. Ever Hammer, former lightweight, will face Sid Conn, and Pal Moore will step a measure with Bobby Allen. Only tomorrow's bouts will tell what these veterans can do against their youthful opponents.

Pal Moore admits to the 36 years the record books give him, but his excuse for asserting he can teach young Allen old tricks is that he has discovered and drunk from Ponce de Leon's fountain.

More Bad News.

The professionals have one more worry this morning when pondering the source of their soup and crackers. The Chicago Stadium management has announced that from this time on all fighters will work on a percentage basis. The days of guarantees are passed. In other words, if the fighter can draw the customers he'll get a fair wage for his ring endeavors, but if he can't he will take his share of the financial loss in reduced payment.

All of which brings us to wrestling. Since the Illinois Athletic commission has banned the heavyweights, the promoters have been hard put for a sure fire attraction. The proposed solution is an amateur midwest tournament, which according to publicity advices has an entry list of over 200 and entries do not close until April 7. The meet will begin April 15 at the Coliseum.

When the tournament was proposed originally, the Central A. A. U. refused a sanction. Since that refusal, however, the amateur union has capitulated, and now, it's said, entries are pouring in from the Danish Athletic club, Swedish-American A. C., Western Electric and the playgrounds.

Lou Talaber, who once held the middleweight professional championship on one of the rare occasions when Johnny Meyers relinquished it for the good of competition, is backing the tournament in the north park system in which he is athletic instructor.

After all expense is deducted the receipts of the tournament will be given to homes for destitute children.

South Chicago Scores 5½ Points in 'Y' Swim

Wilmington, Del., March 29.—(AP)—Four meet records were broken here tonight in the finals of the eighth annual international Y. M. C. A. swimming championships. Toronto, Canada, last year's titleholder, won the meet with 27½ points. South Chicago picked up 5½ points.

Other point scorers among the 22 competing teams were: Westfield, N. J., 18; Bronx Union, New York, 15; Brooklyn, 12; Wilmington, 10; Flushing, N. Y., 9; Yonkers, N. Y., 7, and Peoria, Ill., 1½.

Decide State Handball Doubles Title Today

Finals of the Illinois state doubles handball tournament will be staged this afternoon at the Lake Shore Athletic club with William Serritella and Maurice McCarthy opposing Jack Brodar and Ben Jacobs. These teams qualified for the championship matches yesterday at Lake Shore. Brodar and Jacobs took a hard fought match from Charles Weiller and Charles Bergherm, 20-21, 21-12, 21-20. Ralph Thorsen and Louis Nelson were easy victims for the other finalists, losing 21-7, 21-16.

SABINA CAGERS BATTLE MONICA FOR TITLE TODAY

St. Monica is the present league champion. The north siders have not lost a game this season. Sixteen straight wins were registered during the preliminary race and two victories hung up in the championship games. St. Sabina won 14 and lost 2 during the regular season and beat Lawndale and Englewood in the opening and semi-final rounds of title play. Today's pairings:

Woods and Waters by BOB. BECKER

On an average there are only about two birds to every acre of land in the United States, according to the figures from Uncle Sam's adding machine, but where landowners have attracted and protected birds it has been demonstrated that you can lure as many as fifty pairs to the acre.

At this time of the year the open season for attracting birds gets under way because the migrants are coming up from the south. All are looking for clean "apartment houses" or individual dwellings in which to build a nest and raise a family. The placing of bird boxes around the house, in the garden, orchard or other locations as well as the planting of shrubs which furnish nesting sites and cover are jobs which the bird fan should undertake at once.

Inasmuch as a large number of our most common, beneficial and good looking species can be induced to forsake natural nesting sites for bird boxes the use of such shelters is one of the most important ways to bring birds to your property.

Here are dimensions to be followed in case you want to construct several bird boxes for prospective feathered tenants:

For the bluebird we suggest a box eight inches high with a base five inches square and the entrance hole about six inches above the floor. This hole should be one and one-half inches in diameter. The box may be made of plain lumber painted dark green or brown or of slabs with the bark on. The bluebird is not particular, so the house can be most any shape.

For the wren, make a house 5x5x7 inches or 5x5x6 inches. The entrance hole should be just the size of a silver quarter and one inch from the top. By making the door the size of a quarter the sparrows can't get in. Leave off a perch. It isn't necessary. Inasmuch as the wren is anything but particular about his dwelling you can build all kinds and shapes of homes for him, from miniature log cabins to plain cylindrical shelters.

AKE CO., ILL., LANS AMBITIOUS OAD PROGRAM

ill Be Great Aid to Chicago Drivers.

BY HAL FOUST.

ake county. with a $1,250,000 road d issue coming up at the election April 29. plans to improve the h ay system that is making the ire county virtually one great sub- of Chicago The numerous lakes. orts. golf links. country clubs pre- tious estates and modest country nes that were once a day or a half from Chicago are now within a rt driving distance of the city and l be brought closer by the county's ing program.

ake county with the $1,250,000, ns to build thirty-seven and a half es of concrete, almost all of it ced where it will best accommo- e traffic to and from Chicago The ds are heavily traveled not only large crowds of pleasure drivers, also by the great volume of com- rcial, industrial and agricultural vements between Chicago and Wis- sin.

Will Supplement State Work.

he county's work will supplement y-seven miles of pavement on the te bond issue system to be built Illinois, as well as some widening the state on arterial highways th of route 22.

he bonds are to be retired by the nty's returns from the gasoline . From five months' collections 1927, the county's share was $51,- . From five months' collections 1929, the county's 1 cent amounted $71,591. So an annual revenue of tween $143,000 and $170,000 can rea- nably be anticipated from this rce.

ne of the important projects on county's program is a new pave- nt between Half Day and Diamond ke that will relieve the streets of ertyville from some of their rough traffic on Milwaukee road.

Several Short Cuts.

A pavement about two miles long, tween Long lake and Fox lake. will m a new and shorter all paved ute between Chicago and the re- t district on the northwest corner the county. Another small proj , a mile and an eighth of pavement st of Loon lake, will give a short from Milwaukee road to Klondike.

erhaps the most ambitious under- king on the county program is the nstruction of a new north and south te from Wisconsin to Cook county, nnecting on the north with pave- nt to Bristol, Wis., and on the th with the Elmhurst road. There l be one gap in the concrete, north Mundelein and west of Liberty- le, pending construction of two lroad grade separations.

ne new road is planned to aid ffic between the Fox river valley d points northeast such as Liberty le, Waukegan and Milwaukee It l extend from Lake Zurich to Mun ein.

eerfield road is to be completed tween Waukegan road and Milwau- road, thereby increasing the utility existing pavement.

To Detour Local Traffic.

t Wauconda the county proposes lay three-fourths of a mile of con te that will take local traffic off through route.

West of the Great Lakes Naval Train station there is another small ject that will link Waukegan road te 42A with route 68, which is on state's program as part of a new north and south artery. This link will not serve its greatest maximum utility until extended westward to Libertyville Highway Superintendent Lobdell said that was contemplated for the future.

Two other small pieces of pavement are to be laid in this vicinity, one for an additional connection between the Waukegan road and Waukegan city streets and the other between Waukegan road and the naval station As indicated on the bond issue map the proposed pavements meet at the state highway, which might create a congestion point.

New Skokie Valley Road.

The state's biggest project in Lake county is the construction of a new forty foot road in Skokie valley, following the route of the North Shore electric tracks, connecting with North Cicero avenue on the south and joining 42A just north of Lake Forest.

North of Lake Forest the road will be twenty feet wide, using existing pavement on route 68 through Wells Corner from the Rockland road to the Belvidere road, and then over a new right of way through Dillys Corners and Rosecrans to the Wisconsin line Wisconsin has promised to make a connection from the state line due north to U. S. 41.

The state's program also calls for the widening of the Milwaukee road and Northwest highway to route 22 and County Highway Superintendent Lobdell said he had sound reasons to believe this will be done this year

Other state bond issue routes, to which the state's 2 cent share of the gasoline tax is pledged, are indicated on the accompanying map. Routes 57, 22, 68, 173, and 60 have been surveyed and platted by the state highway department, whereas the exact locations of 59, 59A, and 53 have not been determined, or at least the locations have not been announced.

Finished in Four Years.

Mr. Lobdell said that, providing the bond proposition carries, all of county's bond program will be completed in four years if not in three years He hopes to build ten miles this year

Lake county has for a long time appreciated the value of good roads, and there is little opposition to the bond issue. Fifteen years ago the county passed a $500,000 road bond issue by a bare majority. Seven years later $1,000,000 for pavements was passed by a two to one vote. In 1926 $750,000 was voted by two and a half to one.

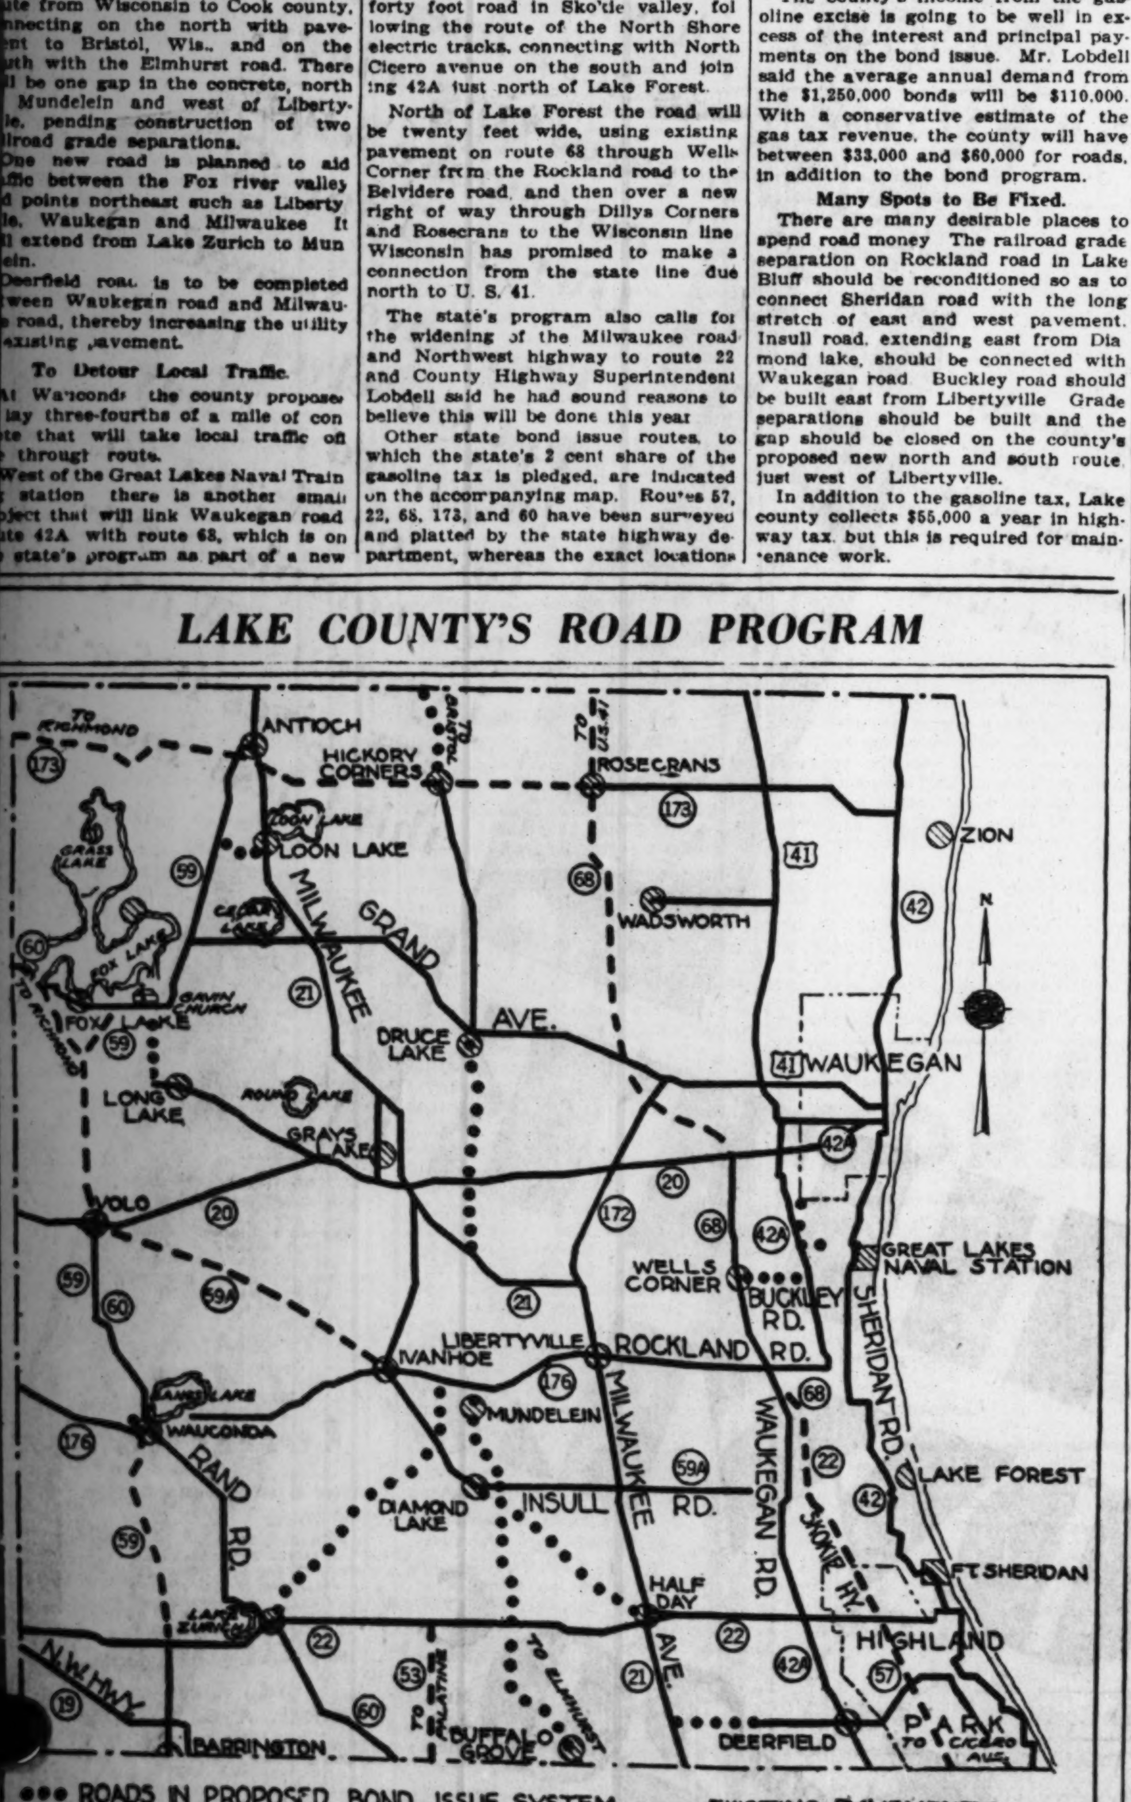
The county's income from the gasoline excise is going to be well in excess of the interest and principal payments on the bond issue. Mr. Lobdell said the average annual demand from the $1,250,000 bonds will be $110,000. With a conservative estimate of the gas tax revenue, the county will have between $33,000 and $60,000 for roads, in addition to the bond program.

Many Spots to Be Fixed.

There are many desirable places to spend road money The railroad grade separation on Rockland road in Lake Bluff should be reconditioned so as to connect Sheridan road with the long stretch of east and west pavement. Insull road, extending east from Diamond lake, should be connected with Waukegan road Buckley road should be built east from Libertyville Grade separations should be built and the gap should be closed on the county's proposed new north and south route just west of Libertyville.

In addition to the gasoline tax, Lake county collects $55,000 a year in highway tax, but this is required for maintenance work.

LAKE COUNTY'S ROAD PROGRAM



Lake county Chicago's neighbor on the north plans extensive improvements of its facilities for motoring Its pavements carry many pleasure drivers during the touring season as well as a heavy commercial traffic between Wisconsin and Chicago. The map prepared by the Chicago Motor club shows a county pavement program under a $1,250,000 bond issue to be voted on next month unpaved state bond issue routes to which the state's share of the gasoline tax is pledged, and the existing pavements.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

LARAMIE AND FULLERTON.

Chicago, March 25.—I wish you would print the following statement in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE for the benefit of Chicago motorists.

Why doesn't the city provide ample means of lighting the corner of Laramie and Fullerton avenues Laramie avenue is a bus line, at times heavy with traffic, while Fullerton avenue is a street car line with a wide road on each side for speeders. After sunset this corner is pitch dark and one is even afraid to go across the street for fear of getting hit.

A number of people have been killed here during the past few years, and accidents are numerous. All this corner needs is a few good lamps and many accidents will be averted.

JOSEPH WESLEY.

OGDEN AVENUE BONDS.

Chicago, March 27. – The Chicago Motor club, presumably for improved traffic conditions in Chicago, might well officially reconsider Ogden avenue and the bond issue designed to complete what is now a makeshift.

As a diagonal route to Lincoln park from the great west side, Ogden avenue was started from Randolph street after thirty years of earnest discussion. Like most of our civic projects, it was done piecemeal. The bridge over Goose island is all that is needed to complete it—and it takes a year or more to build a bridge.

The need for completion can be best ascertained any morning or evening rush hour at Halsted and Division where the traffic officer has a busy time regulating motorists appreciative of a short cut.

Let's complete Chicago in time for the World's Fair in 1933.

JOHN USHER SMITH.

AGAINST OGDEN AVENUE.

Chicago, March 26.—I have been following with a great deal of interest the discussion in THE TRIBUNE concerning the proposed bond issues for street improvements in Chicago.

There can be no question but that it is highly desirable that the bond issues be passed for the payment of judgments on the Western Ashland and [illegible] street improvements, but on the other hand I feel that the Chicago Motor club is to be commended highly for its stand on the proposed construction on Ogden avenue.

In view of the uncertain financial status of the city it would be very unwise to place this additional burden on the citizens of Chicago for an improvement which is not of vital importance at this time.

If any work were to be done now on Ogden avenue it should be the widening and repaving of the narrow sections from Randolph street southwest in accordance with the suggestions of the Chicago Motor club. This part of Ogden avenue is by far the most important from the point of view of the Chicago motorists, as a whole.

When this work is done it will be soon enough to build the bridges across Goose island.

1929 LICENSES.

Chicago, March 24.—Driving up from Florida I passed through six states and failed to see a single machine that did not have a 1930 license.

Getting to Chicago, I counted twenty autos in five minutes with 1929 licenses and again today counted forty in ten minutes. Why don't the city, park, and county police enforce the law and compel autoists who use the streets and boulevards and want to use their cars obey the law as the majority do.

Laxity of this kind hurts the city and the state.

S. LAWTON.

COP WARNS DRIVERS.

Chicago, March 25.—Ignorance of the law is no excuse, is the oft repeated phrase used by the police officer when handing the indignant motorist an arrest summons for some minor violation.

But when some minor city ordinances that have not been enforced for several years are suddenly dug up out of a musty old law book and enforced without any warning, it is time that the motoring public should make a unified protest against such methods.

For the last six weeks or so the police department has been enforcing the through street stop ordinance, parking left side of the curb angle parking, dirty license plates, etc.

This morning tickets were being issued for passing a safety platform on the left, a violation which draws a $5 fine.

Of all the people who received a ticket for this violation, not one of them I can safely say, knew that they were violating an ordinance. Now if the Voice of Traffic would be kind enough to publish the most important of these ordinances with a warning to the motoring public it would save a lot of hard feelings which the public holds against the police officers who are just doing their duty.

The following is a list of the most important ordinances:

Parking within 50 feet of signal light.
Parking in prohibited place.
Parking within 15 feet of fire plug.
Parking double or more than 6 inches from curb.
Running against lights.
Parking wrong side to curb, or angle parking.
Driving to left of a safety platform.
Dirty or obscured license plates.
Driving over curb.
Bright headlights.
Improper lights.
Stop at through streets.

Hope you will call this to the attention of the motoring public.

Police Officer

SPRING BRINGS HIGHWAY HOBOS INTO OPEN AGAIN

Chief Warns Against Hitch Hikers.

Spring has brought highway hobos onto the roads of the north in large numbers. Tramps, vagrants holdup men, indigent unemployed, moochers—they all look the same from a fast moving car—these hitch hikers who stand beside pavements and solicit rides.

County Police Chief Collins yesterday issued a warning to the motoring public to beware of the spongers To give a stranger a ride exposes a driver to robbery, to infectious diseases and, in case of an accident, to a civil suit for damages.

"The county police," he said, "are trying to keep criminals off the highways, but we can't arrest a man merely because he is walking along the road We can't tell who have criminal intentions and who are law abiding citizens exercising their privilege to walk on a public right of way.

Keep Strangers Out of Car.

"Therefore, it is up to the motorists to protect themselves. And there is only one sure means of protection, refuse to let any stranger enter your car."

In Florida the highway hobos are known as "thumbers," a name that describes their typical gesture of solicitation. Some of the towns, to fight the undesirables, use rough police tactics, jailing roadway loiterers almost indiscriminately for investigation. Public opinion supports these police methods because a number of tourists have been slugged and robbed by strangers they had befriended with a ride

Maine last year enacted a law that makes it a misdemeanor, subject to a fine of $50 and thirty days' imprisonment, to beg for a ride. Three other states — New Jersey, Minnesota, and Wisconsin—and the District of Columbia have passed legislation prohibiting the solicitation of rides from private vehicles.

No Chance to Protect Self.

"A man at the wheel of a car is in a poor position to defend himself against attack," said Chief Collins. "His eyes are on the road so that he cannot watch movements of passengers. His hands are on the steering wheel giving no protection from an unexpected blow on the head

"Some motorists will take a chance when the hitch hiker is a grown boy. The average citizen does not associate viciousness with youth But the police know that a large portion of the holdups are committed by lads in their teens

"There are a few women hitch hikers on the country roads although there are probably more on city streets and boulevards A driver accepts a double risk in giving a woman a ride. He exposes himself to blackmail in addition to the dangers of driving with a stranger of either sex Discreet women of good reputation do not ride with men whom they do not know, and the discreet man conducts himself likewise."

Highway hobos as a class are of a not much higher type than the tramps who ride freight trains Unbathed and in soiled clothing, some of the men are carriers of communicable diseases. Riding with them involves a risk of infection.

Boys, caddies and students are hard to refuse when they seek a lift However, the Chicago Motor club points out that, even when confident of security from crime and disease, an automobile driver takes an avoidable risk in giving a ride to boys. In case of accident, the driver might be held liable for injury to his passengers. The likelihood of a court judgment is greater when the child is of tender years, not required by law to exercise mature caution for his own safety.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Two automobile trade associations are engaged in campaigns to remove unsafe vehicles from traffic. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has announced its members will spend $15,000,000 in junking cars beyond repair. The Motor and Equipment association has an extensive advertising program intended to educate owners to keep their machines in good condition.

More rubber will be used in 1930 than in 1929 but less will be produced, according to the forecast division of the United States department of commerce. Tire manufacturers say this may boost prices before the year is out No immediate price change is contemplated since the world's stock of rubber is estimated as sufficient for approximately six months supply to the manufacturers.

ASSEMBLE SITE FOR SKYSCRAPER IN TOWER COURT

Insurance Company May Take Two Floors.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Another towering office building for the near north side, it was learned yesterday, has reached the stage where sketches and floor plans have been made and negotiations entered into with a large insurance company as principal tenant. If these negotiations are successful the building will carry the name of this concern.

The preliminary sketches of the building, designed by the architectural firm of Hamilton, Fellows & Nedved, call for a structure which will be one of the tallest in the city, climbing skywards 576 feet. The estimated cost is $7,000,000.

The site is all of the block bounded by Tower court, East Pearson street, East Chicago avenue, and Rush street, with the exception of space now occupied by the Illinois Women's Athletic club. The main entrance, according to the sketches, will go on Tower court.

Two Floors for Risk Concern.

The plans provide for 22,000 square feet of floor space on each of the third and fourth stories for use by the contemplated insurance company tenant. It is proposed to use the second floor for a new bank to be organized for that neighborhood. It is possible that one or two floors may be given over to high class shops, with general offices on all floors above those.

The steps taken leading to this ambitious project are interesting. The architectural firm of Hamilton, Fellows & Nedved occupies its own attractive building, a four story structure at 812-14 Tower court. This firm, at that time known as Perkins, Fellows & Hamilton, was one of the architectural pioneers in the district, when it designed and built its own home several years ago.

This architectural headquarters is just south of the Illinois Women's Athletic club and occupies a site 39x81. The property to the south and west is owned by John H. S. Lee. It extends to Chicago avenue with a frontage on Tower court of ninety-eight feet and a Chicago avenue frontage of eighty-one feet.

Cook Estate Owns Corner.

This part of the Lee holdings is occupied by the four story building under lease to Marinello. The Rush street part of Mr. Lee's property has a frontage on that thoroughfare of ninety-five feet. It is occupied by two and three story buildings.

The Cook estate, for which Raymond and Chester Cook are trustees, owns the remaining unit in the site for the proposed tower, at the northeast corner of Rush and Chicago. It fronts seventy-seven feet on Rush street and seventy-one feet on Chicago avenue.

The total property, comprising the three holdings, has a frontage of approximately 160 feet on Tower court, 152 feet on East Chicago avenue, and 173 feet on Rush street. This means the assemblying of one of the out standing sites for a tall building to be found on the near north side.

To Be Gothic Romanesque.

The design of the proposed skyscraper is Gothic Romanesque and according to the architects will harmonize with the old water tower and also with the seventeen story Illinois Women's Athletic club building at Pearson and Tower court.

The skyscraper will have thirty-four rentable floors with a tower above which will conceal the building tanks, elevator machinery, etc. The exterior walls are planned to be of brick, with terra cotta trim. The tower roof may possibly be red, making it visible by daylight for many miles.

No definite date for starting work has ever been considered as the entire project is in too preliminary a stage to make positive announcements of construction. The site, as already stated, has been assembled, tentative plans have been made and negotiations are actively under way for the major tenant.

SCHNEIDER & CO. BUY WEST SIDE PIONEER FIRM

G. H. Schneider & Co. have purchased all of the rental business of W. Gray Brown, Inc., one of the pioneer firms on the west side, where it has been operating for the last four decades. Schneider & Co., with main offices at 10 South La Salle, established their west side office, now at 18 South Western avenue, in 1887. Since then they have purchased the following competing firms: In 1905, Barnes & Parish; in 1915, the W. D. Eastwood interests; in 1927, Roberts & Ogden; in 1929, C. A. Ogden & Sons. George H. Schneider and Homer H. Schneider are the active members of the organization. William Archbold will continue to manage the merged west side offices.

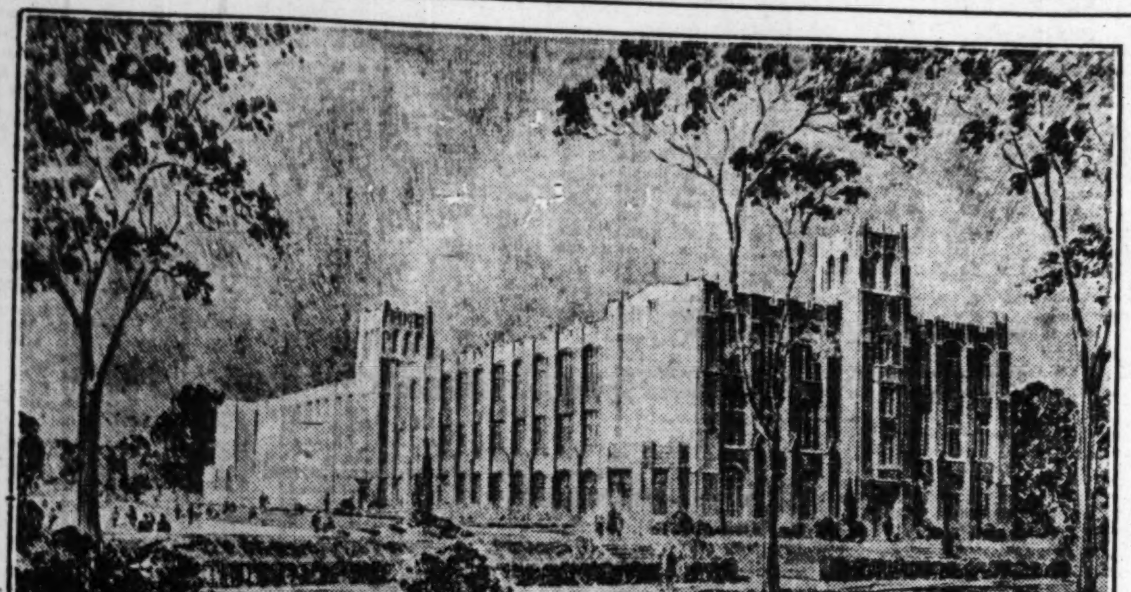
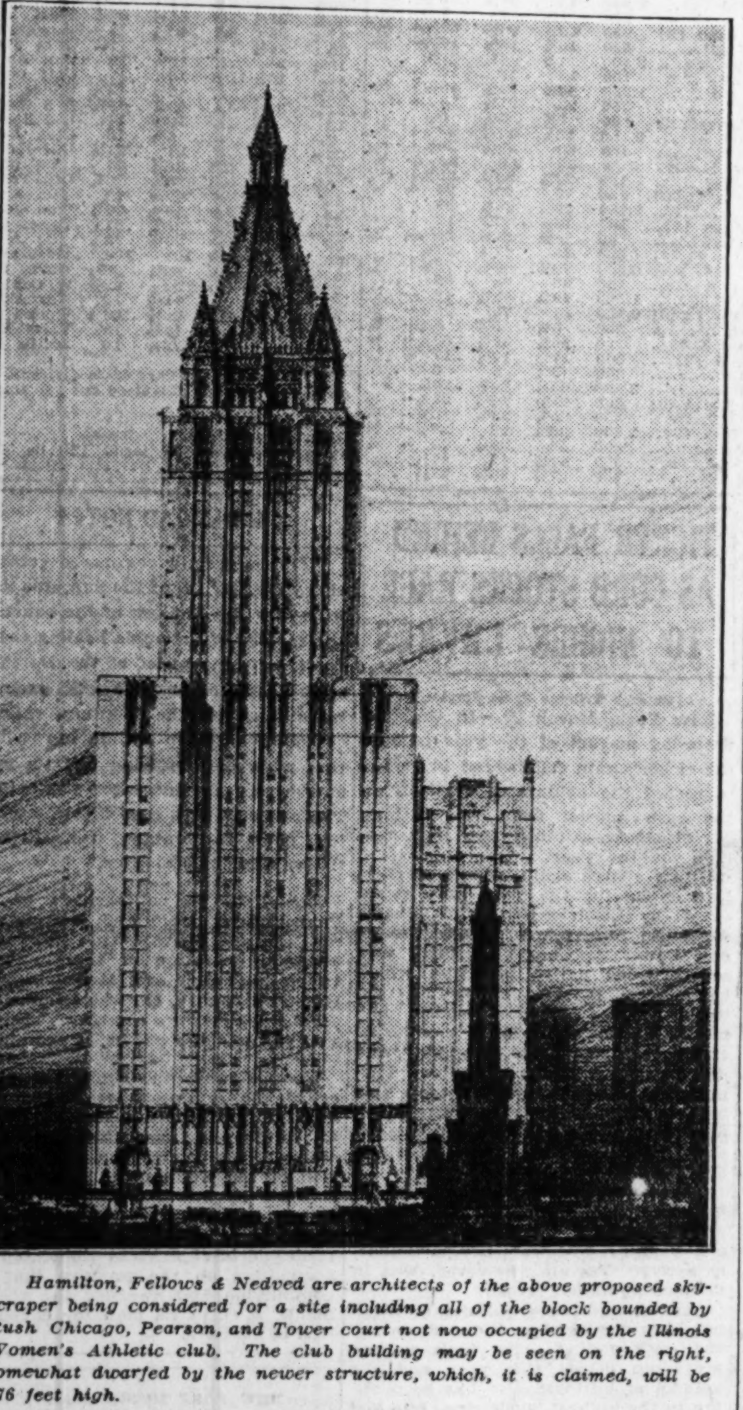
WILL HOUSE 2,000 OAK PARK SCHOOL CHILDREN



Childs & Smith, Chicago architects, designed the above new Whittier school, to be erected on Augusta street, between Harvey and Cuyler, in Oak Park. Bids have just been opened on the first unit, which will cost $185,000. When finished the building will house 2,000 elementary pupils and will have an auditorium, gymnasium, shops, household economics rooms, cafeteria, library, and classrooms from the kindergarten to the eighth grade.

OVERLOOKING HISTORIC SPOT



Hamilton, Fellows & Nedved are architects of the above proposed skyscraper being considered for a site including all of the block bounded by Rush Chicago, Pearson, and Tower court not now occupied by the Illinois Women's Athletic club. The club building may be seen on the right, somewhat dwarfed by the newer structure, which, it is claimed, will be 576 feet high.

STEAMFITTERS AND PLUMBERS FACE NEW ROWS

Expect City Bureau to Stir Trouble.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Chicago plumbers and steam fitters are affiliated with the same international union, and of recent months builders state that jurisdictional strife between both pipe trades has interrupted at times a large part of Chicago's construction program.

These builders and building trades officers declare the establishment of the proposed municipal bureau of plumbing will make the situation more acute and create a state of turmoil. The setup of the bureau is designed to give the journeymen plumbers a monopoly on all pipe work in Chicago and suburbs, it was said.

Construction work on the 1100 North Dearborn Street building is the latest halted by the battle and on this job the officials of the Plumbers' union had two steam fitters arrested on charges they had violated state laws when they installed the refrigeration. It was said this work had been given in arbitration to the steam fitters by the international union. There have been several appeals made to John Coefield, international president, but he has declined to visit the city and adjust the disputes.

Builders declare there is evidence that some legal advice was procured by the plumbers when they submitted the proposed plan for establishment of a plumbing bureau, which would be governed and controlled by the plumbers' union.

The code as outlined in the setup of the bureau would require that all plans for installation and alteration of piping systems, either in new construction or existing structures, would have to be submitted to the commissioner of plumbing for approval. The commissioner would have supervision over the steamfitters and also the gas and sprinkler fitters.

Reports among the building trades have it that William "Billy the Goat" Taglia, a west side gangster, twice convicted of murder, is the real boss of the plumbers. He was placed in control when the gang running the union appealed to Alphonse Capone to chase another mob, and when the job was done Scarface Al's pal was made the boss of the ranch.

NEW LOOP CAFE TO RESEMBLE AN ENGLISH TAVERN

A restaurant which will be reminiscent of an old English tavern is to be opened about Aug. 1 in the basement of the Stock Exchange building at the southwest corner of La Salle and Washington streets. Thayers' Eating houses, a chain system operating a number of restaurants in the financial and wholesale districts, have leased about 9,000 square feet of space in the building, with an entrance at 34 North La Salle street, for ten years at a reported term rental of $180,000.

RAYMOND THAYER.

Raymond Thayer, a New York artist, one of the Thayer brothers, is designing the restaurant to be opened in the Stock Exchange building. He also design the Spanish type restaurant which Thayers will open in the Loop Center building at Clark and Madison streets, in a few weeks. Gerard E. Hausen of Gerard E. Hausen & Co., and W. H. Ames of L. M. Willis & Co., represented the lessees. Judson F. Stone represented the McCormick estate, the lessor.

WHY IS A 99 YEAR LEASE? EXPERTS GUESS AT REASON

Becker Discusses Origin and Benefits.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Why is a ninety-nine year lease? This is a question that is often asked, but one which seldom gets a satisfactory answer. Even among the real estate experts there appears to be some doubt as to the real reason for the odd numbered year term; why a long term lease shouldn't be made out for 100 years instead of the customary ninety-nine.

However, Herbert Becker, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, recently did some research work for the National Association of Real Estate Boards on the subject of long term leases, their origin and advantages, which might be of interest even to the average Chicago flat renter who usually is loath to put his name to any document that will keep him in one place longer than one year.

Of course the long term lease practically always covers business property for science hasn't yet developed any way to make a lessee interested in matters mundane at the end of a ninety-nine year term. A long term lease usually is as marketable as the ground it covers and hence is in favor with business interests for a number of reasons, which Mr. Becker explains.

Reason for Term.

Regarding the reason for the ninety-nine year term, Mr. Becker states:

"Some scholars think that there may have been an ancient English law forbidding the making of a lease for 100 years and that, therefore, medieval lawyers did the best they could and adopted the ninety-nine year plan."

Though they are comparatively few, some leases for 999 years are made both in this country and the British Isles. Discussing this somewhat lengthy term Mr. Becker says:

"Nine hundred and ninety-nine year leases are now often made by railroads, one railroad leasing to another its right-of-way for 999 years. There is a bit of interesting lore about the 999 year period. It is said by historians that the great jurist and law writer, Lord Coke, who lived in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in his writings on leases, stated that a lease for 1,000 years suggested fraud and might therefore be held void. Hence the law evading lawyers of that period made leases for 999 years."

Cites Some Advantages.

Mr. Becker, in the following, discusses the advantages of the long term lease:

"This type of lease has many benefits; an owner of valuable land which is ripe for development may not have the means of properly improving his holding. Yet he can make a long term lease to a responsible person who will improve it and make his property yield a steady income in the form of ground rent.

"Then again the owner of land may prefer not to sell his property for fear he might not be able to make as good an investment with the proceeds of the sale. He can make a long term lease, be assured of a fixed income, and not worry about the problems of re-investment.

"Or he may have a valuable tract that does not attract buyers. By making a long term lease that will pay an annual rental of five or six per cent on the value of the land, the owner is doing as well as he could in any other sound investment.

"Thus, the long term lease is advantageous in times of money stringency as it is often possible to find a tenant when one cannot find a buyer. By means of a long term lease, the owner can usually find a lessee who can improve his land since such a tenant is relieved of the necessity of raising enough capital to purchase it."

DANCING SCHOOL LEASES SPACE ON WACKER DRIVE

Godfrey Johnson, director of the Mador Johnson Dancing school, located for the last thirty years at 443 North Clark street, has leased the two upper floors of the three story building at 53 West Wacker drive, at the southwest corner of Dearborn, for ten years at a term rental reported to be approximately $75,000. The Cuneo estate is the lessor. The lessees will use the second floor for teaching ballroom dancing and the third for stage dancing. McMenemy & Martin were brokers.

LOOKING BACKWARD

To March 30, 1920; 10 Years Ago Today

The Elmer Richards company, mail orders, has purchased from John Barton Payne, secretary of the interior, the four story warehouse at 957 West 35th street, lot 125x147, in the Central Manufacturing district, which they have occupied for several years, for an indicated price of $90,447.

JOHN BARTON PAYNE.

B. Kuppenheimer & Co. have purchased eleven acres of ground bounded by West 18th street and West 20th street and South Karlov and South Keeler avenues. On this site work started yesterday on a $500,000 three story building.

George J. Annes to Open Cafe at Wabash-Harrison

George J. Annes has leased 3,000 square feet in the Wabash-Harrison building, now under construction, in which he will open his fifth restaurant. The lease is for twenty-five years at a term rental of $625,000, according to Albert J. Weisberg, president of the Wabash-Harrison Building corporation.

To March 30, 1910; 20 Years Ago Today

In a deed filed for record Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Hinsdale, the aged philanthropist, quitclaimed for a nominal consideration to the Chicago City Railway company a plot 132x280 feet, east front, in Cottage Grove avenue 107 feet south of 38th street. The company is rapidly increasing its holding in the block between 38th and 39th streets and Cottage Grove and Langley avenues.

DR. D. K. PEARSONS.

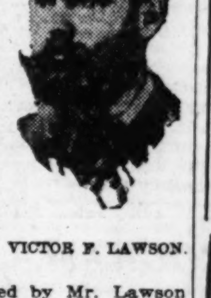
William Borden has purchased from his brothers and sisters the 60x80 feet of vacant at the southeast corner of Adams and Clinton streets for $20,000. He will improve the ground with a modern seven story building to be leased to the Florsheim Shoe company, whose plant adjoins on the east. The building will cost $150,000.

MICHIGAN AVENUE LEASE.

The Serlin Tire company, which has been at 1300 South Michigan for sixteen years, has leased from Martin A. Ryerson larger quarters at the southwest corner of Michigan and 14th, through Benjamin Schlessinger, of Gordon Strong & Co.

To March 30, 1900; 30 Years Ago Today

Victor F. Lawson bought through Dunlap Smith the property at the northwest corner of Lake Shore drive and Burton place from Archbishop Feehan, representing the Catholic bishopric of Chicago. The lot fronts 108½ feet on the drive and 168 feet on Burton, and the price paid was $125,000, or about $70 a square foot. Mr. Lawson intends to put up a handsome residence on the property.



VICTOR F. LAWSON.

The lot purchased by Mr. Lawson is in a historic part of the city, being within the boundaries of the original Calvary cemetery, which occupied this section of the city from 1839 to 1859. For twenty years it was the burying ground of those of the Catholic faith. Its boundaries were Goethe street on the south, State street on the west, North avenue on the north, and the lake on the east.

Mr. Lawson will have for his neighbors along Lake Shore drive O. W. Potter, Gen. A. C. McClurg, H. H. Kohlsaat, Harry G. Selfridge, Mrs. V. C. Turner, Mrs. Mahlon Ogden, S. E. Barrett, Franklin MacVeagh, and Potter Palmer.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

COSTS AT NADIR, SO TIME IS RIPE FOR REMODELING

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]

With the cost of materials and equipment lower than in the last ten years, this spring presents big opportunities in the building of new homes and the modernization of old ones.

LOUISE BARGELT.

Statistics gathering organizations which keep records of the building trends have demonstrated that not only has the price of equipment and materials gone down but that labor, while at the same general average as that of the last six years, can be considered lower in cost because of its "increased productivity." More skilled labor will be available this spring at average prices than for some time past.

Cheerful statistics these, for the enjoyment of those who sometimes are heard to lament that statistics collectors seem so often to have for their general purpose the discouragement rather than the encouragement of mankind.

Variety of Materials.

All this is of interest to the prospective modernizer of a home as well as the builder of a house, for modernization work does not confine itself to any one material. A house may be remodeled with new shingles laid over old siding or, vice versa, it may have a new overcoating of stucco over the frame, or a brick overcoat above the stucco, one type replacing another, not because one material is essentially better than another, but because of cost considerations and also the desire for individuality.

Indeed, most modernized structures which we see today have stood for a good many years and are structurally sound. Their owners have a desire to bring them up to existing standards; to substitute present new materials and styles for worn and obsolete ones.

The house told about today, located at 5136 North Tripp avenue, Chicago, is an interesting example of results accompanied by intelligent and well carried out remodeling. Architectural service for the remodeling furnished by C. Davies and company, 4177 Irving Park boulevard.

Old High Steps.

Before the work started the house was what one might call old fashioned, with its high steps, its general exterior lines, its interior lacking in finish and equipment of the present day.

The roof lines were changed, the roof given hips and dormers and covered with hand dipped green variegated wood shingles, semi-thatched.

The exterior sides were covered with gray wood shingles, hand dipped and laid in ribbon courses, and an octagon bay was placed in front with a new entrance.

All windows and frames were newly installed, new copper gutters substituted for the old ones and an extra room added to the rear. Insulation was provided throughout.

The interior plan was changed to offer a modern layout with larger rooms, new hardwood floors, new woodwork and doors. The bath was tiled and a large solarium in the back given twelve windows. The walls were all newly decorated, new lighting fixtures provided and general builtin equipment and basement conveniences provided.

Garage to Be Similar.

The garage, which will be finished later, will be given the same exterior as the house. At the left of the house is a sunken garden.

The cost of the entire remodeling was approximately $4,000, with the added value of more than twice that amount given to the house.

Certainly it is true that remodeling like this, which has been made easier and cheaper, simpler to finance and carry out in the last year or two, is a profitable performance to the home owner. A fascinating performance, too, this rendering of new houses from old, satisfying from many different angles.

SHINGLES IN FIVE COLORS ARE NOW BEING PRODUCED

New asbestos shingles made in five colors are now being manufactured; green duoface, black duoface, red, gray, and pearl gray duoface.

The reversibilities of the shingles when laid is the reason for the word "duoface." One side is colored the tones mentioned in the preceding paragraph, while the other side has the natural gray color of the asbestos.

MONEY MARKET SHOWS BANKERS CREDIT OUTLOOK

Indicates Federal Reserve Bank Attitude.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—The spectacular developments in the money market during the last two weeks, despite their apparent confusion, have served to give bankers a clearer idea of the future course of credit and the attitude of the federal reserve authorities than has hitherto obtained.

The drop in call money to 2 per cent and in bill rates to 2½ per cent a week ago, the lowest figure in more than five years, carried the relaxation of credit too far, it is now believed. The failure of the federal reserve authorities to follow the descent of open market bill rates by reductions in the bill buying rates of the reserve banks indicate, it is thought, that the reserve does not wish to further stimulate the ease in credit and is unlikely to reduce its rediscount rate below the present 3½ per cent level.

See No Reason for Change.

On the other hand, there appears no reason to see a change in reserve policy. It is the opinion of leading bankers that the reserve intends to stand aside for the time being, allowing the money market to take its course, uninfluenced by any major operations by the bank of issue. But if the reserve is not encouraging such low rates as developed a week ago, neither is it willing to see money become firm.

During the past week the bank of issue assisted bill dealers to the extent of taking $98,000,000 in paper in the New York district on repurchase agreements. For the twelve banks of the federal reserve system a net gain in holdings of governments securities has been shown, after allowing for the treasury overdraft.

Bankers consider that the readjustments in the price of credit which took place during the last seven days have served to create a more stable condition than was evident a week ago. Some further change may be necessary in the open market rates on bills, since these are still one-eighth of 1 per cent below the bill-buying rate of the federal reserve and call money is too high for dealers to be able to profitably carry their portfolios.

Bill Rate Cut Has Effects.

The sharp reduction in bill rates to an asking price of 2½ per cent had an immediate effect in the withdrawal of foreign funds from the American bill market, it is believed. Foreign exchanges, notably sterling rose sharply, indicating that foreign banks were taking their money to more lucrative centers. The advance in bill rates last week to an asking price of 2⅝ per cent for short bills, and 2¾ per cent for 60 and 90 day bills, turned the movement of foreign funds back toward this market and brought a reaction in the exchange.

In a similar way the decline in call money brought its own adjustment. With call money going for 2 per cent, non-banking lenders and out of town banks found the call market distinctly unattractive. After allowing for the fee of one-half of 1 per cent charged by New York member banks for placing such loans, non-banking lenders and out of town banks were getting a return of only 1½ per cent on their money. As a natural result they withdrew large sums, causing money rates to tighten.

The easy money developments were traceable to the temporary influence of the treasury overdraft contracted initially on March 15 and not completely eliminated until nearly a week later. The overdraft, amounting to more than $200,000,000, had the effect of putting member banks "over" in their reserves to a corresponding extent with the result that they were eager to lend.

While the treasury overdraft was a distinctly temporary affair it served to illustrate the possible effect of a further pursuit of the federal reserve's easy money policy. By driving bill rates down to levels a full one per cent below the rediscount rate, it gave the reserve a desired opportunity to follow the market with a reduced bill-buying rate and logically a reduced discount rate.

Federal Reserve Policy.

That the present condition in the money market is largely the result of federal reserve policy is generally conceded by bankers. Other factors have had an important influence, however. Since the first of the year there has been a net influx of gold of substantially more than one hundred million dollars. The decline in commercial borrowings has persisted. The outstanding volume of security loans, while higher than for the first of the year, is well below the levels which obtained most of last year.

These factors alone would have produced ease in money. Added to them has been an expansion of the reserve's portfolio. Holdings of United States government securities, acording to the most recent statement, were $359,000,000 higher than a year ago. Bill holdings were up $48,000,000, making an increase in combined portfolio of $407,000,000. Against this expansion of portfolio there has been a decline in discounts, as against the figures for a year ago, of $818,000,000 and the outstanding total of federal reserve credit has dropped $408,000,000 below the total in use a year ago.

TICKER FALLS BEHIND AS CURB STOCKS RACE TO HIGHER LEVELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—In the best Saturday market of the year to date the ticker again fell behind in trying to record the volume of dealings on the curb market floor, and a long list of stocks attained new high records for the year.

Utility shares again led the market. New highs for the year were registered by Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower, United Light and Power A, Tampa Electric and several other active favorities which have been moving higher all the week. Cities Service, which has moved higher on a large volume of trading this week, was firm today, and its subsidiary, Indian Territory Illuminating Oil, rose sharply to a new high record. In the gas stocks Memphis Natural Gas reported a new peak and United Gas again was active and firm.

There was a sharp advance in Lehigh Coal in the miscellaneous section and Trans Lux continued to rise to a new high. Oils were not particularly active. Vacuum, however, was in demand at higher levels.

Greater and more uniform strength has been displayed on the curb during the week ending today than on any preceding period this year and the volume of business also has been rising to the highest levels since late last year. Early in the period the whole Standard Oil group moved to new highs and the movement of the utilities, though it was somewhat late in getting started, made up for the tardiness by the vigor of the buying and the gains scored.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Stockholders of the Ludlum Steel company of record April 25 have been offered rights to subscribe to 34,000 shares of common stock at $33 a share in the ratio of one additional share for each five held. An issue of 5,000 shares of preferred stock at $98 a share also is being offered. The rights expire May 19.

Public offering is planned of an issue of 40,000 shares of $6 cumulative preferred stock of the Mississippi Power and Light company, underwritten by W. C. Langley & Co. and the First National-Old Colony corporation.

The Jewel Tea Company, Inc., announces relocation on April 1 of its general offices and midwest plant at its new home in Jewel Park, Barrington, Ill.

RAILROAD NOTES

"The interstate commerce commission yesterday asked the Supreme court to review the decision of the courts of the District of Columbia holding that it must, at the request of the Northern Pacific and other railroads, examine rates fixed by the Montana railroad commissioners on shipments within that state of petroleum and its products before the increases took effect. The railroads in a case before a statutory court in Montana, are attacking the validity of the rates.

Denial of the application of the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Detroit railroad and the Pennsylvania railroad to abandon operation of their line between Blue Ash and Montgomery in Hamilton county, O., was recommended to the interstate commerce commission yesterday by one of its examiners.

The Delaware and Hudson company asked the interstate commerce commission to disapprove the decision by C. V. Burnside, assistant finance director of the commisison, that acquisition of the Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad by the Baltimore and Ohio was in the public interest. The assistant director erred, the Delaware and Hudson's brief said, in upholding the acquisition on the premise that the commission had awarded the road to the B. & O. in its plan for consolidation of carriers.

Scan Van Sweringen Rail Plans for Chicago Benefits

POSSIBILITY OF DETRIMENT IS NOW DISCLOSED

City's Best Interests Seen Endangered.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Nothing in the field of railroading is arousing quite so much talk nowadays as the intentions of the Van Sweringen group in control of the destinies of the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Nickel Plate, and a host of other lines.

One of the questions most interesting is what Chicago can expect in the way of bettered facilities for shipments east, south, and west as a result of consolidations or unifications that may come through the operations of the Van Sweringens.

The bulk of the evidence points to no particular benefits and possibilities of detriment to the territory around the lower end of Lake Michigan.

In its consolidation plans the interstate commerce commission gave the Chesapeake and Ohio system an entry into Chicago. It gave likewise an entry into St. Louis. The map of system No. 6 shows a good direct line from St. Louis to Toledo and Cleveland. To travel from St. Louis to Chicago on this consolidated system passengers and freight would have to journey east of central Indiana.

To the southeastern ports there would be a fairly direct route through Cincinnati. There is nothing on the map to indicate that any additional traffic would be routed Chicagoward by the approved consolidation.

Holding Co. Supervision.

The results might not be serious if the Van Sweringen influence halted with the interstate commerce commission's authorization. But their interests have important holdings in other roads. Only last week there was an announcement that they had purchased control of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, one of the three roads that hitherto have remained outside the ownership of eastern rail systems and serve Chicago to the southeast. They are reported also to have control or at least great power over the Missouri Pacific.

Out of the financial wizardry of the Van Sweringens has grown the Allegheny corporation, a holding company. At present the interstate commerce commission does not claim power over such companies, even though they control railroads absolutely. The commission has, however, asked congress to clarify the laws and determine whether the same supervision should be exercised over holding companies as over the actual railroads.

Because of this lack of power it is not required of the Allegheny corporation that it disclose its holdings. So far as the commission is officially informed, the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois are not part of the Chesapeake system. Yet there are tremendous possibilities involved if the Van Sweringens really control the Missouri Pacific.

Chicago on Branch Line?

This road has an eastern terminus at St. Louis. The commerce commission made it in a system of its own. It could, with commission approval, cover the state of Texas like a blanket as far west as El Paso, and with the addition of the Western Pacific reach the western coast through Salt Lake City.

There would be, then, two systems, with St. Louis as a center, which if owned by the same men or the same holding company would be a real trans-continental system, the first that has ever been hinted at since the days of Gould. Its terminals would be on the coast; its center would be St. Louis, and Chicago would be on a branch line.

A complete coast to coast consolidation would be a dream. The commission has set its face against such combinations. Yet if the two approved consolidations go through and the unity is made through a holding company, there would seemingly be little difference in the effects.

The purchase of the C. & E. I. after the commission plan had awarded it to the Chicago and North Western might serve to break up a complete outlet to the gulf. For the North Western was to have in addition to the C. & E. I. the tracks of the Mobile and Ohio, with a terminal at Mobile. In this respect the commission plan was favorable to Chicago.

Adds Spice to Problem.

Now, under the present laws it is more than doubtful that the North Western could, if it wished to, compel the Van Sweringens to sell control of a component part of the line to the gulf. It may be that any such Chicago to the gulf line, to supplement the Illinois Central, might be blocked. The C. & E. I. may be intended eventually as the Chicago-St. Louis link of a trans-continental system. But it will still be a branch line, an offshoot from a coast to coast railroad.

Even the most expert puzzle over what control short of approved consolidation can accomplish, and this adds more spice to the problem. There is also the fact that the Missouri Pacific railroad and the Wabash, which is to have another system to the Atlantic coast, have the same man for chairman of the board.

Under the circumstances, Chicago's interests seem to be best served if there are no consolidations except those driving to the east. The roads to the south should be maintained as outlets to that section rather than appendages of east and west

Chicago Stock Trading Sets Lively Pace

(Chicago stock list on page 8.)

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday hit the strongest pace for any short week-end session this year and also was the second most active Saturday in the history of the exchange. The total turnover was 338,200 shares for the two hours, which was exceeded only by the 340,000 share Saturday on Aug. 13, 1929.

The market maintained a strong tone, although a heavy volume of week-end profit taking held price changes within narrow limits. Heavy trading in the public utility and investment groups was the feature of the day. Middle West Utilities again assumed leadership and made a fractional net gain on a turnover exceeding 75,000 shares.

Fractional gains also were recorded in American Utility and General, Central and Southwest Utilities, Midland Utilities, and United Power and Light. Cities Service and Seaboard Utilities lost minor fractions, while Inland Utilities and United Gas finished unchanged.

Chicago Corporation Leads.

Chicago corporation issues led the investment group, with the common gaining a large fraction and the preferred advancing a point. Burnham Trading and National Securities moved up a point or so. Fractional gains were made by Chicago Investors, Insull Utilities, and the Utility and Industrial issues. Continental Chicago closed unchanged.

In the automotive group, Cord corporation advanced a fraction on continued heavy trading. National Standard advanced 1⅝, Bendix gained a bare fraction, and Houdaille-Hershey "B" finished unchanged. Borg-Warner sagged a small fraction in spite of an increasing volume of business reported by President C. S. Davis. Auburn sagged two points. In the radio group, Zenith and U. S. Radio advanced more than a point each, while Grigsby-Grunow and Atlas Stores made fractional gains.

Potter, Ward "A" Rise.

In the miscellaneous list, Potter jumped 4⅛, Montgomery Ward "A" was up 3 points, Electric Household advanced 2 points, Associated Telephone Utilities, Beatrice Creamery and Construction Materials preferred gained a point or so, and Art Metal, E. L. Bruce, General Theater, Lynch Glass, Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line and Super Maid made fractional gains.

The fifty most active stocks traded on the Chicago Stock exchange last week had a market value of $3,202,697,012 at the close of business yesterday, compared with $2,950,964,242 at the close of the previous week, according to a compilation by Swift, Langill & Henke. This represents an increase of $251,732,770, or 8.53 per cent. The analysis shows that 29 of these stocks were traded in last year. These stocks had a market value of $821,349,709 yesterday, compared with $490,371,219 on March 28, 1929, an increase of $330,978,490, or 67.49 per cent.

END ARGUMENTS FOR AND AGAINST SANTA FE ROUTE

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Decision on the application of the Santa Fé railway system to construct a new route between Las Animas, Colo., and Amarillo, Tex., rests with the interstate commerce commission following completion of final arguments by attorneys.

H. C. Pipkin, E. H. Ellis and L. F. English, attorneys for the Santa Fé, appealed to Commissioners Meyer, Woodlock and Eastman, who were sitting on the case, to allow the construction. W. F. Peter, general attorney for the Rock Island lines, opposed granting of the approval for the line.

The Panhandle and Santa Fé railway would build one link in the proposed line from Amarillo to the Texas line. From there through Cimarron county, Oklahoma, and Union and Colfax counties, New Mexico, the Elkhart and Santa Fé would build the second link, connecting with the final section to be built by the Dodge City and Cimarron Valley road in Baca and Bent counties, Colorado.

Honduras Congress Votes Approval for U. S. Loan

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, March 29.—(AP)—Congress today approved a proposal to contract a loan of $1,000,000 with the Canal bank of New Orleans and other American institutions. The money will be used to stabilize the new Honduran currency, called L'Empira, and to counteract the effects of the silver crisis.

GOODYEAR VOTE ON STOCK BOOST CAUSES RUMOR

Akron, O., March 29.—(AP)—Increase in Goodyear common stock from 1,450,000 shares authorized to 5,000,000 shares, to be asked of Goodyear stockholders in annual meeting here Monday, has inspired a persistent rumor of merger plans.

President P. W. Litchfield of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company has declared that the Goodyear "has no immediate plans or definite program of expansion involving a merger embracing Seiberling or United States Rubber." He said request for authority to increase common stock is intended as a "sensible precautionary measure to provide directors of the company with collateral to take advantage of any opportunity offered in the rubber industry to increase prestige and economical production of tires."

Close observers here agree that the purpose back of the stock increase to be urged is identified with plans of Otis & Co. and the Cyrus Eaton interests to effect a merger later on, first with the Seiberling Rubber company, of which F. A. Seiberling, former president of Goodyear, is head, and later with the Du Pont organization, the United States Rubber company.

OIL OUTPUT FOR WEEK DROPS 47,300 BARRELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Crude oil production in the United States decreased during the week ended March 22 throughout the country, according to statistics made public today by the American Petroleum institute. The same report shows a decrease in the imports of crude oil and petroleum products, a slight decrease in the receipts of California petroleum at gulf and eastern ports, during the same week and a large increase in the consumption of gasoline during January when compared with January, 1929.

Daily average production of crude oil in the country was estimated at 2,535,900 barrels during the week ended March 22, compared with 2,583,200 barrels during the week ended March 15, a decrease of 47,300 barrels.

Feb. Net Incomes Total $55,012,000 for 72 Roads

New York, March 29. — The first seventy-two railroads to report for February had net operating incomes totaling $55,012,000, against $77,779,000 in February, 1929, a decrease of 29.2 per cent. Their January net totaled $50,858,000. February gross revenues of these roads totaled $390,522,000, against $433,800,000 in February, 1929, a decrease of 9.9 per cent. Their January gross totaled $398,697,000.

These figures indicate that net for all the class 1 roads in February will be about $59,800,000, against actual net of $84,770,000 and $69,923,000 in the same month in 1929 and 1928. Net operating income for the first two months would be about $115,300,000 against $161,887,000 in the same period a year previous.

Week's Bond Issues Exceed 130 Millions

New York, March 29.—For the fourth consecutive week new offerings of bonds have topped the $100,000,000 mark. The aggregate of new bond issues this week reached $130,658,000, compared with last week's revised total of $187,345,000, and with $42,109,000 during the corresponding week last year.

Railroad and municipal financing comprised the bulk of new bond offerings this week. The rail financing consisted of three issues, $15,000,000 Boston and Maine 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s, and New York, Chicago, and St. Louis 4½s, all of which readily sold.

Expect New Rail Issues.

Among the new rail issues expected in the near future are those of the Big Four and of the Louisiana and Arkansas.

The principal state and municipal issues placed on the market this week were the $10,000,000 State of South Carolina 4½s and the $14,000,000 City of Detroit tax anticipation notes. As was the case last week, eighteen municipal issues were offered, the smallest of which was for $45,000,000.

Foreign Financing Drops.

Foreign financing took a decided drop this week from last week's total of $77,181,000, which was the largest weekly offering of foreign bonds for the year to date. This week's total of $12,055,000 consisted of but two issues, the $8,000,000 Province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, 6½s, and $4,055,000 City of Vancouver, B. C., 5s.

Offerings by groups of this and last week follow:

	This week.	Last week.
Railroad	$ 45,000,000	$ 49,000,000
State, municipal..	42,603,000	14,664,000
Public utility ..	19,000,000	10,500,000
Foreign	12,055,000	77,181,000
Industrial	12,000,000	36,000,000
Totals	$130,658,000	$187,345,000

Several important foreign issues are being prepared for early offering, some of which may reach the market next week.

A. T. & T. ISSUE REACHES PEAK IN BOND MART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29. — With convertibles briskly traded on a rising scale, activity in the general list on the stock exchange bond market today was a little above the average short session. Prices were firm.

American Telephone 4½s, traded at the rate of $1,000,000 an hour, reached a new high in line with the movement in the shares. Missouri Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and New Haven convertibles also were strong.

New York Central 3½s, Florida East Coast 5s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, Ogdensburg and Lake Champlain 4s and St. Paul adjustments were among the strong rails. United Steel Works 6½s were one of the most active spots in the foreign list, showing good gain in the first hour, but falling back again.

The market this week passed through a period of uncertainty, easing off slightly from the highs reached on last week's notable burst of strength.

Denies Rumors Current About Stutz Motor Car Co.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29.—Before leaving today on a business trip by airplane for California, E. S. Gorrell, president of the Stutz Motor Car company, issued a statement denying reports relative to the Stutz company which, he said, had been widely circulated. Mr. Gorrell denied that the company is contemplating removal to St. Louis; that the plant is closed down; that its output is being sold at cut prices, and that it is heavily in debt. He said all such "damaging misstatements and rumors" are untrue.

Standard Investing Corp. Assets Over 14 Millions

LONDON MART IS OPTIMISTIC, BUSY, BUOYANT

Investment Wants Are Spreading.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—The week ended here in a rush to secure substantial profits, which somewhat stemmed the stimulus of activity and continued buoyancy the markets experienced in gilt edged and other interest bearing securities.

Optimism for the immediate future trend of business, however, is still rampant, with pessimism apparently firmly relegated to the background. The investment demands are now spreading to banking, insurance and leading industrial shares after a concerted demand for all kinds of British government securities.

Recent American Buying.

THE TRIBUNE learns authoritatively, as an explanation for the substantial rise in funding loan to over 92, that extensive American buying of this stock, as well as of other British gilt edged securities, occurred in the last few days. The principal and interest of funding loan is payable free of all British taxes to holders not domiciled or ordinarily residents of the United Kingdom, and therefore has obvious attractions to American purchasers.

This week's appreciation of the New York dollar-sterling rate, which has been a feature of the foreign exchange market, has been associated in many quarters with these American purchases of British gilt edged stocks. The present sterling-dollar rate is said to afford no ground for a current rumor anticipating gold shipments from the United States to Europe in the near future.

Conversion Offer Rumored.

Some financial sections suggest that this week's rise in the New York sterling-dollar rate was deliberately engineered in order to allow the New York Federal Reserve bank to part with some of its superfluous metal, a contingency regarded in reliable city circles as remote under the satisfactory present conditions of the money market.

The boom in gilt edged stocks has naturally given fresh life to the impression that a big government conversion offer is contemplated. All sorts of rumors are abroad, but definite details are not available from official sources.

PARIS BOURSE LESS ACTIVE

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—The Paris bourse failed to maintain the substantial improvements noted last week. The opening session, although holding the price level near to those of Saturday, prved a deception to many traders looking forward to a lively session. Due to the heavy profit selling of professional traders, the downward tendency which developed was attributed to the fact that important questions relative to the budget and the ratification of the Young plan are before the chamber of deputies.

Although it was expected that the confidence vote on the Young plan in the chamber on Thursday would further improve the market, it remained inactive on Friday. The bourse is still awaiting the application of the program of tax reductions and remains indifferent to the political situation and the growing activity of Wall street.

HEAR N. Y. MAY HAVE ANOTHER "BIGGEST" BANK

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Reports of a proposed merger of three so-called Morgan banks, the Guaranty Trust company, the Bankers Trust company, and the New York Trust company, creating the world's largest banking institution with resources exceeding $3,000,000,000, lacked confirmation today.

Such a bank would eclipse in size the Chase National, which is absorbing the Equitable Trust and the Interstate Trust to form a $2,800,000,000 bank, popularly identified with the Rockefeller interests.

The three trust companies mentioned in the latest consolidation rumor had resources last Dec. 31 of approximately $3,200,000,000. Guaranty Trust last summer acquired the National Bank of Commerce.

The popularity of natural gas securities at this time is well merited.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—Cotton goods held steady with a fair amount of spot and April business being done on gray goods. Blankets have been advanced. Raw silk is quiet and manufacturers of hosiery and fabrics are buying less in consequence of quiet trade. Wool goods are steadier with moderate advances reported. Burlaps were irregular in Calcutta and official quotations here are unchanged.

Unusual Opportunity for Ambitious Man

Responsible corporation requires 3 seasoned salesmen in connection with its big expansion program. Preference will be given to men who are ambitious to advance, as we will need three or four additional sales executives during 1930 for Chicago and other cities. Men of the right type, who believe they can employ, train and direct other salesmen, will be assisted to qualify for these positions.

Work dignified and pleasant, dealing with corporation officials. Attractive selling proposition, without real competition. (Not real estate, insurance or securities.) Only men of strong personality and selling power considered.

March fresh egg futures closed at 24⅜c, a drop of ⅛c with the settlement ⅛c lower, in a listless market. Other deliveries held unchanged. Sales were 19 cars and receipts, 23,377 cases. Prices follow:

Experienced Contract Closer

A firm of Industrial Engineers, operating nationally, needs a salesman of unusual calibre. His chief qualification will be a proved record at closing large contracts for services or other intangibles.

He must be dynamic, a forceful talker, big enough to convince presidents and other executives of large corporations. Either he should be a graduate engineer or he should have had contact with problems of manufacture and industrial management. Preferably 30 to 35 years of age.

The man we select will be slated at once for the position of Assistant Sales Manager, and must measure up to that opening. For a year or more he will be required to travel considerably. A base salary of $350 a month, plus expenses, plus commission. The opening offers immediate opportunity to make $8,000 to $10,000 a year, or more. Give full particulars in first letter. Our salesmen know of this advertisement.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The wheat market has become largely a weather affair, with less disposition to press the short side and an increasing inclination to buy on every sharp break. Monday statistics are expected to be moderately bullish, and should there be no rain in the southwest over Sunday an increase in the buying force and a good rally is expected. There was a large order for bids and offers on July wheat at the close, which attracted special attention, as it came from one of the largest wire houses with extensive eastern connections.

A Board of Trade membership sold yesterday at $16,000. The buyer was James A. Caveny Jr., the 22 year old son of James A. Caveny, one of the oldest members of the Chicago Board of Trade and a member of the firm of Farrol Bros. Young Caveny recently graduated from Georgetown university.

A corn specialist makes the point that with the present rate of disappearance there will be little corn left in the visible supply by the end of July. The pit element are more mixed in their views as to the future course of prices and until more is known about the prospective acreage and the disposition on the part of farmers to sell, they are going a little slow on the buying side, except on breaks.

Estimates on the visible supply of wheat are for a decrease of 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 bu for the week, compared with a decrease of 641,000 bu last year. Kansas City decreased 319,000 bu, Minneapolis 140,000 bu, Chicago had a fair decrease, Duluth is to increase 600,000 bu. A fair decrease is expected in corn. Last year it decreased 389,000 bu. World's shipments of wheat for the week are estimated at 11,000,000 bu, against 8,847,000 bu the previous week and 18,062,000 bu last year.

FRANCE SPENDS MORE TO BOOST FOREIGN TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—The expansion of France's foreign trade and her growing political dominance in Europe are brought home by the publication of the budget for 1930 of the ministry of foreign affairs, which amounts to 280,000,000 francs.

In 1914 the foreign budget amounted to only 20,000,000 francs; thus it has more than tripled, even allowing for depreciation of the franc. One of the principal items in the budget is that entitled "French enterprises abroad." This means commercial propaganda and the fostering of French business, in other words, France's bid for world trade.

For these purposes 57,000,000 francs are to be spent, as against 2,000,000 francs in 1914. Thus, France is now spending six times as much as before the war to develop her foreign trade. Most of this money, the budget report shows, is being spent in North and South America on such works as the new French center in New York, indicating that France is gradually learning the importance of publicity.

COTTON FAIRLY SUPPORTED

Cotton was picked up on all weak spots yesterday, with a fair general trade and a steadier undertone. Higher cables from Liverpool with a close 3 to 8 points higher and spot sales of 2,700 bales had a steadying influence on American market values. Weather reports were unfavorable, with temperatures too low and rain over a good part of the eastern belt. The close was around the best prices and futures in Chicago 1 to 9 points higher, May leading and outside markets up 3 to 12 points.

Spot cotton in New York advanced 10 points to 16.10c, New Orleans gained 5 points to 15.55c, Galveston was 15.90c and Houston, 15.75c. Worth street reported a good business on Saturday and sales for the month of March are said to exceed production. Fall River business, however, was quiet. Prices follow:

CHICAGO AND NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY
NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company will be held at the office of the company, 400 West Madison Street, in the City of Chicago, Illinois, on Tuesday, April 8, 1930, at eleven o'clock a. m., for the election of directors and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before said meeting.

The books for the transfer of stock will be closed on Tuesday, March 4, 1930, at the close of business on that day, and will be reopened on Wednesday, April 9, 1930.

Dated, February 15, 1930.

FRED W. SARGENT, President.
JOHN D. CALDWELL, Secretary.

BUYING ORDERS WAKE VISIONS OF GOOD OLD DAYS

Turnover Is Heavy in Short Session.

of yesterday. Peoples Gas was pegged up another 3 points, Pacific Gas rose 2 points, and various less active issues of the group scored gains of from a fraction to more than a point.

Chemical shares were again strong, Allied Chemical and Dye, the leader of the department, shooting up for some 7 points.

Merchandising stocks did a little better. The pressure against Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck eased somewhat. Montgomery Ward showed a slight gain, in fact, at the end of the session, while the other was unchanged from last night's closing figure.

A severe squeeze of shorts in Radio brought that stock into renewed prominence at new peak prices for 1930. The closing sale reflected a net gain of more than 2 points on the day. Prices throughout the list were fairly well maintained in spite of the final hour profit taking.

The volume of sales for the two hour session was at the rate of nearly 7,000,000 shares for a full five hour session.

The breadth and strength of the market just now reflects a world-wide demand for American securities. Foreign funds have been pouring into the market as well as American capital. The high character of the buying is evidenced by the demand for the soundest investment stocks in the list. The feeling seems to be that regardless of the business reaction they are good long pull purchases, as eventually times are bound to improve.

Cites Contention.

Wall street has long contended that the spectacle of a persistently advancing market provides the greatest incentive for public participation in speculative activities. Its views along that line are seemingly being borne out again by what is now happening. The psychological effect of the sweeping advance of the past fortnight has been far reaching.

As yet the usual barometers, such as brokers' loans, do not indicate the reëntry of the public in a large way. Rather these figures suggest that buying of stocks has been largely for cash rather than for "marginal" account. But commission houses, particularly those doing out of town business, contend that the public is coming in heavily and ascribed a large part of the buying which sent stocks forward swiftly today to that source.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Fair with some cloudiness, slightly warmer in central and northwest portions Sunday; Monday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

ower Michigan—Partly cloudy to cloudy Sunday, possibly a few local snows; Monday fair with increasing cloudiness and rising temperature.

Apartment Hunters—

"What Facts About Apartments Should Want Ads Tell?"

$700.00 IN RENTAL MONEY

Each Week for the Best Answers

APARTMENT hunters! What facts about apartments should want ads tell? In your opinion, what Tribune Apartment-to-Rent Want Ads are the most effective in getting your attention—in making you want actually to see the property advertised?

Landlords and tenants for years have found the Tribune Want Ad section their most convenient meeting place. Owners and agents display their offerings here, where they know people will be hunting. Tenants, accordingly, shop here because of the extensive choice offered.

But why do some of these offerings attract more prospects than others? Why do some ads cause you to make a personal inspection and why do other ads fail to get your particular interest?

For the best entries submitted on this subject in accordance with these rules, the Chicago Tribune will award the following cash prizes:

One month's rent for the best entry from renters who pay less than $75.00 a month under their new leases.

One month's rent for the best entry from renters who pay more than $75.00 per month and less than $125, under their new leases.

One month's rent for the best entry from renters who pay more than $125 under their new leases, and up to a maximum of $500.

Here's All You Need to Do

1. Cut out or copy from the Apartment-to-Rent columns of the daily or Sunday Tribune not more than five Want Ads and mark them "Good."

2. Cut out or copy not more than three other Apartment-to-Rent Want Ads and mark them "Poor."

3. Write down the main points that you usually want to know about an apartment before taking the trouble to inspect it.

4. Note the coupon. Fill this in or write this same information on another piece of paper and attach it to the Want Ads which you have clipped or selected.

This offer is open to all apartment hunters who sign new leases for apartments at new addresses between March 16, 1930, and May 17, 1930, in Chicago and in the suburban territory included within a 40-mile radius of Tribune Tower. Tribune employes and their families are barred.

Three Prizes Each Week

A cash sum equal to your rent for one month (up to $500.00) will be paid to you by the Tribune if your entry is adjudged the best in YOUR rental group. The groups are as follows:

1. Those who pay $75.00 or less rent per month.

2. Those who pay more than $75.00, but less than $125.00 rent per month.

3. Those who pay $125.00 or more rent per month. In this group the maximum amount paid will be $500.00.

NOTE: You do not have to lease an apartment that has been advertised in the Chicago Tribune. Nor do you necessarily have to sign a lease this week to be eligible for an award.

This week's prizes will be selected from entries which are received in the Tribune office before 6 p. m. on Saturday, April 5, 1930.

IN ADDITION, there will be a Grand Prize awarded for the best entry submitted during the life of the contest, to be selected from ALL the weekly entries. This Grand Prize will be a sum equal to one full year's rent under the terms of the winner's new lease, up to a maximum of $2,400.00.

Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune and their decisions will be final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be given. All awards will be paid in cash to winners, not to landlords or agents.

You need not buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may clip the Want Ads from the paper or you may copy them down on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

Awards, weekly and grand prize, will be announced in the Chicago Tribune as soon as possible.

Entries should be addressed to "RENTERS' CONTEST NO. 3," the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Illinois. The Tribune regrets that no entries can be returned, nor can correspondence be entered into on this subject.

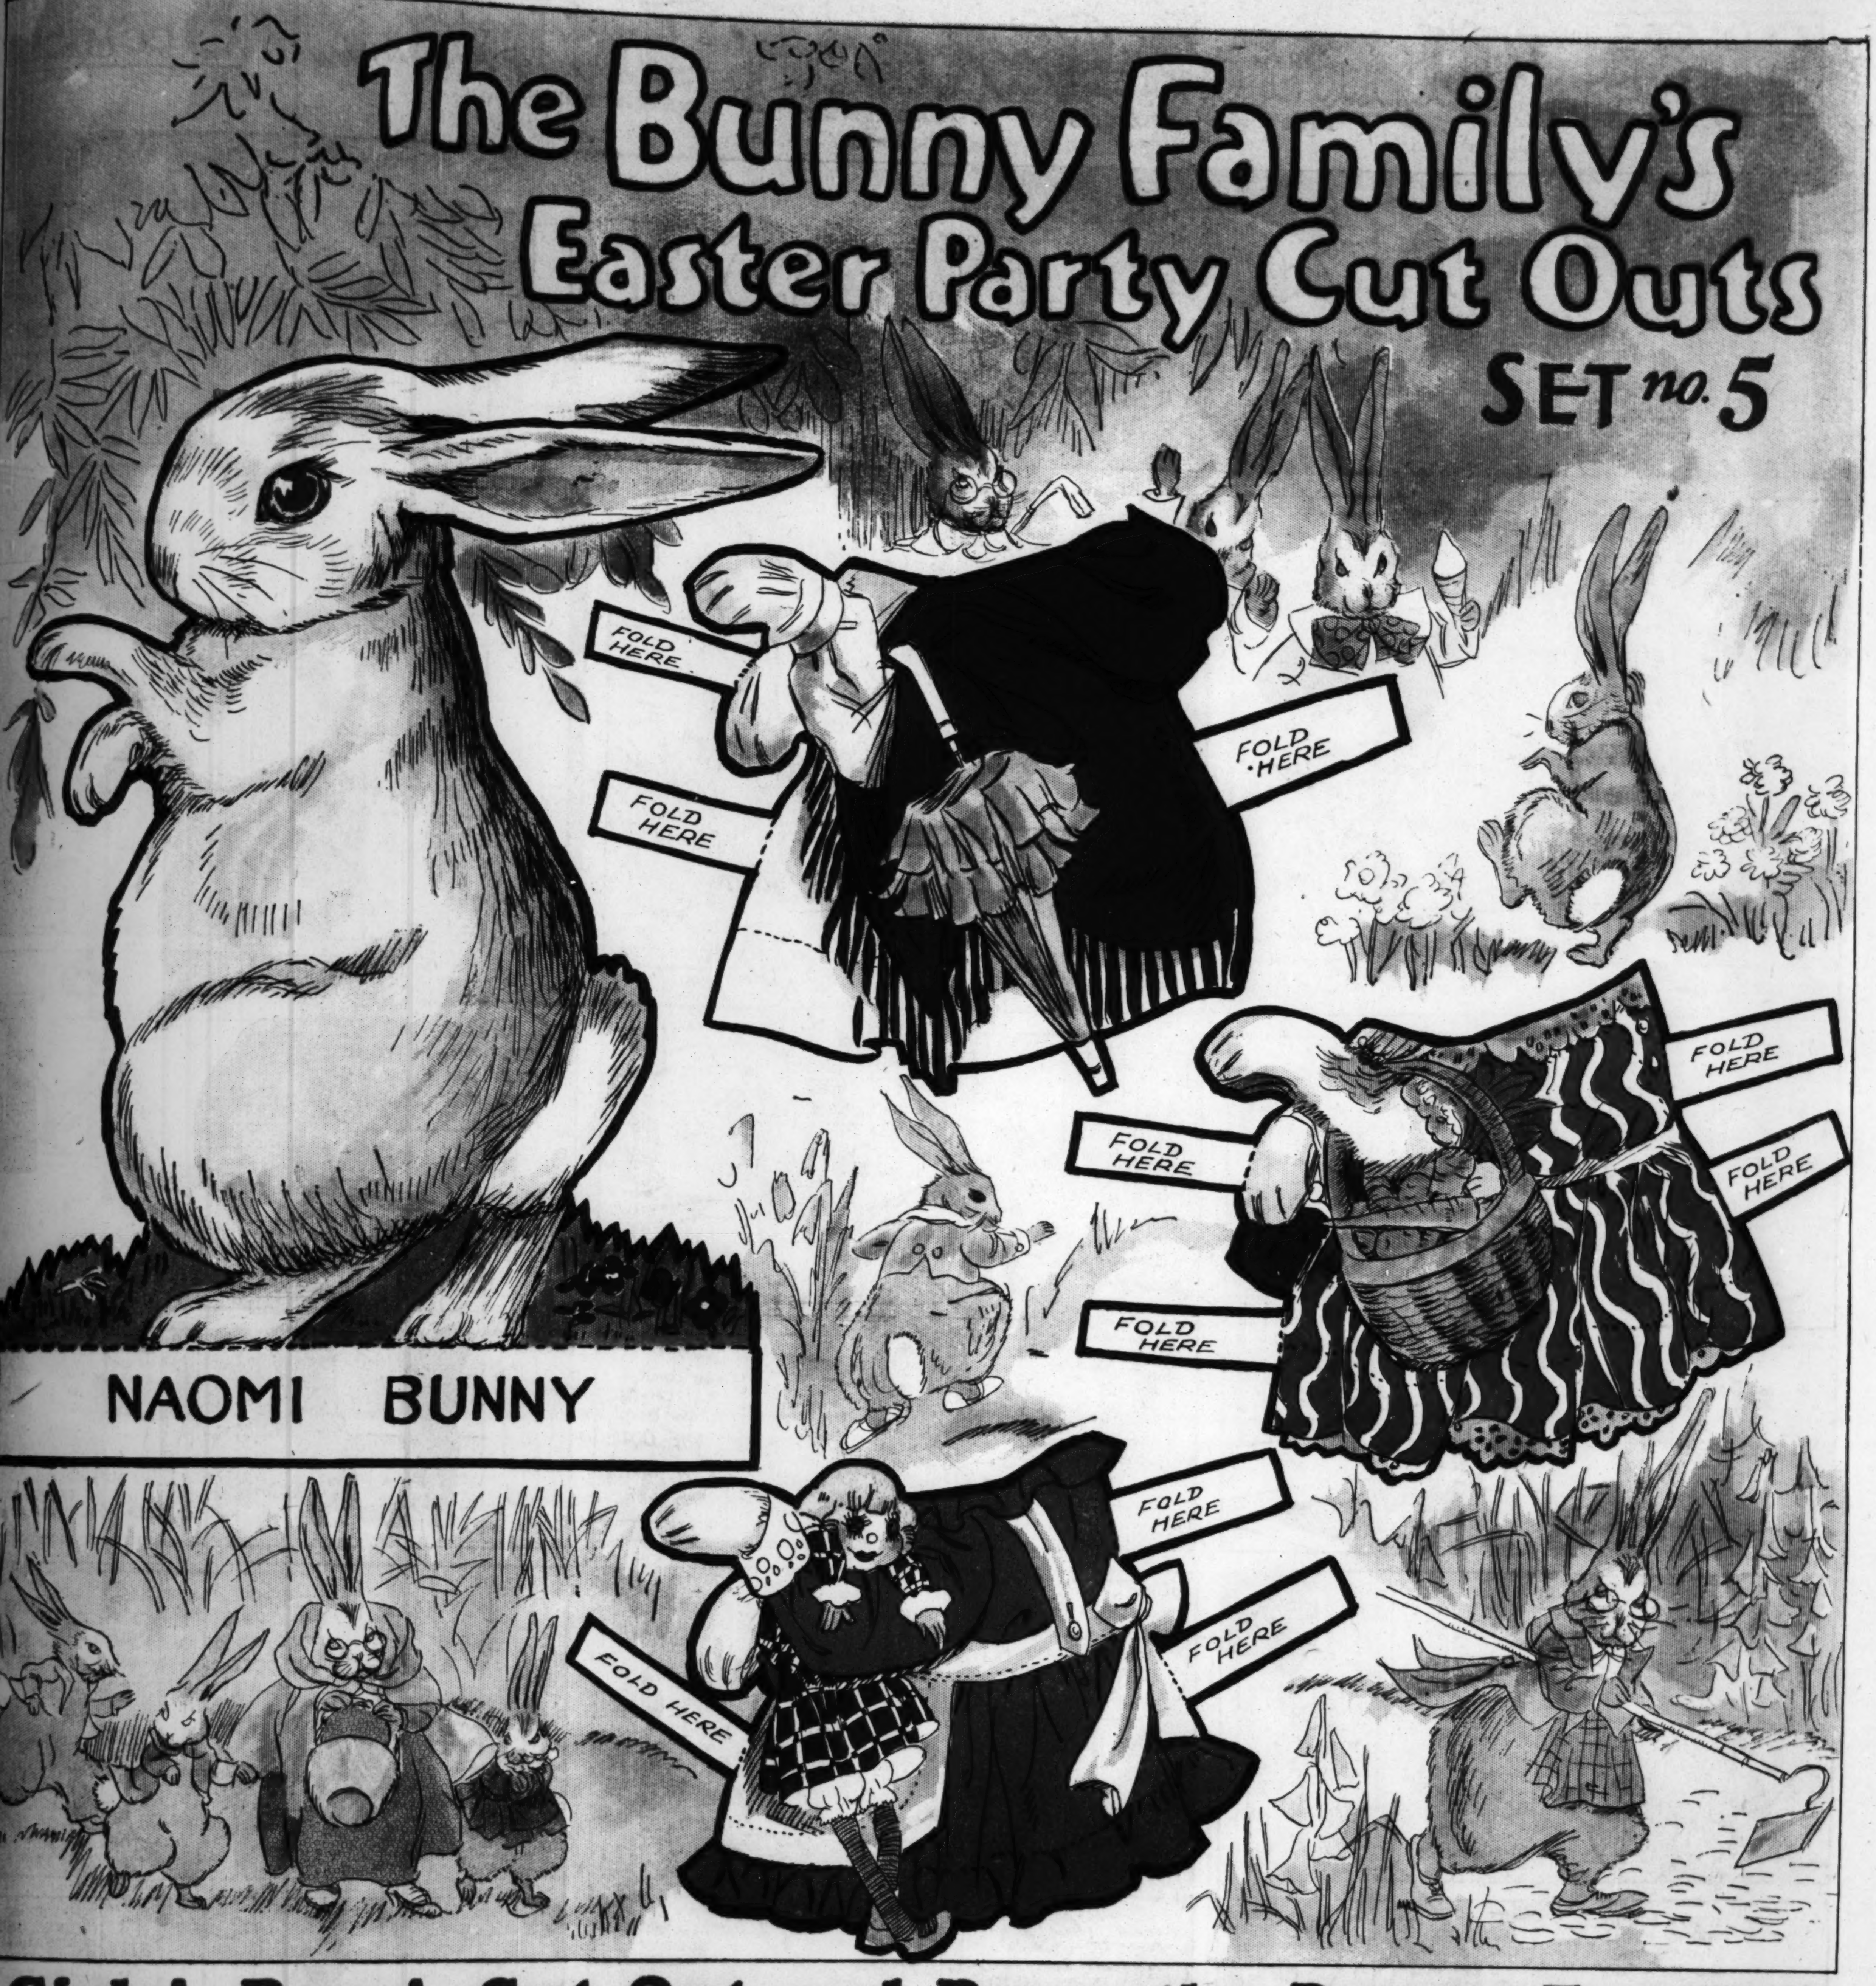
The Bunny Family's Easter Party Cut Outs

SET no. 5



Girls! Boys! Cut Out and Dress the Bunny Family!

$2,500.00 IN CASH PRIZES!

Children! Here's great fun! And a chance to win a big Cash Prize!

Easter is coming! And here we have the Bunny Family Easter Party Cut-Outs. Can you cut and dress the Bunny Family?

Each Sunday until and including Easter Sunday, the Chicago Tribune will print a page of Bunny Family colored Cut-Outs. These interesting groups, which appear in the same place each week (as page 7 of the colored comic section) began on March 2, when Set No. 1 was published. Many who failed to start in the game of Cut-Outs the first week found out what a fascinating game it proved to be when they looked over the section the second or the third week, and they then joined in. Because of the heavy demand for papers, many had been unable to get copies from news stands on the first two Sundays.

As a result the early groups were reprinted the second and third Sundays, so that as many as wished might then start in the competition which offers much fun and enjoyment, as well as liberal cash prizes.

Those who failed to start in the first three weeks, however, still may do so by obtaining back copies containing the earlier sets.

Just follow these simple instructions: Each Cut-Out contains several dresses or costumes. Take scissors, cut out the Bunny and the costumes. Then dress the Bunny in the costume which you believe looks best. The small extensions marked "FOLD BACK" are to fasten the dress to the Bunny and should not be visible in front when the figure is complete.

Each fits the Bunny of that set. Try them. Which do you like best? Hold the one you like best.

You may paste or pin the costume on the Bunnies. You may paste them on paper, on cardboard, in scrap books, or any other form to send them in.

CAUTION: Do not send Bunnies one at a time. Wait until all 8 have been printed and you have dressed them and then send the entire set of 8 to "Bunnies," the Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 1720, Chicago, Ill.

The Chicago Tribune will pay $2,500 in Cash Prizes to the children who send in the neatest and best entries. See the prize list opposite.

You can use the prize money to buy anything you want. Or you can start or add to a Savings Account at the Bank. This offer is open to every girl and boy except children of Tribune employes. You pay nothing. All entries must be in within 15 days after Cut-Out No. 8 is published.

You do not have to buy The Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the Cut-Outs and send in your copies. The Tribune may be examined at our Offices or Public Libraries free of charge. In case of ties duplicate prizes will be paid.

THE INSPIRATIONAL COMMAND, "Don't give up the ship!" was voiced by Capt. David Lawrence, commander of the U. S. frigate Chesapeake, 117 years ago in June and since has been enshrined as a principle in the United States Navy, as well as a proud expression by the populace generally. To perpetuate the words of the dying officer, a classic painting of the scene in which the British frigate Shannon was victorious was executed by Alonzo Chappell. The reproduction is from an etching, colored.

THIS WAS THE LIVELIEST WEST POINT CADET who ever snapped to attention: Jack Donahue, as the dancing soldier-boy in the musical comedy called "Rosalie." That show is easily remembered because its heroine might have been Princess Ileana of Rumania, whose ill-starred betrothal was a matter of recent news.

MARILYNN MILLER has been the dream-girl of every college student for the past ten years or more. Here she is depicted in the role of a Balkan princess who flirted with West Point cadets, in the recent but not forgotten "Rosalie."

WHEN IT COMES TO SINGING SOUBRETTES, toy size, Ilse Marvenga comes close to the top of the list. Her name suggests a German origin. She became an opera singer there; then adopted the American stage, and has been frolicking in Emma Trentini's old role in the revival of Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta."

"now that is what I mean by charm"

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt approves the distinguished simplicity of these rooms with their fine maple furniture

■ Delighted with their tasteful groupings, their complete livableness, Mrs. Vanderbilt gives to these rooms her whole-hearted sponsorship. And so they are passed on to you as models which you can easily adapt in your own home, using the very same pieces—at less than it would cost you to secure ordinary effects with ordinary furniture!

■ For now Berkey & Gay, more than seventy-five years America's foremost makers of fine furniture, offer you the new Berkey & Gay Group Plan—furniture produced in harmonious style groups (not "suites") calculated to meet a great variety of needs, and a great variety of incomes, too!

Each group gives you a choice of sofas at various prices—of chairs, any one in perfect style harmony with the sofa you have chosen. Any dining table goes with any dining chair or buffet in the same group. An inexpensive bed is at home with an expensive dresser, an inexpensive dresser with an expensive bed. You make your own combinations, within the group, at your own budget.

■ And you will never want or need to replace Berkey & Gay Group Furniture. Authentically styled, it is styled for permanence. As your home expands, you can add individual pieces, one or two at a time, as with open stock in china. They will fit in perfectly with the pieces you acquire now.

By concentrating on authentic period styles, Berkey & Gay will eliminate all the expensive waste of carrying over out-dated merchandise, of styling and restyling for every new season. These savings make possible retail prices hitherto unheard of for furniture of this quality.

■ Buy furniture for permanence! Start at once to build your own collection of fine Berkey & Gay Furniture, even if it is with a single low-priced piece. The rooms shown here, with the furniture priced in the captions, indicate the wonderful possibilities you can build to.

The first of the Berkey & Gay Groups is the Old Colony, American Colonial in mahogany and maple. The Old Colony pieces illustrated are now on display at all the best stores in your community. Visit these displays tomorrow.

The interesting four-poster at $98.00, and the highboy, $168.00, make this a perfect Colonial bedroom. Equally Colonial is the settee, $139.00, which can also be used in the living room, as above. So can the rag rug covered chair, $126.00, the side table, $38.00, and the bench, $26.00. The standing toilet, $34.00, is one of the most distinguished of the Berkey & Gay reproductions in this group

All prices ten per cent higher west of the Rockies

An unusual and most interesting feature of this dining room, but in the best Early American tradition, is the variety of chairs grouped around the table. The arm chair is $37.00, and the chairs to match it, $23.00 each. The ladder-back is $53.00, and the remaining pair, $21.00 each. The butterfly extension dining table is $79.00. Welsh china cabinet, $84.00. The arm chair by the fireplace, $29.00. And the Old Colony Group has a large number of other dining room pieces at prices which will meet any budget!

"—if an Italian recommended it—I knew I could ask for nothing better!"

. . . . writes Mrs. Fox.

Corn Products Refining Company,
New York City

Gentlemen:

As a salad oil, Mazola is certainly without an equal. For several years I had used olive oil for salad dressings—with no particularly unusual results.

One day I was in a fruit store and was amazed to see some cans of Mazola on their shelves. Knowing that the men were all Italians in this store, I said to the manager—"How is it you have cans of Mazola on your shelves and no olive oil? I know very well that all good Italians never would use anything but the best olive oil!"

"Why, we use Mazola all the time," said the fruitman, waving his hands to aid his explanation and to add to his enthusiasm. "No more olive oil—this Mazola is very, very fine. You try it sometime!"

So I did. I tried it then—for if an Italian recommended it—and with such wholehearted enthusiasm, I knew that I could ask for nothing better—and I can't! It is far more economical, more time-saving and more space-saving—by no means small items of importance. Perhaps it is laughable, but it is very true, that I do not like salad dressing made with olive oil any more!

Here is our favorite French Dressing and I believe that a French Dressing—where the oil is uncooked—is the best test of oil:—

½ teaspoon paprika 1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons vinegar 8 tablespoons Mazola

This is delicious on either lettuce and tomato salad, water-cress or cole-slaw.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. Walter S. Fox
Brookline, Mass.

Mrs. Fox is one of the many progressive women who have discovered that Mazola equals the finest imported oils in every respect—yet costs about half as much. For purity, quality and flavor—the world affords no finer oil for salads than Mazola.

WHAT WAS WRONG WITH THE BATHROOM

THE housewife to whom this bathroom belongs visited a friend in whose home she saw a new Church Toilet Seat. And now her bathroom looks like new.

There are many other good homes in which an old, worn-out toilet seat gives the entire bathroom a run-down, shabby appearance—something which may cause embarrassment, humiliation even, when there are guests. This condition is easily and inexpensively remedied by replacing the old seat with an attractive Church Toilet Seat, white or in color.

And how easy it is to transform your bathroom to one shining with cheerful color when you choose one of the many beautiful pastel shades or sea-pearl tints in which Church Colored Seats and Bathroom Chairs can be had. Church Sani-White or Church Colored Toilet Seats with Bathroom Chairs or Stools to match, can be bought at any good plumbing store. They are easily and quickly attached to any make of bowl. With ordinary household tools any one can fasten them—in ten minutes' time. You will be surprised to see how spick and span your bathroom will look with one of the immaculate Sani-White Seats.

Let us send you our illustrated folio which tells you how Church Toilet Seats and Bathroom Chairs make it possible to transform an old bathroom at little cost. C. F. Church Manufacturing Company, Department CT, Holyoke, Massachusetts.

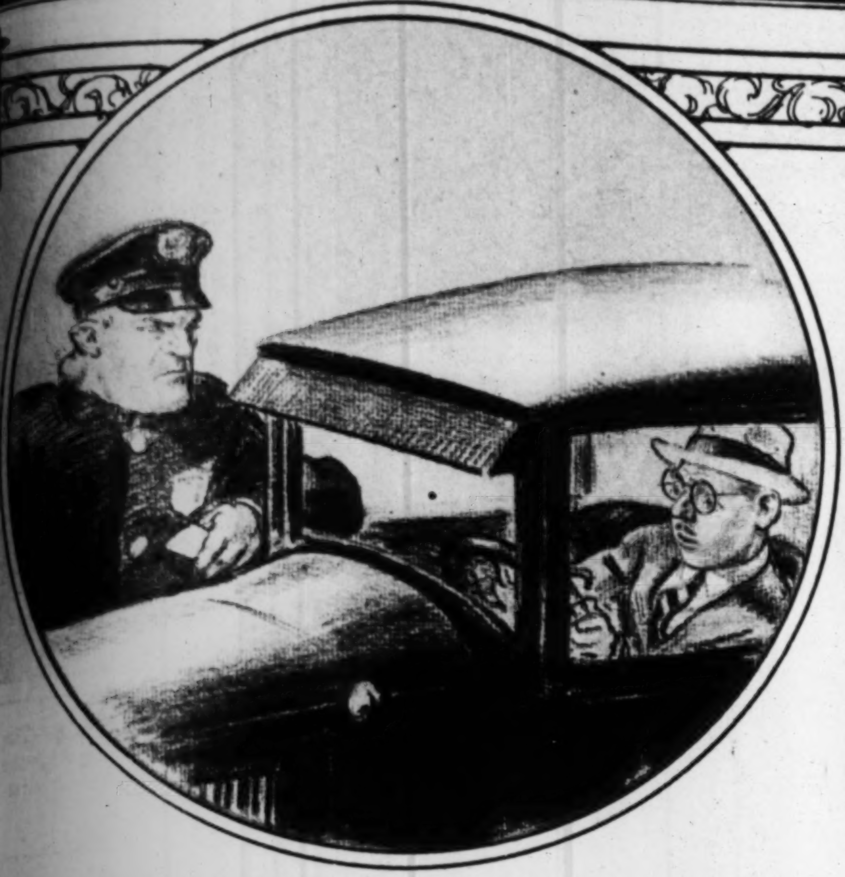
"TOILET SEATS FOR BETTER BATHROOMS"

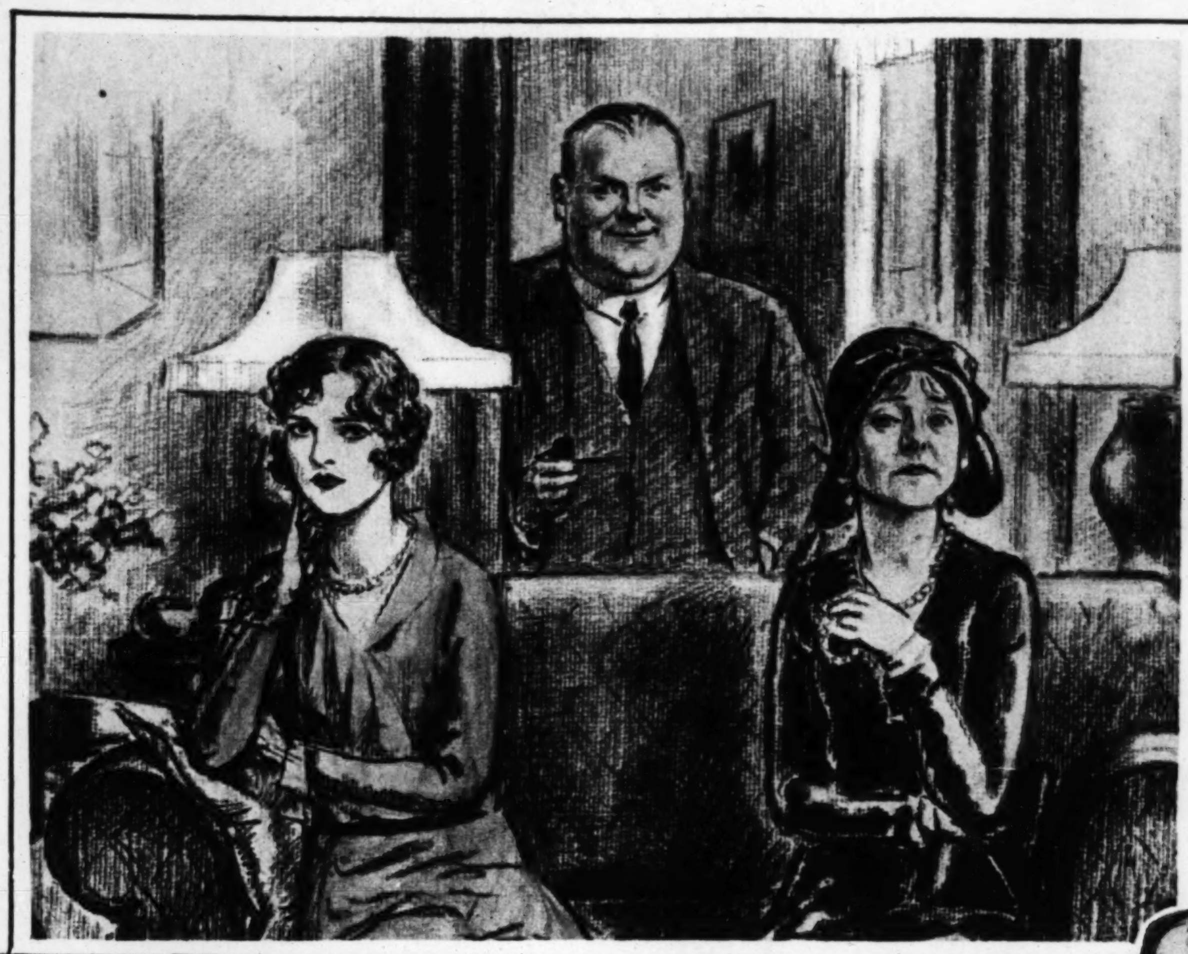
The Chronic Kidder

By W. E. Hill

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

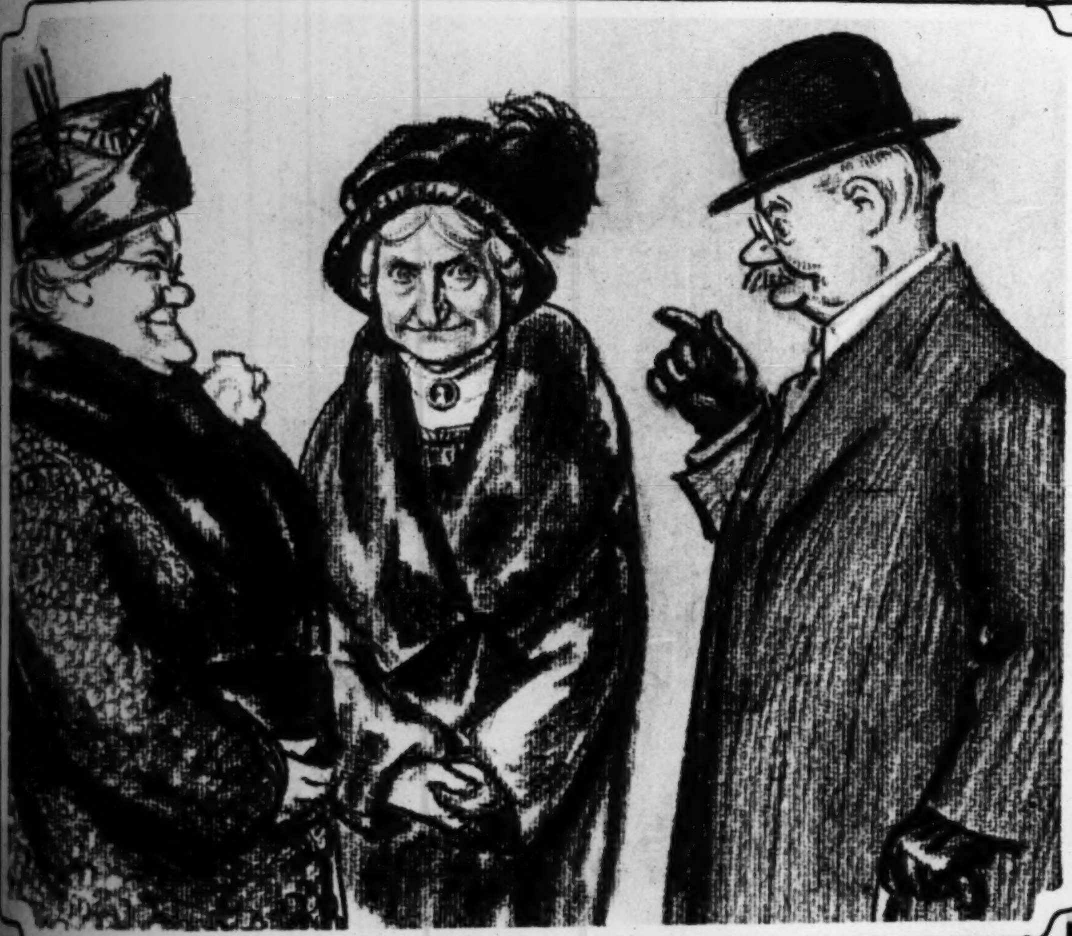


Some kidders never know when or where to stop. This one tried to kid a traffic cop with a boil on his neck. Officer Graetzinger is going to give him a nice heart-to-heart talk, and then hand him a little pink slip for remembrance.

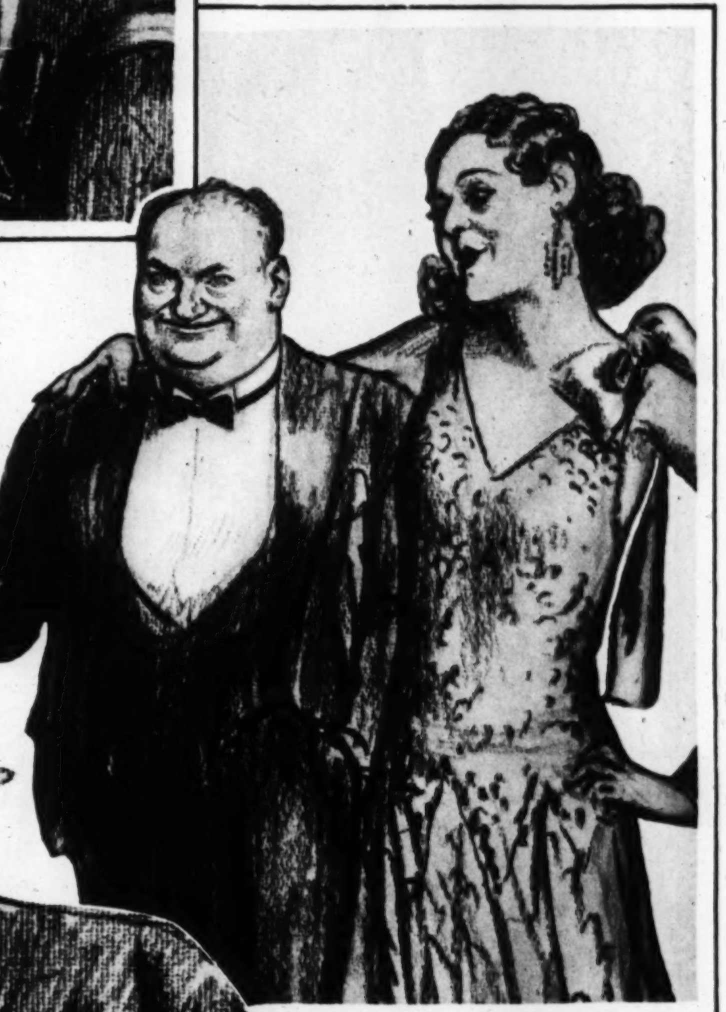


"Hello, mom! Hear you've been 'round having a group photo taken of yourself." A chronic kidder is all right around the home until he starts kidding his ma-in-law, and then somehow his line doesn't go nearly so well as with the boys in the Rotary club. (This loving husband has unfortunately broken in upon one of those heart-to-heart talks between mother and daughter—the sort of confab ending: "Well, Dorothy, I'm afraid he's just like your father, and I spent the best years of my life trying to make something out of him!")

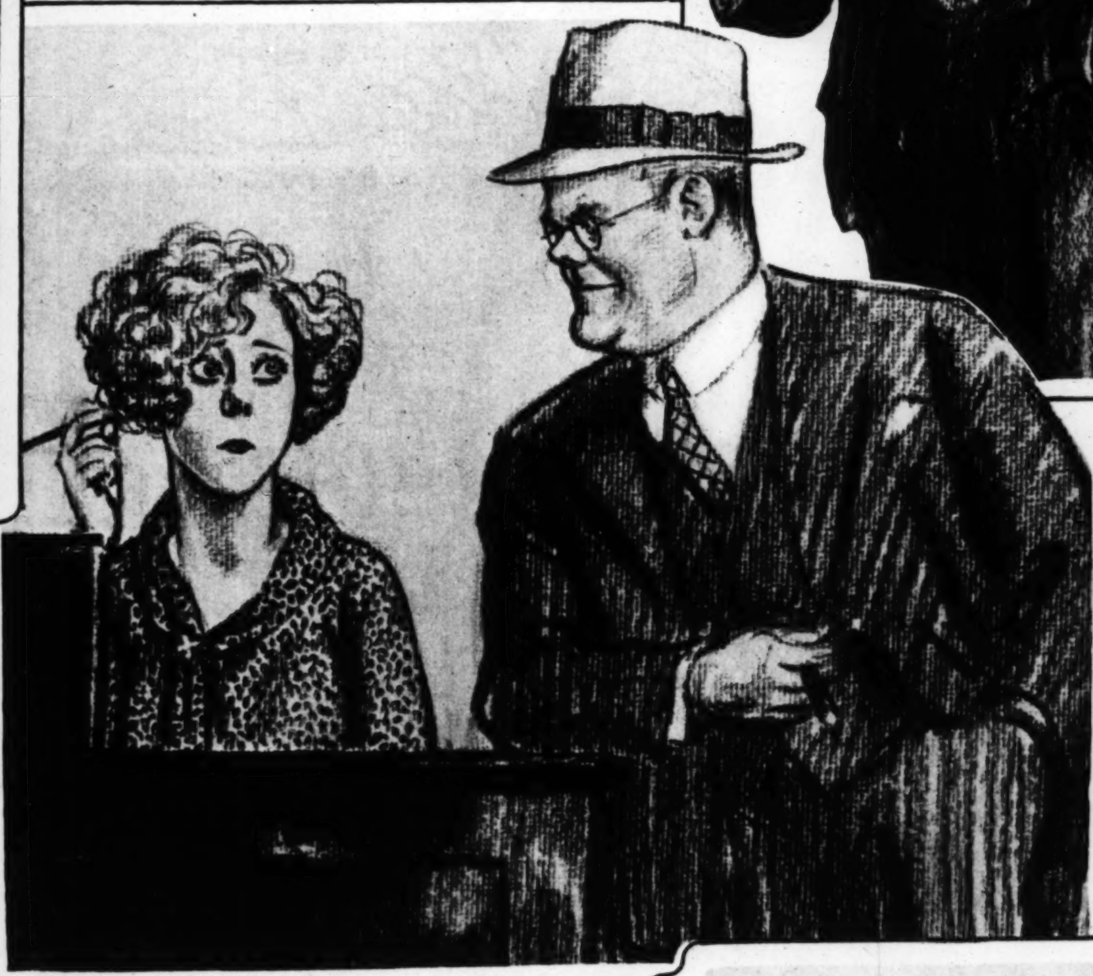
Portrait of a chronic kidder being kidded himself, for a change. These inveterate kidders love better to give than to receive.



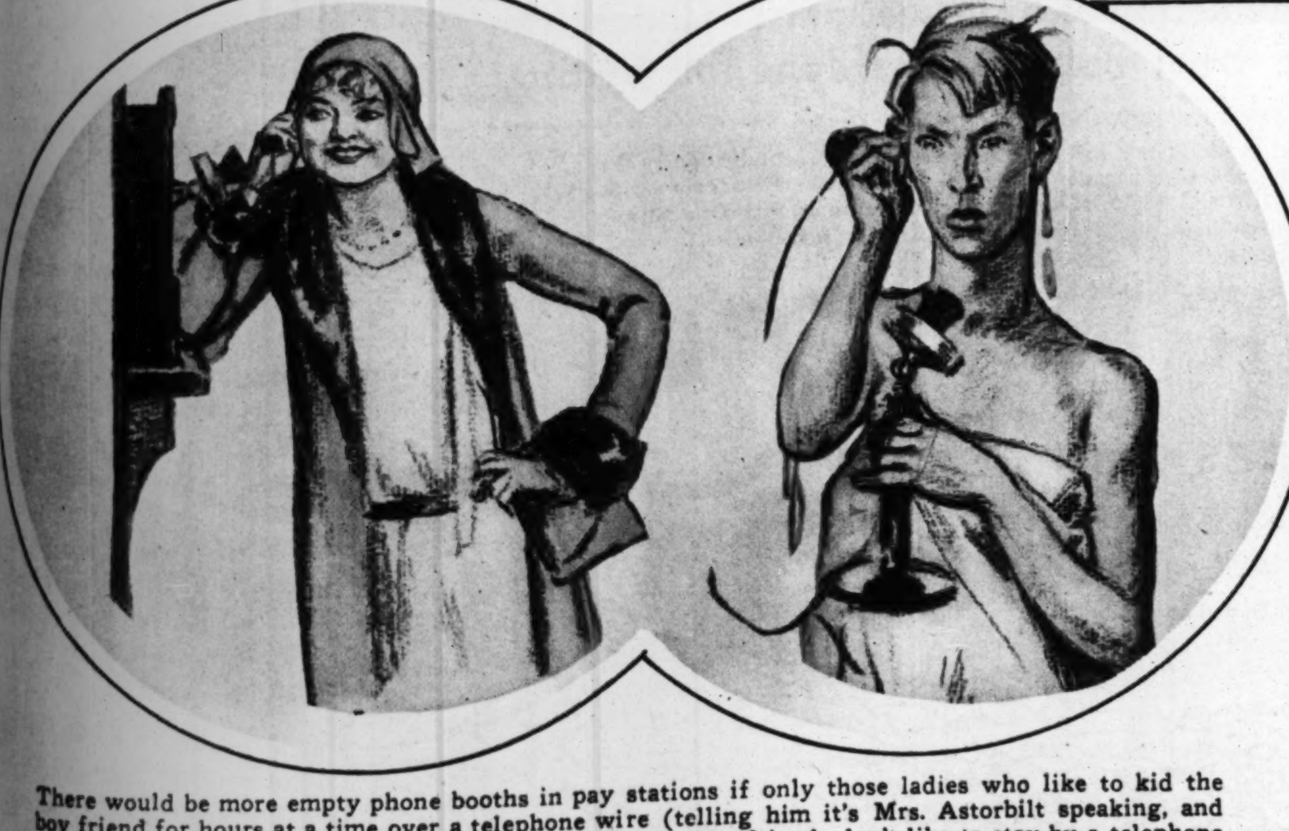
"I'll bet you girls were out making whoopee last night!" says Uncle Alvin Monkeby to the Misses Belle and Minnie Calico. The Misses Calico are delighted by the implication of deviltry and are going to kid right back, calling Uncle Monkeby an old capercutter and other names!



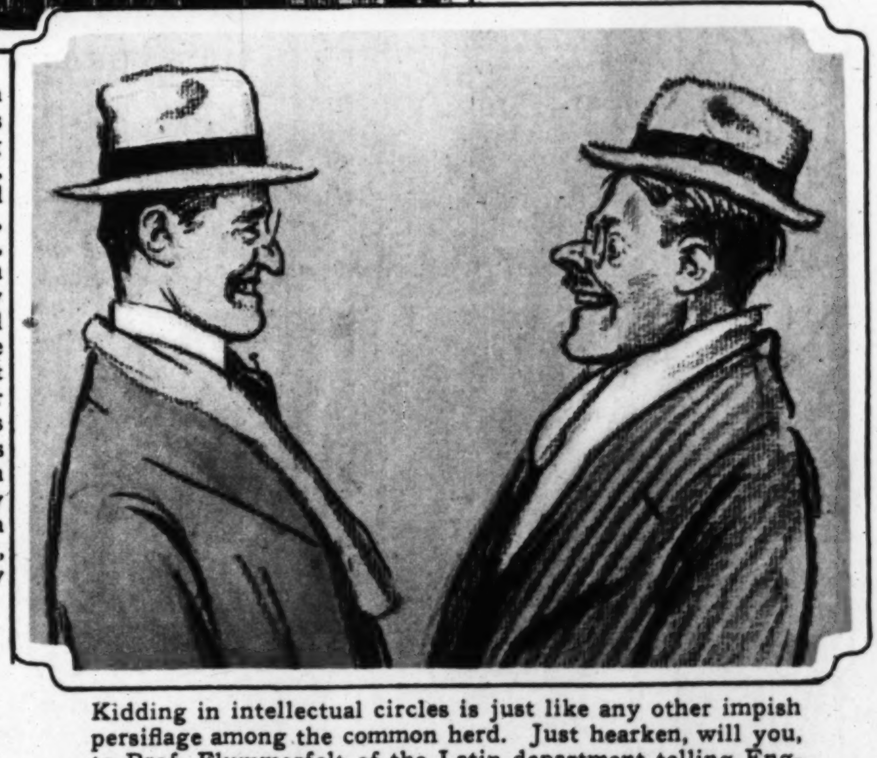
"You're jus' a dreat big naughty baby, that's what you are—jus' a naughty old baby!" This line of fancy and assorted kidding goes big with the old boys.



"I know you country girls. In bed at 9 o'clock with the cows and the chickens." Traveling salesmen are terrible kidders, especially the greeting card salesboys like Mr. Rype here, who is trying to taunt Bessie, the dining room cashier, into a heavy date. Bessie is pretty wise, even for a country lass, and knows that two and two make five if you can get it, and that there really isn't any Easter bunny, though she still believes in Santa Claus. Mr. Rype thinks he has Bessie all a-tremble with embarrassment. (Bessie is really wondering if Mr. Rype has a car, if he gets noisy on a party, and whether Mabel and her boy friend would like his type.)



There would be more empty phone booths in pay stations if only those ladies who like to kid the boy friend for hours at a time over a telephone wire (telling him it's Mrs. Astorbilt speaking, and how's the old tin can, anyway) would realize that some boy friends don't like to stay by a telephone longer than five minutes straight.



Kidding in intellectual circles is just like any other impish persiflage among the common herd. Just hearken, will you, to Prof. Flummerfelt of the Latin department telling English Instructor Link not to accept any wooden dracuma (which is Latin for nickels). And Instructor Link (who has just been giving half the freshman class in English 4, D minus, on a written test asking why Ophelia wore her rue with a difference) is coming back right royally with "Et tu, Brute"!

THE MARCHIONESS OF QUEENSBERRY

NOBLESSE OBLIGE! It is the duty of women of high degree to be perennially lovely. Beauty is theirs to guard as a sacred trust. They must be gracious in breeding, faultless in dress . . . their fresh, clear, smooth complexions always exquisitely cared for.

Among distinguished social leaders, like those listed above, Pond's four steps to beauty are assiduously followed.

For Pond's four famous preparations, as the lovely Marchioness of Queensberry says, "are not just cosmetics, but guardians of something ineffably fine and precious." Lady Violet Astor says: "Each year they make our skin look younger!" Beautiful Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., frankly admits herself to be "devoted to Pond's."

In the four photographs below, Pond's famous Method is completely illustrated. One, two, three, four simple easy steps! A balanced treatment for your skin, they give it the pore-deep cleansing, the bracing stimulus, the delicate protection it must have to be always exquisite.

FIRST STEP . . In Pond's famous Method for the exquisite care of your skin is shown below . . . immaculate cleansing with Pond's Cold Cream. Lavishly apply it all over your face and neck, several times a day and always after exposure. Pat in with quick, caressing, upward and outward strokes to ward off sagging and wrinkles. Wait a few minutes to let the fine oils sink into the pores and float all dirt to the surface. "That wonderful Cold Cream cleanses deliciously and keeps the skin supple and firm and young," says the enchanting Mrs. John Davis Lodge.

THIRD STEP . . Above you see this very important step in Pond's Method—how you tone and firm your skin and banish every lingering trace of oiliness with Pond's Skin Freshener. Soak a sizable pad of cotton and briskly dab your face and neck all over till the skin glows. This fragrant tonic and mild astringent is magical to close and reduce the pores. Faithful use will clear and brighten faded or sallow skin, keep you looking young. Sparkling Mrs. Gifford Pinchot II says, "In all the world nothing is finer and purer than Pond's delightful preparations, and the perfumed Skin Freshener bestows the gift of youth."

LAST STEP . . The perfect finishing touch—Pond's Vanishing Cream. Smooth in a delicate film before you powder. A marvelous powder base, by day it gives you needed protection from dust and wind; in the evening it guards the flower-like freshness of your skin and keeps your loveliness unruffled for hours. Keep your hands exquisite, too, with this delightful Vanishing Cream. Smooth in a little every time you've had them in water. "The Vanishing Cream gives a delightful finish and powder base," says Mrs. Adrian Iselin II. "I've used it on my hands, too, for years to keep them smooth and white."

AS CHICAGO WAS PARALYZED BY THE BIGGEST SNOW ON RECORD— View northwest on Milwaukee avenue from Division street at 10:30 p. m. at the height of the disastrous blizzard which buried the city with a 19 inch snow and made weather history during the week for the central west. The street cars are stalled; the solitary wayfarer is the only visible evidence of motion on the usually bustling street.

THE WORLD'S BUSIEST SHOPPING LANE! The camera looks southward on State street and sees virtually nothing but blizzard. Yet, surprisingly enough, night theater crowds were phenomenal; thousands of storm victims, marooned in the loop, crowded into the playhouses.

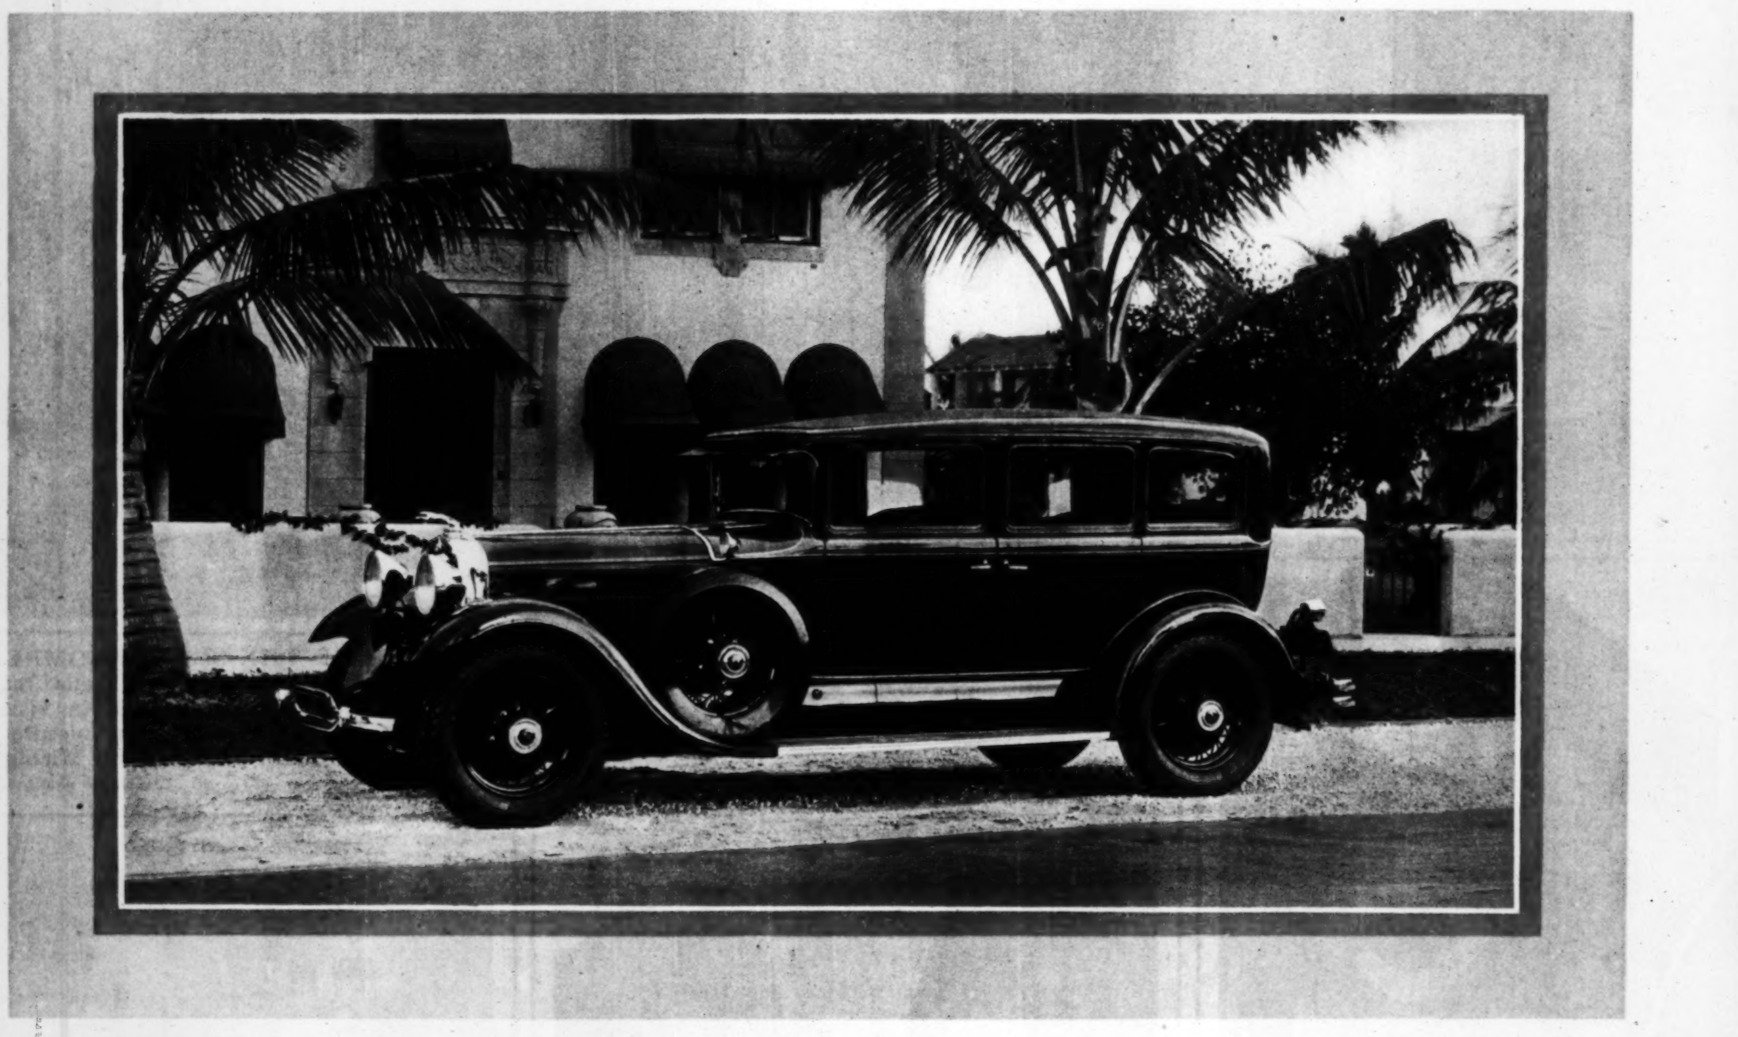
EVERY MILE
PROVES THE LINCOLN'S EXCELLENCE



THE FIVE-PASSENGER SEDAN

This is a new Lincoln body design . . . it achieves a length of line and smartness that remove it from the class of the bulky family car . . . the seats are deeply cushioned with full-tufted upholstery. . . . Lincoln motor cars can be purchased for as little as $4200, f. o. b. Detroit.

IN MAKING the Lincoln, operations that best can be performed by hand are in the hands of fine craftsmen. Things that best can be done by machine are performed by machines that are the admiration of the engineering world. There are delicate tests and measurements, precise borings, accurate applications of tremendous force that never could be achieved by craftsmen unaided. But some of the machines cost large sums, and it is indicative of Lincoln quality that their use often retards the speed of production. ◆ Only a plant inspired by a relentless enthusiasm for perfection and backed by unlimited resources, would and could afford to maintain all these marvelous aids of which the modern engineer and craftsman dream. ◆ From the only such plant in existence, comes the long-lived, powerful Lincoln . . . so precisely constructed that it requires no breaking in. Its making involves no worry about speed of production, no fretting over the high cost of superior materials, no single concern save the ambition of its makers to put on the roads of the world the finest motor car that unrestricted effort can achieve.

THE LINCOLN

Corrects Oily Skin

Makes old-looking skin youthfully clear—refines large pores—corrects oily skin—removes blackheads

Cremed magnesia corrects oily skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

Poor-color complexions, oily skin and blemishes are due to acid-skin impurities. And, everybody knows there is nothing like magnesia to neutralize acid. So, when the face is massaged with cremed magnesia the skin throws off even the most deep-set pore impurities. It corrects oily skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

Cremed magnesia rejuvenates the complexion so quickly that any face looks years younger in five minutes. It changes old-looking, poor-color skin to youthful clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. It's astringent; it reduces enlarged pores to the finest texture and smooths out the tell-tale lines of age.

It removes make-up better than soap or cleansing cream. And, because it's so mild, it's a blessing for fine, sensitive skin that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Doctors urge their wives, patients and nurses to use nothing but magnesia to cleanse and beautify the complexion.

When you use it you will at once see why druggists find it hard to get enough to supply the tremendous demand.

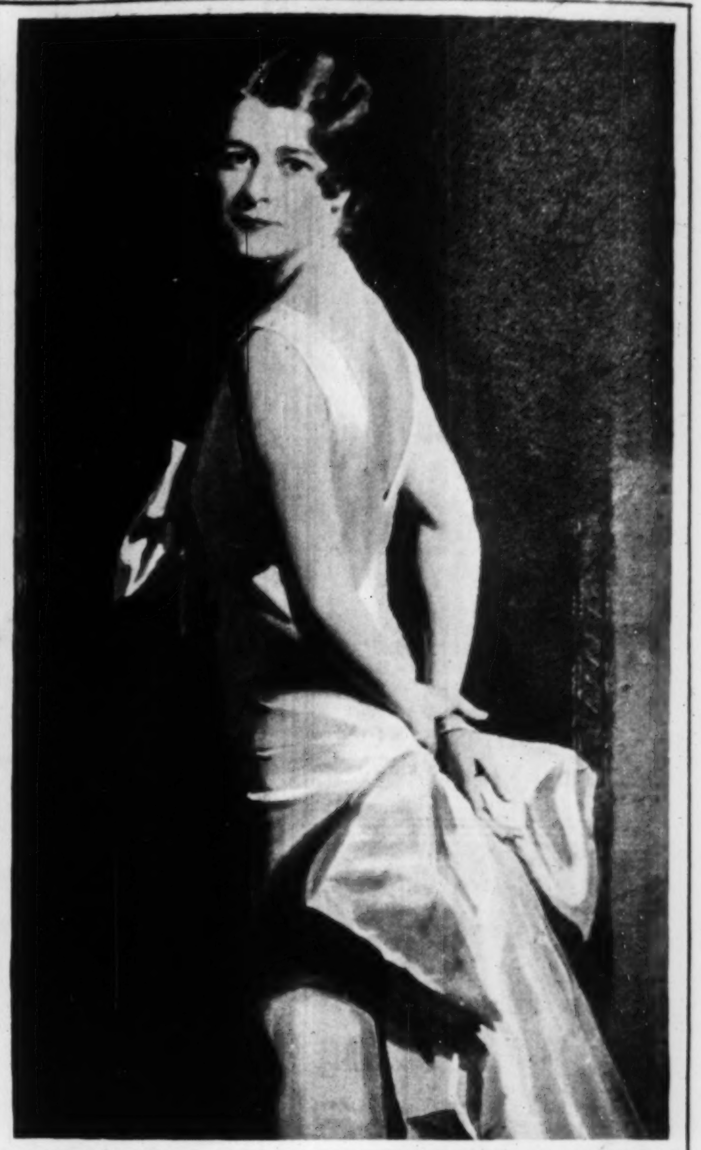
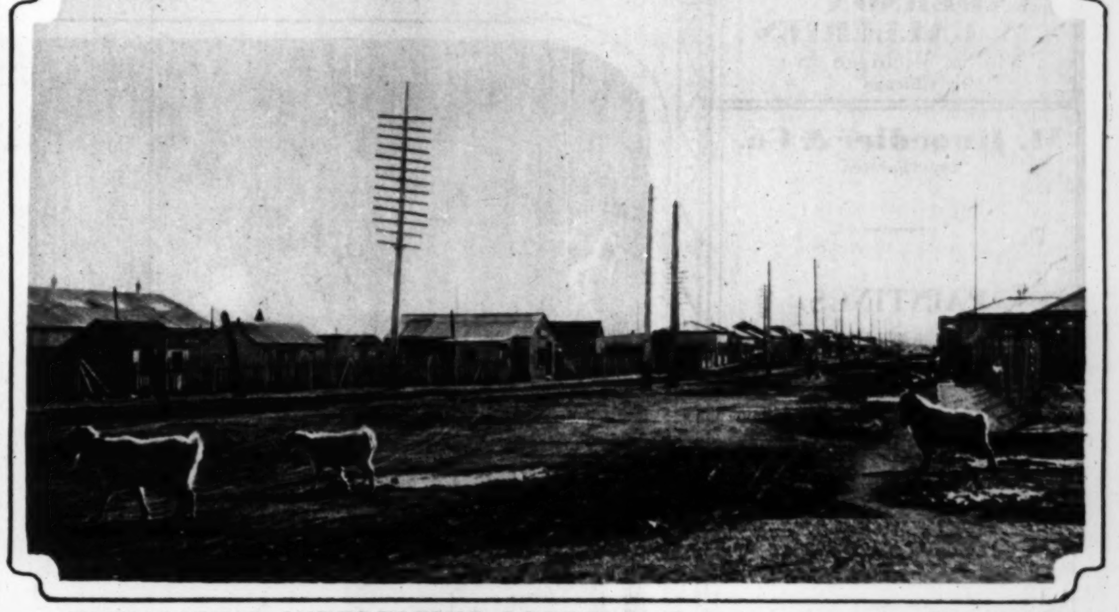
PEEK-A-BOO, QUEEN—Marie of Rumania indulges in what would appear to be a furtive peep around a corner on arriving at Cairo, Egypt, for a visit. Princess Ileana, lately engaged and unengaged, accompanied the queen mother. (Photograph from Associated Press.)



PORTRAIT OF A BRIDE—As Miss Margaret Mercer Walker, daughter of a prominent Muskegon family, she was portrayed in oil by Frank O. Salisbury, English artist. Now she is the wife of Charles W. Spofford of Evanston, whom she wed at Boston.



VISUALIZING INTERESTING LETTERS—Today's winner in The Tribune's contest for missives from remote places came from the little town of Rio Gallegos, in that part of the Argentine known as Patagonia. The picture shows the drab town's main street, lined with galvanized sheet iron houses and—so far as this view reveals—apparently populated largely with goats.

We've put RUBBER HEELS on B & O cars

The Rubber Heel is symbolic of the riding comfort made possible by placing rubber pads in the trucks.

ONE of our people—as often happens with us—brought forward an unusual suggestion that makes for even greater smoothness in the riding comfort of our trains.

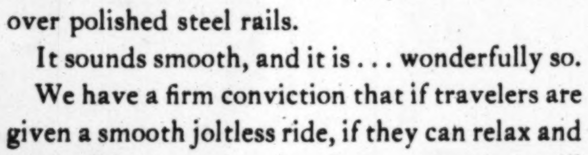
You know the shock-absorbing qualities of rubber heels. Well, this simple idea is being applied to Baltimore & Ohio cars. Each truck has fifty-one rubber pads placed at points where the frame rests and at spring ends—wherever metal touches metal. You really ride on rubber over polished steel rails.

It sounds smooth, and it is . . . wonderfully so.

We have a firm conviction that if travelers are given a smooth joltless ride, if they can relax and read without strain, the chances are they will remember the trip as a restful experience and want to ride on our road again.

To increase the number of such friends is one reason we have spent over 400 millions to improve the service of our road. And by the thoughtful attention of our employees we try to make every journey a pleasure.

We hope this latest effort—to give you a comfortable ride by putting rubber heels on our cars—will appeal to you. Won't you ride with us soon and see how thoroughly restful it is?



Standard Pullman six-wheel trucks used on Baltimore & Ohio cars. And to make riding even smoother we are putting rubber pads at the spring ends and wherever metal touches metal on all B & O passenger cars. This tends to eliminate vibration and make riding more restful.

"I have used Yeast for 25 Years"

says Head of famous Skin Hospital

DEAN of all Scandinavian skin specialists is Dr. Johan Almkvist of Stockholm, head of the famous St. Göran Hospital for diseases of the skin and blood.

"For 25 years," says Dr. Almkvist, "I have used yeast for skin troubles, such as acne and boils.

"The effect of yeast against constipation," he adds, "is well known. By keeping the intestinal tract healthy and clean it prevents a number of poisons from being absorbed into the system.

"Indescribably important for the present-day indoor worker is the vitamin D contained in yeast after irradiation. Its effect is equivalent to that of sunshine itself."

Why not adopt this simple way to clear-skinned, vigorous health? Every day eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast. Each cake is rich in two precious vitamins—B and D. At grocers', restaurants, soda fountains. Directions on label.

"Wearing evening dresses with gracefulness is impossible when one is afflicted with a disgusting 'breaking out' of the skin," writes MISS ELINOR WALSH from Ottawa, Ont. "And who can do justice to herself when half-crazed with a dizzy headache? . . . Naturally I was alarmed . . . I resorted to yeast, and in two weeks my health improved. My skin trouble disappeared, I gained back my color, my self-confidence, energy and a smile."

"My doctor advised me to try Fleischmann's Yeast cakes," writes R. ROYCE WILSON of Waltham, Mass. "I was troubled with slight stomach disorders and had quite a few blackheads and pimples. The yeast cleared my skin and gave me lots of pep. The girls dance with me now, and that's one thing I like to do, dance. I am still eating yeast."

These leading skin specialists recommend yeast

Spain's foremost skin specialist, DR. JOSÉ SÁNCHEZ-COVISA, says, "Skin eruptions are nearly always accompanied by constipation. Yeast reduces intestinal putrefaction and is of great aid in treating these skin affections."

PROFESSOR DR. PIO PEDICONI, head of important skin hospital in Rome, declares, "Yeast keeps the system 'regular.' For many years it has been used in dermatology to prevent and cure pimples and boils."

THE EASIEST BEAUTY HABIT I EVER FORMED

GOLDEN JUBILEE
50 YEARS OF CREATING BEAUTY PRODUCTS

These new Du Barry Preparations and the new Du Barry Hand Principle bring the Beauty Salon to your own home.

Of course, Beauty must be a habit. Just imagine what a lovely, soft, glowing skin you'd have—firm, supple, fine-textured—if some professional masseuse gave you her treatments every day.

"That's out of the question," you say. But it isn't. With just your own resilient finger tips and muscular palms, you can give yourself the same care, quite easily and simply, in your own home.

For these preparations were created especially for women who know nothing of professional methods. The sparkling tonic lotions, aromatic oils, and lubricating creams are the result of years of special scientific research. They embody new ingredients never before used in beauty aids, which make them safe, pure and effective for home use.

And the treatments are so simple, so easily grasped! With each Du Barry purchase comes the little handbook which explains each treatment in detail. It may be the way to smooth out frown lines that you will want to work on. Or those hateful little lines around the mouth or eyes. Or the way to prevent sagging cheek and chin muscles. Or to bring color to sallow cheeks. Or any one of a number of marks, left by the passing years.

Each treatment takes only a few minutes—and just the day by day care will bring you a soft, youthful loveliness in an amazingly brief space of time.

HAVE YOU LINES ABOUT YOUR MOUTH?

After a thorough cleansing with Du Barry Cleansing Cream and the Skin Tonic and Freshener Lotion—use the cushion tips of the strong middle fingers. Smooth the Muscle Oil from the lips outward on the cheeks till the circulation is stimulated and you feel the pleasant warmth that comes from your own fingers.

THIS IS THE DU BARRY WAY FOR SMOOTHING THE FOREHEAD

"First thoroughly cleanse the skin with Du Barry Cleansing Cream and the Skin Tonic and Freshener Lotion. Then, with the palms well supplied with Muscle Oil, smooth the forehead up from the eyebrows with a rhythmic, suction-creating movement . . . See how warm and stimulating the treatment is, energizing those lazy tissues, smoothing the texture and gradually erasing the horizontal age-betraying lines . . . Any excess oil is removed with the Skin Tonic and Freshener Lotion."

THEY'RE INEXPENSIVE AND QUITE ECONOMICAL TO USE . . . THESE NEW DU BARRY PREPARATIONS

LEARN ANOTHER LANGUAGE THE QUICK, BERLITZ WAY!

If you've had the impression that it takes years of concentrated, boresome study to master another language, then the famous Berlitz Conversational Method will prove a revelation to you.

Tedious book-work—intricate rules of grammar—dull home work—all these have been discarded. Instead you enjoy fascinating round-table conversation—you master just by talking the language and hearing it spoken.

A free demonstration lesson will show you how utterly different and simple this Method makes the study of any modern foreign language. You may arrange for a courtesy lesson in French, Spanish, German, Italian, or English by simply calling Harrison 0392.

A Business of Your Own
USE OUR MONEY
BE YOUR OWN BOSS

We supply the merchandise, pay the rent, place you where the business is, settle with you weekly, teach and train you so that you earn the first week.

We have done all the above for men who have had big capital invested in a business of their own, who later, with not one penny invested in our line, made five times their former earnings. We have oftener done it for men who never had a dollar saved.

We prefer to back young men who have never had any money to invest, and never made enough money to start in business for themselves, but who believe they have the ability if given the opportunity and are willing to work to prove it.

Our organization is international in scope, employing thousands of men who have come from every sort of trade or experience, viz., clergy, office, shop, specialty selling, professional, etc. A great number naturally had no selling or management experience, but with our simple, easy plan they quickly reached a money making stride and independence.

T. E., an express agent with a large family, only made $140 a month after seven years with same company, joined us two years ago, and averaged over $100 a week his first year—last month he earned $820.

J. R. sold out his large retail store in Chicago and joined us two years ago. Making splendid success without a penny ever invested in our business.

J. H., a shop foreman, with us over five years, and with profits he made in this practical, permanent business purchased an apartment building recently.

L. J., a minister, has earned over $700 in one month; likes work because of ITS dignity.

E. H., a former grocery salesman, has averaged over $90 a week for two years.

Our home company—large manufacturer rated in the millions—backs up our work with full page ads in such magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal, Good Housekeeping, and American; also half hour radio broadcast over national network. Our product fills a universal need—as staple as food—and the work is permanent the year round and for many years to come. We have no competition.

Ten men between 24 and 40 years of age will be added.

If you are ambitious, willing to work eight hours a day, then call any time Monday, Room 202-203-204 Terminal Bldg., 537 S. Dearborn-st., and ask for Mr. Baldwin.

Men living within a radius of 200 miles from Chicago write for address of nearest branch.

AAAA
AMBITIOUS MEN

We furnish automobiles to carry our prospects to the property, dine and entertain them at our expense, and give you the kind of co-operation you are unlikely to find elsewhere. Apply

We have the easiest selling proposition in Chicago; something entirely new. It is not real estate, not bonds and not insurance, nor house to house work. We want high class men but not high pressure men, to get into a new and very dignified profession.

1. Have you had at least four season's experience selling tailoring direct to wearer? Not as a clerk in a retail store, but as a salesman calling on his own clientele.

2. Have you, for the past two seasons, averaged at least 200 orders per season?

If you are a real salesman and can meet these requirements, write at once, giving such information about yourself as will distinguish you from the great mass of mediocre tailoring "agents" and enable us to recommend you unhesitatingly to our client, one of the outstanding tailoring concerns in the quality field.

In reply you will not be sent a barrage of printed literature, as this is NOT a mail order proposition. Instead, a personal appointment will be arranged at our expense, at which time complete details of an entirely new plan will be given you . . . a plan whereby you can at least capitalize upon your ability to its ultimate earning power. We have nothing of interest for swivel chair district managers or other parasites, but if you are a PRODUCING SALESMAN, address in confidence: Robert O. Dixon, care of H. C. Goodwin Advertising Agency, 70 Exchange-st., Rochester, N. Y.

A MESSAGE TO MEN AND WOMEN WHO WANT TO INCREASE THEIR INCOME.

I want 500 men and women who are anxious to increase their income and who are ambitious to learn a new profession to listen to the most startling sales offer in Chicago. A new plan, something never before offered in Chicago. You need no experience. We teach you and we pay you well for your time.

Whether or not you are employed makes no difference, as this work will not interfere with your present employment. With very little effort you can double your weekly income.

Women who have never been employed can earn big money and the work is pleasant. Men who are not satisfied with their present job or their present income will like this work.

The price of the commodity is small. Every one wants it and is guaranteed a 100% profit or our customers collect on a trust fund we establish to protect them. There is no sales resistance and you will make money faster, perhaps, than you have ever made it.

Back of the project is romance, mystery and tremendous profits. Nothing like it has ever been in Chicago. Mechanics, clerks, bookkeepers, salesmen or men and women from every profession will like this and can make money.

Our entire plan will be fully explained at our first meeting.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN AND MEN WHO WANT TO INCREASE THEIR INCOME.

I want 500 men and women who are anxious to increase their income and who are ambitious to learn a new profession to listen to the most startling sales, offer in Chicago. A new plan, something never before offered in Chicago. You need no experience. We teach you and we pay you well for your time.

Whether or not you are employed makes no difference, as this work will not interfere with your present employment. With very little effort you can double your weekly income.

Women who have never been employed can earn big money and the work is pleasant. Men who are not satisfied with their present job or their present income will like this work.

The price of the commodity is small. Every one wants it and is guaranteed a 100 per cent profit or our customers collect on a trust fund we establish to protect them. There is no sales resistance and you will make money faster, perhaps, than you have ever made it.

Back of the project is romance, mystery and tremendous profits. Nothing like it has ever been in Chicago. Mechanics, clerks, bookkeepers, salesmen or men and women from every profession will like this and can make money.

Our entire plan will be fully explained at our first meeting, TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 1, 8 P. M.

YOU ARE WELCOME!

MUSHROOMS GAIN FAVOR AS STAPLE OF AMERICAN DIET

Growing of Delicacy Is Now Big Industry.

NEW YORK.—Mushrooms have become almost a staple of American diet. At least for New York the statement may be made without qualification. This city, according to the United States department of agriculture, not uncommonly consumes as many as thirty tons of mushrooms in a single day. It is the country's largest market, and there are other cities that, comparatively speaking, do not lag far behind.

It is estimated that some 7,500 tons of mushrooms are grown in this country annually. The chief production center is eastern Pennsylvania, and there the industry has progressed so far that a growers' coöperative association has been formed.

Canning Industry Grows.

The increasing popularity of the fresh mushroom is reflected further in the growing importance of the American canned mushroom. Canneries supplement the business of some of the farms, and the tinned product appears in several forms.

The secret of successful mushroom growing is held to lie in the spawn; hence the most important part of the up to date mushroom farm is its laboratory, where the spawn is prepared. No hospital operating room could be more antiseptic than the laboratory of America's largest mushroom farm. The workmen dress in linen and wear white cotton gloves.

Air of Room Filtered.

The very air of the room in which they work is filtered, so that no impurities may interfere with the true mushroom spores; then the spores are placed for growing in compost that has been sterilized in an oven by heat of 250 degrees Fahrenheit, and the material is packed in quart bottles capped with antiseptic cotton.

The bottle of spawn is left in a warmish room for a month for the germination of the spores; then it is transferred to a cold, dark room to await the planting of its contents. It is planting time when the dark mass is so interspersed with the fine white threads the spores send out that the bottle appears frosted. The bottle is then broken and its contents divided up into enough pieces, planted a foot apart, to cover thirty square feet.

Overcoat Worn 44 Years on Display in Maine

PORTLAND, Me. — An overcoat which has served Seth Seavey of Saco, Me., for forty-four long years is on display in the window of a Saco clothing store. While some signs of wear can be detected around the collar, the rest of the coat is in such good condition that there is no apparent reason why Mr. Seavey should not continue to wear it if he so wishes.

TIMBER WOLVES KILL HUNDREDS OF CANADA DEER

Trappers Tell How Herds Perish.

MONTREAL.—Carcasses of hundreds of deer are dotted over the hillsides and wooded valleys of northern Alberta and the northwest territories, victims of the worst depredation of wolves the northwest has known for years.

Trappers arriving in Edmonton with the results of their first winter's trap lines visits say that bands of timber wolves are ravaging the valleys of the Athabasca and Big Baptiste rivers north of Edson.

They say that never before in their experience have they seen such havoc wrought by the gray phantom-like marauders. With the deer extremely numerous the wolves find easy pickings among the herds, and are becoming increasingly daring.

Early this winter the timber wolves began to get numerous in this part of the country and three trappers ambushed one band, killing eight. The wolves' most daring venture so far has been to attack a party of ponies within easy distance of a trapper's cabin.

Animals taken in the traps often have been torn by the wolves, the trappers declared.

Fortunately the snow is not deep in the Athabasca country this year, so that the deer are able in many cases to outrun their pursuers.

SPRING FASHIONS HARK BACK TO THE GRECIAN

Long, Slim Lines, Classic in Their Simplicity, and Following the Curves of the Figure, Are Dominating Paris Ateliers.

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—We've seen long, slender lines in fashion, but, in the language of Al Jolson: "We ain't seen nothing," until the styles of spring, 1930. Longer and slimmer ladies—super-long, super-slim, emerge in the Paris parade.

Miss Fashion is a daughter of the gods, divinely tall and most divinely slim. She isn't, however, slim like a matchstick. Not at all. She's slender in the Greek manner, with all the curves in place and made the most of. She weighs a lot more than Miss 1929 and is proud of it, because she's tall enough to carry it off and be much more alluring thereby.

With this figure as the ideal, your first guess as to clothes inspiration is right. Greek, of course. Paris, however, isn't a copyist, and the Greek influence that is seen in the new styles for spring is modernized as in the Greek detail on a skyscraper. What is kept pure is the beautiful Greek length of line, the drapery and the freedom of movement.

Don't forget that the Greek lasses of the Golden Age were the first feminine athletes. They got around, and their clothes didn't get in their way. Paris, in adapting the Greek idea, holds fast to the freedom of it, so that our clothes liberty, about which so many words have been written latterly, isn't in the least menaced.

Paris doesn't propose that we go out to play golf or tennis in Greek tunics. Sports clothes do not fall heir to the Hellenic inspiration, except in such a subtle way that it takes an expert to trace it. Greek-influenced spring fashions, like Greek restaurants, are active at night, and some of them get out in the afternoon. However, the length of limb-line is found throughout spring fashions in the smart silhouette which always has more skirt and less waist than formerly. Also, it is to be thanked for the discontinuing of the skin-tight fitting game.

Drapery on blouses replaces tight fitting, and thereby makes the spring clothes easier to wear and prettier to look at. Skirts are wide and often take a lot of material to make, but they are slender in silhouette. Corsets and hooks and eyes are not necessary on eighty per cent of the clothes that Paris is creating for this season.

Sleeves have a part to play in making spring fashions. Everybody knows that short sleeves are the sleeves of the day. Cape sleeves that give grace and freedom to the arms are very much in the public eye of styles. Long sleeves are not banished, but in a great many cases they are loose and flowing, and in certain of the Paris houses like Lanvin, real angel sleeves are shown. These, as you know, come from the Greek.

Waistlines are deciding lines of fashion, this season. Don't forget that. You'd better, my dears, abandon all hope of low hip waistlines if you have any aspirations toward chic, this spring. Paris thinks that Nature knew best when she put our waistlines high, and there is where they rest. They are, of course, ways and means of making the normal line the best for everybody. Greek double and Greek criss-crossed waistlines are used in some of the best Paris houses. Draped waistlines that have no straightaway belts marking their course, enable women to sidetrack the high waistline issue and there are the whole army of capes, boleros and falling panels to conceal any unpleasant revelations that the high waistline may make.

As for skirt lengths, it seems inevitable that they should remain somewhere from ankle length to twelve inches from the floor for afternoon, and scarcely shorter than instep length for evening. It is only in such length skirts that the divinely tall line can be achieved, and having tried such skirt lengths, myself, I find that they in no way interfere with lively steppers, while they do distinctly increase the grace of any woman's appearance. Trailing skirts are not forecast for any general style prosperity by this prophet. They will be seen, but not many smart women will wear them, for they take a lot of wearing and life is short.

Materials, inevitably, will be soft and drapable. They will also be pretty in color and design. Flat crepes and chiffons printed in lace and flower patterns, and real laces will be tremendous favorites for afternoon and evening. Soft silks patterned wit pin dots, broken checks and tiny geometric patterns stolen fro tweeds will make heaps of practical daytime suits for summer Voiles, etamines, crepes and basket-weave fabrics in wool, silk an cotton will be extensively used by smart dressmakers.

Shantung, tussor and linen will appear everywhere that there are fashionable sports. All the pastel colors will have the gran chic, and so will Pompeian, lacquer and tiger-lily red, Iris green, navy blue and black.

Embroideries will look smart to discriminating eyes, and the will be used on quite a few afternoon clothes, discreetly stitche on as in the case of the Madeleine ensemble shown today. Thi costume is in the fashionable two-color scheme, with the em- broidered jacket and short bolero waist in egg-plant crepe em broidered in pink and gold lines, while the plaited skirt and th ten-inch-wide draped girdle are made of pink flat crepe. Th jacket sleeves are very short and the bolero waist has no sleeve at all.

Another sketch shows the Greek influence on spring fashion at its most evident. This is a summer ensemble in navy blue fla crepe printed with tiny pink flowers and having pink borders, an it is a creation of Suzanne Talbot. The dress is shirred aroun the neck on a pink band, and the bands at the armholes sugges sleeves, though they merely cap the top of the shouder. Tw bands of pink ribbon mark two waistlines that hold the fullnes of the bodice flat. They attach under flat pink bows in front.

The shawl of the same material, which is the newest of sum mer wraps, comes from the Neo-Greek period of the Directoir The ankle length skirt shows the navy blue kid Greek sanda strapped over pinky-beige stockings.

The hostess gown from Chantal, sketched today, is a frock o Pompeian red chiffon, with a waistline merely hinted at by drap ing, and a skirt that is longer in back than in front. The chiffo coat has long loose sleeves and shades from light to deep viole making a strikingly beautiful color scheme. The length of th coat is significant. Some of the smart summer coats of trans parent material have come down in the world along with th skirt.

An evening ensemble that has many good style points is show in another sketch. Madeleine made the dress of this ensemble o pale turquoise blue satin, and its even instep-length skirt hem one of the best seen in Paris. The drapery at the hipline clever and new. Over this dress Madeleine places a rather lon ish bolero jacket of turquoise blue georgette, so that the ensemb may be either worn formally or informally from the cocktail ho far into the night.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

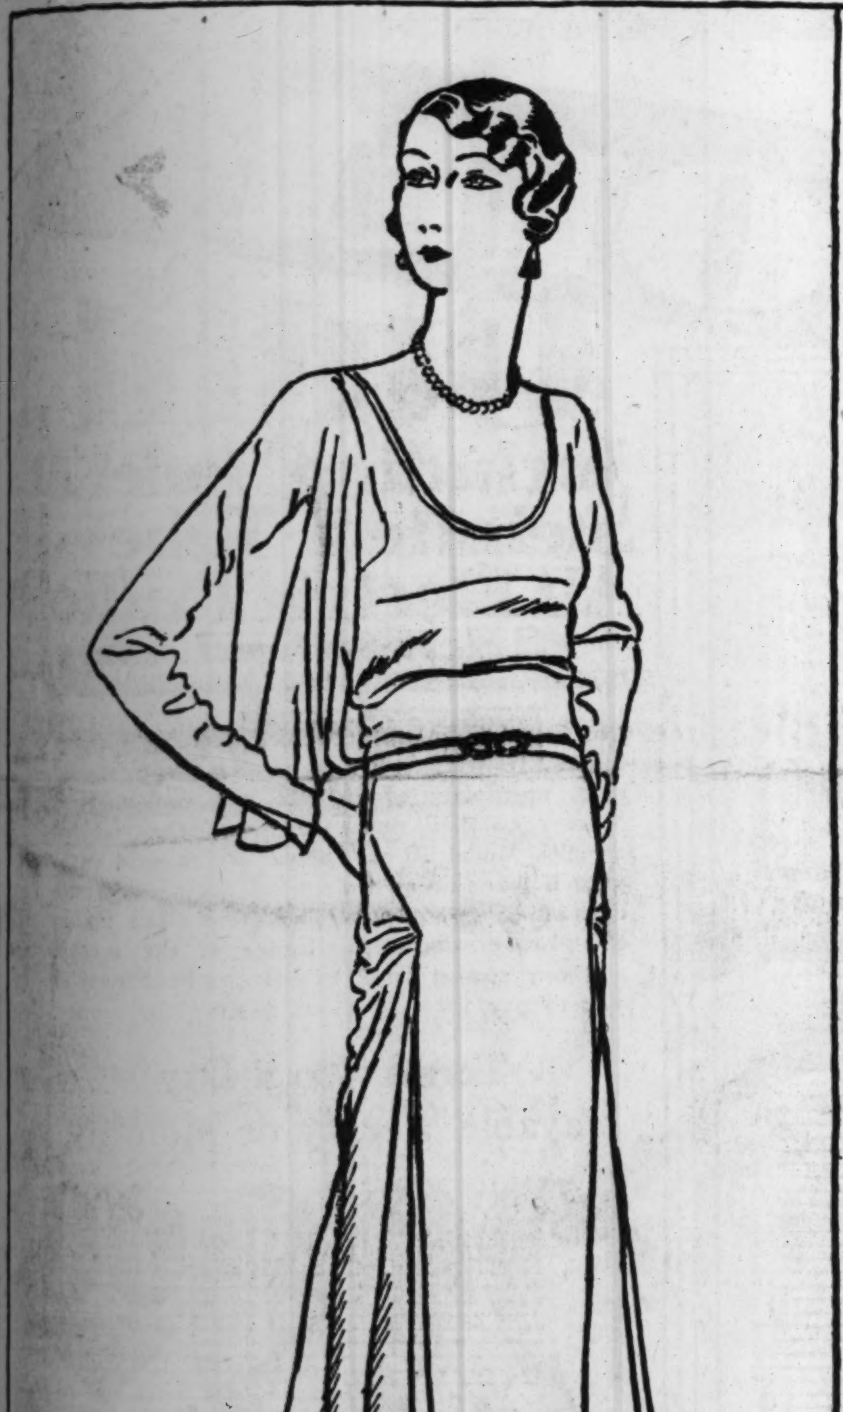
Patou makes evening slippers of printed faille to match printed chiffon frocks or of plain faille with bright colored heels matching the outstanding color of the dress.

Martial et Armand puts frills and godets of printed chiffon or lace, matching the material of evening dresses, into the tops of sixteen-button suede evening gloves.

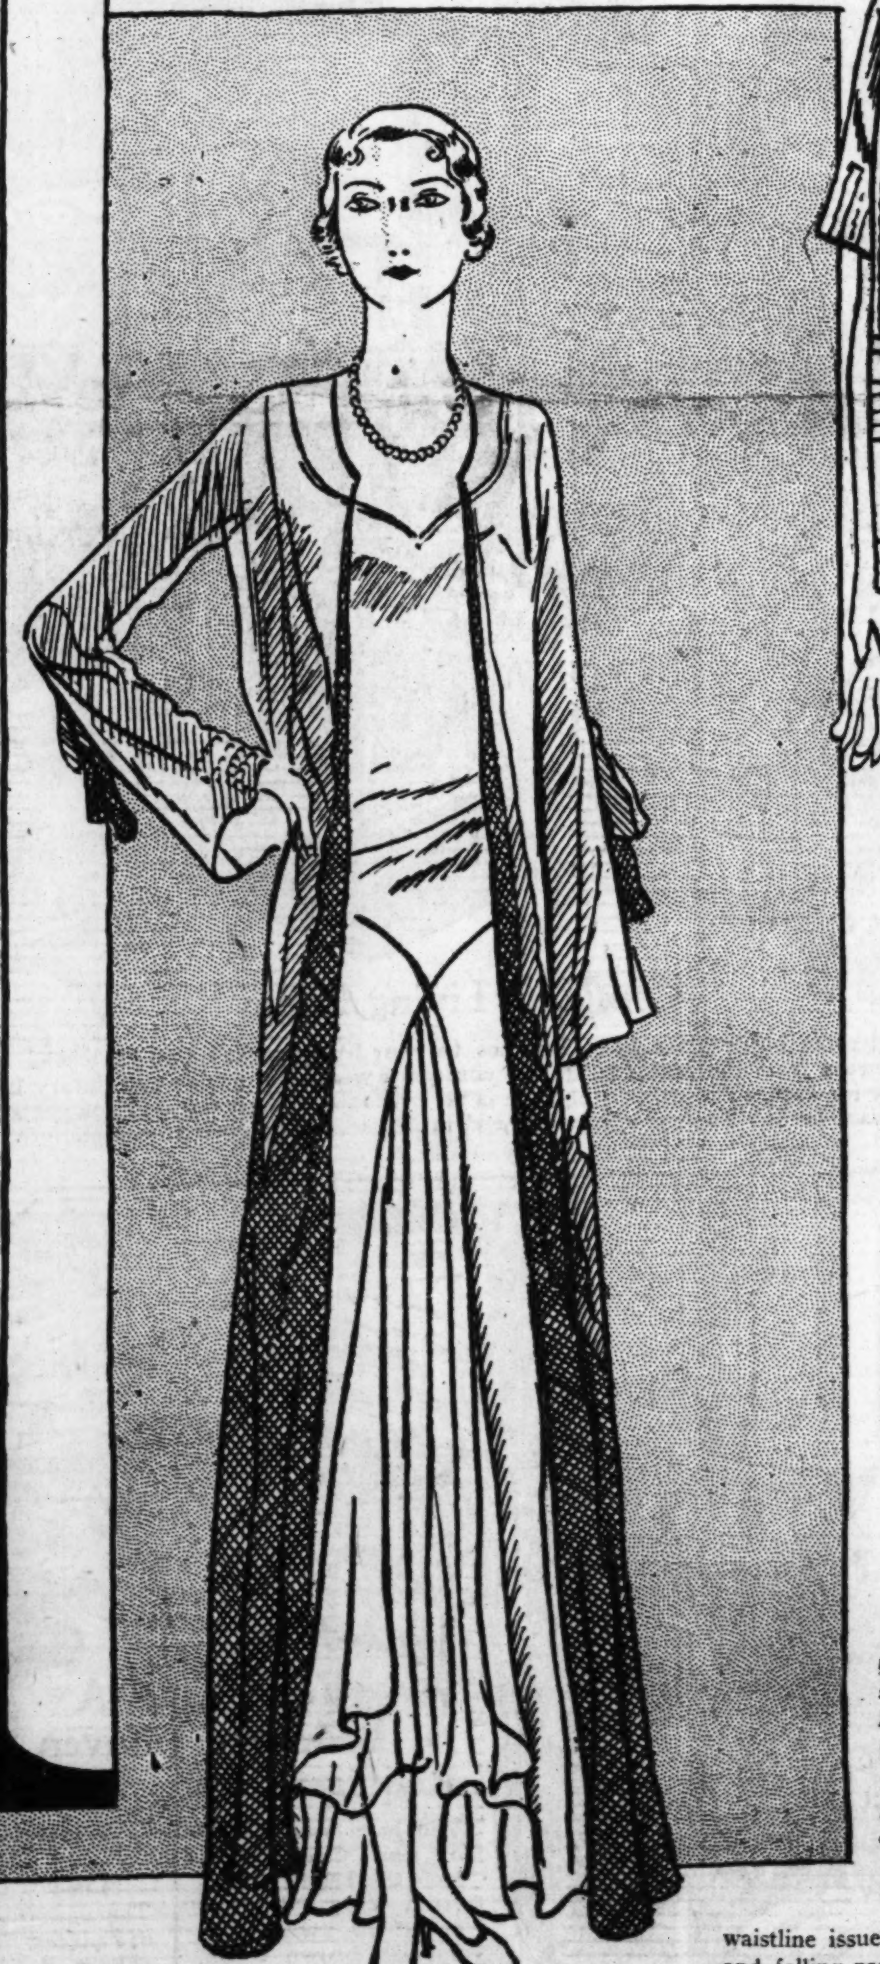
Lelong's costume jewelry in pink, blue and other colored crystals to match the tone of evening dresses are having a great success in Paris.

Evening hats are in order. Worth's tulle and jet-band bonnets and Lanvin's Greek coiffure in silver cloth are smart examples.

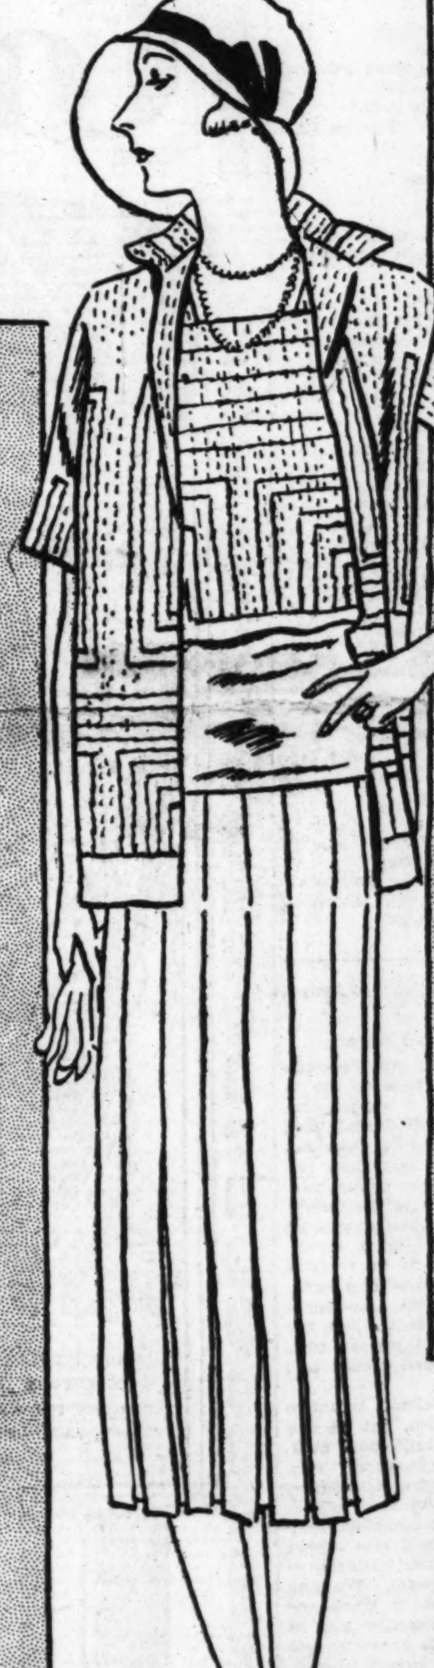
Lanvin's jeweled ropes that mark normal waistlines on evening dresses and Cheruit's jeweled harness at the deep decollete of formal frocks are interesting accessories.



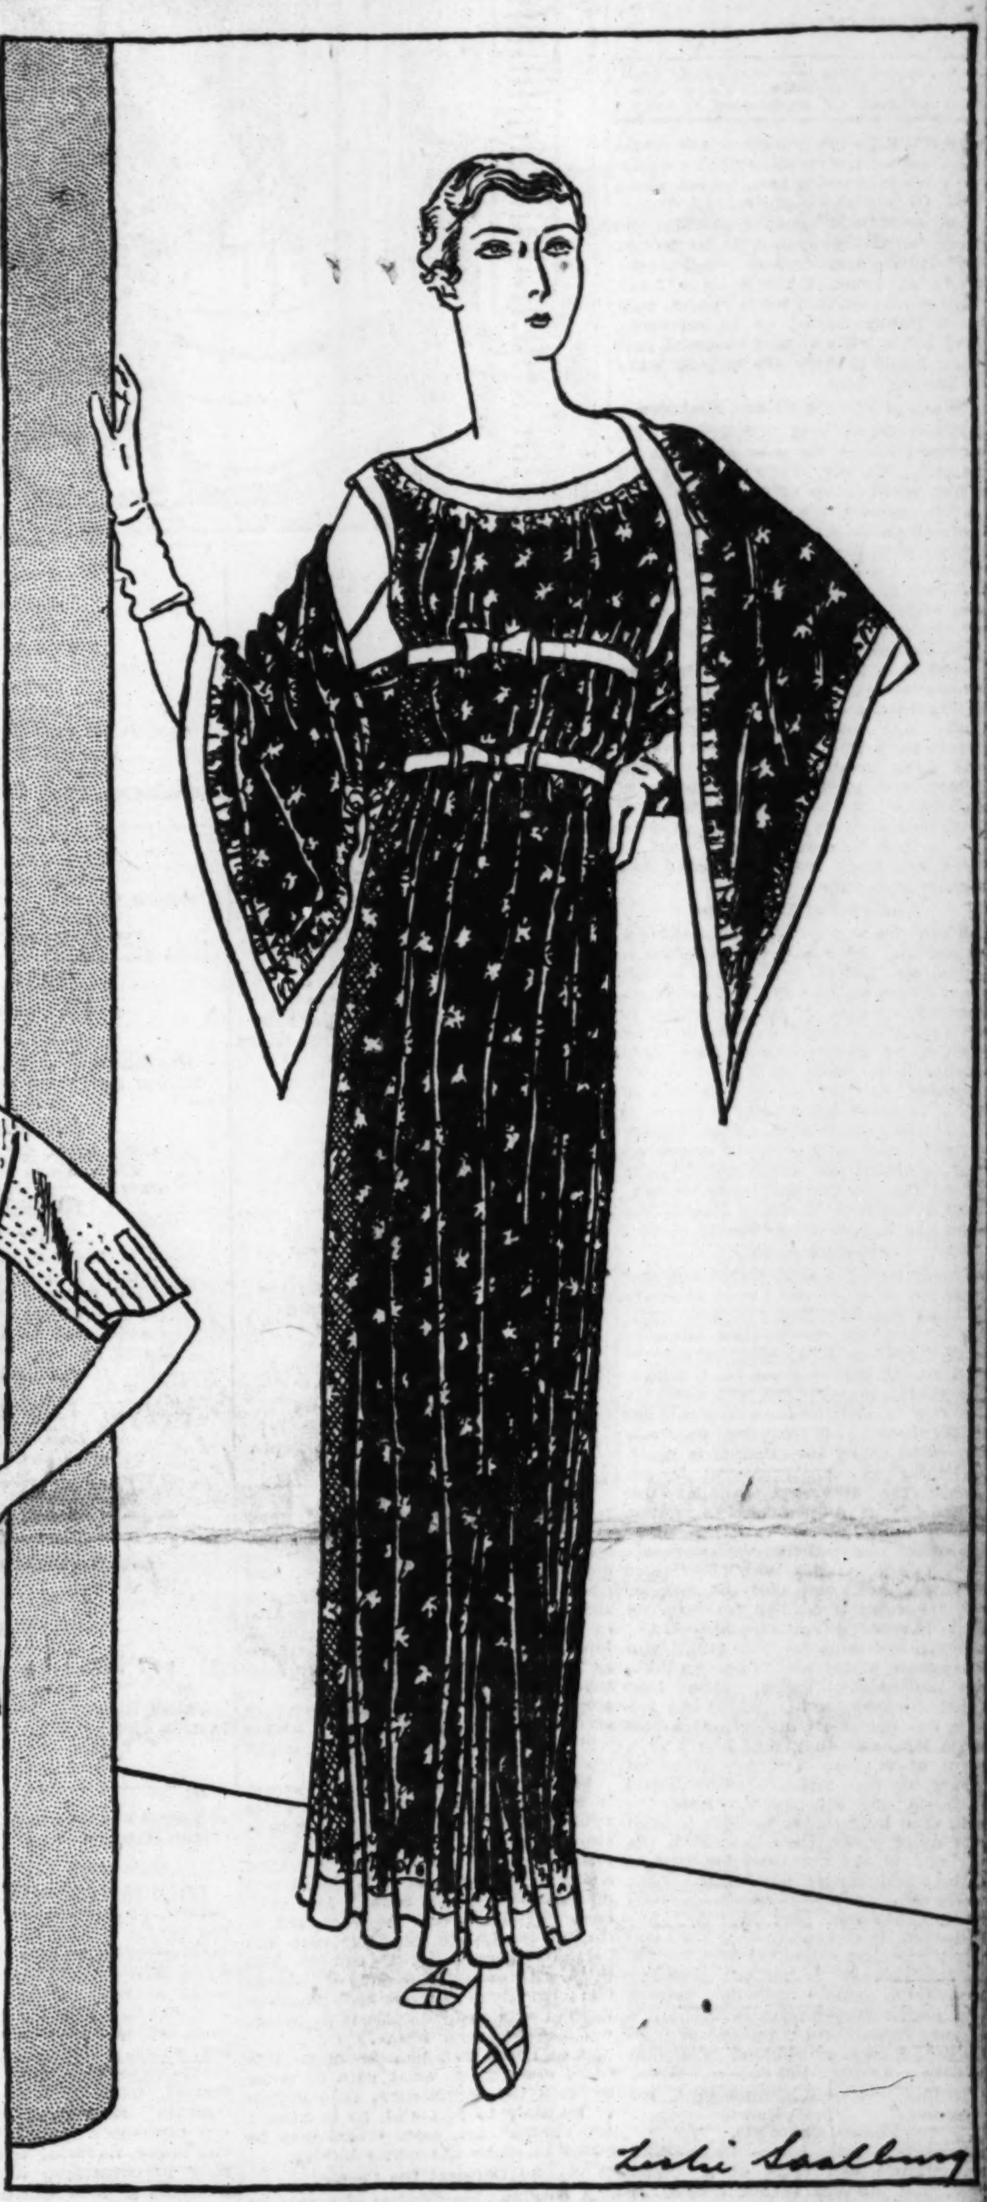
The longer lines of the new fashions are perfectly expressed in this Madeleine evening frock of satin. The jacket is made of chiffon.



Chantal made this hostess ensemble of chiffon. The frock is red and the long coat is shaded from pale to deep purple.



Embroidery comes back to the smart daytime ensemble, applied as on this Madeleine jacket and bolero waist in lines of pink and gold. The wide draped girdle of the dress is another new feature.



This is the newest 1930 silhouette with a double waistline and a pointed shawl for a wrap.

Frozen Desserts Are Charmingly Simple; They Offer Endless Variations and Besides Are Gratifyingly Inexpensive.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

MARTHA ORR

THE little ice creams or the single cup of ice cream, or some equivalent of it—in fact, we are going to talk about equivalents mainly now, or frozen items containing no cream at all—made in a junior freezer constitute exceedingly simple desserts. Made at home, these have a fresh wholesomeness that lends charm, may be infinitely varied as to mixtures, take but a trifle of raw material, and then, besides, there are endless ways of serving them.

Ways of Serving Frozen Mixtures.

When frozen and mixed with half whipped cream we may easily get a parfait. We may have a cup of iced coffee with a cup of ice cream in it as an exceedingly pleasant dessert and call this a coffe froth. Everybody knows nowadays the sherbet fizz, for which a true ice cream is best. Since this fizz has various other names we had better explain that it is some ice cream in a glass, which is filled up with chilled ginger ale.

And then there are the sundaes, by means of which we extend the ice cream with a sirup, or with nuts and fruit. An informal way to serve ice cream is to pile it into a pretty dish and have another dish of whipped cream, and perhaps even another of something like a nougat powder or fruit or macaroon crumbs, or all three can be put into one dish. Combinations are made with meringues and with sponge cake.

The Cup of Ice Cream.

There are various ways of making a ingle cup of some frozen mixture erve six people. The tall parfait lass which we may reasonably dislike eartily, because of its disposition to ip over if we leave a spoon in it, or ven if we manipulate a spoon awkwardly in it, lends itself best to this xtended service, where one cup is made to serve six. The ice cream is ut in the bottom of the glass, a thick irup on that, and whipped cream on hat. These are combined by the ater. But we can make similar mixures in much more stable glasses and ave our ice cream go nearly as far.

Frozen Egg Nog.

Lately we have seen frozen egg nog isted on some of the most expensive f hotel menus. The following little up of egg nog makes four times as uch "ice" as I have had served me t a recent dinner given on a whole- ale scale. As any one will note, an gg nog is simpler than a picnic ice ream because it requires no cook- ng, while really the product is much he same in character and flavor, hough the difference is that the ooked mixture is heavier. In mixing he egg nog there is so much expan- ion of the material that we get great- r bulk with it than with the frozen ustard and do not run the risk at ll of getting a curdled mixture, as e do in making a custard to freeze.

The proportions for this single cup f frozen egg nog are: One egg yolk, wo tablespoons sugar, about one- ighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup top ilk, one egg white stiffly beaten and dded last, and about one-fourth of a poon of vanilla. The proportion of randy to this small amount would e about one tablespoon. Beat the olk, then beat the sugar into it until is quite white, then beat with the alf cup of top milk and finally fold the stiffly beaten egg white. Beat owly with the egg beater to combine e mixture and pour this into the hilled small container—which it will early fill—and freeze. It can be fro- n in five minutes but will probably a little smoother if less salt is sed and a longer time is taken. If ou use double cream instead of milk ou get an ice cream almost as smooth with all cream but the egg flavor mainly lost so it cannot be called egg nog."

Frozen Chocolate.

There is a little knack in freezing y mixture and more of a knack hen this mixture is not cream, or es not have any egg, but it can be ne and we can use such a simple tle thing as our breakfast chocolate make an excellent imitation of a al chocolate ice cream, made supe- or when it is served by combining with some whipped cream. Make e breakfast chocolate as follows: ne ounce or square bitter chocolate, e-half cup water, one-half cup sugar, few grains of salt, one-half cup ated milk, a flavoring of vanilla or nnamon or none at all.

Melt the chocolate over a bit of fire the saucepan. Add water and stir d cook for ten minutes, add the gar and stir constantly for five min- es of cooking or until the mixture sirup-like, adding the salt at this me to develop the flavor. Have the ilk boiling before it is added and mbine these two mixtures. If any the chocolate sinks to the bottom hile this is cooling, it is proof that e chocolate is not sufficiently cooked. hen such a mixture is to be frozen the thickening power natural to e chocolate should be developed. ill well and freeze.

White Sauce Ice Creams.

When some one who has a large family to feed and lives in the summer a little remote from food sources, told me about using a white sauce ice cream, I tested out the idea and printed it, whereupon there were some most pronounced objections presented in letters, one of which was to the effect that the frozen thing would be gritty. As for that, almost any mixture that is not pure cream may be gritty if it is frozen too rapidly or in any way carelessly, and pure cream will not be the velvet thing it might be when frozen imperfectly.

In making a white sauce ice cream it is best to make the sauce some hours before it is to be used. For each cup of milk use, for this sauce, about one tablespoon butter, two of flour and a few grains of salt. With each cup of the sauce when cooked and cold, have one-fourth cup sugar cooked in the top of the double boiler with one beaten egg yolk until smooth and thick with constant stirring. To these two combined, add one-half teaspoon vanilla and four tablespoons cream whipped up, then freeze.

It is not a bad plan to make this small quantity to start with in order to learn the consistency, then double or multiply to suit and, as in almost any similar case, more cream may be added to make the whole lighter.

An Oatmeal Ice Cream.

A considerable number of cereal ice creams or cereal frozen products can be made for agreeable spring and summer use. They are simple and wholesome as desserts for children and delicate and have not as many calories as the pure creams. A frozen mixture with the oatmeal base looks like a nut ice cream and has somewhat the character of a milk sherbet. It is best to cook the rolled oats a long time in the top of a double boiler and add sugar while the cereal is still hot. When any cereal has cooked long enough or up to four hours it will jelly and any upstanding frozen mixture owes its quality to gelatin.

It is possible to divide the following recipe, which will make two quarts of frozen mixture and quite enough for twelve large servings: Two cups sugar, two eggs well beaten, two cups cold jellied rolled oats, four cups milk, the juice and grated rind of one lemon. Beat the sugar and eggs until light, add cereal and milk, then the lemon, and freeze.

In testing this out in a small portion and also trying the same recipe with other cereals, we thought the oatmeal superior and we also found that we could vary the recipe by using chocolate or cocoa to make a chocolate frozen mixture.

Cornstarch Custard Base.

It is difficult to make a small enough portion of any cooked base to use in the junior freezer, but a simple custard sauce may be chilled and used with fruit, etc. Therefore, we can make a small amount and then use only one-half of it for our frozen mixture, taking such a one as the following, which, if rightly cooked, makes an inexpensive foundation for a frozen dessert, while if pure it is truly a "picnic" ice cream: One cup milk, one tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar, flavoring to suit. Cook the milk in cornstarch and sugar, cool, and add a little whipped cream and freeze.

It is a little more difficult to make this in smaller quantities, but we can do so by taking one-half cup milk, one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar or more if to taste, and finally two tablespoons cream whipped. This little foundation may have added to it one-half cup sieved strawberries to make a fair imitation of a real strawberry ice cream. We may serve with it a strawberry glace and some whipped cream, because any of these mixtures swell in freezing and we can get in this way two good servings for our dessert, which may be extended with whipped cream.

Worry, overwork, kness, inactivity are reasons that use the face to be blotchy, dislored, pimply and old looking. he thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. Needlework

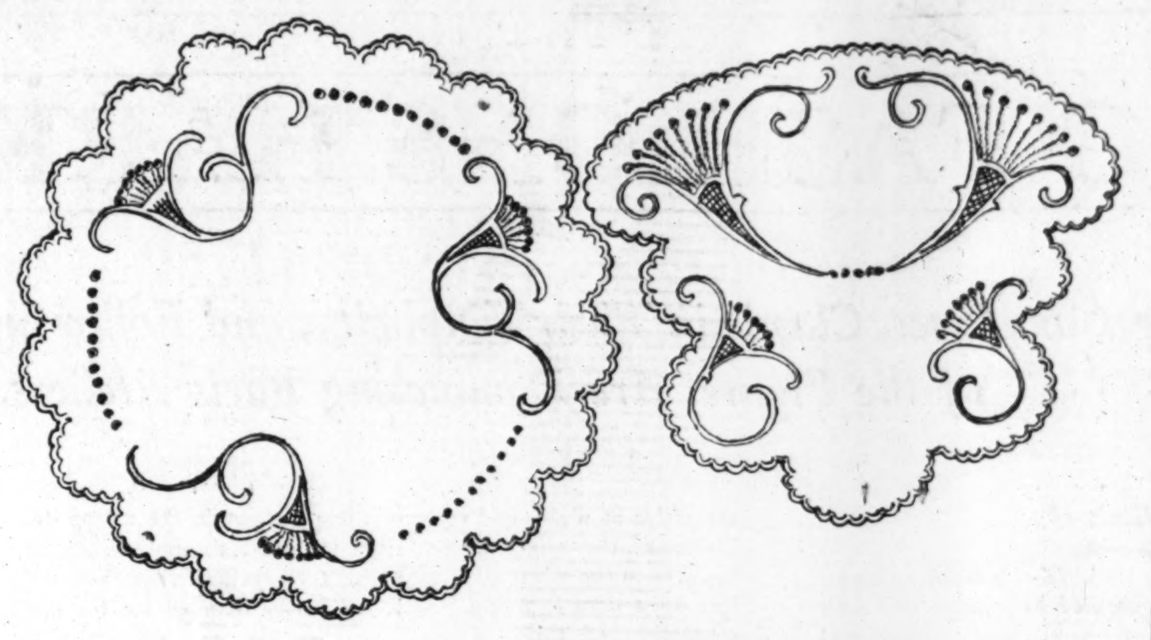
By Clotilde



Designs Embroidered on These Doilies Will Aid in Setting the Table wtih Precision.

THE centerpiece and one doily of a rather unusual luncheon set are shown here, and while there is no pattern for the embroidery design, any woman clever with her needle can easily substitute one that will answer. There are so many designs for which transfers are sold that there should be no trouble on that score.

The centerpiece measures nineteen inches in diameter, and, as you can see, has an attractive scalloped edge. Then the design inside the edge matches the one used on the doilies.

A pleasing feature of this set is that the doilies have well defined places for the plate, tumbler, bread and butter plate, and cup and saucer. The plate of course sits inside the design at the broad end; the tumbler in the deep scallop at the center top; the cup and saucer belong in or on the design at the top, at the right; and the bread and butter plate on the opposite side at the top.

Four, six, or eight of these doilies add greatly to the appearance of the table. They measure 15½ inches from top to bottom, 17 inches across the widest part, and 12½ inches across the top below the center scallop. The raised satin stitch and the outline stitch are used, and a small, single feather stitch is used for the lines that radiate out to met the small eyelets.

A correspondent makes the suggestion that in embroidering edges on all kinds of fancy work, laying a common piece of string—double or single as the case may require—along the edge and embroidering over it will keep the edge firm. Also it will prove a time and labor saver. Perhaps some of the readers of this department will like to try this method. It should be especially useful in straight or scalloped edges.

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework, write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads; that is, to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of Calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The Calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Patterns and How to Use Them

By Clotilde

These Patterns Are a Joy to the Home Dressmaker Because They Are So Simple and Clear to Follow.

THE cape collar of the charming afternoon dress made by pattern No. 3135 ends at a high waistline at the left side and is completed with important self-fabric bows to emphasize the molded bodice. The circular flaring skirt with pointed treatment at the front is cleverly cut so as to throw extreme fullness at the hem. The full length sleeves are finished with turned down cuffs that flare prettily and are made of the contrasting colored used for the collar.

This is a good model for the larger woman, for it gives the figure length and an idea of slenderness. Afternoon frocks are smartest today when made to dip at the back as this dress does, and if you cared to do it, you might face the skirt with the contrasting material.

A picture chart that comes with this pattern shows clearly how to put it together. Always in using a pattern transfer every mark, perforation and notch to your material. It facilitates the work greatly, and makes for more accurate work.

The bodice crosses in the front in surplice fashion. Be sure to fit it carefully before finishing the seams. The sleeves are close fitting and full length, and instead of the usual dart there is a slight fullness at the elbows. Take as tiny running stitches as possible between the notches indicating the space to be gathered. Then, when pinning the sleeve seam together, arrange this fullness as evenly as possible, and hold the sleeve up in your hand and see if, as it hangs from your fingers, the fold down the outside is perfectly smooth. If there is any twist, remove the necessary pins and shift the seam edge having the gathers until the fold is smooth.

If you are clever with your needle you can make three or five tiny inverted tucks, instead of gathering.

Black crêpe satin, using the reverse side for the contrast, will be smart, while crêpe marocain, crêpe de chine, and novelty rayon novelty crêpe are appropriate materials. This is a dress that can be worn for luncheon, tea, bridge, or Sunday suppers.

Pattern No. 3208 is for a demure one piece frock for small girls. Wool challis, crêpe de chine, or any of the usual wash materials will make up prettily in this design.

Tiny shoulder caps are formed by the manner of cutting, the neck is cut round and the bottom may be finished with a deep hem, or the edge may be scalloped. Perforations on the pattern show how to cut the scalloped edge.

Nile green taffeta, daffodil yellow organdy, and peach colored georgette crêpe with self-fabric trimming will make pretty party dresses. Navy blue wool crêpe with tiny red polka dots, self-trimmed, sky blue chambray with light navy blue piping, white cotton broadcloth with tiny red polka dots and red piping, French blue batiste with plaited ruffling and candy striped percale are pleasing color suggestions.

A charmingly slender type of dress, suitable for general daytime occasions, is shown in pattern No. 3068. The long waisted bodice is beautifully molded and is cut in a pointed outline at the front, and to this is joined a gracefully flaring circular skirt. The long sleeves are dart fitted and trimmed with self-fabric covered buttons along the dart seams. The deep V neck is finished with an applied band of some contrasting material and shows an interesting lingerie touch in the ecru lace used. Canton crêpe, flat silk crêpe, rayon printed crêpe, crêpe marocain, and lightweight woolens are appropriate.

The dress is quite easy to make and it doesn't take much material. If black is becoming to you, you won't make any mistake in choosing black crêpe satin, using the reverse side of the crêpe for the applied band at the neck and a beige shade of Alencon lace just above.

3208—Child's dress. Sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 27 or 35 inch material and 2¾ yards of ruffling and 1¼ yards of 1 inch wide ribbon for bow and ends.

How to Tint the Nails

By Antoinette Donnelly

Rainbow Hued Fingertips Increase Awareness of Hand Appeaarnce.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—"No girl over 6 should be given a box of crayons for Christmas," said a bewildered man, as he scanned the green tipped fingernails of a lady of fashion.

"You mean," said his companion, also of the bewildered sex, "no girl should be trusted with a can of paint. Surely she was doing over the sun parlor chaise!"

Neither was correct. Marcelline, the lady of fashion, was simply exhibiting the latest color wrinkle—matching her nails up with her frock. Sounds rather ga-ga to you, too?

Well, it looks as if we might be in for a spell of nails the like of which have never been presented before. One firm, it is reported, is stocked with no less than 32 shades of nail polish, so with every one of your 32 dresses you can show the world that you know what ensemble-ing really is.

Being a conventional soul at heart, also having watched so many of the bizarre fads die ignominious deaths after a brief run, I view this nail tinting a bit skeptically.

Ensemble Carried Too Far.

Also, I think the ensemble idea may have taken a too deep root in certain female souls. A woman can pursue the idea of matching up every detail, small and large, until she turns herself out rather negatively. Basically the idea is sound—charming as well as practical. One can subscribe to a better wardrobe if harmony of hat and dress and shoes is considered in the buying. But one should not run a good thing to the ground, as is frequently done with the ensemble idea.

A bit of contrasting color, you know, will revive an otherwise uninteresting color scheme. I am thinking more of the type that will choose, let's say, a brown outfit, brown hat, brown dress, brown shoes; so far, so good. But if the beads are also brown an observer is apt to wish that a contrasting note were introduced somewhere to relieve the monotony.

However, it wasn't the dress I intended to introduce as today's topic. It is the new fingernail tinting. An amusing conceit, of course, and an interesting note in the whole female trend, back to the old time lure known hereabout as feminine. But it is a fad that will be subjected to a good deal of ridicule because of the kind of nails that will go in for the most bizarre coloring.

Gals Want Something New.

I suppose we gals just have to have something new every season. Last year's sun tan vogue served to keep some of us out of mischief. I mean other mischief. It, by the way, seems to be singing its own swan song from latest Palm Beach reports. Only the natural tanning, we gather from reports, is chic now. The sun tan fakers are no more the sensation—the reason being that it was a rare woman who could do the faking cleverly enough to get away with it. There was generally a muddiness about the whole tan mess that didn't make the creature as alluring as she hoped.

Anyway, you can have green nail polish and blue nail polish, and if you have any reason for putting your fingertips in mourning, as say stock losses or beau losses, you can dye them black. With the white tipped rims and the black lacquer you might be able to conjure up visions of ten little widdies needing a home. On the other hand, they might scare a man to death.

For Certain Types.

In adopting styles of this character one really ought to be a person of great chic, an exotic soul or a person of reputation, by which we do not mean a reputation as a home body. On nail tips of persons without some background of wit or distinction the effect, it is feared, would be incongruous.

In the red shades of nail polish there are three conservative colors, cardinal, garnet and coral, which may be safely recommended for all types of nails. Maybe you like that blood red coloring that is seen fingering artichokes or running feverishly through telephone book pages. I think it most repellant. On a young hand it is gruesome enough, but on one of those hands with skin not cared for and nails none too beautifully manicured it is quite horrible.

In anticipation of what may happen if girls take to crinolines and powdered wigs, which isn't so hard to imagine looking on at current fashion showings, some of our nail tint manufacturers are injecting perfumes of beguiling lure into their polishes. If the gentlemen revive the hand kissing habit they will be rewarded with a most agreeable whiff. In the meantime, the girls may enjoy it themselves.

More Fastidious Care.

But all of this nail tinting, though women may go to foolish extremes, is not without the great virtue of making us more hand conscious. We need that awareness, too. Because it is a woeful fact that hands are not given the care they deserve. They're washed and scrubbed and they are given reasonable manicure treatment, but there is not any reason why hands by this time should not be on a par, fastidiously speaking, with complexions.

There is not any reason why the same fear of age overtaking them does not spur women to preventive and preservative action about their hands as they adopt toward their faces. We are coming to it, however. And this nail lacquering in colors that for a time will seem foreign probably will be the missionary for greater hand salvation.

Women do jump right into action when attention is stressed on a feature that has a style angle to it. That's why silhouettes were made over. It was not that women decided they would be healthier if they went in for slimmer figures on better balanced food rations. They did so because fashion changed the silhouette.

So, in calling attention to the new in fingernail dressing, I am simply attempting to warn women that before long their hands will be put under the most minute form of scrutiny, and the judgment will be harsh if neglect registers against them.

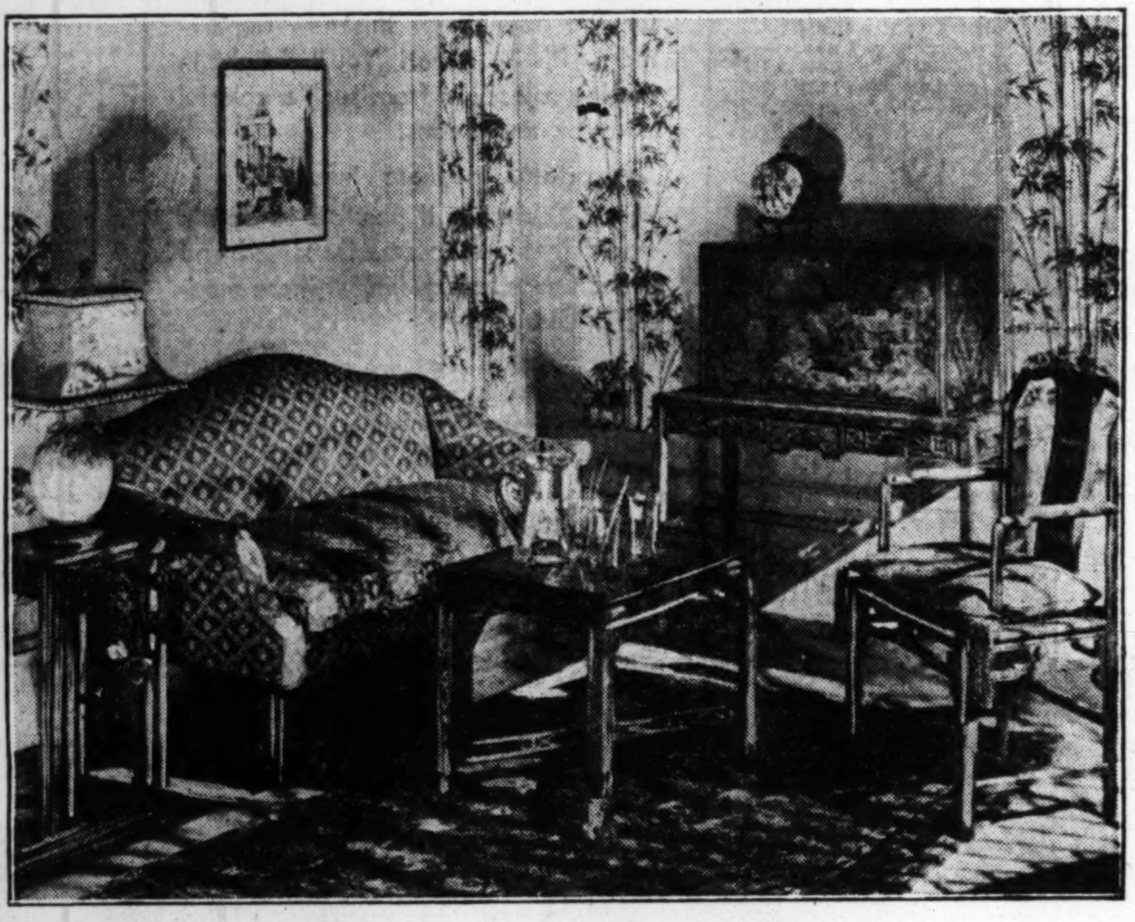
Furniture of Other Days Strikes a Note of Individuality and Charm

NOW that spring has come and birds are on the bough and crocuses on the lawn, our thoughts turn toward rejuvenating ourselves and our houses. Just "changing" a room around, adding a new chair here and a screen there, carting an eyesore to the attic, hanging new glass curtains and acquiring a gay chintz pillow or two can put us in such a joyous frame of mind that we actually feel years younger.

The furniture pictured today is a bit off the beaten path. It was chosen because, while conservative, it is not seen often enough to make it seem ordinary and trite. Take the Chinese Chippendale group, for instance. We are used to visualizing the chair with the ribband back and the carved cabriole leg when we think of the most famous of the three Chippendales, but he was intrigued by Chinese designs, as were other cabinet makers of his day, and Anglicized Chinese furniture with pagoda tops to chairs and cabinets, pendant bells, square legs, and fretwork are just as characteristic of the famous Thomas as are his Georgian and French models.

The love seat in the picture is upholstered in green damask. The Chinese Chippendale cabinet of maple is decorated by hand and the chair matches it. The coffee table shows the fretwork motif, and the attractive lamp is placed on an ebony stand and has a shade carrying out the Chinese note struck by the furniture. The lines of these pieces are well adapted to the small house or apartment.



Chinese Chippendale is unusual enough to be delightful.

The English barrel chair, shown in another photograph, is built on such a generous scale that it requires a large and spacious room for a background. We see ever so many wing chairs, but their cousin, the barrel chair, is much more individual. Perhaps that is why its general outline has been adopted by designers of modern furniture. Strange as it may seem, I saw a chair with a staved back, almost identical to the old fashioned barrel chair pictured, but made of more modern woods in an ultra modern setting, and it seemed perfectly at home.

The table shown with the barrel chair is a copy of an old oak model and is hand carved.

The small antique cabinet or server in the third photograph is decidedly unusual with its quaint carving and lovely proportions. On either side of the small upper drawer are two cherubs' heads outlined against their outspread wings. Beneath them are designs of leaves and flowers, beautifully carved. A reproduction of a 15th century French mirror hangs above the cabinet and a stout wooden chair with a cushion for a seat is an appropriate accompaniment to the group. The ancient wooden pegs in the original chair are cleverly copied and every detail is equally accurate.

Maiden Meditations

"A MAN IS JUDGED BY WHAT HE DRINKS."

[The Aging Bohemian observes her male friends.]

If you would know a man, my lass,
Just watch him tip a social glass;
The cocktail taster, after speed,
No traffic cop nor light will heed.
The guy who likes his gill of gin
Is gullible, oft taken in;
The chap who asks of Scotch a spot
Will flirt and talk and dance a lot;
But he whose drink is always rye
Will let no business chance get by.
The chap who laps up fancy mixtures
May wreck the mirrors and the fixtures,
But he who slowly sips sweet wine,
Or he who reaches for a stein,
Can spin a yarn or sing a song
In gayety both clean and strong.

And no one in our county jail
Is fond of milk or Adam's ale.

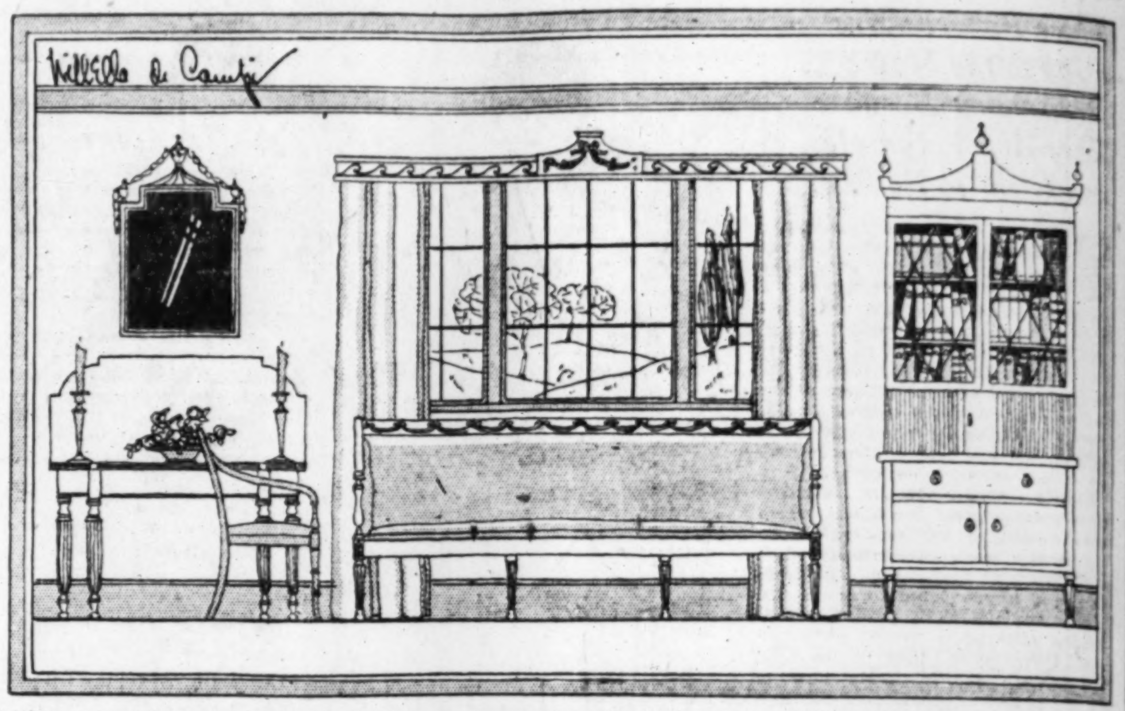
The Sheraton Period

By WillElla de Campi

Pleasing Restraint, Straight Lines and Grace of Proportion Mark the Work of This Master Craftsman.

WillElla de Campi will be glad to assist the homemaker in any problem pertaining to home furnishings. Address your letter to WillElla de Campi, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.



IMMEDIATELY following the Heppelwhite era, was the Sheraton, or last of the Georgian periods. Thomas Sheraton was the most noteworthy cabinet maker, and the last of the celebrated designers of the eighteenth century. His designs were extensively used, both in England and America. Like Heppelwhite he favored the classic spirit, and their work in many instances is noticeably similar. However, there were several marked differences. Whereas Heppelwhite was partial to curves; Sheraton was rigid in his adherence to straight lines and rectangular treatments.

Most of Sheraton's work excelled in delicacy, grace of proportion, and pleasing restraint. Though his latter work, adapting the style of the French empire was frightfully un-English, it is not typical, and can scarcely be classed as "Shearton." His early work was by far his best. His style, then, showed a strong Adam influence. Though fragile in appearance, his furniture was well made and substantial. By the skilfull manipulation of straight lines, he imparted a remarkable sense of dignity and refinement.

In the use of woods and the art of inlay, Sheraton was a master craftsman. Satinwood was his favorite medium though he used a great deal of mahogany. Some of his furniture was beautifully decorated with gilding and painting and some with carving in low relief, but marquetry was his chief means of decoration. Exquisite inlays were executed in sycamore, king-wood, tulip-wood, green-stained whitewood, zebra-wood, and ebony set in satinwood, or in light or dark mahogany. Designs were carried out in classic borders and ornaments. The motifs chiefly used were urns, vases, lyres or other musical instruments, cornucopias, wreaths of flowers, fan-shapes and scrolls.

In general shape and size, chairs designed by Sheraton were much like those made by Heppelwhite. Sheraton occasionally used an oval back, but his typical chairbacks were severely rectangular. Top rails were either straight or raised in the center. Various forms of straightline work such as vertical balusters or bars, diagonal lattices, a carved vase or urn, or horizontal bars and cane work, were introduced in the backs. In many instances there were combinations of these treatments.

Characteristic legs were slender and tapering. These were occasionally square, though they were usually round, turned and fluted, or reeded with a marked tapering towards the foot. Square seats tapered toward the back uprights. Some were made with rounded out or serpentine fronts.

Arms were slightly shaped. Some came forward in straight horizontal lines at right angles, and were doweled to a vase shape baluster support. This support might be formed by an extension of the front leg, or might be made by a separate piece, rising from the side rails of the seat frame, a little back from the front. Other arms were shaped in a receding line, curving from the tops of the front legs to the upper ends of the back uprights.

Graceful and pleasing sofas or settees had the same structural and decorative features as chairs. In many instances caning was used for backs and seats. These backs were often varied by alterations of caned panels and narrow latticed or baluster panels. Upholstered sofas were usually completely covered except for the frames, though in some cases they had latticed or baluster arms. The majority of sofas were quite long and had eight legs.

Tables were made in a variety of forms. Practically all of them had the characteristically slender, turned, reeded, or fluted legs. There were extension tables with shaped or semi-circular ends; card tables with turn-up leaves, and shaped or serpentine fronts; and oblong "sofa tables." These last were intended for placement in front of sofas and were usually fitted with narrow drop-leaves. Painted and inlaid tables of semi-circular shape, and writing tables with drawers were almost the same as those made by Heppelwhite, except in the shape of legs. Another type of writing table made by Sheraton was kidney shaped.

Sideboards were brought to their highest stage of perfection under Sheraton's direction. Typical Sheraton sideboards had either slender turned and reeded legs supporting deep drawers or cupboards at the ends, with a shallow drawer in the middle of the front, or else the ends were square and carried down almost to the floor as cupboards [similar to the pedestal ends designed by the Brothers Adam]. The square ends were often raised above the top of the middle section to serve as supports for knife boxes or urns.

Other dining room pieces, in addition to chairs and tables, included corner cupboards and china cabinets. Many of these were made with swan neck scroll pediments, surmounted by graceful vase shaped finials. These pediments were the most notable departure from Sheraton's straight line severity. In the majority of cabinets there were glazed, delicately traceried doors in the upper sections, with paneled doors below. In some instances cabinets were supported on slender legs, with only the top part used as a cupboard.

Bookcases of impressive design had many characteristics identical with those of the china cabinets. The upper sections usually were fitted with glazed traceried doors, and below there were cupboard doors or drawers. Central sections were often fitted with writing accommodations. Tops were almost invariably pedimented.

Sheraton beds were exceptionally graceful with slender posts and simple testers. The posts usually had turned bases. Upper parts as a rule were turned and reeded and were generally vase shaped, tapering off to slender proportions at the top, with delicate finials of vase or urn shape. Headboards were either straight or designed with downward scroll ends, or else were surmounted by swan neck scrolls, centering in an urn shaped finial.

There were two types of chests of drawers. Those made in one section were used as dressing tables. These low chests were set either on French feet or on turned and reeded legs, extending as pillars all the way to the top. Chests made in two sections with cornices decorated in characteristic Sheraton motifs, took the place of high-boys. Commodious wardrobes had doors opening the full height from top to bottom. In addition there were many ingenious wash stands made as part of bedroom furnishings.

With Sheraton the development of a clearly English style of furniture really ends, for after him, and even toward the close of his life, came confusion and a period of hodge-podge, graceless styles. The delicacy of outline and fine detail of Sheraton's designs, make this type of furniture especially well suited to use in small formal rooms.

Today's illustration shows a group of Sheraton pieces, charmingly arranged in a drawing room. The graceful sofa is upholstered in a soft blue satin damask, and the equally fine arm chair has its seat done in light amethyst brocade. Card table and bookcase are of satinwood. Making a pleasing background are the walls painted a subdued mauve. Window draperies are of dull rose taffeta, with a binding of soft blue and mauve. They are topped by a wooden cornice in the Sheraton style.

My Pet Economy

Restores Bric-a-Brac.

The most artistic person I know astonishes her friends with the beautiful bric-a-brac she purchases in a department store, found on the tables marked "reduced," "as is," etc. The priceless articles have been damaged, but with the aid of plastic wood and a paint box, she has been able to restore and make these pieces useful and as attractive as new. F. F.

Prolongs Life of Linoleum.

My economy is saving the kitchen linoleum by matching the original colors with paint and going over the spots that are badly worn. The entire floor is covered and it would surely be a great expense to cover as often as it became worn. A coat of good varnish after the painting does wonders. J. W. C.

Saves Shoe Leather.

My husband saves the best parts of leather belting discarded from machines at the factory. From these he cuts soles and nails them on his work shoes, thereby saving many a repair bill. W. H. L.

Cutting the Fuel Bill.

When starting fires in our boiler, we put in four folded sections of newspaper and over this a light layer of coal. After lighting this we have a good fire and saved the price of a load of wood this winter. R. G.

Inexpensive Pads.

My friend's pet economy is saving the tops and bottoms of cigar boxes, stenciling some design on them, such as a leaf, or a flower, then tracing the outline with a hot wire or similar instrument. She uses these for hot pads and they are scarcely distinguishable from ones made of cork. D. C.

Gave Them Warning.

We used to have an old fashioned coffee pot at home with a lid that always came off unless held. One afternoon a movie showed a family just sitting down to dinner. The picture had become so real to me that as the maid started pouring the coffee, I yelled at the top of my voice: "Hold the top!"

Every one started laughing at me. Needless to say, I held my tongue after that. R. M.

An Unpleasant Moment.

While working in an office in the downtown business district last summer, I developed a "crush" on a young art student employed next door. We exchanged casual greetings in the morning and sometimes walked to the street car together. One day, after hours, I left for home alone and started to cross the street hastily, unmindful of the fact that I was jaywalking.

One of my extremely high heels caught in the car rail and I sprawled full length, my packages scattered hither and yon. A wisecracker on the curb sang out, "I faw down, go boom!" When I regained a little of my equilibrium, I picked up my parcels and limped back to the office to change my shoes, for the heel of one had been completely broken off.

Standing in front of the office was my "crush," evidently waiting for me! From his embarrassed manner I guessed that he'd witnessed my undignified tumble. Managing a mumbled "hello," I rushed confusedly up to the office and allowed my discomfiture and blushes to engulf me. H. B. B.

Pointing Her Out.

While on my way downtown on a street car I looked out as the car stopped and saw a woman get on who had just moved to our neighborhood. I leaned over to my mother, sitting opposite, and said, "There is Mrs. John ———."

As she came down the aisle my mother turned toward me and said, "Where is Mrs. John ———?" The woman, who was quite haughty, looked inquiringly at both of us. I was too embarrassed to answer. A. M.

This is Wanda Perry, a young Broadway star. She is learning that proper care makes hair more attractive, even for a girl of twelve!

Now You Can Protect Her Lovely Hair!

NATURE is gradually lowering our ability to grow hair. Baldness is becoming the rule among men; authorities predict the day of feminine baldness is coming.

Now, more than ever before, it is necessary for the whole family to practice proper care of the hair.

Millions of men and women know how Danderine helps stop falling hair; dissolves the worst crust of dandruff. It changes dull, lustreless, brittle hair into hair that is soft, sparkling, vigorous. Its consistent use encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. With Danderine it is so easy to "train" a child's hair; to keep it orderly, sparkling, clean. Danderine accentuates the natural curl of a child's hair. A girl's waves look more natural when "set" with it. They stay in longer.

Use Danderine with children to overcome the evils of frequent washing. It puts back into hair and scalp the natural oils removed by soap and water. Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It is no trouble to use. Just put a little on the brush each time the hair is arranged. That will keep the scalp healthy and the hair always vigorous, soft, lustrous, easily managed.

Duties Confront Guest

By Helen Bartlett

If One Accepts the Hospitality of a Friend, Certain Common Rules of Convention Follow

It is the aim of this department to serve as a practical guide in problems of everyday etiquette. Self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Miss Helen Bartlett, Sunday Department, Chicago Tribune.

SOME one wrote a good story not long ago about the perfect guest. The p. g. was not a genius, a poseur, nor even remarkable in any one respect. He was simply one of the most civilized, fundamentally well mannered persons who ever lived.

And this is just what the perfect guest probably is. The geniuses may be high hat or eccentric, and a trial to persons whose hospitality they accept; the mediocre specialist is almost bound to talk too much; the ordinary mortals are apt to have many faults which make the contemplative hostess think twice before inviting them to her parties.

Obligations Start Early.

A guest has obligations from the time he receives an invitation. If he plans to go he must lose no time in telling his host or hostess so. If he's received an informal invitation it is answered in the same fashion. If it was a formal one he digs up his best letter paper, adopts the third person and centers every line in acknowledging the summons properly. If he decides not to go he sends his regrets, promptly and politely.

A guest is obliged to be a many-faceted character. In good society he is expected to be well informed, well mannered, and presentable, sartorially and otherwise.

He must contribute to the gayety of the party. The boor who won't speak or the bore who speaks too much are both trials to hostess and guests. At dinner, the guest is supposed to devote equal attention to persons on either side of him. If conversation in his neighborhood lags perceptibly he is duty bound to make an effort at reviving it. If he's one of those fortunate mortals who is consistently entertaining he'll never lack for invitations, but if he's just an ordinary person like most of us he'll have to justify his presence by contributing his best.

Politeness and Tact.

If the lady next to him insists on talking about opera, believing that she's leading subtly to the subject of her own singing voice, the p. g. must be led on, taking the obvious conversational turns with the utmost suavity, even though the system has been tried on him a hundred times before and he can recognize every signal.

If he's thrown with an elderly gentlemen who doesn't know the civil war is over, he's duty bound to become civil war conscious. With the dog fancier or the sword swallower or the bibliophile, no matter what his own theories in the matter, he's obliged to be interested and polite.

The arguing guest is indeed an abomination. Stimulating discussion and exchange of viewpoint are, if such an expression is permissible in an etiquette column, simply swell, but vehemence, intolerance, and personal grudges have no place in the drawing room. Politics and religion among the well bred and the well informed may perhaps be discussed without explosions, but even under those circumstances such a discussion is on thin conversational ice. Those two subjects are better left alone. If some stupid or belligerent person makes a break, by all means let it go—at least until you're free of your host's roof.

Clothes Are Important.

Too, a guest is obliged to be fairly well dressed. A man shouldn't wear business clothes to a formal party, a woman shouldn't wear sports things to a dinner party. Grooming, of course, for both men and women is a matter about which under all circumstances they can't be too punctilious, but they should be particularly watchful when they are invited out and expected to be a credit to their host's taste in friends.

Being entertaining is an indispensable asset to a guest, but here, too, discretion should temper enthusiasm. If you're pretty confident that the party is in the mood for your pet parlor trick, by all means do it, but be careful that you don't display a leaning toward exhibitionism. Nothing will be more discouraging to entertaining efforts than the clammy applause of an audience which suspects the amateur performer of showing off.

A guest's obligations don't end with good attendance at a party. Those who partake of hospitality are obliged to return it, or in some way to express their appreciation or at least a desire to reciprocate.

Answers to Etiquette Questions.

"What is the correct form of announcement to send out at the birth of a child?—B. A."

This is largely a matter of personal taste. Personally, we prefer the dignified kind, consisting of a card of Bristol board, visiting card size, on which is engraved the name of the parents. Attached to this by a little bow of ribbon, blue for a boy or pink for a girl, is a miniature card engraved, in the same lettering, with the name of the new baby and the date of its birth.

"Is it ever or always correct to eat the lettuce that is served as a bed for salad?—MRS. C. O."

Nowadays it is considered quite correct.

"When the bridal party enters the church do the assembled guests remain seated or do they stand? What do they do at the recessional? Does the same rule apply to Catholic and Protestant weddings."—H. M. W.

The guests stand when the processional begins, during the ceremony and during the recessional. This applies to both Catholic and Protestant weddings. If a ceremony in the Roman Catholic church is followed by a nuptial mass, however, the guests sit, stand, or kneel at certain intervals during mass, but stand for the recessional.

"At dinner where does the guest of honor sit? Is it ever correct to serve from a tea table or cart in one's home.—D. W."

The woman guest of honor sits at the host's right; a man guest of honor at the hostess' right. At a stag party, or at a party for women only, the guests of honor sits at the right of host or hostess as the case may be. Yes, a tea cart may be utilized by the hostess at tea and informal luncheons and dinners.

APRIL FOOL

By Eleanor Jewett

I have known salt
In the sugar-bowl;
I have known chocolates
Made of coal.
I've heard of flannel
In a breakfast cake,
So please be careful
What you take.

I have found a purse
Tied to a string;
I have known pins
Make doorbells ring.
Look out for a newspaper
Over a brick;
Cotton in muffins
Is another trick.

Look out for the day
That is April the first—
If you don't get the better
You may get the worst—
Be careful at home
And be careful at school,
Or some one may make you
AN APRIL FOOL!

A Friend in Need

By Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friends in need and the friends in deed may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

I VENTURE to say this morning that there's not a person in the world who does not at some time or other discard articles which, given at the proper time and to the right person, could serve another term of usefulness. The reason these things find their way to the ash heap or are left to decay in some store room is that the owners do not know the people who could put them to use. They hesitate to offer them to friends and the idea of placing them through an outside agency does not often occur. Unless you've known the real meaning of want and need you cannot possibly realize just how much the things you have grown tired of or can no longer use might mean to some unfortunate person.

There are the little sick room comforts that help to alleviate pain and suffering in time of illness; the books and magazines you've read and do not want to keep—these would provide many enjoyable hours for the shut-in. Perhaps you have a musical instrument no one plays—there are many aspiring musicians whose ambitions are dampened or deterred by lack of funds and one of these would love and cherish it. I know many elderly women who'd like to make a patchwork quilt. The remnants you have left from your recent sewing would make excellent material for most attractive ones.

If you are planning to invest in a new typewriter, the old one could be renovated and put in working condition for some mother or invalid who has an opportunity to do home work and thereby add considerably to a meager income. There are many families who would adore having that puppy, kitten or bird you can no longer care for, and I know a place for the toys your children are outgrowing.

Of course, there is the ever prevalent cry for clothing from men, women, and children, and there is always a home to be made with the furniture, household accessories and knickknacks you are disposing of. If you are planning to make contributions to the scrap heap, consult me first. I have an applicant for the article you no longer want and you may be sure it will help to alleviate suffering in some home or will help to bring happiness wherever it is placed. The letters below will give you a concrete idea of the pressing needs that come to my attention.

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: I need a typewriter to help out my missionary work, and because of a meagerness of funds I am unable to purchase one. It has occurred to me that your helpful column might be the means of securing one. I shall be forever grateful if you will ask your readers for their assistance at this time.

"Dear 'Friend in Need': I am writing to ask you for books to read. On account of my ill health I am a shut-in during the cold weather and am alone all day. I haven't much money so cannot buy reading matter, and the days are so long and dreary for me.

"MRS. N. F."

"Dear Sally Joy: I have five boys aged 8, 6, 5 and 1½ years and 1 month old and a girl 4. They are badly in need of underwear and blouses and dresses for school. I am not well and my husband has had almost no work, so it is impossible to buy the things we need. We barely manage to pay rent and buy food, and although I hate to ask for things the situation has become such that I can no longer think of my pride. If you can help me, I shall be most grateful to you.

By Thyra Samter Winslow

The Story of a Man Who Planned the Perfect Crime—Who Removed Every Clew—and the Result.

ILLUSTRATIONS BY GARRETT PRICE.

There must be some way of getting rid of Hilda!

IF it weren't for Hilda Ray, everything would be all right. Morris Jennison felt that. He was young, getting along well professionally, and practically engaged to a wonderful girl who could help him socially and in his profession, and who could remove the stain that Hilda Ray had put on him.

Loneliness was the reason he'd got mixed up with Hilda Ray in the first place. Starting out as a landscape architect, it's hard getting in with the right people. He had met Hilda Ray at a stupid party in an artist's studio where a business acquaintance had taken him. Hilda had been too plump even then, but she had a nice face, round and good natured. Yet, under the good nature there was a hardness, too. Hilda's big brown eyes with their fringes of darkened lashes and her full rouged mouth seemed pleasing.

For years he had "gone with" Hilda Ray. Casually, until Morris' loneliness had made the relationship more intimate. Morris had delighted in spending his spare time in her snug apartment, had been glad to help toward its maintenance. Hilda had worked as a typist, had been "true to him."

When he started getting commissions he had done more for Hilda—and the apartment had blossomed with chiffon lamp shades and fancy cushions—Hilda's idea of elegance—and even a comfortable chair for him. Hilda cooked meals—he didn't like restaurants. Perhaps if he hadn't got ahead, he wouldn't have grown tired of Hilda Ray.

That was it. He had got ahead. They had grown apart. His work had introduced him to groups where Hilda Ray wouldn't fit in. A landscape architect has opportunities. After he finished the La Portes' place on Long Island they continued to be nice to him. He couldn't possibly take Hilda there!

Then, three months ago, he had met Doris Wilton. No doubt of it, Doris would be the ideal wife for him. He wasn't in love with Doris, the way people are in fiction, but he was awfully fond of her. He'd never really be in love with any one.

Doris had everything that Hilda Ray could never have. She was a daughter of THE Philip Wilton of Wall street. She wasn't awfully good looking, but Philip knew she was quite attractive enough to be introduced as his wife—especially when you found out who she was. Morris felt that Doris had a slow mind, but, after all, you can't have everything. At that, sometimes it had been embarrassing, the way Hilda caught on to things. Hilda's mind was quick in spite of her size, which had increased with the years.

There must be some way of getting rid of Hilda! The idea was in Morris' conscious—and subconscious — mind. Hilda interfered with everything he did. He hinted that he was through. She continued to telephone, to make plans for him. He refused to talk with her over the telephone, broke dates with her—and she remained friendly, eager, patient. Now she seemed to be threatening. He didn't know what to do.

A dozen futile attempts toward freedom and he reached the end of his resources. Then THE THOUGHT came to him! Almost imperceptibly at first. Then with unbelievable clarity. Why, with Hilda out of the way everything would be perfect.

He must get rid of Hilda Ray! Rumors came to him—people knew about her. You can't keep a thing like that a secret. He knew that nearly every modern young man had a past—but he hadn't broken away from his! Hadn't been able to break away.

There was only one way. Hadn't he tried everything else? He had offered her a trip to Europe, but Hilda didn't like "foreigners." Without her, everything would be wonderful. He could marry Doris. Wilton would undoubtedly give him tips on the market. When one has three unmarried daughters one isn't sorry to see one who is twenty-seven marry a young architect. Southampton in the summer, theaters, the opera, a correct home—there's not much more to ask for.

To get rid of Hilda! It ought to be easy enough. The trouble with most people who want to put some one out of the way—with most, well, murderers—is that they are stupid. They leave clews, don't do things scientifically. The murders in the newspapers could all have been planned more perfectly. Probably there were more murderers never detected than folks realized.

A doctor had once told him that murders are committed every day—and the victims were thought to be suicides. If he were clever—and he felt that he was—it would look as if Hilda Ray killed herself. It ought to be easy. After all he had climbed, socially, alone. He could get away with this. He must build up an alibi so perfect no one could dream of suspecting him.

The thought obsessed him while he ate and worked. It followed him to parties, to the theater, into his dreams. When Hilda telephoned to him, when he had to see her, he was decent, patient. He'd have to find a way out! Innumerable schemes were weighed and discarded. Then, suddenly, there came the real solution. It was simple, perfect. Why hadn't he thought of it before?

Hilda took headache medicine, five grain capsules filled with a white powder. Poison, in a similar capsule, slipped into Hilda's box of capsules, would do the trick. He already had in his possession a perfect poison, one he used so legitimately that, if for any reason, a search were made of his premises the poison would be there because it had to be. No going into a drug store and being identified later by a ferret eyed clerk.

Even Hilda's death by this poison wouldn't be unusual. The poison was arsenic. Morris, who combined practical landscape gardening with landscape architecture, used it for plant experiments. He liked to introduce unusual shrubs and bushes. Arsenic was too common a poison to make any one suspicious.

MORRIS had a combined home and studio in a smart Park avenue building. In the studio were the necessary desks and drawing boards, and furniture that was comfortable, too, and a bit bizarre—just modern enough not to frighten away conservative customers. There were a couple of bedrooms, too, and Morris' laboratory. This last had been intended for a kitchen and now combined its original with its more recent usage. There was a refrigerator for cooling drinks a little cabinet of dishes, and innumerable siphons and test tubes and jars of chemicals and unusual little plants in tubs. And there was always arsenic in the laboratory.

If things only came out all right! He wouldn't tell any one anything. Morris felt that most crimes failed because of too much talk. He planned every detail. It must appear that he threw Hilda over. Nicely, of course. Then, loneliness prompted her to end things. That was logical—with enough motive to satisfy the police—who were always searching for motives. He would arrange the poison, send her a letter saying that all was over between them. Morris knew that Hilda talked a lot to her friends, to that silly Miss Everton, to others. They would know he was seeing less and less of her, would find out about the letter. Yes, it was perfect.

Morris was glad that Hilda took headache capsules. It looked as if fate were helping him. The capsule. The letter. Hilda's suicide because he had thrown her over!

He wouldn't sign that final letter, nor even put Hilda's name inside. That might even keep his name out of the case altogether. It was better not to try to disguise his handwriting—experts always saw through disguises, anyhow. But inconsequential people kill themselves every day—are hardly given any publicity at all. Undoubtedly he wouldn't be mixed up in the affair, at all.

Morris still had a key to Hilda's apartment. His presence there would cause no comment. He'd get in when Hilda was not at home. No one would see him if he were clever. Then he'd write the letter. A flawless alibi! After Hilda's death, if the remaining capsules were analyzed, they would be free from poison. His letter would be polite, regretful. Perfect! Only fools get caught, anyhow.

Morris had a couple of ordinary five grain capsules of aspirin. No use being a fool and buying empty capsules. He filled an emptied capsule with arsenic. He wrapped this in a bit of paper, put it in his vest pocket, waited. He knew enough about poison to know that dose would be sufficient.

He thought, for awhile, of trying to put some more poison in Hilda's apartment, rat poison, say. Why not let well enough alone? Let the police worry as to where she got the poison. She wasn't important—that, indeed, was one of the things wrong with her. Quite likely the affair wouldn't even reach the papers.

Morris saw as little of Hilda as possible, broke engagements. When he hadn't seen her for several weeks he thought he felt, over the telephone, an undercurrent of ugliness.

Then, Morris had a letter from Clarence Hawley, a friend who lived in Chicago. Clarence was going to sail for London and wanted to stop off for a day or two with Morris, on the way. Morris seized on Clarence's letter. Clarence, as a guest, would furnish a perfect alibi! He invited Clarence to stay at least a week with him. He was overjoyed when Clarence accepted, saying he would reach New York on Friday night, would wire the exact time. The time had come! Everything was perfect!

On Friday evening Morris went to his club for a game of bridge. He knew that Hilda went to a New Jersey resort for every week-end, leaving on Fridays. Everything was in order.

A telegram came from Clarence. He tossed it on the bridge table. "Please help me meet this train," he said. "You know how disappointing it is not to be met, when you get into town. A chap coming to see—I think you know him, Barnes." He told them about Hawley, added, "he's the sort who has to be taken care of every minute." There, that was that!

At eleven Morris went to the corner drug store. The club didn't keep the cigarets he preferred. He telephoned. First he found out that the train was three-quarters of an hour late. Then he made sure there was no one in Hilda's apartment. At the bridge table he said, carelessly, that the train was fifteen minutes late. He had half an hour to spare! He continued to play just the right length of time. Luckily, then, a rubber was just over.

He walked to the corner, took a taxicab. No use taking a cab right in front of the club. He gave the address of a large apartment building a quarter of a block from where Hilda lived. The ride was uneventful. Morris did nothing to attract the driver's attention, dismissing him with the regulation tip. That driver wouldn't remember him, he felt sure.

HE waited until the taxicab disappeared. Then he sauntered toward Hilda's apartment, in a small madeover building. A few casual pedestrians passed him and saw him not at all. He was an ordinary well groomed man on his way home. He ran up the creaking stairs of the old house. Protecting his hand with his handkerchief, he unlocked the door, switched on the light. What a terrible place, with its cheap, gaudy air of hominess.

He touched nothing. He went into the bathroom, removed the top of the box that always contained Hilda's headache capsules. He removed one and substituted the poison filled capsule. Curious, how unmoved he felt! He didn't loiter, waste time. He switched off the light, closed the door of the apartment quietly after him.

No one saw him as he came out of the building. He knew that. He walked a block, found that it was difficult to catch his breath. Perhaps he was walking too fast. He hailed a taxi—again was the average occupant.

At Pennsylvania station he got out of the cab. He knew the driver could never identify him. Well, it was over! All the weeks of planning. It seemed nothing at all. He spoke to an acquaintance who was catching a train to Long Island, glad of another alibi.

Clarence arrived, jolly and noisy. Morris didn't mention Hilda to Clarence, didn't say too much about Doris. Funny, how calm he felt.

The next morning Morris wrote the letter to Hilda. The last move in his alibi. Hilda would get it quite as soon as she could take a capsule. He was quite satisfied with the letter. He felt it was dignified, charming. The sort of letter he might have written to a girl in his own set—well, say, to Doris if he had to "turn her down." He didn't sign it, of course. So much the better if it could be "SPURNED BY UNKNOWN LOVER." He felt satisfied as he dropped it into the mail box.

Nothing could happen before Monday—or later. Knowing Hilda, however, he felt that she would need headache medicine before Clarence's visit was over. And there were just three capsules in the box.

DORIS WILTON wasn't happy. She felt that she ought to be—wasn't she practically engaged to be married? She knew her father was devoted to her—when he thought of it. He gave his daughters everything, patronized them, ignored them. She was always hearing of his brilliance, never seeing any of it. She had tried saying something about Morris and he had remarked, "Morris Jennison seems a nice fellow. I think he'll get ahead." That was all. Doris couldn't go to him. He would dismiss the whole thing or have a sudden spell of anger and make her quit seeing Morris altogether.

Mrs. Wilton was even more difficult. She was a fluttery little woman with a fear of getting old and was always dieting, worrying. This year she was having trouble with her hair and her teeth, was completely occupied with them. Should she dye her hair another color? It was so unbecoming now, but if she changed, folks would know. And if she had her teeth pulled, as the dentist advised, it would mean false teeth and they would show. Mrs. Wilton liked young men, but she didn't want to go "too far," though none of her timid suitors would go too far with the wife of Philip Wilton. No, Doris couldn't get close enough to her mother to ask her anything.

Doris' sisters had their own problems. They thought that Doris, at twenty-seven, was fortunate to capture Morris Jennison. They would have laughed at her ideas Her friends were equally unapproachable.

Doris knew she should have been satisfied. Almost engaged to a good looking man, who had a future, too. Not much money, but then he didn't have any foolish ideas about not taking things her father could give them. They had talked that over.

Yes, she had everything, a lovely home, a new car. And now a suitable young man. Doris knew that Morris' love was mixed with material things. She didn't underrate her father's position. But she wanted marriage and, in a way, she wanted Morris. She had wondered why Morris had hesitated about having their engagement announced.

Then she had found out the reason—had found out about Hilda Ray. The news had come to her suddenly. That was the thing she wanted to consult some one about.

Doris knew that the best thing would be to ignore what she had heard. She found she simply couldn't do that. It wasn't that she had expected Morris to have been untouched by life, but it worried her to know that Morris had cared for only this woman—and that he was still seeing her.

Doris pieced things together. First, only a rumor reached her. Then she learned the girl's name. It was Hilda Ray. Now, she knew where she lived! Besides Hilda Ray, there was another woman Doris worried about. Madeline Craig. Mrs. Craig was rich and belonged to one of the sporty Westchester sets. Doris felt that Morris had been rather taken—and taken up—by her. Now he was going to do Mrs. Craig's garden. Of course, that was probably just a business deal, as Morris said, but the thing worried Doris. She could tease Morris about Mrs. Craig—when she hadn't dared mention Hilda Ray, but it made her wonder. Did he still love Hilda Ray? Was he throwing her over for position? Would he throw her over for—well, for a Mrs. Craig when her turn came?

Doris felt there was only one thing to do—to find out for herself. One conversation with Hilda Ray and everything would be clear. After all, Hilda Ray couldn't be such a bad sort if Morris had cared for her—maybe still cared for her. She'd see.

Doris found out Hilda's name and address on Friday. Definitely, that is. She had spent the week-end in Southampton and on Monday she had been too busy to go. When she had dinner on Monday night with Morris and his guest at the Hildreths she didn't say anything about her plan.

Doris liked Clarence, was glad he was going to be in town for a week; glad, too, that he and Bernice Roberts liked one another. The four of them could have good times together. Doris asked Morris if he were worried—he seemed distrait. Maybe she was just imagining Morris' nervousness because she was nervous, herself.

It was three o'clock on Tuesday before Doris found time to get to Hilda Ray's apartment. She rang the bell, waited, trembling. What if—if Hilda Ray were out? What if Miss Ray would be angry at her for coming? Then there was the familiar little click you hear in apartments where there are no hall attendants. Some one had pressed a button to unlock the door. Doris walked up the narrow stairs.

A fat, rather comfortable looking blonde woman stood in an open doorway. Doris was embarrassed—yet she still felt that she had to come here—had to do this. Embarrassed, she started to talk.

"Miss Ray," her words tumbled over one another, "I hope you'll understand my coming here. I'm Doris Wilton. I don't know how to tell you why I came. Maybe you'll forgive my coming"—Hilda Ray frowned and then smiled.

"Won't you come in?" she said, hospitably enough. And Doris was sitting on the elaborately cushioned davenport, Hilda across from her. Between the two women there was a curious restraint that could never have gone away, no matter how long they had known each other.

His work had introduced him to groups where Hilda Ray wouldn't fit in.

YET, in a way, they were friendly. Doris managed to tell Hilda some of her reasons for coming. She was appealing without meaning to be. So Hilda decided to be as frank, and, in a way, as truthful as Doris. Why not? She had nothing to lose—now?

"It's all over between Morris and me," said Hilda. "I'll not stand in his way, though I'll never again do anything to help him. I guess I've done my last helping of Morris Jennison, though I've helped him enough in the past. If there's a more selfish man in the world than Morris I don't want to meet him.

"O, he has his good points. If you treat him well and he thinks he is getting ahead through you, he's all right. Well, I'm not going to make any trouble, if that's what you mean. As far as he's concerned I'm through—and I'm through forever. And he's through with me, too, if that's what you want to know. I can prove that, all right."

Hilda put her hand into a table drawer, produced a letter, took it out of its envelope, tore up the envelope almost without thinking, handed the letter to Doris.

"This was waiting for me when I got back yesterday," she said. "A funny kind of letter for Morris to write to me. Damned formal. I wish I'd kept some of the others to show you, but I always tore them up as soon as I got them. Morris is acting funny lately. Sort of thinks I want to make trouble. I don't, at all. I know when a man's through he's through. Sure, I tried to get him back but I know when it's too late—and that's now. I don't want to start anything, honest, but if he went down on his knees in front of me I wouldn't help him. I wouldn't go out of my way one inch to help that man if he were on the brink of eternity! That's sure.

"I could rant a lot about 'giving him the best years of my life,' but what's the use of that, even? Those days are gone. If you want Morris, now, you can have him with my blessings. And I hope he turns out better for you than he did for me."

Doris read the letter Hilda handed to her. Why, this helped things immensely. She didn't see why Miss Ray thought it an odd letter It seemed exactly the letter a man would write who is through with a woman. Courteous. Kind. Regretful that his affection was dead and yet tender, too.

"May I take this letter?" Doris asked. "I want to read it alone. I'll mail it back to you tomorrow. I won't tell a soul I've got it. It takes me a while to think things out. I want to talk to Morris. There may even be another woman he cares about."

Hilda Ray thought for a minute, nodded. "Go ahead," she said. "Do you know, you're the only one who knows I got that letter. It looks to me as if Morris wrote to me so I'd show it to my friends. So I'm going to fool him."

Doris put the letter into her bag. She felt that Miss Ray was a little unfair to Morris. Well, why shouldn't she be?

The bell rang. Hilda pressed the buzzer, then opened the door. A woman came in. Pretty, in a cheap sort of way.

"My friend, Miss Everton," introduced Hilda in her best manner. Doris was eager to get away but she didn't want to appear rude. The three talked the useless chatter of women who have nothing to say. Without thinking, Doris put her hand to her head. The excitement of the interview had changed her "out of sorts" feeling into a severe headache.

"What's the matter?" inquired Miss Everton.

"A headache. Nervousness," Doris admitted. "It won't go away unless I take aspirin."

"I know exactly how you feel," said Hilda, all sympathy, now. "I get the most terrible headaches. I got one yesterday and took a headache capsule and it was gone in a minute. I've got the most wonderful prescription. You know, Freda! Let me give you one, Miss Wilton!"

Doris hesitated, embarrassed. Her head did ache. She didn't like the idea. Still, she didn't want to be ungracious, either, and it would be good to get rid of her headache before she saw Morris. She wanted to see Morris, tell him she had seen Hilda, find out his feelings toward her and Mrs. Craig. Then there would be no secrets. Everything would be all right.

Hilda Ray left the room, came back with a glass of water and a little round box.

"Take one, Miss Wilton," she offered. "They're absolutely harmless. Want one, too, Freda?"

"No, thank you," laughed Freda Everton. "The only headaches I ever have are those on a morning after—and last night I went to bed at nine o'clock."

In the little box lay two capsules. Doris took one of them, swallowed it.

"Thank you a lot," she said.

A little more harmless chatter and Doris left, smiling pleasantly at Miss Ray and Miss Everton. She would see Morris right away, get everything fixed up. How her head ached! She did hope it would stop aching.

MORRIS was trying to do half an hour's work. As he sketched he tried to believe that he was not nervous, that there was nothing to be nervous about—and he thought of Hilda Ray. Where was she? Had she taken the capsule? How would he find out if—when—something happened. Well, he had built up a perfect alibi. No trace of poison there—and no trace that he'd been there, at all. And Clarence with him every minute, now. Things couldn't have come out better. All he had to do was wait—but he hated this nerve racking waiting.

Clarence Hawley strolled into the studio. He was enjoying New York. Morris had kept him busy every minute, had been the perfect host. He had expected theaters, a few entertainments, but he was awed at Morris' scheme of life. The last time he was in New York Morris was just starting to get ahead, had gone with a crowd wholly without pretentions. Clarence remembered a plump, laughing girl Morris had gone with. Now, Morris had taken him to an elaborate week-end party in Westchester. He had seemed attentive to a stunning widow named Craig, though he had assured Clarence it was a business connection.

On Monday, Clarence had met more of Morris' new friends at a dinner. Clarence had liked a pretty girl named Roberts, was looking forward to seeing her again. He had thought Miss Wilton pleasant enough, though not pretty. Morris had seemed a bit put out because she had teased him about Mrs. Craig. Morris was funny about women.

Clarence picked up a magazine, put it down again. Some of Morris' restlessness had got to him—or he was just a young man on a vacation.

"Think I'll stroll over to the drug store and get cigarets," he said. "I'll be back before you're through."

"Then hurry back," Morris advised. He didn't want Clarence out of his sight.

Morris tried to work. Worried, instead. Why had he—done anything? What if he were found out? He wouldn't be found out. How could he be? It seemed absurd, now, that he had done anything unusual at all.

The bell rang. Morris hurried to the door. Doris stood in the doorway. It was not usual for Doris to drop in, in the afternoon, but she did come, occasionally She threw her gloves and her fur and her bag on the studio davenport.

"Guess where I've been?" she asked, nervous under an assumed playfulness.

"Shopping, I suppose, Morris ventured.

"You'd never guess," she said. "You'll probably be furious when you find out, but I had to go—had to make up my mind. I'VE BEEN TO SEE HILDA RAY!"

A sudden fear clutched at Morris' throat. O God! Would this complicate things? What if Doris got mixed up, could be implicated in this? He tried to concentrate on what she was saying.

"I could understand you're caring for some one before you met me," she said. "After all, men are supposed to have 'pasts.' I didn't understand why you kept on seeing Hilda Ray. And now you're interested in Mrs. Craig, too. I had to know—must know how you feel!"

SHE didn't tell him about the letter. She wanted to hear him tell her that he no longer cared for Hilda—and that Mrs. Craig was only a business acquaintance—that she was the only one he cared about. The encounter with Hilda had left her nervous. Her head ached worse than ever.

Morris tried to soothe her, but in spite of himself he found his voice rising. Why had she gone to see Hilda Ray? Why hadn't she come to him for advice? He was annoyed at Doris for picking just this time for her visit. He tried, calmly, to show Doris how foolish she had been in going to Hilda's—and yet he didn't want to make the visit have too much significance. He wanted to know every detail of the visit—and yet he didn't want to seem curious.

It had seemed to Doris that everything would smooth itself out as soon as she told Morris. Hilda Ray had told her that everything was over, had even given her the letter saying that Morris was through. Even now the letter was safe in her bag, there with her purse and her gloves. If Morris would only take her in his arms, tell her he was through with all other women, and that he loved her more than any one else in the whole world! Instead Morris was curiously irritable. He asked questions, seemingly tried to find another motive for her visit.

"I don't know what you mean," she answered, her voice, too, far shriller than it should have been. "You're unreasonable. I shouldn't have lowered my pride in coming here. If I had known how you'd act I wouldn't have come at all, now or ever. Perhaps it's better if we never see each other again."

She didn't mean that! She knew it the minute the words were out of her mouth.

"Look here," said Morris. His voice was shrill, too. "I don't know what else there is for me to say. I wrote that I was through. Isn't that enough? What more is there to tell you? You spy on me. And now you drag Mrs. Craig in. There's nothing else I can say about the whole thing. You know how I feel."

Doris felt that she knew. It was just that she wanted affection, reassurance—and Morris was so nervous and angry. She wanted to be cuddled and caressed—not yelled at.

Neither of them had heard the front door open, had heard Clarence come in, pause in the hall at the sound of voices, hear without wanting to, and then go softly into his room and close the door.

"Well," said Doris, almost in tears, "I can't be made miserable and jealous all of my life."

Morris knew he couldn't let things end like this, couldn't let Doris go out of his life. Why, he needed Doris, wanted to marry her. Why, it was because of Doris. . . . He forced himself to control his voice.

"You're making a mountain out of a molehill," he said, a little gentler. "One minute you tell me you found out I no longer care for Miss Ray and the next you're hysterical and say you aren't going to see me again. I swear that Hilda Ray means nothing to me—and I care nothing about Mrs. Craig. Can't you trust me?"

When Clarence came into the room a few minutes later he found the two apparently themselves again. Clarence didn't tell them of the words he had heard when he came in. He was glad they had patched up their quarrel. Evidently Doris had been jealous, something like that.

"I've had the most terrible headache all day," Doris said, partly for conversation, though her head did ache severely. She didn't mention the headache capsule Hilda Ray had given her. She felt the friendly act of Miss Ray would annoy him. She didn't want to say anything in front of Clarence, anyhow.

"I've some aspirin that will help you," said Morris. He went into the laboratory off the studio, came back with a capsule and a glass of water.

Doris popped the capsule into her mouth, drank the water after it.

"I hope it does help me," she said "I have a dinner date tonight at the Berkleys'. Pauline would never forgive me if I cut it. And tomorrow I have a dozen things to do. And I'll see you both at dinner tomorrow night."

Even at that time Clarence felt that Doris Wilton's conversation was purposely frivolous, to cover up a deep emotion. She chattered pleasantly for a few minutes more, told them a gay good-by, was gone. Clarence felt sadness under her gayety.

Clarence remembered later, too, that Morris seemed nervous after Doris left. He made no more attempts to go on with his drawing. They went out for a walk, Clarence remembered, stopping in to see the new portrait an artist had just finished, went to Morris' club for dinner, and played bridge afterwards. Clarence was able to repeat in detail the curious way Morris acted that day and the next day, too.

YOU remember the newspaper stories of Doris Wilton's death and the famous trial that followed—and the result of that trial.

The story broke at a time when the papers needed news—there hadn't been a good local murder nor scandal in weeks. And each paper, in its way made the most of it, using columns of solid type or sensational photographs.

There's no need to go into the details. A sensational murder—with never a doubt as to the murderer—nor the outcome of the trial. That was the real trouble with the story.. It would have been worth much more space if there had been an element of mystery in it.

How stupid even bright people can be when they commit a crime! It was and a cry of terror rang out!

The oily voice of Blom was calm—but the fierce grip on Catherine's arm tightened cruelly. "My dear young lady, you can do nothing for Madame Bender. Besides . . . she is dying, anyway."

"Don't fool with her, Adolph," snarled Eduardo. "Jeanne, bring a gag and we'll end her devilish interfering."

CAUGHT in a terrible net of intrigue, treachery and villainy, Catherine West, young American girl, finds her visit to Paris turned into a tragic nightmare through the knavery of trusted servants. An exciting serial story of mystery and romance . . .

PARIS BOUND.

At first sight Catherine did not know what to make of Geoffrey Macadam. Was he excessively shy, or did his unbending manner betoken condemnation of the officious lady who thus dared to plant a complete stranger upon him and shatter the solitude of his journey to Paris? From the stiffness with which he acknowledged the introduction, eyeing her stonily with a finger between the pages of his magazine, she was inclined to the latter opinion, and burned to tell him how ardently she shared his resentment. Then, for a brief instant, she caught in his gaze, embarrassed yet searching, an expression which hinted at some other, quite different cause, a look of curiosity, of—of——

At the moment she was too much annoyed to follow up the thought.

From the expansive Mrs. Pope—Mrs. Hugh Tyler Pope she was called by some of their fellow passengers—Catherine had vainly fled all the way across the Atlantic, and it filled her with bitterness now when she had believed herself free to find her redoubtable protectress escorting her willy-nilly the full length of the train in search of her seat. Overborne by the pressure of a mighty bust she had been propelled bodily along the corridor, while a voice resembling a corn-crake, richly oiled with kind intentions, shouted, for the benefit of all and sundry, assurances which caused her to writhe with shame.

"Now, if only we'd met you sooner, my dear, we could have had your place reserved along with ours. It's just too dreadful to think of you traveling all this way by your little lonesome! Still it can't be helped now, the train's so jammed. Porter! Put mademoiselle's bag in that corner. These foreigners don't give a hoot for your convenience, you have to show 'em everything. That's right, dear, don't give him more than ten francs, it's quite enough."

Clogging the aisle with her immense mink coat she had hindered the porter in his exit and endangered several pairs of toes hastily withdrawn from her path. Then suddenly her eye had lit upon the retiring male in the opposite corner, whereupon she thrilled with delight and pounced upon him.

"Why, if it isn't Mr. Macadam! Now, what do you know about that? Been up to Havre on business? Well, well! Catherine, my dear—I want you to meet the very nicest man in all Paris. Englishman. Mr. Macadam, let me present a little friend of mine I've met on the boat, Miss West, from Boston. She's on her way to visit a relative in the Avenoo Henri Martin—you know, Mrs. Harry Belmont Bender, whose husband was killed last year in that awful motor accident in Massachoosetts. So sad!"

Not content with entrusting her young friend to the stranger's care, the well-meaning lady had dragged her victim back into the corridor and bending her head back confided a parting message at the top of her lungs:

"Now, wasn't that luck? I want to tell you, that's a young man it'll be nice for you to know. Geoffrey Macadam, junior partner or something in the law firm of Macadam & Langtree. Everybody knows them. This one's charming, a bit reserved like all the English, but such perfect manners. Be nice to him—— Well, au revoir, dear, I'll run back and look after Rozzy and Jim. If I don't see you at the gare, be sure to ring me up and come to my next at home."

"She's only a fool," thought Catherine as somewhat consciously she sank into her place. "Still I must show this poor man I've no intention of forcing myself on him."

Accordingly she returned such scanty replies to his hesitant courtesies that by the time the train had pulled out of the station he had retired behind his magazine, leaving her to pursue her reflections in peace.

Had she done right to come?

A guilty voice within whispered that she had been altogether precipitate about the whole affair, and might live to regret it.

"Yet why?" she argued stoutly. "Germaine certainly wants me to come. There's no possible doubt about that."

The truth was she had been so feverishly eager to leave Boston and all the irksome associations of the engagement she had just terminated. So strongly had she felt she could not walk down Boylston street or across the Common without encountering the injured young man or one of his family, in bitter league against her, that the instant Germaine's letter arrived she had dashed off to secure a passage. When later she had received a second missive, penned by an unknown person, she had lain awake a whole night wondering what she ought to do, and had ended by keeping silent for fear of shipwrecking her plans. . . .

Why did her vis-a-vis, ostensibly absorbed in his reading, from time to time steal a furtive glance in her direction? The covert survey, always withdrawn before she encountered it, disturbed her preoccupation and made her wonder again about the curious gleam she had noticed at the moment of their introduction. Till now she had managed to ignore him, but the recurring scrutiny, gravely speculative, roused in her a degree of interest.

Without actually looking, Catherine took stock of his appearance. She saw that his eyes were gray and attentive beneath somewhat bushy brows, that his skin was ruddy with health, and his figure wiry and muscular. He looked like a man who never would do anything rash. He would never, she decided, rush off across the ocean with a lingering doubt in his mind as to the wisdom of the venture. No, like John, he would weigh carefully the pros and cons, and then, most likely, stay at home. . . .

"I beg your pardon?"

She glanced at him quickly.

"Yes?"

He colored in slight confusion.

"Nothing. I fancied you were about to speak."

"No, I was only thinking." Then she added with a little laugh, "You didn't overhear my thoughts, did you?"

The BACKSTAGE MYSTERY

by OCTAVUS ROY COHEN

The Story in Brief:

TERRY MOONEY, young reporter, "makes the front page" of the Evening Record with the story that Wylie Thornton, matinée idol, is to leave the local stock company for New York and a Broadway engagement. Terry is engaged to Anice Garet, ingénue. Unknown to the adoring public, Thornton is a drunkard and a wastrel. He has knocked down John Norris, real estate operator. He has, however, superficial attractions which have dazzled Doris Manning, an amateur member of the stock company, who is the daughter of Maj. Manning, influential banker. He has persuaded Doris to elope with him, promising to marry her after divorcing his wife. Mrs. Thornton threatens to kill him to prevent the elopement. Norris and Maj. Manning go to the theater separately, the former to exact an apology, the latter with the hope of frightening Thornton off. Visiting the actor's dressing room with her fiancé, Carey Weldon, Doris finds Thornton shot to death and her father standing by. Manning enlists the aid of Jim Hanvey, detective. Chief Marty Gallagher is in charge of the investigation. The Record assigns Ken Johnston and Terry Mooney to cover the case. Mrs. Thornton is assaulted. She blames Lovely Holmes, gambler, saying he attacked her because she refused to indorse a $100,000 check made out to Thornton by Carey Weldon. Holmes makes a partial confession. Weldon is accused of the murder, but denies he did it. Hanvey promises Terry Mooney a sensational story.

INSTALLMENT XII.

The Mankiller.

TERRY and Anice were staring at Hanvey's immobile countenance.

"You're really going to give me a story—an interview on the whole case . . . and permission to print it?"

"Yeh, son. Print it right under your own name." He snapped open the glistening blade of his gold toothpick. "I promised you one big story, and we'll see if this ain't it."

The boy was trembling violently.

"And you're going to give me the name of the person you think killed Wylie Thornton?"

"Uh-huh. I sure am."

There was a flash of skirts across the room, and Anice Garet threw herself upon the portly detective.

"Jim Hanvey," she declared, "you're a perfect darling! I could kiss you for this."

Jim turned his face ceilingward.

"Sister," said he, "that's all I was doing it for."

She kissed him—enthusiastically. He opened his eyes sleepily and looked across the room at Terry Mooney.

"Son," he declared, "even I could write plays if I had something like that to look forward to regularly. And now . . . if this bewitching young thing will remove herself so I can think . . . we'll get busy giving Mister Terry Mooney a real swell yarn."

JIM HANVEY ambled across the room and opened the door of his clothes closet. From the floor thereof he lifted what had once been a portable typewriter, and this he placed on the writing desk near which Terry Mooney was sitting.

"Can you use that, son?"

"Surely. Why not?"

"That's what I used to think, Terry. But my fingers are so darn fat they keep hittin' two keys when they ought to hit one. Besides, it's kind of rusty."

"It'll do." The reporter opened the desk drawer and took out a dozen sheets of the hotel stationery. He slipped one under the platen and sat back expectantly.

Jim Hanvey deliberately selected the most comfortable chair in the room. He lolled back in this, flabby hands resting on his vest, and the fingers twitching toward the golden toothpick. Anice Garet had seated herself where she could watch the face of the detective, and Marty Gallagher, with difficulty concealing any show of excitement, withdrew his chair to the corner near the window.

"Now, here's what I'm gonna do, Terry," started Jim, in his soft, soothing voice. "I'm gonna dictate a whole lot of stuff and you take it all down just like I give it, see? Then, afterward, you can put it in the right shape to print in the newspaper. How's that?"

"Fine, Jim." The boy's face was beaming. "Gee! what a story! The first definite statement from Jim Hanvey!"

"And it may be all a lot of hooey."

"That don't make any difference. Ever since the night Thornton was killed the public has been waiting for you to say something."

"So have I," broke in Gallagher, "but we've both been disappointed."

Hanvey chuckled. "I never was much of a hand for talking, but I'll reform now. Ready, son?"

"Yes."

"Well, the first thing I want you to write down is 'By Terry Mooney.'"

The type bars kissed the platen and Terry looked around.

"Got that?"

"Yes."

"Fine. Now make a note saying that you had a long talk with Inspector Gallagher and Jim Hanvey, of which two detectives one is fat and the other handsome, and say that they have solved the Thornton mystery."

"You really know the solution?" gasped Anice.

"Uh-huh. Anyhow, we'll tell the Record readers such, and maybe they won't know no better. All set, Terry?"

"I've got it."

"Good. Now then put down the story of the killing. You don't need to write it out now—you can compose that in the office when you realize this whole thing. You know about when it was and all such as that, and how the body was found. The public always likes to read about such things. I believe if folks followed their instincts they'd all be in the undertaking business."

The machine clicked busily, then stopped. The only sound in the room for the moment was the murmur of traffic noises which drifted up from the street below. And then a sharp click as the blade of Jim's golden toothpick snapped open.

"Now, first of all, we've got to say something about Major Manning. He's a swell feller, and a real gent. More than that, we know good and well that he was willing to kill Wylie Thornton. He had the motive and the chance. So you can say that me and Marty don't believe the major done it."

"Why?" asked Mooney.

"Just a hunch. I sort of feel these things, son. You can put down that most likely Jim Hanvey is an idiot, because usually he ain't got any special reasons for thinking things, and in this case he thinks Maj. Manning told the strict truth. And you can also say that Marty Gallagher agrees with him."

"Who says I do?" asked Gallagher.

"Don't you?"

"Well, yes—sort of. After the first few minutes I never did think Manning killed that guy. The only thing puzzled me was why he was standing on the far side of the dressing room when his daughter and Carey Weldon came in."

"It puzzled me, too. But I'd always rather see things a little peculiar that way. I ask you, Marty, is there ever anything more perfect than a crook's alibi? Everything is just so, and you know it's a lie. I've always found that when things run natural, folks look mighty peculiar." He faced the typewriter again.

"Got all that, Terry?"

"Everything."

"Now we come to Mary Thornton. She sure had me fooled for a while, but I guess we better say that she didn't do it, either. The principal reason why I think she didn't was because, when we nabbed Lovely Holmes, he told us that Mary Thornton passed him in the alley leaving the theater, and right after that he went into Thornton's dressing room and Thornton was alive.

"It seems to me that a clever guy like Lovely would never clear a good suspect at his own expense if it wasn't true. It's a cinch he wasn't in cahoots with Mary Thornton — because any bond that might have existed between them before would have been ended when he choked her. Now, I think that if Thornton was alive when his wife left the theater, she couldn't very well have killed him." His fishlike eyes opened and he beamed. "Ain't I clever?" he inquired.

"Like a mule," grunted Gallagher. "How do you know Mary Thornton didn't go back after Lovely Holmes left?"

"O, shucks! Marty—you're always asking embarrassing questions. Terry, don't you put down nothing like that in your story. You ain't supposed to write how I don't know things. Your job is to put down what I do know—see?"

Anice's eyes twinkled to Jim's face.

"You never will be entirely serious, will you, Jim?"

"Sure, sister, sure. I'm serious now." He lighted a cheroot reflectively. "Next we come to Lola Gresmer. There's a swell lady. She volups a little and maybe she was younger a few years ago, but she sure is swell. Wylie Thornton was always crabbing her stuff and folks tell me there ain't nothing worse nobody could do to an actor. She hated Thornton—which seems to make it unanimous. But, honest, we ain't got a real reason in the world for connecting her with the killing and so I guess you better say that me and Marty don't think she done it."

MOONEY nodded. He was bent over the rickety machine, his fingers flying over the keyboard. In spite of Hanvey's easy conversational manner the room was surcharged with tense drama; an air of impending disclosure. Anice Garet was trembling and even the blasé Marty Gallagher was leaning forward as though fearful of missing a single word.

"Next on the list," continued the lethargic Hanvey in his indifferent way, "is Pete McIntosh. Pete looked like a suspect when we couldn't understand the robbery feature, because he was the only person mixed up in the mess to whom it seemed the money could have been a heavy inducement. Also, by his own admission, McIntosh was the only one back stage when Thornton came in. Later he heard the battle between Thornton and his wife and went to the box office. Then he saw Mary Thornton beating it out of the alley and he returned to the box office, where he sat for some time. Now, it was possible that he could have decided to kill Thornton under the idea of making folks think Mary Thornton done it. Also, Pete knew about that gun with the silencer on it—and we ain't got any way in the world of proving that Thornton was carrying that gun all day like McIntosh says he was. Furthermore, Pete most likely knew that Thornton had drawn his salary that afternoon, and of course he knew just how much it was.

"So there we have every reason in the world for really suspecting Pete McIntosh—pretty near. I was worried about him. I kept trying to find out whether that gun with the silencer was out of the property room all day like he claimed, or whether be carried it into Thornton's dressing room and killed him with it . . . knowing also what had happened at John Norris' house the night before and realizing that that would make a good reason why Thornton should be carrying the thing himself."

Gallagher leaped to his feet.

"Good Lord, Jim! Are you telling us that Pete McIntosh did it?"

Jim looked around in surprise.

"Gosh, no. Whatever gave you that idea, Marty?"

"You've made out such a clear case against him."

"Shuh! Marty—that's easy to do against most everybody. When things look that open and shut, I usually make up my mind that it wasn't that person." He grinned at Anice. "That sounds silly, don't it?"

"Frankly—yes."

"And it is, I reckon. But my mind always did work backwards. I never should have been a dick, anyway. When I read about how these fellers start thinking at the beginning and go straight through—that's when I realize what a dumbbell I am. But just the same, Terry, you can write down that I'm sure Pete McIntosh did not kill Wylie Thornton."

Mooney looked up, puzzled.

"But that will sound awfully funny, Jim—after all the evidence you've brought up against him."

"It won't sound funny to Pete. He'll love it."

Terry shrugged and typed for a moment. When his fingers were once again idle Jim Hanvey continued, and his voice seemed to have taken on a more serious note.

"And now," he announced, "we come to John Norris."

ANICE inbreathed sharply. She always had believed that Norris had been discarded too quickly as a suspect and she was impressed by Hanvey's manner.

"Things look pretty dark for Mister Norris," said Jim. "He was the sort of man who would never forgive an insult, and especially the kind Thornton handed him the night before. He had threatened to kill Thornton—and don't you ever kid yourself that he didn't mean it. Mrs. Norris believed that he was in earnest, and so do I."

"Do you mean," asked Anice, "that John Norris did it?"

"I'm coming to that." For just a second Jim's face glowed. "You asked me to give Terry a break, sister, and I'm doing it. I may not say much, but I'm gonna talk a lot and that will fill a whole heap of columns, which will help him with the newspaper. Now, we know that Norris went to the theater to kill Thornton if Thornton didn't apologize. We know that he lied to his wife when he came out of the theater, and that he drove out into the country to establish an alibi. The fact that he was pretty honest with us don't mean anything particular, because we know by reputation that the man is as cool as an icehouse trout. The only thing we have on his side is his unsupported statement that Wylie Thornton was already dead when he went into the dressing room.

"Maybe he was, but there ain't any proof of such. Maj. Manning could have been there and killed him, but we can forget that possibility because it's a cinch then that the major would never have gone back a second time. Carey Weldon could have made a trip back stage that we didn't know about and killed Thornton then. Or Lovely Holmes could have killed him . . . all of which would give Norris' story a chance of being true.

"But, by golly! folks, we ain't got proof of any of that, and it is certainly as easy to believe something against Norris as it is to believe evidence against the others.

"There's another angle, too. Norris is a little feller. He never would have tried to battle with Thornton any way except with a gun. The gun with the silencer was probably lying around loose, because we know that Thornton was dressing for the show . . . he was just half dressed when we found him. So you see, there's a heap of reason to believe that John Norris did it. Ain't that true, Anice?"

"Yes."

"Good. So we'll just let this young man write down in his story that after building up a swell case against John Norris, both Jim Hanvey and Marty Gallagher declared that he was innocent!"

The typewriter ceased to click and Mooney turned a flushed face to Hanvey.

"Innocent?"

"Sure. Don't it sound reasonable that he is?"

"No!" roared Gallagher, "it don't."

"Exactly," chuckled Jim. "But just the same I'm sure he didn't do it." He turned to the girl. "How do you think the story is coming along, sister? Reckon Terry's city editor will like it?"

"It's going to be marvelous," she declared. "But you've got me all creepy."

"How so?"

"I don't know . . . as though you were going to say something terrible."

"Well, I ain't. I'm just trying to make this a dandy break for Terry. And now, Mister Mooney, you can put a new sheet of paper in your machine, because I'm gonna talk about somebody else."

"Who?"

"The baby I'm now going to discuss—for publication—is Carey Weldon, himself in person."

. . . .

Jim appeared to doze and Terry fidgeted uncomfortably. Once he looked around and found Anice smiling at him. In spite of himself he smiled in answer, and then the atmosphere seemed less tense.

"About Weldon," started Hanvey abruptly—"there ain't a question on earth that he is the hardest nut of the bunch. In the first place, we know that he held out on us. We never would have learned about that check if it hadn't been for the affair between Lovely Holmes and Mrs. Thornton.

"Weldon had plenty of motive. Not only had Thornton done him out of his girl, but Weldon knew that he was a rotter, that he couldn't fail to make her miserable . . . and there was always the chance that maybe he didn't mean right by our Nell.

"The young man then does a perfectly natural thing. He sets out to fight fire with fire—which never has been thought foolish by anybody. He buys Wylie Thornton off with a hundred thousand smackers and Thornton very calmly double-crosses him, or plans to. If we then admit that Weldon had enough motive without the check episode, we certainly have to agree that he had more than enough with it."

"Exactly what I've been saying all along," broke in Gallagher triumphantly.

"Sure you have, Marty. I ain't trying to take a bit of credit away from you. Weldon had more motive than anybody, and we have to admit that he had the opportunity at least once when he went backstage. So I guess I'm gonna surprise you when I say that I don't think that particular young man had a thing in the world to do with Thornton's death."

FOR a half minute there was silence, which was interrupted by Gallagher. Marty leaped to his feet and strode across the room.

"I knew it!" he said.

"Knew what, Marty?"

"That it was Lovely Holmes."

Jim looked up innocently.

"But Gosh! Marty—it wasn't Lovely at all."

"Wasn't . . ." Gallagher's face flushed. "Say, what the hell are you trying to do, Jim Hanvey—kid us?"

"No, honest I ain't."

"Tell that to Sweeney. If it ain't Major Manning or Pete McIntosh or Lola Gresmer or Carey Weldon or Mary Thornton—it's got to be Lovely Holmes."

"But it ain't him at all, Marty. Gee! there's lots of other folks in this town, ain't there?"

"Yes, but they're not mixed up in this case."

"Not so far, you mean."

"Well . . ." Gallagher sank back into his seat. Mooney had turned from the machine and was staring at Hanvey, but Anice Garet was not content to sit wordlessly.

"Listen, Jim," she said in an amazingly serious voice: "I don't know much about newspaper work, but I do realize that if you're not kidding us you're preparing to give Terry a whale of a story."

"I ain't kidding, Anice—honest, I ain't."

"You mean you can say positively that it wasn't any one of the persons who have been under suspicion?"

"I wouldn't go that far. I can say I don't think it is, and qualify that by reminding everybody that I'm human—even if I don't look such—and therefore liable to be wrong."

"But you're willing for Terry to quote you in the Record as having said that?"

"Yeh—I sure am."

"And are you going to tell us who you do think did the killing?"

"Uh-huh. But I want to do it in my own way. I want Terry to take down all the details of how I figured the thing out, and then if it turns out that I'm wrong—why at least the public won't think I'm entirely silly. You ready to pound out some more stuff, son?"

Terry nodded and bent over the battered little typewriter and once again Jim's drowsy voice droned through the room.

"Suppose we sort of start at the beginning of this case and trace things right down to the hour of the killing," he said softly. "On the Monday before Thornton was killed, Carey Weldon comes to him with a certified check for one hundred thousand dollars which he pays him to leave town and Doris . . . and not say anything about it. Naturally he believes Thornton is going to keep his part of the bargain. Okay, Marty?"

"It's a cinch you're right so far, Jim—but I don't see anything specially new in that."

"Sure ain't, Marty. Now, we have Thornton with several days to think things over. He's gonna beat it out of town all right, but he hates the idea of passing up Doris Manning's steady income of twenty-five thousand a year and also the kale she's certain to inherit from her old man; so he plans to double-cross Weldon. He's gonna take Weldon's hundred grand, and also Doris.

"He tells the folks here that he's gonna star in a New York production, because that story gives him a good out. Also it gives him the big thing he needs, which is an excuse that'll get Doris to go to New York with him . . . he knowing two things, as per follows: The first is that if he leaves her alone, she'll come to her senses, and the second is that she ain't the kind of girl to go traveling with him without being tied by the bonds of matrimony. So I got in touch with New York and only yesterday I learned definitely that Thornton lied when he said he had a big job there . . . which makes the Weldon story ring a lot truer."

"No job in New York?" questioned Marty. "You mean——"

"Bluff, of course. And it ain't easy to find out things like that. I got a final report yesterday, and it's a cinch that Thornton just made that whole thing up. He ain't signed to star in any show that's planning to open in two weeks or two years."

Marty sank back in his chair.

"You put one over on me there, Jim. I never thought of checking up on that angle of it."

"'Sall right, Marty. Anyway, the real important point is that Thornton wanted to get away from here with Doris without anybody knowing he was doing such. Just remember that."

"We do remember." Anice Garet had risen and was standing in front of the fat detective. "Please, Jim—tell us who you think it was."

Jim was silent for a moment. The three listeners were scarcely breathing. And then came Hanvey's voice, indefinitely gentle, unbelievably kind:

"I may be all wrong, folks," he said quietly. "But unless I've made a lot of mistakes in my figuring, the name of the man who killed Wylie Thornton is——"

He paused for just the fraction of a second and then continued:

"Terry Mooney."

THERE was a moment of stunned silence; a moment fraught with shock and error. Terry rose and stood staring at the Gargantuán detective, and suddenly there was a little choky cry as Anice darted across the room and grasped the hand of the boy she loved. She gazed defiantly at Hanvey.

It was not done in a melodramatic way. Jim had made his statement quietly and he was quiet now. Anice did not cry, and Terry did not give vent to any sudden outburst. The tableau held for a moment, and then Jim's voice, gentle and perhaps a little querulous, broke in.

"Siddown, son—siddown and go on with your story. We aim to make this something swell."

Nobody moved. Mooney had slipped his arm around Anice's waist and it was she who spoke.

"Jim," she said in a small, frightened voice, "are you accusing Terry of killing Wylie Thornton?"

His opaque eyes turned upon her.

"Gee, sister—I dunno. I'm just trying to give the kid a break, like I promised. Now, just suppose I'm right. Can you imagine anything bigger than the accused himself writing an exclusive story for his paper under his own name?"

"I'm not thinking of that now, Jim. I'm afraid."

"Well, you can take my word for it that there ain't nothing to be afraid of."

"You mean . . .?"

"I mean just what I said, Anice. The only danger Terry is in, provided I'm right—is that you maybe won't marry him."

She tossed her head defiantly.

"I'd marry him if he were in prison."

"That's a safe promise, because he ain't gonna be in prison. The point is, will you marry him if he ain't there?"

"You know I will. O, Jim. . . ."

"You siddown, Terry, and go on with your writing. This is more talking than I've done in ten years and my throat is getting rusty."

ALIBI

By Thyra Samter Winslow

evident that the murderer had planned to make the death appear to be suicide, but when the detectives and newspapers got to work they soon proved that murder had been the cause of Doris Wilton's death. How each detail fitted into place. How the eager newspaper readers grabbed for each savory bit of news!

It was a good story in spite of its lack of mystery. There were interviews and character analyses, and photographs and column after column of word for word reports of the trial, with accompanying glaring headlines.

THE news of Doris Wilton's death reached the public first as suicide. Even then it was important enough for glaring headlines:

DEBUTANTE SUICIDE.
BROKER'S DAUGHTER TAKES POISON—DORIS WILTON DESPONDENT OVER LOVE.

Then followed the details as they were first known. Miss Wilton had been away from home all day, her activities including a call at the studio of her fiancé.

When she returned home and was dressing for dinner she complained to her maid, Ann Berwick, that she was not feeling well. She had already taken two capsules for her headache, she explained, but the medicine hadn't helped her.

She arrived at the dinner at seven-thirty. It was given by the Rodney Berkleys for their daughter, Pauline. The Berkleys had never liked Morris Jennison, and as he was not formally engaged to Doris they had not included him. The Berkleys and their guests remembered that Miss Wilton had been a little nervous but in gay spirits, considering the fact that she told them her head ached.

At dinner she complained to her dinner partner, Drury Eggleston, the banker, that her headache was getting more severe. At eleven the party broke up, and Mrs. Berkley noticed—and said later—that Doris was evidently feeling much worse than she had felt earlier.

When Doris got home her maid was waiting up for her. She became violently ill within half an hour. The family physician, Dr. Edgar Monns, was summoned. A few hours later, without making any admission that would lead one to suppose that she had wanted to take her own life, the young woman was dead. At first Dr. Monns was not suspicious. When he could find no legitimate cause for the death of his patient a post-mortem was made and the truth discovered. Doris Wilton had died of arsenic poisoning!

Immediately the eyes that always peer behind tragedies for their motives began their searchings. A rich, attractive girl doesn't kill herself for no reason at all. In Doris' little suede bag there was motive enough for any suicide. A letter in a man's handwriting telling her that he no longer loved her!

The maid remembered that she had brought Miss Wilton's mail to her with her breakfast tray. She hadn't paid any attention to that very letter, but undoubtedly it had been in the mail—Miss Wilton often got letters on that gray paper in that handwriting. And the handwriting was that of Morris Jennison, frequently reported engaged to Doris Wilton!

Morris Jennison said peculiar things from the beginning. He admitted that he wrote the letter, but said he wrote it NOT to Miss Wilton but to a Miss Hilda Ray. He said that Miss Wilton had told him she had been to see Miss Ray, but hadn't told him Miss Ray had given her the letter. Of course, he didn't know WHY Miss Wilton had committed suicide nor where she had got the poison. The call on him had been only a casual one. Yes, it sounded odd from the beginning.

Reporters went to see Hilda Ray. They found her plump and pleasing, and because the death of the young lady she had seen only one time, but so eager to be frank and friendly.

Yes, Miss Wilton had been to see her. Miss Wilton had come to ask about Morris Jennison because they had once been friends. Miss Wilton had seemed nervous, as if something were on her mind. Miss Ray had told her that she no longer saw Morris Jennison—she had a new boy friend who didn't approve of him. Luckily, a minute after Miss Wilton arrived, her friend, Miss Everton, had come in. Miss Wilton had complained of a headache and she had given her a capsule.

Mary Ann's Man Power

She undertook to reform a rum runner. Along came a self-contained young federal agent—and complications set in. . . . Ronald Millar's exciting short story, done in the modern manner.

Next Sunday

Yes, she still had the box with one capsule in it. Her doctor could vouch for the contents. As for a letter—why, she hadn't had a letter from Morris Jennison in ages. Why should he write her a letter like that, giving her up so politely, when she'd given him up herself long ago.

The wheels continued to turn. The post-mortem had established the arsenic poisoning. And Miss Ray's doctor and the druggist who filled the prescription agreed that the capsules contained mostly aspirin, and the remaining capsule agreed with the prescription.

No poison was found in Miss Ray's apartment, though a thorough search was made; nor at the Berkleys', nor in Miss Wilton's home. Miss Wilton's friends were sure she had no access to arsenic. Certainly she had made no such purchase at a drug store.

Investigations, then. They were clever, the police and the reporters. They unearthed a dozen details and each one fitted in as nicely as a picture puzzle. The letter which did not accomplish its purpose of getting the victim out of the way. The older woman in whom Jennison was interested. The quarrel overheard by the murderer's guest. The laboratory containing arsenic. Morris Jennison was arrested for the murder of Doris Wilton!

Morris Jennison hired good lawyers. Because certain things he told them seemed inexplicable they felt they were wise in excluding them at the trial. Why, Jennison actually raved about planning to kill another woman. How amazing! As if it would help, to show he had planned a double murder! Or even that he had planned to murder some one else and not his victim.

When they did investigate his ridiculous story not one bit of evidence could they find to support it. He couldn't prove he had been to the Ray apartment nor that he had put arsenic in the capsule box. Nor that he had written the letter to Hilda Ray. Why could he have wanted to kill Miss Ray? And, if by any chance he had planned to—had built up an impregnable alibi—an impossibility, anyhow—another woman was dead.

The lawyers decided to omit Jennison's very foolish chatter altogether. They felt, though they spoke glibly enough to reporters—that their client didn't have a chance, anyhow. Insanity had been used too frequently to be of any use as a plea, though, at that, Jennison did sound insane.

Newspaper readers remember the Jennison trial. A rich girl murdered and rich, new details brought to light every day. The testimony of the old sweetheart. Hilda Ray's testimony was without a flaw. She did far more than was necessary though she had no reason to feel kindly toward the man on trial. Her testimony proved one thing—that Jennison was accustomed to getting tired of women. Hilda had been easier to get rid of than Doris.

Hilda Ray told of Miss Wilton's visit. The girl was worried about Morris Jennison, wanted to know of his treatment of Miss Ray, when they had gone together. Then Miss Everton had come in. Miss Wilton had complained of a headache, Miss Ray had given her one of her own headache capsules and the girl had gone away. Miss Everton's testimony agreed exactly with that of her friend. As for the letter, neither of the two young women knew anything about that, of course.

Mrs. Craig's testimony was taken. The wealthy widow was annoyed at the whole thing. Morris Jennison was a business acquaintance whom she'd been nice to, until she found out what a climber he was. She wondered how they dared bring in her name.

The most injurious evidence against Morris was the necessary testimony of his friend, Clarence Hawley. Clarence had to give up his trip to Europe and he wasn't pleased about it. He felt that Jennison was guilty and even while he tried to help his friend, his natural truthfulness and his fear of being involved kept him from being a good witness for the accused.

Clarence told of meeting Doris on Monday night and her jealousy of Mrs. Craig. Then he told how, on Tuesday, he had come into Jennison's apartment and had heard voices. He remembered some of the words:

"I shouldn't have lowered my pride by coming here, at all," Doris Wilton had said. It IS better if we never see each other again."

"What else is there for me to say," he remembered Jennison had answered, "I wrote that I was through forever. Isn't that enough?"

It was quite enough. Clarence further testified that when he joined the two in the studio he noticed how nervous they both were. Then he had seen Morris go into the laboratory, return with a capsule and give it to Miss Wilton.

A search of the laboratory had already proved that there was no headache medicine there. There was a quantity of arsenic, and, while Morris' lawyers readily proved that it had a legitimate use, it could have an illegitimate use, as well.

Morris Jennison's testimony in his own behalf was of no help—not even enough to allow a plea of insanity. The answers he made were too simple or too unbelievable to be of any help to him.

THE lawyers on both sides spoke brilliantly. Morris' lawyer depicted him a victim of circumstances, the girl a neurotic creature who had killed herself after a meaningless lovers' quarrel. The prosecuting attorney had an easy time of it. He showed the villain tired of a girl, poisoning her when he could get rid of her in no other way. No one was surprised when Morris Jennison was adjudged guilty. Psychologists wrote long articles to the deeper reviews about the case. Most of them agreed he just wanted to get rid of the girl so he could marry the older woman. Others mentioned fear of success as the motive or introduced that old standby, the Oedipus complex.

"The trouble with these boobs," said Jackson of The Moon, "is that they never use their brains. If Jennison had planned this thing he could have got away with it."

Rogers of The Star nodded. He was tired of the trial. He was going with a certain Miss Grant who objected to the long hours which the trial necessitated.

"Yeh, funny about these folks," he admitted. "Not a brain in their heads. That's what makes me think they're all crazy. Maybe, though, it's only the boobs who get caught. I bet a lot of people commit murders and have alibis so perfect they get away with them. I bet a lot of suicides would be murders if you investigated—but I'm not going to do any of the investigating."

"Yeh," said Jackson, who was tired of courts, too, and eager to get back to news stories and a free show, once in a while, "a fellow could get away with murder all right if he'd use some sense and build up a good alibi."

A Dollar for Your Dreams

Have you ever had a dream which later came true? If you'll mail us an account of your prophetic dream we'll pay you $1 for every dream published. Address "Dreams," Chicago Tribune.

Leads to Reunion.

While taking my daily stroll I was attracted by a pretty home that I had not noticed before. That night I dreamed of the home, also dreamed that I called there and that a friend of my girlhood days came to the door. Walking past that same home a few evenings later the dream returned to me so vividly that, even against my better judgment, I went up and rang the bell. A man came to the door.

"Does Amy —— live here?" I stuttered.

"Why, yes," he replied. "That was my wife's maiden name. Won't you come in?"

Just then his wife appeared and there we stood, gazing at each other too astonished for words. Forty years had passed since last we met!

War Dream Comes True.

In the early days of the world war I dreamed that I was on the way to my uncle's wholesale house in London. When I turned into the proper street, however, there, instead of the six story building, was—a hole in the ground! I inquired what had happened and was told that German aircraft had flown over the city and dropped bombs the night before!

Of course, I had a good laugh over that dream and wrote to tell my cousin the joke. Then, a few days later news came—held up a short time, I believe, by the British government—of the first German night raid over London. A letter followed from my English relatives telling of the destruction of their building during that first bombing raid!

Foretold Accident.

A short while ago I dreamed that my dad, a few friends, and myself were in the basement of our home tending to the furnace. We were frantically striving to stop the fire but, in spite of our efforts, is kept getting hotter. With a low menacing roar the boiler gave up the struggle and volumes of steam poured forth. I awakened at this point.

Several days later, during the cold spell when it was necessary to keep the furnace going full blast, our janitor appeared to inform us that the hot water coil had burst and was flooding the entire basement.

A Profitable Dream.

About two years ago we employed a salesman and deviated from our policy by advancing him considerable money. One day Mr. Salesman came to me for more money. I gave it to him and Mr. Salesman disappeared.

I dreamed that a man came to my office and put in front of me an envelope which, when opened, contained money. I got up in the morning much disturbed. When I got to the office my dream still bothered me. Soon my phone rang—and—the man of my dream spoke. He was in a sanitarium and would be in to see me to pay back the money he owed and to go back to work.

Exposed Temperamental Watch.

The first year I was away from home my mother gave me a beautiful watch for Christmas. It kept time for seven years and then had to be repaired.

Shortly afterward I went to a neighbor's to help cook for thrashers. One morning I left my watch on the dresser and found at noon that the youngsters had broken the crystal. A few days later the watch stopped and refused to tick again, so I put it away as a keepsake from mother, not having the money to have it fixed.

Three years passed and then one night I dreamed mother said to me, "If you'll wind your watch it will go again."

The next day I looked at the watch, found it was wound, so put it back. Two weeks later I had the same dream. In the morning I was astonished to find the watch run down. I wound it and it started to tick. It has been ticking merrily ever since, keeping perfect time.

"My Skin Nearly Drove Me Mad"

"I had blemishes and blackheads so badly, and used to fuss with them so much that my face looked red and raw. On the advice of a nurse friend I got a jar of Rowles Mentho Sulphur and used it faithfully for ten days. In 3 days' time there was a big difference in my skin and today it is as soft and clear as my ten year old sister's."

The sulphur in Rowles Mentho Sulphur clears the skin while the Menthol heals the sore, broken tissue. That's the twofold action you want for skin troubles. Try Rowles Mentho Sulphur not only for pimples and blackheads, but for dry, scaly skin, rash, and itching eczema. IT WORKS! All druggists sell it in jars ready for use. Be sure it's Rowles.

Winning Men's Approval

—By Doris Blake—

They Consider the Devoted Wife's Attitude of Faith and Affection as a Well Deserved Compliment to Their Entire Sex.

If a married woman wants men to agree that she is "one grand girl" she earns the other sex's approval by liking her own husband.

That is the married woman's popularity secret, if you will believe an honest confession made by the sex women, married or single, like to feel they are liked by.

No such good luck is meted out to the wife whose manner suggests that her husband is merely tolerated. The woman who exhibits a supercilious attitude toward her mate, the nagging, lecturing creature, or the one whose comments on marriage indicate a sour experience, is not accepted in the inner circle of pure male regard.

The women men like must pay tribute to the male sex by liking the one of them she knows best. Granted that a wife's whole attitude toward her husband is one of faith and deep affection, other men absorb it as a compliment to their entire sex. And, if we are to read between the lines of the confession, they respond with the best that is in them to this type of woman. By her happy manner she gets across the idea that she knows there is a great deal of good in men. A perfectly sane idea and an excellent working motif for wives, this.

Widow's Friendliness.

"It is much easier to like a woman who confidently expects the best of you than one who has been soured by unpleasant experience," writes Chester Crowell in a current monthly.

The widow's superior charms are not the fruit of fortitude, forbearance, or a great, forgiving mother complex. There she scores matrimonially over other women is in her genuine friendliness toward the male sex. Whatever may be said against man's intuition in other things, in this issue of friendliness towards him his instinct is remarkably keen. So one gathers from observing Mr. Crowell.

Anyway, now we know why husband replies to wife's suggestion to have the Barkers over to dinner with, "Do we have to have that terrible woman over here? Barker's a nice fellow—but THAT WOMAN!"

How often you hear that kind of comment! How often you don't hear because it is being said about thousands of women unknown to you!

So many women have the idea that they can sell themselves on their own overvaluated worth. But here we consider that the salesmanship most acceptable to men is done through the husband. His place on the pedestal dominates their judgment.

Aside from her friendliness toward the other sex, it stands to reason that a woman who has made a happy choice in marriage and has the disposition to make a success of her marriage will, in the very nature of things, be a thoroughly agreeable soul. And agreeableness, as we know well, is woman's greatest virtue in the eyes of men.

Man's Reaction.

With the social activities of married folk, foursomes, bridge meetings, club life, and so on, it is nice to be the sort of wife about whom other men say "Yes, she's a peach. Let's have her in on the party!" It is not a bit nice to be the object of unanimous disapproval, as some wives unquestionably are—not because they are poor bridge players or dancers, but because they are horrid in their attitude toward their husbands.

A woman can trump her male partner's ace, or she can dance on the pet corn of one of her husband's cronies, and if she is one of those nice, friendly little creatures who makes him feel that he belongs to a grand, strong, brave sex, he will survive without resentment.

But let one in whom is sensed the slightest sex-antagonism pull so much as a harmless wisecrack and the male soul writhes in rebellion. This last is cited because of a recent incident in which the scene actually occurred. The male's verbal reaction was: "I detest that woman. What a life her husband must lead!"

Anyway. the idea strikes us as an excellent one to ponder over. Especially in this era of husband-badgering, of husband-tolerance, of husband-contempt or treatment that indicates such feeling. Frequently women who would not exchange their legal mates for anything in the world, absorb from other women a manner of public husband-treating that is not commendable. Knowing now that the court of men sits in judgement, it may make a difference.

Destructive to Popularity.

In the suggestion, there is something of value to single women as well as married. Currently, there is an undeniable wave of sex-antagonism. It is doubtful if it is confined to one sex. But at least men do not make it so manifest in their conversation. Outside of a very small percentage of the male sex, and many of those are scribes paid so much per word for condemning our so-called fair sex, you do not hear this damning criticism of women.

Out of telephone booths, over the tops of hairdressing booths, from the adjoining restaurant tables the female voice rises high and strident in assaults on men. Men collectively—they're all selfish; they're all rogues; they're all this and that.

If it wasn't that women had no other sex alternative but these same terrible creatures when they want to go ankleing up the aisle to the Lohengrin music, they could be permitted their fun. But after berating them it does not seem like much of a notch in her gun when the best that a woman can drag up to the altar is one of these selfish, faithless, inferior creatures Now, does it?

The consistent thing, of course, would be to refuse to be lured by the Lohengrin tune. But, being inconsistent woman is charmed by the symbolic melody, and is disappointed if the opportunity does not come to dance to it in full-rigged bridal raiment. And since this antagonism, feigned or the result of sour experience, is so destructive to popularity, wouldn't it be better to try the friendly attitude and see what it brings?

Imaginary Playmates

—By Gladys Huntington Bevans—

The Wise Mother Will Seek the Cause of Her Child's Desire for These Invisible Visitors.

THE imaginary playmates of their children have afforded many different mothers amusement, worry, pride or pleasure according to their temperaments or the degree to which their children become absorbed in the phantom companionship.

Reasons for these imaginary playmates are fairly obvious to the discerning mind. But how much or how little of this sort of play is harmful is not yet proved. However, this much is certain—that the "taking on" of an imaginary companion should be a challenging fact to the mother of the child who does it, and one over which she should take thought.

The observations and conclusions in the following material will interest and give valuable clews to those mothers who have wondered what to do about the unseen playmate.

"Children's imaginary playmates give needless worry to many parents. The child's play with these creatures of his imagination may be a normal phase of his development," according to the National Kindergarten and Elementary college, Evanston, Ill. "Occasionally, however, it becomes a serious problem, often through the unwise way in which the matter is handled by parents or teachers.

Dreams May Become Too Real.

"These friends of the child's own creating may have fantastic names, characters and powers. One little girl, who played all day long with an invisible 'Hallelujah,' and one of 4 years created three companions, Wing, Percival and Purr, with whom he had thrilling adventures.

"The real difference between the child who plays with an imaginary playmate and the one who plays with toys is that one uses an object as a symbol and the other dispenses with it. Play of this kind is not harmful unless it takes the time and place of more constructive thinking.

"After a child has stored up a collection of mental images, he begins to play with them. When the play takes the form of dramatic play with other children or with dolls it is encouraged, for the value of a well developed imagination as a stimulus and aid to active achievement is generally recognized. Play with imaginary companions is valuable, also, and is often just as active as that with real playmates. The danger lies in the fact that such play sometimes develops along a line that enables the child to find satisfaction without effort in this dream world, so that instead of being an inspiration for new accomplishments it acts as a drug, deadening the will and taking the time of other mental activities.

Needs Play with Others.

"An only child creates imaginary playmates to take the place of the real ones which are denied him. He enjoys the imaginary child, but this play does not give him the experience he needs of rubbing elbows with other children, learning to be a leader and also a follower.

"The child in a large family creates and plays with these make-believe children as a release from the domination of older brothers and sisters or the demands of younger children. His imaginary playmates will do the things he wants done—he is the leader and can have his own way without argument or obstacle.

"Imaginary play reaches its height between the ages of 4 and 6. The creation of imaginary playmates during this period is a very usual occurrence and may be accepted by the parent in a matter of fact way.

"In trying to enter into the child's play one mother unwisely went so far as to leave Christmas gifts from his imaginary playmates for her 5 year old son. The boy looked at the presents and then at his mother and said, 'But, you know, mother, they aren't, really.' Another child created a disturbance in kindergarten by insisting that an invisible Mary Ann have a chair beside her, march with her and hold her hand in games. At last the teacher told her that she was to take Mary Ann home and not come back until she could leave her there. The child actually went home, but returned the following day without Mary Ann, and the imaginary visitor caused no further trouble in the kindergarten.

Root of the Difficulty.

"Although this imaginary play is not harmful it may be an indication of a lack in the child's environment or of a maladjustment of some kind in his surroundings. If a mother finds that the child is playing with an imaginary playmate to the exclusion of real children it would be advisable to try and discover the root of the difficulty. The child may be too old or too young for his group of playmates; he may be shunned because he is too aggressive or assertive, or be pushed aside because he is timid. Usually there is some obstacle to happiness in the situation which the child is unable to overcome, and consequently he turns to the easier and more satisfactory play with imaginary friends whom he can direct.

"When this condition exists the mother may tactfully introduce new elements into the environment—playmates if the child has none, or at least pets if playmates are not available. She may help the timid child overcome his fear and perhaps find friends who will give him more opportunity for leadership. The misfit child may be placed with children more nearly his own stage of development, or helped to overcome habits and attitudes which make him unpopular.

Provide Outlets.

"Lack of opportunity for real experience often results in imaginary play, and the wise parent who discovers this will do everything possible to provide a healthy, natural outlet for the child's desire to do things. Out-of-door play equipment, toys with creative possibilities [blocks, etc.], may solve the problem. Excursions to the park or zoo may arouse an interest in nature and stimulate thought along these lines. An emphasis on stories based on real life rather than on phantasy and fairy lore may be advisable.

"In some such way the imaginary playmate who overstays his welcome may be gradually and imperceptibly crowded into the background by the introduction of other interests. Play of this kind continued too long is almost sure to develop the unfortunate practice of finding complete satisfaction and pleasure in this imaginary world, and the individual is thus robbed of the incentive for putting forth the thought and effort necessary to gain similar recognition and satisfaction in the real world."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of good water.

A Gun Widow's Story of Life in Gangland

Florence Murphy Oberta's Side of the Case.

This is the last of two articles by Mrs. Herrick on a woman's part in that world of rackets, bombs, and sudden death—gangland.

By Genevieve Forbes Herrick.

FLORENCE DIGGS MURPHY OBERTA, relict of two rulers of Chicago's newer nobility, displayed a notable consistency in her matrimonial selections. So much so that her first husband gave a sales talk for her second.

Only she didn't hear it.

Nor did "Big Tim" Murphy have any idea that he was praising his future widow's future spouse when he stood up at a Thirteenth ward testimonial dinner to Aldermanic Candidate John L. Oberta and shouted:

"You've got to live back of the yards to really get the low-down on people. Most of them are 90 per cent good and only 10 per cent bad. But I want to tell you about a guy that's all good, 100 per cent regular. That's my pal, Johnny Oberta."

Oberta Greets Murphy.

Six hundred voters huzzaed their approval. Oberta, the tall, pink-cheeked Polish politician who had once been indicted for murder, grasped the hand of Murphy, the tall, black-haired Irish labor boss who had once been indicted for murder. They were friends; not yet kin.

Mrs. Murphy, ignorant at this time that she was later to draw the two men into a still closer bond, didn't even know about the banquet scene to which subsequent ceremonies were to give so much drama. She sat at home that March evening waiting for her knight to return from a political dinner with "the boys." To such meetings he never took her. Nor did he bring "the boys" back to the living room of their north side bungalow.

Indeed, Big Tim's widow recalls with a certain feminine satisfaction that her husband was as careful as any medieval prince about the companions he bade to his castle.

Tim "Awful Particular."

"Tim was awful particular. Sometimes he'd even meet a fellow on the street and talk and laugh with him, but not introduce him to me. And he'd never ask'm home. O, maybe he'd have'm down in the basement drinking some wine; but take'm up to my living room?—I should say not."

So she had heard of Johnny Oberta, but she had never met him socially.

Does it follow, therefore, that Johnny was a hoodlum, denied the hospitality of the Murphy ménage? It does not. It was chance, not discrimination, that kept Mr. Oberta out of Mrs. Murphy's living room, she explains.

"Why, Johnny wasn't a hoodlum. He was so clean, with his bath every day, and silk underwear, and everything matching. And if there was a speck on his collar it was just too bad; he'd have to have another. No, sir, he wasn't a hoodlum; he was a gentleman."

Nevertheless, it wasn't until Tim, the perfect protector, went out of her life violently that Johnny, the perfect gentleman, came into it gently.

Came as Pallbearer.

For he came there first not as a dinner guest but as a pallbearer.

Tim Murphy lay, still and chill, in a $2,500 coffin and Oberta stood waiting to help bear to the grave the body of his friend. Next to him a tall woman, comely even in her grief, clutched wildly at the widow's veil that cast deep shadows over the glinting gold of her hair and wept promises of revenge for "the guy that killed my Tim." Mutely sympathetic, Oberta pressed her hand; but she was too distraught to remember the meeting.

That was in June, 1928, about two months after the testimonial dinner. In May, 1929, the funeral baked meats did of a truth furnish forth the marriage feast. For this same tall woman, more comely than ever in her happiness and with her golden hair deepened into a burnished brunette shade, stood up at a new nuptial ceremony at McHenry, Ill., and promised to love, honor, and obey Johnny Oberta, the man her former husband had declared to be "100 per cent regular."

She Understood Both.

"Yes, it does seem sort of sudden," the bride explained, "but every one who knows me knows that I cared a terrible lot about Tim. I certainly thought this over a lot before I acted." Then this reflection:

"They were pals. Tim liked Johnny, and Johnny liked Tim. I understand them both."

It's the same feminine psychology that prompted Helen of Troy to go back to the warrior Menelaus, when Paris had been killed, rather than to settle down on a pastoral Trojan plain. It's the same feminine psychology that impelled the medieval princess, widowed by a bitter war, to marry a second doughty, sure-to-be-killed knight, rather than to choose a nice, quiet, peace at any price spouse. And of course that moved the pioneer women of the American frontier to bury a mate that the enemy had killed, and then to stay on and marry another fighter, rather than to go back to New England and teach school.

It's the same psychology; but it brought bigger results. For all the Trojans that Helen ever saw at the funeral bier of her Paris would make a poor showing against the throngs that came to see Tim in death; and the mobs that knelt at Johnny's casket.

With so fulsome an experience, the widow Murphy-Oberta now carries in her own mind and heart a well equipped bureau of standards regard-

George Arliss Plays Role of AvengingRajah

And He Is Aided by A1 Actors.

"THE GREEN GODDESS."
[ALTALKER]

Produced by Warner Brothers. Directed by Alfred E. Green. Presented at the Chicago Theater.

THE CAST.

Crespin	H. B. Warner
Lucilla Crespin	Alice Joyce
Dr. Traherne	Ralph Forbes
High Temple Priest	David Tearle
Lieut. Cardew	Reginald Sheffield
Hermit Priest	Nigel de Brulier

AGOOD MORNING!

George Arliss is always George Arliss, but "The Green Goddess" is not "Disraeli."

It was remade from a Goldwyn-Cosmopolitan silent version of the stage melodrama by William Archer that was released in 1923 and completed before the distinguished "Disraeli." This being true, the producers displayed astuteness in keeping the "Goddess" in the background until now, for while Mr. Arliss is perfect as the suave, resourceful, lustful, eye-for-an-eye, tooth-for-a-tooth rajah, the story that exploits him is just an old fashioned thriller completely minus subtleties of plot and remarkable only because of the manner of the acting.

The action takes place in the Himalayan mountains, where an airplane bearing Maj. and Mrs. Crespin and Dr. Traherne [who loves Mrs. Crespin] is wrecked. The trio are on their way to visit the two Crespin children, who are at a school somewhere or other in the high lands.

In a Strange Country.

The three find themselves in a dominion controlled by a rajah whose word is all powerful, who has soldiers and barbarians at his command and who has learned by means of his radio that his three brothers have been sentenced to death by the British government. It seems as if "The Green Goddess," whom the rajah and his followers worship, has delivered unto them these three Christians, whose lives shall pay for the lives of the ruler's relatives.

Like a large, sleek cat; like a cruel and wily serpent, the rajah—while extending the most exquisite hospitality—submits his guests to mental torture, ably assisted by Hawkins, an English rogue who serves him as right hand man, and serves him well, for Hawkins is wanted by several governments and, having found precarious refuge with the rajah, is completely in the latter's power.

More of the story need not be told here.

Mr. Arliss is efficiently aided and abetted by an A1 cast. Especially good is the work of Ivan Simpson as Hawkins [he played the rôle on the stage and in the silent version] and H. B. Warner as the tactless, unpleasant but heroic Crespin. Miss Joyce is charming.

Scenery, sets and natives are picturesque, and sound and photography are commendable.

"The Green Goddess" is an entertaining program production and should rake in considerable shekels for its makers.

Bits aBOUTem.

SPEAKING OF GEORGE ARLISS, we hear that he will quit the legitimate stage for several seasons to appear in a series of Vitaphone productions for Warner Brothers. While making "Disraeli," the Warners secured an option on his future screen services. The option has been taken up and Mr. Arliss, who has been vacationing in England, is returning to Hollywood—and work.

Inventors Work to Improve Each Part of Talkies

Fragrant Films Pop Up as Latest Wrinkle.

By Tom Pettey.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—[Special.]—Those industrious fellows who insist on painting the lily have been tinkering with young Mr. Talkie in woodsheds and laboratories with more than their accustomed zeal, in recent weeks.

One inventor would remove the young fellow's tonsils and give him a better speaking voice, another would eliminate the lisp. Still another searcher after perfection offers a device designed to bring the sense of smell to the screen. They are arranging to deck Mr. Talkie in a coat of many colors on a couple of hours' notice without going through all the bother and expense heretofore considered necessary.

These men of vision are poking their fingers into every corner of the talk theaters and are planning a Valhalla without echoes, seats that absorb as much sound as a well cushioned individual—a real reel house.

Scanning the Future.

Such being the case, we will scan the future. First of all comes John H. Leavell's scientific discovery that has won him a place among other immortals in the Washington patent office. The machine, according to the patent office, wafts to movie audiences odors appropriate to subjects on the screen. The patent papers state specifically that "the said odor will be expelled into the atmosphere and breathed by the audience."

As a scanner of the future we see possibilities for the "smellies." Movie fans need no longer remain awake long into the night puzzling over what brand of perfume their favorite matinée idol uses in his atomizer. There also is the financial outlook. No doubt the "smellies" will have a direct hookup with the chain restaurant next door to the chain theater. A closeup of a hot plate of ham and eggs being served to an actor will be flashed on the screen. Immediately the odor of ham and eggs pervades the theater. There is general lip smacking and soon the dining place next door is filled with ham and egg conscious patrons.

No Excuse for Lisping.

The lisping problem, it develops, really is no problem at all. After a few weeks of close study of the hissing cobra hooked up with the microphone the lisp has been captured. Lisps

Revival of Time-Tried Tunes Presents a Pleasant Prospect

By Edward Moore.

LIKE several other instances of its kind, the coming operetta season at the Civic theater will have as one of its most important features the exhumation of some fine old music that is too good to permit itself to stay permanently buried. The Victor Herbert season has been under full swing for several weeks. Mr Collins tells of the approach of a musical work that turns out to be our old friend, the "Fledermaus" dressed up in 1930 modes, and now Mr. St. Leger, Mr. Jones, and their associates are at work preparing performances of "The Bohemian Girl" and "The Chimes of Normandy."

Admitting that on a day when a blizzard obscures vision and clogs footsteps and the thought of dreaming about dwelling in marble halls takes low rating among dreams, the prospect of exploring these old pieces again is a pleasant one. The only chance some of us have had of hearing their tunes in recent years has been over the radio, and the fact that they still sound as though they had warm blood in their arteries is a good sign of how they will sound when projected over the footlights.

Only, one wishes that some of their friends—not their proponents, who are, generally speaking, too wise—would not seize on the opportunity to drive a few more nails in the coffin of jazz, the rowdy jazz which, no matter how many times buried or how many people sit on its grave, likewise refuses to stay there. In fact, remarks about jazz have recently become so violent that one begins to recognize an undercurrent of alarm, of apprehension that it is likely to stay alive for some time to come.

Applicable to Light Opera.

Nothing that I have read lately about the sinister purposes of jazz has not been equally applicable to all other specimens of light music. Practically all objectors base one of their claims on what I have just seen stated as a monotonous rhythmic ground-bass, explaining its popularity by remembering that the average human being has been scarcely touched by culture, and reverts to a primitive level as soon as a recreational activity permits mental relaxation.

But is not the two-four rhythm of jazz fundamentally as "monotonous" as the three-four rhythm of the waltz? Yet the Strauss family, not to mention many Viennese since their day, wrote waltzes, and these waltzes are now admitted into polite society. Perhaps it is because they have become hallowed with age. One seems to remember reading that in the Straussian heyday their waltzes were snapped up eagerly by the populace, and the highbrows, all except a few, tore their hair.

Good Jazz Tunes.

Speaking in all sincerity, one occasionally finds a good jazz tune in modern popular music. You will not find every one good. Perhaps the proportion is not more than one in fifty, which is about the proportion of good waltzes or good fugues or good symphonies. The reason that so few of them live is that when a good one appears, it is worked to death. Every dance orchestra plays it, every restaurant orchestra makes it a soup accompaniment, every radio broadcasts it to all parts of the continent. And the public, tired out and bored by constant repetition, just as it would be tired out and bored by a constant repetition of the "Tannhaeuser" march, the "Pathetic" symphony, or "The Bohemian Girl," reaches out for a new toy to wear out and throw away.

It is probably a good thing that much music, like the coming revivals at the Civic theater, is put away long enough to be thoroughly forgotten. Such music then can come back and stand on its own merits. The strength of these light operas lies in the fact that many of them have good music in their scores. Their weakness is in being couched in the idiom of a former day, sometimes so decisively that they resist all attempts at bringing them down to date.

Suggested Modern Operetta.

The most interesting entertainment that could be presented would be a modern operetta aimed at neither the tired business man nor the highbrow, but at modern developments. It would have to be compounded of many simples, of the tunefulness of the old manner, the orchestral tone colors partly of a good jazz orchestra, partly of what Debussy and Ravel have been working out, dances that are integral parts of the show and not interpolated numbers, perhaps some musical aid

Arbuckle Stages Public Diet Tiff with Ex-Wife

And Doris Deane Comes Out Second Best.

By Rosalind Shaffer.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 29.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the laughs of the week concerns Roscoe Arbuckle and his ex-wife, Doris Deane. At a recent party at the Embassy Miss Deane was sitting at a table not far from her former husband's escorted by a big butter and egg man. Arbuckle was with Madeline Hurlock.

During the married life of Arbuckle and Miss Deane one of the bones of contention was the subject of food. Roscoe wanted food, lots of it, while Doris yearned toward diets. It got so, according to a friend, that Arbuckle felt like a brute every time he ate a good hearty steak and Doris just picked at a bit of salad.

This then was the background for the gag Arbuckle sprung. He called a waiter, ordered in a tray of French pastry, and sent it to his former wife's table. She was slightly annoyed, but the procession of loaded trays kept coming her way.

Arbuckle climaxed it by sending a last tray as large as the others with only a piece of lettuce and an olive on it over to Doris as a mock peace offering. Nearly everybody in the club was watching the comedy. After the tray of lettuce and olive Doris and her escort blushingly departed.

English Film Star Arrives.

Henry Victor, English film star, arrived in Hollywood from Europe recently. Victor, who played with Alice Delysia and more recently as co-star with Evelyn Laye, who is just closing in New York in "Bittersweet," was in Hollywood two years ago and played with the Duncan sisters and with John Barrymore in films. Miss Laye is coming to Hollywood in June under contract to Samuel Goldwyn.

Samuel Goldwyn is making serious efforts to have Ronald Colman's "Raffles" a tiptop picture. So far it has had five directors and, according to rumor, has been completely shot once, but will now be made over again.

Lola Lane, Follies girl, who was under contract with Fox, where she made "Speakeasy," and "The Girl from Havana," is playing the rôle Estelle Taylor played in "The Big Fight" on the stage for Educational Pictures. Big Boy Williams is playing the rôle Dempsey played.

D. W. Griffith had a crowd of 200 extras trained to dance the polka as

Guild Driven to Maintain Its Standard

Finds It Difficult to Live Up to Record.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Theater guild is in with another passive comedy success and out with a statement as to the bigger things it hopes to do next season.

The passive opus is an eighty year old drama by Ivan Turgenev called "A Month in the Country." The statement is the familiar announcement of plans and hopes for another year.

I feel a touch of sympathy for the guild. It has built up so fine a reputation and so eager a public that it now finds it difficult to live up to the record of the one and meet the expectations of the other.

Without an outstanding success to bless itself with this season, it faces demands from its newly acquired followings in Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia that will be difficult to meet.

And yet I am confident it will meet them. The guild is still the leader of the native theater in the matter of quality of production, however it may slip periodically in matching its public's taste in the selection of plays.

As a leader it is still, as you might say, sitting pretty, but not too comfortably. The victim of its own success, it has discovered that imitation is not only the sincerest form of flattery but also the most expensive.

Jolt for the Old Theaters.

When the guild began to move forward as a competitor in the play producing market nine years ago the native theater had become set in its ways. Most of its plays represented a pattern drama, grown dull by repetition.

The guild began importing the works of foreign dramatists, starting with the English and veering quickly to the continent. We did not get much from the "Liliom" and "He Who Gets Slapped" sort of thing, but they at least offered novelty and a change.

The next few seasons interest in the importations, with Bernard Shaw revived, developed not only a new and intelligent public for what the drama progressives speak of as worth while things, but it started other producers thinking perhaps they could chance a change.

It was the beginning of a guild influence outside the guild. It was, I think, largely responsible for the production of such plays as "What Price Glory?" and "Rain." It helped develop a new O'Neill. It gave a new Sidney Howard house room. It was an inspiration to the Kelly who wrote "Craig's Wife" and the Maxwell Anderson who wrote "Saturday's Children." It was the godmother of Eva Le Gallienne's venture with the Civic Repertory theater.

Finally, its influence swept even Lee Shubert into the field of experiment with what he long had dismissed a little contemptuously as highbrow stuff—and we got "Death Takes a Holiday," "The Infinite Shoeblack," "The Matriarch," "Topaze," and "Dear Old England." Not all hits, it is true, but certainly several cuts above what had been the accepted order.

Having created this new competition in its own field, the guild has, I think, been slow in accepting and planning to meet it. It has held a little tenaciously to its earlier policy of continental importations, and these are no longer either as novel or as

Good Old Days When 'Toyland' Had First Run

Glimpses of Chicago Stage in Summer of 1903.

By Charles Collins.

WHILE the toy soldiers are marching up and down their pyramid of alphabet blocks in "Babes in Toyland" at the Majestic, let us turn back to catch the color of the period when this Victor Herbert extravaganza was born. For "Toyland" was distinctly a Chicago show; here it found its financial sponsor [Fred Hamlin], its first audiences, and its national fame.

The date of the première was June 17, 1903—a warm night in early summer. Great expectations hovered about the Grand Opera house, for the piece was staged as a successor to "The Wizard of Oz," the summer show of the year before. William Norris was the featured member of the cast. The other principals were Amy Ricard, Bessie Wynn, Mabel Barrison, Nella Webb, Hattie Delaro, Frances Marie, Mark Smith, George W. Denham, Gus Pixley, Charles Guyer, and Nell Daly.

The rival playbills of that week were: "The Little Princess," with Millie James, at Powers'; "The Chinese Honeymoon," at the Illinois; "The Tenderfoot," with Richard Carle, at the Dearborn [now the Garrick]; "The Voyagers," at the La Salle; "When Jimmy Comes Marching Home," at McVicker's; "Robert Emmet," at the Great Northern, and vaudeville at the Chicago Opera house. This does not represent the full list of the theaters of the period; some of them had closed for the summer . . . O, yes, Sam T. Jack's was giving "Lilies and Lobsters"; no story of that era is complete without reference to this little peep-show place for naughty boys on Madison street.

When the Cubs Were Colts.

Bunge's band was playing nightly concerts at the Bismarck Garden, about which hover memories of luscious steaks and large steins. . . . The hot first page news of the day dealt with a waiters' strike. . . . The present Cubs were then called Selee's Colts, and the box score carried the names of Harley, rf; Slagle, lf; Chance, 1b; Jones, cf; Lowe, 2b; Casey, 3b; Evers, ss; Kling, c, and Taylor, p. They were the world's champion Cubs in the making.

The day before, the University of Chicago had held its graduation ceremonies in a circus tent on the campus. The heavens opened; the rain roared and the tent leaked copiously. Daniel C. Gilman, convocation orator, paused in his address, while a stream of water poured down his neck, and then uttered an ancestor of the modern wise crack . . . "I know this is a Baptist institution," said the learned doctor, "but I see you are not bigoted, for you do not object to sprinkling." President William Rainey Harper announced gifts to the university totaling $621,155. . . . Among the 276 drenched cap and gowners who received the bachelor's degree was the writer of these footnotes to the history of "Babes in Toyland."

W. L. Hubbard was the dramatic critic of THE TRIBUNE then, and Wilbur D. Nesbit, who wrote under the caption "Top o' the Mornin'," was its columnist. The city editor was eager to close up a redlight café named Maxim's, which George Silver had just opened at 2020 Wabash avenue. [It was abolished three days later.] James O'Donnell Bennett reviewed the première as dramatic critic of the Record-Herald.

"Most Gorgeous Production."

Mr. Hubbard chronicled "Babes in Toyland" with a full column of excellent description. He voted the production "more gorgeous than 'The Wizard of Oz,' which means the most gorgeous the American stage has seen." He went on to tell how Charles Guyer, as Grumio, and Nell Daly, as Jill, emerged from obscurity in the last act to score the hit of the performance with an amazing skit of pantomimic and acrobatic dancing.

But Mr. Hubbard, although regarded as a gentle critic, was not completely rhapsodic about "Toyland." He had some reservations to make: "The piece needs tuning up. . . . In laugh-provoking qualities the libretto is lean. . . . There is no good principal part. . . . Mr. Herbert's music is much too good for the purposes to which it is put." [His observations hold good for the present revival.]

The show had a run of 135 performances. Its girls were the belles of the summer. Its tunes became the dance fashions of the year. Victor Herbert quit his job as conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra and show producers pursued him with commissions for scores.

For the generation now approaching its fiftieth birthday the summer when "Babes in Toyland" flourished in Chicago stands for the finest flowering of "the good old days." It was always fair weather then—"with a stein on the table!—and a good song ringing clear!"

Meditations of Lent.

The Theater Guild has gone away after keeping the Blackstone box office busy for five months; the Dramatic League of Chicago, which had its interesting ups and downs at the Princess, has closed its books without taking the pains to make promises for next fall; Fritz Leiber and his Civic Shakespeareans have gone touring, to find warmer praise in New York than in their own home town. Of the drama-in-earnest organizations which have enlivened the playgoing season and stimulated the subscription list idea as first aid to theatrical management, only the Goodman company continues in operation, with a campaign for 10,000 subscribers to whet the ambitions of its staff and stimulate the hopes of its faithful patrons.

Generally speaking, the stage season of 1929-'30 is now in a dead spot. When the gay world heads for Miami from radio and talking machines, some scenic aid from the movie camera, put on with everything that is known on color and line of the modern stage by a man who knows the modern stage.

Such a piece would undoubtedly be refused by the whole line of producing managers. Finally it would be accepted by a novice who did not understand the rigors of the game, and he would make a fortune for himself and everyone connected with him.

It would have to be played by young people who had not been trained in a former manner. In fact it looks exactly as though it would be the piece for the young musicians now in the schools concerning whom the music supervisors of the country have had much debate and thought during the last week at the Stevens hotel. It might even be the outlet that some of them are beginning to discuss.

So with this ravishing prospect, let the present remarks conclude with a letter sent to this desk which contains a distinct point of view. Thanks for the last line.

Apropos Present Situation.

Dear Mr. Moore: I was interested in your comments on "music teacher's" letter in the Tribune of March 23rd.

On one hand we have the optimistic view of the teacher quoted, that there is a great vista of opportunity opening before our jaded eyes. On the other, the pessimists hold that music by proxy [reproducing instruments] is killing all means of musicians earning their bread and butter. Well, of course they are accustomed to butterless bread but they would enjoy a little butter no doubt.

This wave of enthusiasm anent public school music is commendable, for only by such means may our future citizens become discriminating auditors for reproduced music. But the fact is that experienced teachers may not teach in a public school without gulping down a futile "course" in public school nonsense. These "courses" do not teach, but smatter the victims much as they themselves wash their necks, without soap and water, if they can get away with it. The conscientious teacher cannot accept such a course for she, or he, knows too well that a little half knowledge is worse than none. Regular grade teachers who never were and never will be musicians "take" these courses and thereby become music teachers! The pay is excellent and should be the means of providing a decent living for those who have made a business of teaching and have a certain amount of practical experience.

The fact is that we will have to revise our ideals entirely and train our children to be business musicians by recognizing and utilizing the possibilities of mechanical reproduction. It can be and has been done by a few far-seeing musicians who had vision and prepared themselves for what they saw—the idealism of music lying in a cataleptic state upon an unrelenting marble slab.

I am not a disgruntled person at all and am not dependent on music for a living, thank God. My ambition is to become a nice critic so I can sling the ink hither and yon, and give sage advice!!!

Very truly yours,
JEAN MORRIS.

Music Notes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge sends word of a chamber music festival which she will present in the auditorium of the Field museum Oct. 12-16. She tells that several distinguished composers are writing music for this event, among them Frederick Stock, Mario Castelnuovo-Tedesco of Florence, Arnold Bax of London, and Charles M. Loeffler of Boston.

In addition to these she will present for the first time in America many works that have been written for her and some that have never been played anywhere by Malipiero, Roussel, Gustav Strube, Bridge, the Hungarian Szanto, and the Swiss Beck.

"I am living in hopes," she adds, "of persuading Mr. Hindemith to play something of his own writing, but to this invitation I have not yet had a definite reply from him. I have engaged the Bross quartet and Miss Harriet Cohen from London, Mr. d'Archambeau, formerly of the Flonzaley quartet, Mr. Pizzetti, Mme. Landowska, Mr. Barrere, the eminent flute player, and the Gordon quartet."

The Civic Opera company, out on tour of the country for the last eight weeks, ought to be back in Chicago by the time these words are read. It was due to give its final performance at Kansas City last night and to come back as soon as the train could be loaded after the final curtain.

A letter from Charles F. Collison of the Minneapolis Tribune tells of the great success the company had in that city. He says the opera fans of Minneapolis and the surrounding cities of Minnesota and Wisconsin are under deep and yet delightful obligation to Chicago, and that the company paid its way and the guarantors incurred no deficit. He speaks also of the personal successes scored by Tito Schipa and Margherita Salvi in "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Mary Garden and René Maison in "The Love of the Three Kings," by Edith Mason, Antonio Cortis, and Giacomo Rimini in "Mme. Butterfly," and by Rosa Raisa, Maria Olszewska, and Charles Marshall in "Il Trovatore."

Of what is to happen next season only "Die Meistersinger" has so far been made public. It would seem that the part of Hans Sachs would fall to the German baritone, Rode, who was expected here this season but could not get a release from his European assignments. There is likewise reason to believe that if he is here next season "Tiefland" will be revived for his benefit, but in German instead of the English version in which it was heard at the Auditorium.

The Parker-Widner Concert service, new managerial organization, will present five young American artists at Curtiss hall on successive Friday evenings beginning this week. Dorothy Croft will give the first program.

LIKED IN "NINA ROSA"

MARION MARCHANTE.

If the mining engineer and the growling gaucho ever got tired of quarreling over the heroine of "Nina Rosa," the operetta at the Great Northern theater, they could turn their attention to the American girl who adds a note of northern beauty to the Peruvian scene. She is well played and sung by Marion Marchante, whose picture suggests how seriously she takes her art.

Gotham Ovation Greets Chicago Opera Singer

Maria Kurenko Charms with Russian Songs.

By Joan King.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 26.—[Special.—Chicago's Civic Opera coloratura, Mme. Maria Kurenko, has entertained her compatriots of this metropolis on two recent occasions. With several other prominent Russian artists, Mme. Kurenko helped provide the all-Russian concert program of the annual ball given by the National Russian Students' Christian association at the Ritz-Carlton. This was one of the largest events of the kind to be held here during the Lenten season.

The object of the annual balls of the association is to promote cultural relations between Russian students in this country and graduates of American universities. The proceeds this year were to go toward a fund being raised for the establishment of a permanent center in New York for Russian students and their American friends.

Mme. Kurenko chose as her contribution to the evening an aria from the opera, "Snow Maiden," and several shorter pieces. Prince Alexis Obolensky and Vladimir Drozdoff also sang. The ball was attended by a large number of Gotham's élite, including many prominent members of the Russian colony here.

Russian Composer Assists.

Assisted by the visiting Russian composer, Alexandre Gretchaninoff, in a group of his compositions, Mme. Kurenko gave a recital at Carnegie hall Monday night. The occasion was that of the annual membership concert sponsored by the National Music league and given for those who have supported the league's efforts to provide paying audiences for newer and unknown concert givers.

The soprano gave an interestingly varied program, her first group being comprised of songs by Lotti, Handel, Scarlatti and Mozart, sung in Italian; the second, Faure, Delibes, Respighi and Massenet compositions, in French. In these two groups Mme. Kurenko was accompanied by Pierre Luboschutz at the piano. The third group of the evening was devoted entirely to songs by Gretchaninoff, with the composer at the piano. Mme. Kurenko sang them in Russian, and, as was to be expected, these were the most delightful offerings of the evening.

As for the composer, before being permitted to seat himself at the keyboard, he was forced to bow repeatedly to the audience's delighted recognition. During the performance of his songs he was accorded several joint ovations with his fellow countrywoman.

Revives "L'Elisir d'Amore."

Impresario Gatti-Casazza has fulfilled his promise given early this season. The Metropolitan Grand Opera company has revived the Donizetti comic opera, "L'Elisir d'Amore," for the first time since 1920. In an operatic season somewhat heavy and dull, the event provided a variety and lightness extremely welcome, for the opera is one that tells an inconsequential story with inconsequential tunes and puts no burden at all upon its hearers' intelligence. Both the huge audience which filled the dignified old Metropolitan and the company itself seemed to enjoy the event cordially.

Nina Morgana was the Adina; Beniamino Gigli, the Nemorino; Giuseppe De Luca, the Belcore; Ezio Pinza, the Dulcamara, and Philine Falco, the Giannetta. Every rôle was filled with excellent effect. Mr. Gigli's portrayal of that rôle, which used to be thought of only in connection with Caruso, was particularly delightful. In fact, the show was halted for some moments in the final act by his singing of "Una Furtiva Magrima."

PRESS NOTE that will undoubtedly be of interest to opera lovers:

"It remained for an independent organization to produce in feature length the world's greatest opera, 'I Pagliacci' establishing Audio-Cinema as pioneers to produce and present the first all sound, complete, operatic production.

"'I Pagliacci' is now in production at the Edison studios, New York City, with Joe Coffman in charge of production and direction, and a complete staff of opera and picture technicians. Many famous stars, which include Fernando Bertini, tenor; Alba Novella, soprano; Giuseppe Interrante, Nino Fucile, Mario Valle, baritones, are in the enormous cast.

"This tremendous production and world famous success was first produced at the Teatro dal Verne, Milan, Italy, in 1892, and at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York, 1894. The musical direction is under the conductor, Carlo Peroni.

"Fortune Gallo, opera impresario, is a part of the opera supervising staff.

"The story of 'I Pagliacci' lends itself admirably to the sound screen and will bring to every city and small town a pretentious production which has seldom been attempted in the history of motion pictures."

Picture Without a Flaw.

Dear Miss Tinée—How I did enjoy your review of that lovely picture, "Seven Days Leave!" If you ever reviewed a picture contrary to my way of thinking, you fully redeemed yourself and I love you for it.

Of course the picture almost killed me with its sadness, but the Barrie story was so beautiful, and every character was so suited to the part. I wiped my tears away but felt proud of that pseudo mother. My tears were intermingled with joy at the entire picture, which to my mind was absolutely without a flaw.

Sincerely your admirer as a reviewer of talkies.

Good Old Days When 'Toyland' Had First Run

By Charles Collins.

er Biloxi and the austere world puts on the sackcloth of Lent, the theater hits an air pocket, or, to use a less modern figure of speech, gets caught in the doldrums. For a chronicler of first nights, this condition is slightly depressing. Like a becalmed mariner, he whistles for a topic to write about.

The only change of bill for this week brings Howard Thurston, the magician, into the Erlanger, and there is no need for a "we have with us" about this sole survivor of a mighty race of Black Artists. The week ahead, however, will bring some jaunty ripples upon the glassy surface of the deep. Mei Lan-fang, the coy, aesthetic symbolist of China, marvel of all the mandarins, will give us a taste of the oriental classics. The Goodman will flare up creatively with the first American staging of a Hungarian play called "Kolpak Must Dance." Not so bad for late in Lent.

The week of April 13 is barren of announcements. Something may happen, of course, because the stage schedule has recently developed a habit of revising itself every other day or so. But at present that line on the calendar looks like an awful hush to precede the storm of the Easter openings. Five new shows, all musical, are scheduled for the date of the festival when the winter garments of repentance are flung into the fires of spring.

Old Faithful of Comic Opera.

One of these Easter shows will come into direct competition with the debut of the light opera season at the Civic Theater. While Mr. Insull's singers are starting their adventure among the musical frivolities with "The Bohemian Girl," the Grand Opera House will make melodious whoopee with "A Wonderful Night." And that title disguises one of the classics of the light opera repertory—nothing less than "Die Fledermaus."

Let's see what we can remember about this old faithful of the not-so-grand opera repertory. It was composed by one of the six Strausses whose names and careers can be found in any musical dictionary—by the most famous of the tribe, Johann of "The Blue Danube." Its libretto was based upon a French play written by a team of experts in farcical comedy—Meilhac and Halevy. "Le Reveillon" was the source title.

"Die Fledermaus" got its start for a long and active career in Vienna in 1867. It reached Berlin in 1874 and Paris, as "La Chauve-Souris," soon after. Then it became an epidemic. The first American performance was at the New York Casino in 1885, and De Wolf Hopper was in the cast. In 1890 the Metropolitan adopted it, and in 1905 it was revived there with a cast that included Caruso and Sembrich.

It was taken out of the opera house and put into the theaters, to compete with up to date Viennese operettas, in 1912. The libretto was an adaptation by Gladys Unger, and its title then was "The Merry Countess." And so on down the years.

"A Wonderful Night" is said to be a new adaptation of the old libretto, by Fanny Todd Mitchell, who went back to the original French play to get a fresh point of view. It contains seventeen scenes [that's the way Meilhac and Halevy worked], and requires a revolving stage for their presentation. There are only eight rôles in the plot, but the herald of "A Wonderful Night" says his show has a cast of 150, so it must have a prodigious chorus.

The music critics will review "The Bohemian Girl" at the Civic because that section of the river front is their territory; and the dramatic critics will report "A Wonderful Night" because they belong on Clark street. But the two shows, so far as their relation to the lyric stage is concerned, are almost identical twins.

Athos and Co.

"The Three Musketeers" will soon be done at London's Drury Lane. Dennis King will go over with it.

IN "SHE'S NO LADY"

MILDRED MacLEOD.

THE farce in which Lynne Overman plays a female impersonator with a taste for athletics, "She's No Lady," has a good little actress for its reckless young heroine—by name, Mildred MacLeod. She is now to be found at the Harris theater, to which the play moved after a start at the Garrick.

Ziegfeld Will Revive 'Follies'; Theater Gossip

FLO ZIEGFELD seems to mean it when he says he'll do another "Follies." His general manager, Stanley Sharpe, is now en route to Hollywood, where he will try to persuade a handful of picture celebrities to play in the "Follies." If they agree, it should considerably enliven the New York summer season, for the show ought to be ready to open early in July.

Chester Erskine, a newly risen stage director, has been given a high post in the Paramount-Frohman organization—associate producer, or some such title. Gilbert Miller will not relinquish the reins, but his increasing absorption in London play matters has left an opening for a bright young man over here. Inevitably, this means an increased production of American plays.

Fred Stone and "Ripples" went on tour last night after eleven weeks in New York. Four minor entertainments also were withdrawn—plays which a lot of people probably never even heard of. Their names were "Penny Arcade," "The Gimmie Girl," "I Want My Wife," and "It Never Rains." The last of these had a fair run.

Mae West, in moments picked up between pressing legal duties, is writing another play. The name of it will be "Frisco Kate," and Miss West, of course, will play the part.

Not a few curious New Yorkers will journey to Newark tomorrow night to see the Theater Guild's production of "Hotel Universe," which is said to be something distinctly new. The Guild recently had a "reading" of Maxwell Anderson's new play, "Elizabeth and Essex." The parts were assigned, just as though the play were being acted, and it was then read to the assembled directors. The verdict was that it was pretty good.

W. C. Fields will be seen in New York in a musical show this summer. Earl Carroll will produce it, and the name of it will be "Midsummer Madness." Which is all right unless the show runs into the winter.

The story of how Jed Harris produced "Weak Sisters" for $2,200 finally must take second place. For "Dear Old England" was brought to life for a sum fully $500 less than that. The play is now in New York and promises to do well there.

Joseph Allen has gone to Boston to begin rehearsals for the revival of "The Tavern," in which he will again have the rôle of the hired man.

The radio entertainers known as Amos and Andy seem to be in no little demand on the part of the musical show producers. Mr. Ziegfeld, the Shuberts and the producers of "The Little Show" are all wooing them, and there is talk of thousands being bandied about. Some say that Mr. Ziegfeld would reward them with eight thousand dollars a week, Mr. Shubert with ten. It all sounds a trifle fantastic.

The Gershwin-Fields musical show, "The Big Charade," has to do with college dramatic activities—surely a fruitful subject. Sam H. Harris says he'll do it in July.

Grant Mitchell, who has been officially connected with the Actors' Equity association for more than a decade as an officer, has resigned from the Equity council. Mr. Mitchell expects to make his home in Hollywood.

The English rights to "Sons o' Guns," one of the New York hits, have been sold to Clayton and Waller, who plan to present the musical show in London in the fall. Jack Donahue's rôle will be played by Bobby Howes, and the soldiers around whom the action centers will be Australians instead of Americans.

DUDLEY'S GIRL

ALLYN GILLYN.

"Moved to the Playhouse and doing well there" is the Rialto gossip about "Your Uncle Dudley." The veteran bachelor of its story meets opposition among his relatives when he wants to marry an attractive lady from Denmark. That rôle is acted by Miss Allyn Gillyn, who is expert in the Scandinavian accent in spite of her Irish name.

New in Chicago

HOWARD THURSTON, who now leads the ancient and honorable guild of stage magicians, will begin an engagement of three weeks at the Erlanger theater this afternoon. His program will include mystifications bearing such titles as "Iasia," "The Million Dollar Mystery," "The Mystery of the Whippet," "The Magic Box Revue," "The Army and Navy Forever," "The Mystery of the Bathing Beauties," "The Mystery of the Blue Boxes," "Adventures with the Spirits," and "The Crystal Ball." Card tricks, of course, will be included in the bill.

Miss Jane Thurston, the magician's daughter, is co-starred with him.

Inventors Work Overtime to Improve Each Part of Talkies

By Tom Pettey.

are shown to be just like a lot of other things that you can take or leave. Those Hollywood boys and girls are all right, after all.

"There is really no excuse for lisping," writes a news reel movietone operator who signs himself 'D. C.' "It is caused by what is technically known as overloading. The sibilants are of a higher frequency than the 'th' sounds, and the result of overloading is to cut off the extreme limits of whatever frequencies are present.

"When the upper limit is cut off, what remains is the next lower, the 'th' or lisping sound. Incidentally, this shifts the tonal range to a lower position, causing booming tones and the amusing phenomenon of sweet heroines languishing in bass baritones. Microphones are not temperamental, but they demand expert operation."

Among the more serious inventors stands John Hays Hammond Jr., up Gloucester, Mass., way. Mr. Hammond last week announced "a new system of electrical reproduction of sound." The Hammond system, according to word from the laboratory, marks a "striking advance."

It is described as basically new and as "eliminating extraneous mechanica noises and giving a far more satisfactory rendition of tonal color an dynamics." If the new device doe half of what is claimed for it, happy days are here again for the talkies.

Echoes Are Hunted Down.

The acoustics engineers are a banc of echo hunters that will bear watching. Right now they are working tc make talking pictures sound as wel in summer as in winter. In the colc months, no matter what the temperature of the theater, moviegoers wea more clothing. Well, flannel underwear, just like rugs and draperies plays its part in aiding sound reproduction.

The most important factor in gooc sound reproduction is the time o reverberation, according to S. K. Wolf theater acoustics engineer. "Generally speaking," says Mr. Wolf, "the theater with an almost square auditoriun reproduces sound with the best results. The theater in which it is mos difficult to get good sound reproduction is the long, narrow one with a low ceiling."

In the summer additional rugs an drapes help the tone of the talkies Seats also make a great difference a all seasons. They should be soun absorbers. Wooden seats will be ou in the modern theater unless heavil upholstered.

Pathé has something new in th color world. It calls its speed metho of color photography "coloratura," and it now is being tried out in Path news reels.

Coloratura does away with a lot o the tedious work considered necessar for color pictures in the past and permits a scene to be shown on the scree two or three hours after it takes place Coloratura, it is said, can be develope at the rate of thirty feet an hour.

Film News.

John Boles, the film singer, is her for a Roxy premiere.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers will return to New York later in the sprin to play the lead in "Heads Up," to b made in Paramount's Long Islan studio.

There is a new press agent at Wa ner Bros.' Brooklyn talkie factory.

The College of Physicians and Su geons at Columbia university i showing a new talking picture film It depicts the reduction and splintin of a Pott's fracture—a fracture c the lower fibula with an outward bac ward displacement of the foot. Sound as if Charlie Chaplin might hav made it.

There is a rumor about that Gret Garbo is heading toward the legitima stage. When the time is ripe and sh has overcome her slight accent sh will be "properly presented in a rô that will permit the world to see a actress greater than Bernhardt c Duse." Well, we can wait until "tim is ripe."

B'way Openings

MAURICE CHEVALIER, the French entertainer, is the leading personality of the new playbills for the Manhattan stage this week. Fritz Leiber will continue his Shakespearean repertory, opening with "King Lear." There are also four new plays to be appraised by the first nighters. Here are the announcements:

Maurice Chevalier—Tonight at the Fulton theater. The popular French entertainer who has became a personage on the talking screen since his engagement last season in the Ziegfeldian "Midnight Frolic," will appear personally for two weeks. His program will include songs in both French and English, and Duke Ellington's band will assist him.

Fritz Leiber—Tomorrow night at the Shubert theater. The second week of Mr. Leiber and his Shakespearean company from Chicago will begin with "King Lear," a play infrequently acted.

"House Afire"—Tomorrow night at the Little theater. Jack Hazzard, returning in a comedy by Mann Page, who has written them before. Betty Blythe, once of the films, will also be in the company, as will May Collins, vice Claiborne Foster, Charles Laite, and another member of the house of Hazzard-Jack Jr.

"Broadway Shadows"—Tomorrow night at the Belmont theater. From the Broadway shadows is where this one comes, for little is known of it except that it is the work of one Willard Earl Simmons and that Howard St. John and Lucille Fenton will be in it.

"Troyka"—Tuesday night at the Hudson theater. A play from the Hungarian—the author's name if you want to know everything is Irme Fazekas.

THE CALL OF THE ROAD - - By Robert Benchley

Illustrations by Gaar Williams

Early Spring Is the Time to Hit the Trail

IF the world were run on anywhere near a livable basis, this would be the time of year for vacationing instead of in July and August, when every one is hot and sticky. Nobody is good for anything in the early spring anyway and they might as well be filing in and out of trains and losing trunks as sitting around at desks drawing little sun flowers on the blotters. It has been estimated that in the first two weeks of April in Kansas City alone 84,000 sunflowers were drawn on 59,000 desk blotters. [Some people drew two or three on one blotter.]

I must say, however, that the travel bureaus do not make things very attractive to the prospective vacationist. Here I am in a state of gypsy tension, ready to take the first open trail [provided my boss will let me off and I can manufacture some dollar bills out of some old green paper] and what inducement do I get? What do the travel bureaus or the steamship companies do to make travel attractive to me?

In the first place, they have displays in their windows and they send out pamphlets. Let us say that I am walking down the street, feeling the spring to an extent which is almost illegal and looking around for a tambourine to beat and maybe a string of blossoms to twine around my neck and skip along blowing a pipe. I come to a travel bureau window. Here, of all places, I should get my inspiration. O, to get on a boat and sail to the four corners of the earth [a phrase evidently left over from the days when the earth was supposed to be square] or, O, to get on a train and ride into the night—as far as the train goes! O, at any rate!

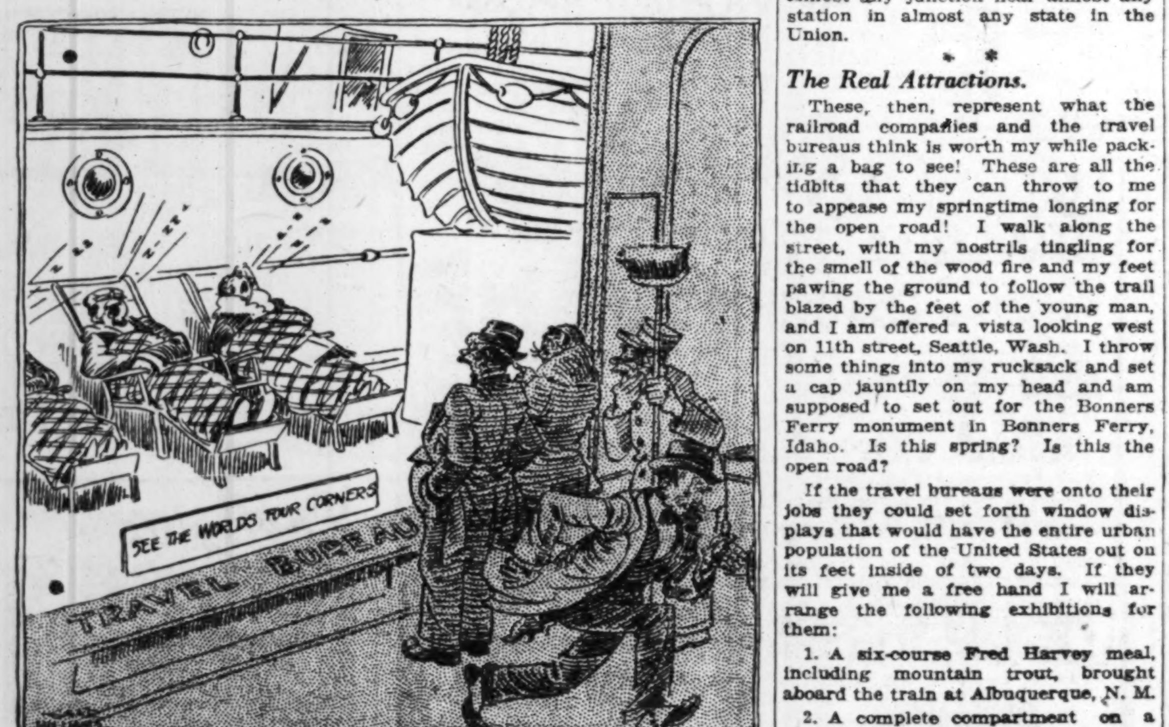
Nature's Wonders.

And what do I see in the travel bureau's window? Perhaps a pair of old moccasins and a snowshoe, with a red Indian blanket left over from the winter display, showing how gay one can be at Banff. Perhaps a poster showing an Alp or a Rocky. But most likely a large display of photographs, sometimes with a light behind them to make them look devilish, indicating that if you will only get on a train and ride north or west or south you will be able to see some of the following wonders of nature:



The boat deck of a trans-Atlantic liner.

1. The Foshay building in Minneapolis, Minn.

2. The David Thompson monument in Verendrye, N. D., which seems to be a large stone ball on a block of granite, situated very near a trestle. I can see a large stone ball on a block of granite situated near a trestle by driving six minutes from my home.

3. The Montana State School of Mines, situated attractively on a bluff and overlooking nothing in particular but built along the general lines of the state reformatory in my home town.

4. Capt. Lewis' monument in Meriwether, Mont., which is evidently a long stone pillar rising up in the middle of a plain; an objet d'art, which would hardly hold the attention of even an expert in long stone pillars [and no offense to Capt. Lewis or Meriwether, Mont., either].

5. Bonners Ferry monument [what is this fascination for monuments among travel bureaus?] in Bonners Ferry, Idaho. I can detect nothing more remarkable in this monument than in the one erected to my Uncle Sydney by the G. A. R. In fact, the one erected to my Uncle Sydney has ivy on it and all that the one at Bonners Ferry, Idaho, can boast is a small Ford coupe standing in the background of the picture.

A Matter of Reproach.

6. Looking west on 11th street, Tacoma, Wash. I have no doubt that 11th street in Tacoma is a very charming street, but to the eye of the prospective traveler it offers nothing more exciting than a view looking west [or east, for that matter] on 11th street, New York City, or south on Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood, Cal.

7. There is one photograph with the caption: "Roses Everywhere" which shows one rose bush similar to the ones in my own back yard. There was a time when rose bushes meant something, but it has got so now that, along about July, when the rambler rose bushes are beginning to show their age and getting circles under their eyes, "roses everywhere" is more of a reproach than a slogan. Even down on Cape Cod people stay indoors rather than go out and run into a lot of rose bushes. I should go 'way out to Portland, Ore., just to see "roses everywhere"!

8. We discover that, by traveling on a train to Everett, Wash., we can see "one of the world's largest lumber mills." Now, from where I live, it is quite a long train ride to Everett, Wash., and, judging from the "aerial view" of that city shown alongside the photograph of one of the world's largest lumber mills, I should say that I could get the same view by flying over Newark, N. J., or Canton, O. I certainly can see as large a lumber mill as I want to [I am satisfied with very little in the matter of lumber mills] by just going up to Mount Tom Junction, Mass., or to almost any junction near almost any station in almost any state in the Union.

The Real Attractions.

These, then, represent what the railroad companies and the travel bureaus think is worth my while packing a bag to see! These are all the tidbits that they can throw to me to appease my springtime longing for the open road! I walk along the street, with my nostrils tingling for the smell of the wood fire and my feet pawing the ground to follow the trail blazed by the feet of the young man, and I am offered a vista looking west on 11th street, Seattle, Wash. I throw some things into my rucksack and set a cap jauntily on my head and am supposed to set out for the Bonners Ferry monument in Bonners Ferry, Idaho. Is this spring? Is this the open road?

If the travel bureaus were onto their jobs they could set forth window displays that would have the entire urban population of the United States out on its feet inside of two days. If they will give me a free hand I will arrange the following exhibitions for them:

1. A six-course Fred Harvey meal, including mountain trout, brought aboard the train at Albuquerque, N. M.

2. A complete compartment on a transcontinental train, showing how bright the reading light is over the berth and how easy it is to stay in bed all day and read novels.

3. A sidewalk café in Paris, with six or eight Americans sitting and sipping amer picon (nonalcoholic) with an Armenian doing juggling tricks on a nearby plot of grass and a newskiosk featuring the New York Times, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and the Los Angeles Times.

4. The boat deck of a trans-Atlantic liner with eleven Americans sleeping in the sun with their mouths open.

5. A complete file of La Vie Parisienne.

6. A Hungarian chef standing in the window and cooking a tureen full of korhely leaves.

This could go on for days, with a new window display each day and a new batch of customers rushing in to buy passage.

However, perhaps the travel bureaus don't want a lot of customers rushing in. Most of the clerks that I have ever encountered seem to have taken an oath of office which binds them to a policy of discouraging travel. If there is one thing that they hate to see it is a countryman of theirs leaving town. I sometimes think that the local chamber of commerce pays them to keep people at home.

Delayed in Transit.

Let us say that you want to go abroad. (A lot of people do.) You go into a travel bureau and find that you are seventh in line for the nearest clerk. You read over some of the circulars while you are waiting and get yourself into a fever heat over the pictures of life on the French Riviera or executions in the Tower of London. At last your turn comes and you approach the young man behind the desk.

"What is the first boat I can get passage on to Europe?" you ask.

"There are none," he says, and begins dictating a letter to a young lady nearby.

"No boats to Europe?" you ask. "What is it—a thunderstorm coming up?"

"I can give you a hammock in one of the smaller smokestacks of the Hysteria," he says. "She sails on the 11th."

"Is it a single hammock?" you inquire, "or do I have to share it with a school teacher?"

"It's gone now, anyway," he says, and disappears.

So you move on to the next man.

"Anything for Europe?"

"What Europe?"

"What do you want to go for?"

This is a poser.

"Well, I thought I might like to see a Finn."

"Can't you see a Finn right here? What do you want to go to Europe for?"

"I would like to see a Finn finning, if you don't mind."

"Well, I do mind, and I'll thank you to tend to your own business and not come bothering decent people who are trying to make out weekly reports."

Superfluous.

By this time you see that you are not wanted in the travel bureau and also have a feeling that you are not wanted in Europe. This breeds a hatred in you for Europe which, in turn, leads to a world war.

No matter where you try to go, whether it be in America, Europe, or some country ending in "Y," you inevitably have the feeling that you are not wanted. This seems to me to be the chief fault with traveling. If I want to go from Chicago to Dallas, or from Dallas to Marseilles, I am made to feel that it would have been much better if I had stayed at home. Chambers of commerce may get out pamphlets urging outsiders to come and visit their towns, and foreign countries may get their consulates in America to stimulate travel to their shores, but the minute an outsider meets a native and asks him the way to the station or where he can get an egg sandwich he is immediately made conscious of the fact that he is under suspicion and that, unless he takes pretty good care of what he says and does, he is in for a sports suit of tar and feathers and a swift ride to the nearest pasture on a rail. That seems to be human nature, much as I hate to say it. Some of my best friends are human beings, but, as a class, they resent visitors.

So I have decided that when this old spring fret comes over me and I itch to be off to distant lands, I will throw a few things into a bag, get down my old hat from the shelf, kiss my family good-by, and pitch a tent in the back yard.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Looking around for a tambourine to beat and maybe a string of blossoms to twine around my neck.

So I have decided that when this old spring fret comes over me—

Sore Throat

Health authorities report increasing numbers of sore throat cases. Danger lurks in every one that is neglected. "Common sore throat" can lead to some serious sickness before you know it. Don't treat the lightest case of sore throat lightly! Check inflammation and infection by gargling. Doctors regard Bayer Aspirin the most effective gargle for this purpose. You just crush two tablets in four tablespoons of water and gargle thoroughly. Repeat until every bit of soreness is gone. For colds, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc., follow proven directions. Bayer Aspirin can be taken freely without harm. Get the genuine tablets with the Bayer cross.

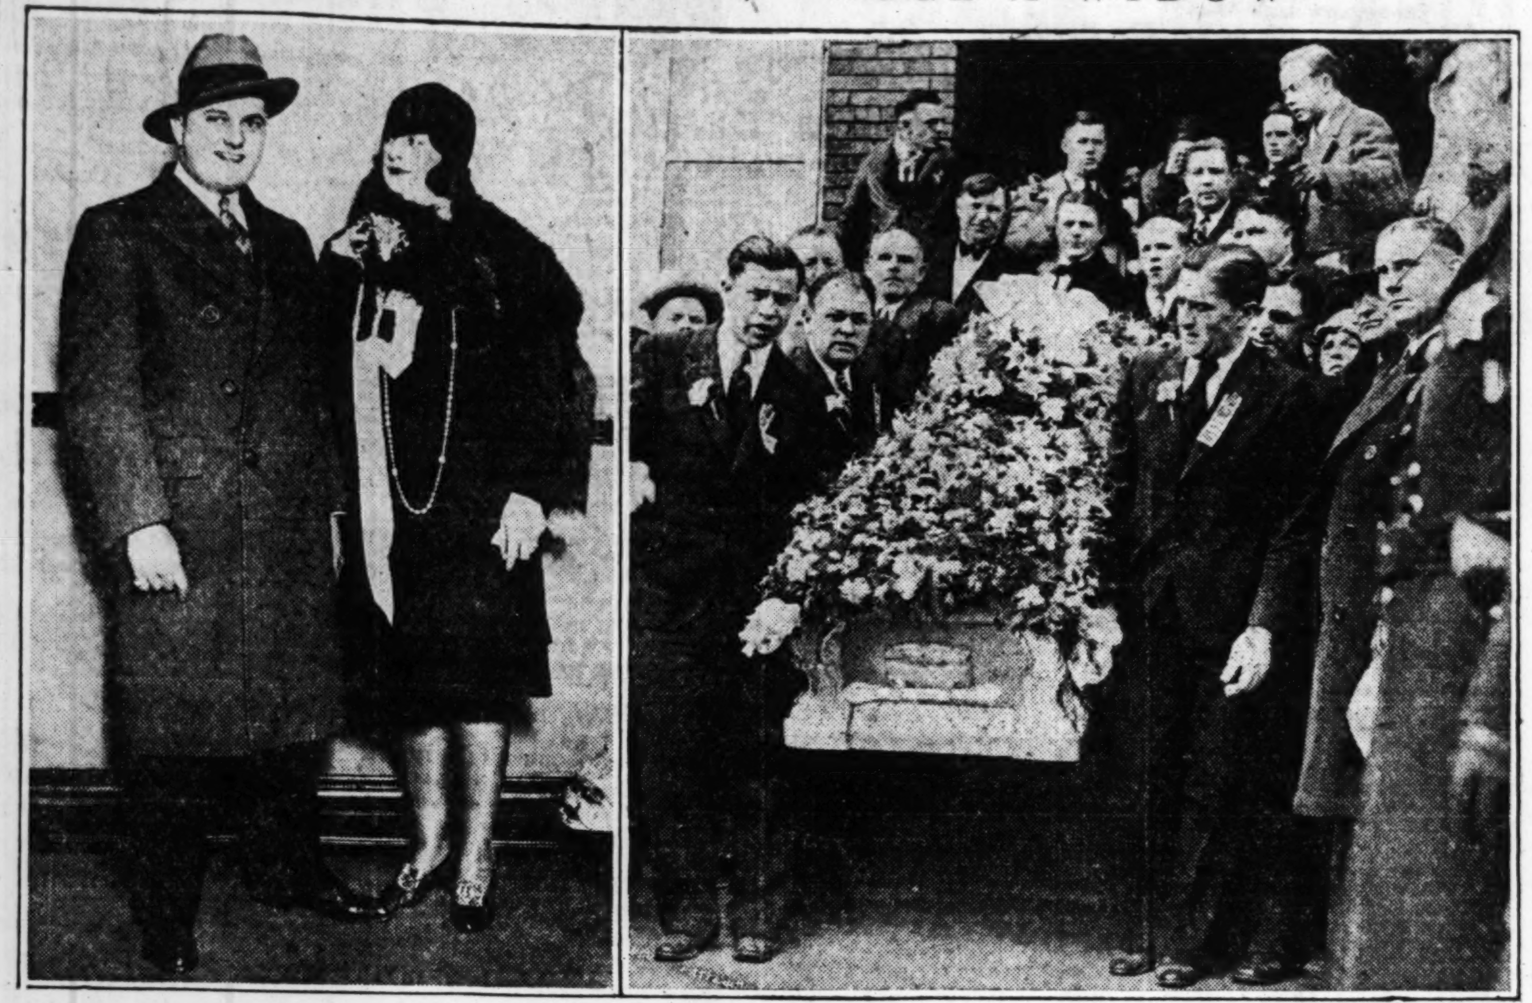
A Gun Widow's Story of Life in Gangland

By Genevieve Forbes Herrick

TWICE A BRIDE; TWICE A WIDOW



WIFE, widow, bride, and widow again—all within a space of less than two years—the Widow Murphy-Oberta has had a romantic chapter in the history of gangland's gunmen. Above, she is shown as the bride of "Dingbat" Oberta; at the right, as a witness at the coroner's inquest over the body of "Big Tim" Murphy. Above, at the right, Oberta's casket being carried from his home.

ing Chicago's overlords of the shotgun and the beer truck.

Fine Sense of Equity.

But she has a sense of equity. The Widow Oberta refuses to fight with the Widow Murphy over the relative merits of their husbands. The Widow Murphy flashes a kind word for Tim whenever the Widow Oberta sobs praise of Johnny.

Loyalty is largely responsible for this conjugal impartiality. But the biographies of this pair of husbands must also have influenced their widow's balanced emotions.

For both men were products of the same primitive, punitive neighborhood back of the yards. They had different talents; but their tastes were similar. There was the urge to boss and the itch for money; there was the fatal "emperor" complex which, in less psychologic terms, means the determination to "muscle" into every racket; there was the bravado that lived in the shadow of fear; there was the joy in the flattery of the mob, and the hatred when one of the vassals deserted; there was the topheavy ambition that tumbles to an end, in a ditch, cold and bloodstained.

Johnny Oberta was sixteen years younger than Tim Murphy. But there is such a large annual turnover in Chicago's gangster aristocracy that the two were of different generations. In hoodlum history, thirty is middle-age. Murphy, who died at the age of 42, was on the downslope, the analysts declared. Oberta, whose career smashed to a finish at 28, was rated on the upgrade.

Followed Same Curve.

The two curves met, with a woman standing between, at Tim Murphy's coffin.

But they had long been following the same general course, with Murphy's curve some sixteen years in advance of Oberta's. About the time that Tim left the federal penitentiary at Leavensworth, 1927, one John J. (Mitters) Foley was murdered, supposedly because of his excellent beer connections. The police arrested "Pollack" Joe Saltis and "Lefty" Koncil, and they looked for a young Polish fellow who had been doing some valuable odd jobs for his boss, Saltis. The young fellow's name is Alberta, or Oberta.

This case didn't interest the Murphys. Tim's murder indictment (for complicity in the killing of "Mossy" Enright) was a thing of the past. Now they were busy attending opening nights, and supper clubs, in genial celebrity of Tim's new freedom.

Never Had a Number.

When the police finally brought in Oberta, Saltis and Koncil had been freed of the charge; so Oberta's case was stricken off, with leave to reinstate. Four years later, when Oberta is dead, his widow is going to thank the circumstances that freed him in this charge. For, over his casket, she weeps a triumphant:

"My Johnny never had a number. He never went to the pen. He never had a number."

Then, remembering that her first husband had a number, number 18990, for several years, she adds, in fairness to his memory.

"And I suppose Tim did have a number. What gave it to him? A dirty frame by the Enrights gave it to him; and that don't count."

But, returning to 1926, Oberta was released, and the next year he felt political growing pains. Tim had the same symptoms when he was the same age. It was during his campaign for state representative that Murphy got his nickname "Big Tim"; and it was during his campaigns for alderman and committeeman that Oberta got his nickname, "Dingbat."

Tim's political speeches were full of wise cracks. So are Johnny Oberta's. Oberta's political platform is one of expediency:

"I am for subways. We need rapid transit. It makes for easier getaways. The present jury system is all right as far as it goes. But it should go farther away."

His campaign slogan is, unofficially, "An open town with bigger beers."

Both Bothered by Police.

Later in the years both men are irked by police. While north side officers are arresting Tim, "I guess for carrying a concealed idea," "Dingbat" complains that his life on the southwest side is just one raid after another, and that his opportunities for political prestige are jeopardized thereby.

Tim kidded: "If anything's goin' on, there's never a copper in a mile; but if a guy's just mopin' along, mindin' his own business, the cops guzzle him."

Oberta took it seriously. He appealed to Judge Oscar Hebel for an injunction restraining the police from arresting him. He cited as his most grievous humiliation the evening when, in correct tuxedo and patent leather pumps, he was dragged into the basement of the detective bureau for evening showup, and, before "a lot of guys that knew me," was called "a cheap bum."

Judge Hebel turned down the petition.

Tim Speaks for Johnny.

More than ever did Oberta aspire to wear the toga of a statesman from the Thirteenth ward. In 1928 Murphy, thwarted in his several attempts to organize new unions, was abandoning the "emperor" complex for the "shepherd" complex. He was negotiating for the purchase of a farm at Woodstock, where, he said, he wanted to be a country squire. But Oberta is in the limelight. When the William J. Nellis post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars gave him a testimonial dinner, Murphy is the principal speaker.

Murphy begins his speech characteristically:

"I ain't an educated cuckoo. I got a diploma from a swimming school." The crowd roars.

He ends it dramatically by pointing toward Oberta and shouting:

"He's all good; 100 per cent regular. My pal, Johnny Oberta."

And he goes home to his Rogers Park bungalow to tell his wife about it.

A few months later, while Tim is meeting his lawyer, preliminary to going to the Woodstock farm, Johnny is meeting his lawyer, preliminary to going to court on a charge of having terrorized the polls on primary day.

Widow Meets Oberta.

Then Oberta receives a stark message: "They got Tim."

He serves as pallbearer, glimpses the widow, touches the metallic casket, helps lower it into a grave at Holy Sepulchre cemetery, and, as he does so, stands on the very plot of green grass where, some twenty months later his own metallic casket, four times as expensive, is to be lowered.

Of that first funeral the Widow Murphy-Oberta says:

"Afterward, when I got to know Johnny, he says he spoke to me that day, but I was crying so hard I didn't notice."

It wasn't until a few months later that she went to a Waukesha sanitarium and met Oberta, "there with a gang of politicians." He tried to dry the widow's tears with bright recollections of his friend, Tim.

He succeeded so well that when she met him next, on a holiday at Hot Springs, they had many another conversation.

Restless, vital, eager for the excitement that stopped with the murder of her husband, the safe solitude of her bereavement made her so nervous that she'd "jump in a car and drive, drive, anywhere, to a strange town, just to be doing something, and to try to keep from thinking about Tim."

Johnny Takes Tim's Place.

Slowly, but logicaly, Johnny Oberta's life of hazard and excitement and strategy took the place of Tim Murphy's life of danger and daring. So it shouldn't have been much of a surprise to her friends, or to a psychologist, to have her announce, in May, 1929, that she was now Mrs. John L. Oberta, wife, again, of a feudal lord.

"He was awful nice to me. In a way he was a lot like Tim. I understood him."

This second marriage brought her a second, sudden widowhood. Is she sorry that she elected to walk twice into shock and tragedy? Let her answer.

"All my life I've been doing nothing but good, good to everybody, the poor and the suffering, and look at the breaks I get. Married to two of the swellest guys that ever drew a living breath, and both bumped off. It's a couple of rotten breaks."

But it was worth it, she feels sure.

"I'd never have married anybody after Tim unless I'd met Johnny. But Johnny saved my life, kept me from going nutty with lonesomeness."

Fights with Policeman.

Even in their early honeymoon days the new bridegroom made her feel at home again with the police. He, like Tim, lived dangerously. They'd been married only a fortnight when he got into an altercation with a motorcycle policeman in Bryan, O. Mrs. Oberta sat in their automobile, and must have smiled reminiscently as she saw her new husband fight the cop and saw the policeman tear from off her bridegroom's back a brand new silk shirt.

Tim had brought his bride back to live with the Murphy family, somewhere back of the yards. Johnny Oberta takes his bride to visit the Oberta family back of the yards. Tim, she recalls, had said, "I was brought up back of the yards, and never had a nickel, so I gotta be good to guys that ask for the dough."

Johnny had the same philosophy, his widow declares.

"He'd buy shoes for any kid that needed them. There wasn't a person in the ward that wouldn't go to him when he needed money. I've seen him shell out thirty or forty dollars a night, for just nothing at all. At the end of the day he'd just clean his pockets and give dough to any one who was around. He was a fool that way. But so am I. I can't stand to see people needing to eat, and shivering."

Both Liked Children.

Tim liked children and was good to little Doris, their niece, who made her home with them. Johnny liked youngsters and was good to Doris.

Tim, the Widow Murphy explains, "was fine looking, and a wonderful build; a regular man's man. But Johnny was just absolutely handsome; why, he could have gone in the movies any day."

Generous, two-fisted, humorous, "lovin' kids," handsome—all these adjectives apply, in slightly different measure, to both her husbands, their widow maintains.

So it is fitting that there should be a certain ironic parallel in the circumstances of their deaths.

Florence Murphy and little Doris were attending a carnival at St. Margaret Mary's church the summer evening that Tim was shot down on the front lawn of his home. She came home, saw the lifeless body. Dry-eyed and tense, she vowed vengeance. Through three days and three sleepless nights she kept her self-control, only to break down in a spasm of sobs at the funeral.

In Church Again.

Florence Murphy Oberta and little Doris were attending Ash Wednesday services at Our Lady of Sorrows church the March evening Johnny was shot and beaten to death in the front seat of his automobile on a lonely road near the outskirts of Chicago. In the twenty months that had elapsed since she was first widowed, she had learned to expect and to accept a stern fate.

By her own testimony at the inquest, she demonstrated a certain poise in learning about the death of a spouse. The scene, as she reconstructed it for the coroner's jury, went something like this:

She walked into the house. Her brother met her with a sinister question:

"Did you hear what happened to Johnny?"

"Arrested?" Her interrogatory is calm.

"Worse," says the brother.

"Shot, then?" again her query is restrained.

"So then," she says to the jury, "I went to the county morgue to identify him."

A Wonderful Man.

Then she adds: "Johnny Oberta was a wonderful man and a grand husband; always doing something for somebody." But even in this moment of crisis her double loyalty asserts itself, and she finishes:

"He was like Mr. Murphy that way."

She begins to make preparations for a funeral. Johnny's star had been in the ascendancy; so the crowds are huge. Where they came by the thousands to the Morse avenue bungalow to see Tim, they jostle, by tens of thousands, into the South Richmond street bungalow, to see Oberta.

When the church refuses her first husband full burial rites, she bows her head in acquiescence. When the church refuses these rites to her second husband, she raises her head and shouts:

"What's religion for, if it isn't to help people? If Johnny had been perfect, he wouldn't need the church. Christ said we should give a cup of cold water to the thirsty, and bread to the hungry, and feed the poor, and forgive the sinner, and do good to everybody. That's what religion's for."

Voters Solicit Her.

Where Tim had four motor cars filled with flowers, Johnny has eight automobile loads of orchids and Easter lilies. Where Tim's casket cost $2,500, Johnny's coffin is reputed to have cost $10,000.

When Tim died the friends came and pressed her hand in sympathy.

When Johnny died a hundred or more voters from the 13th ward rushed to her with a petition, asking her to fill her dead husband's place and run for committeeman. But the date for filing application has passed and the authorities ruled her out.

When Tim died he had his good, young friend, Johnny Oberta, to bear him tenderly to the grave, to comfort his widow.

But when Johnny died, he had no young friend to solace his widow, when she broke into violent sobs at the funeral, jumped high in the air and collapsed over the casket, screaming:

"My Johnny, O my Johnny! I can't go on with this life! My Johnny that I loved!"

Nor will there be another, according to the widow.

Doesn't Want Any One Else.

"I heard that Stege (Chief of Detectives John Stege) shot off his mouth that 'Florence'd put on a widow's veil for a couple of weeks, until she picked out another fellow,' but that's a lie. I loved Tim, and he was a grand man. I married Johnny because he was a grand man, and loved Tim. I don't want anybody else."

Then the widow of Timothy D. Murphy and the widow of John L. Oberta shakes her head sadly, and lays up this comfort to her soul:

"I've had more love and better husbands than most women."

Which isn't a bad epitaph for the two friends lying in adjacent graves at Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

THE ARMCHAIR PLAYGOER

By Fanny Butcher.

IN NEW YORK.

New York offers nothing to Armchair playgoers that they have not already had in Chicago—only a Shakespearean festival with Fritz Leiber. There is promised, however, "Green Pastures" in book form within a week or two. We shall spread its good news as soon as it is published.

ST. JOHN ERVINE.

IN CHICAGO.

A week's revival of "Holiday" reminds us that you may read, if you want to, all of Philip Barry's plays to date, not, however, including the new one which the Theater Guild is going to give soon, "Hotel Universe." They are published in a uniform edition.

One of our most favorite favorites of his was about a street cleaner and his horse and was called "White Wings." It died painlessly after twenty-seven performances, but the figure of the majestic Archie Inch of the Inches (the most successful and the proudest of the street cleaning families) remains inviolate. It reminds us of a swell short story of Edna Ferber's about the son of one of the royal families of the stock yards—working, not governing class

PUBLISHED.

"The First Mrs. Fraser," by St. John Ervine, not so long ago of our town and one of the few real hits in New York, you may now enjoy in the comfort of your own fireside, if you wish.

It is published* by the Macmillan company and takes its place beside nineteen other volumes from Mr. Ervine's pen, five novels, one volume of short stories, seven full length plays, and one volume of four one act plays, a political study, a biography, a volume of personal essays, and two books on theater craft. And another biography, that of Gen. William Booth, is announced as in preparation.

interesting as they were when their contrast was fresh.

Latest Russian Production.

The Turgenev comedy, "A Month in the Country," is of a piece with the Tchekov "Three Sisters," "The Sea Gull, and "Cherry Orchard," which followed it. It might stand as a sort of master play from which the younger writers of Russia took their cue and upon which they improved.

Its story value is incidental, its character development supreme. It picks up life on a Russian estate on a day when the husband, the wife, a devoted friend, and a young tutor are approaching a domestic tangle of sorts.

The wife, Natalia, hungers for the romance her dull husband and her routine of life have denied her. Her husband's friend, Mikhail, is devoted to her, but his devotion stirs little response. She gives him a sister's affection and he is content.

But when Alexei, the younger and handsomer tutor of her son, approaches, Natalia knows that romance has arrived. Her desire for Alexei is immediate and intense. She grows furiously jealous of the love he inspires in her young ward Viera and utterly depressed when he meets her confession of passion with the embarrassed statement that while he is vastly honored he thinks perhaps he had better return to Moscow.

At the end of the month Alexei goes home, Mikhail goes home, and everybody else returns to whatever it was he was doing before. Natalia is very unhappy.

It was such a romance as that which played a part in Turgenev's youth. He is the Mikhail of the play, presumably, seeing that the plantonic affair he had with an opera singer bears close resemblance to this unhappy lover's experience.

Alla Nazimova has joined the guild cast to play Natalia. She is quite herself again, and a perfect mistress of the emotional actress' technique. She is also still inaudible much of the time and terribly sad. Playing with her are young Alexander Kirkland as the tutor, Elliot Cabot as the faithful friend, and Douglas Dumbrille as the husband.

"The Matriarch" Lacks Sincerity.

This week Constance Collier barged in interestingly as the head of the somewhat messy stage family of Rakonitzes which G. B. Stern had fashioned from her novel, "Tents of Israel," and called after its American title of "The Matriarch."

It is a good performance Miss Collier gives of the dominant Anatasia Rakonitz, florid, sweeping, oriental, colorful. But it is not good enough, I fear, to save the play past the time the curiosity of the book's readers supports it.

They are invariably unsatisfying, these dramatized novels. Even when they are done by skillful outsiders. Authors are seemingly never able to tell how much to put in to make their stories intelligible and interesting to non-readers or how much they dare leave out without danger of disappointing those who know the book.

"The Matriarch," like the rest of them, is scattered in attack and indefinite in appeal. It begins with a prologue in which the infant Danny, illegitimate son of the vagabond Oliver Maitland, is adopted by Sophie Maitland and introduced to the matriarch as the newest issue of her line.

Thereafter a lapse of twenty years and the acceptance of Danny as a Rakonitz. Followed by the crash of the family and the rise of the younger generation, with Toni promising to succeed her grandmother as a second Matriarch. And with Danny in full and quite undisturbed possession of the fact of his birth.

Mrs. Campbell played the Matriarch role in England and is credited with a personal success in it. She would naturally bring it something in the way of a more flashing personality and a sharper sense of character than Miss Collier possesses. But it is doubtful if, technically, she more completely filled the rôle.

The most successful of the players is a little girl named Jessica Tandy, playing Toni. But this is largely true because Jessica has all the better of the best scenes, in addition to being an attractive ingènue.

Elizabeth and Essex Dramatized.

We have, too, a somewhat heavily impressive drama called "The Virgin Queen" after that Elizabeth who was hot and cold with love of the earl of Essex and yet put him to his death [in the play] through jealousy of his true love, the countess of Rutland. It is one-sided romance largely, seeing Elizabeth is 68 and Essex 34.

It is made from two or three older plays concerned with the romance of Elizabeth and Essex by Harry Wagstaff Gribble and is evidently brought in this season to take so much of an edge from another Elizabeth and Essex play written by Maxwell Anderson which the Theater Guild has been threatening to do for some time.

"The Virgin Queen" is well played by Thais Lawton in the titular role and Hugh Buckler as Essex. Veree Teasdale is the conspiring countess of Nottingham, Murray Kinnell the Lord Cecil, and Charles Francis the Sir Walter Raleigh.

Two William Boyds.

Complications are about to ensue. There are two William Boyds in Hollywood. William Boyd, the New York stage star of "What Price Glory" and many other productions, is to work at Paramount on "The Benson Murder Case," while William Boyd of film fame is under contract at Pathé. The names are both the real names of the men and neither wishes to lose the prestige and fame he has built up for himself under that name.

The Tiller Girls have come to Hollywood. The famous dancers were signed by Pearl Eaton for R-K-O, where they will begin work in May, after a tour in R-K-O vaudeville.

Lowell Sherman and Helene Costello put on quite a wedding party last week and a large time was had by all. Reporters sent to cover the event returned in such a happy mood that they were not sure whether Helene or Dolores was getting married. The happy couple had planned a honeymoon at once, but the bridegroom was called for work on "Hawk Island" the next day.

SHE WAS a newcomer in the neighborhood—eager to make friends. But in spite of her cordial pleasant ways, she couldn't! A few polite calls at first—a few polite invitations. Then—dropped!

She was distressed—bewildered. It wasn't the first time this had happened. What could be the reason? Then one day she found out. "B.O."—body odor . . . Now she has many invitations—scores of friends. She knows the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Who can say "not guilty?"

If we always knew when we were guilty of "B.O.," of course we'd correct it at once. But it's so easy to offend and never suspect it. Everyone perspires. Pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste even on cool days, science says. Accustomed to this ever-present odor, we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do!

Don't risk offending. Play safe—wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Its gentle, searching, antiseptic lather purifies pores—destroys every trace of body odor—leaves you feeling gloriously fresh and clean. "The only toilet soap for me!" say millions of particular men and women.

MISS KATRINA McCORMICK.

THERE is a goodly representation of Chicagoans now at Aiken, S. C., where hunting is the chief occupation of all and sundry. Miss Laura Thompson has been there with her mother, Mrs. Leverett Thompson, and other young women who participated in the recent events include Miss Frances Richardson, daughter of the Ralph R. Richardsons, and Miss Katrina McCormick, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's daughter.

Last Glance at Beauties of Our Western Coast

Chicagoan Grows Dates in Imperial Valley.

By Mme. X.

JUST one more go at southern California and then I'll let you off. Over in Imperial valley, a fertile spot created in the time and by the inspiration of the late Theodore Roosevelt, they grow dates of a quality and deliciousness which put the tropical and oriental dates into the darkest shade. Large, luscious, delectable, even if one were ordered by law to eat them, one would enjoy them. And one of the notable date growers there is Charles R. Crane of Chicago. I mention this because it is a great delight to a genuine Chicagoan to find the name of the city's sons and daughters registered in so many remote and important regions. Mr. Crane is one of our notable world students and wanderers. He has carried the name of Chicago to distant regions of Siberia, to innermost China, to even more unknown Arabia, and its adjacent hinterland where Moslems prevail with their mysterious customs. He can converse with their scholars in their native dialects. He also knows out of the way parts of Russia, and likewise, is well acquainted with Transcaucasia [wherever that may be]. But this is the first time I have noticed his name as being associated with a young American industry.

Cultivated by Hand.

The fact that it is connected with that biblical and ancient fruit, the date, hints at a connection between it and his oriental lore. The dates of the Imperial valley are cultivated elaborately and by hand, as is proper for an American adaptation of a historic fruit. It gives it the touch of modernism that we cannot help imparting to everything we handle. Instead of letting the insects and summer breezes bear the pollen from the male to the female date, our American cultivators carry it on a tuft of cotton from papa date to mama date.

An orchard is composed of a hundred female date palms and one male one. Doesn't that suggest an origin for the Moslem and other polygamous oriental households? Polygamy is the rule in the vegetable and horticultural world. When the result is a fruit so delicious as those Imperial valley dates, polygamy becomes a virtue.

The Imperial valley is the object of many excursions from all parts of southern California. Motoring is the great preoccupation of visitors to that delectable region. California claims that it has more automobiles per capita than any other of the forty-eight commonwealths. It is also creating, up and down state, some splendid roadways on which to use them. In the cities of the state they have a much more elaborate and better enforced set of laws governing traffic than have we of Chicago. In fact, in no other city I've visited do I see such a universal disregard of traffic signals as prevails here in our city. If a California motorist flew by red lights, as do thousands of Chicagoans every day, he or she would be swiftly hauled up before a magistrate and compelled to face the music in such a way that there would be no repetition of the offense on that motorist's part.

Jay Walking Forbidden.

In the cities at the principal street crossings in the business districts there is a rapid, automatic bell that warns the motorist, together with a gaunt arm lifted as a warning of the change of traffic. On top of these is the usual red or green light flashing its warning, while at most of the busy corners a traffic cop and his shrill whistle further contribute to the safety of the passerby whether he be on foot or in a car. And the pedestrians are under just as strict supervision as the drivers of cars. They can only cross with the lights, nor is there any "jay walking" or crossing catercorner. You are summoned with an imperious whistle back to the sidewalk if you attempt to shorten your path.

Until these rules were rigorously enforced San Diego had the largest casualty list per capita in the country. Its steep and crowded thoroughfares and its reckless drivers made for this condition. Today its percentage of accidents is much smaller. You notice the care with which motorists pass each other and obey the "stop" signal. On all the fine roads that lead from there into the splendid countryside that lies for endless miles about that region there is a perceptible tendency to respect the other man's rights, which is noticeably absent in Chicago and its countryside.

A Beautiful City.

I don't think that in any other part of the country, north or south, east or west, is there quite so attractive and picturesque a city as San Diego. Its outlook over mountains and sea is unrivaled. It has two beautiful harbors in one of which are sheltered two fleets, one of our war ships and another of airplanes, while in the other nestle merchant ships of many lands. The city's residence districts on high cliffs have charming outlooks, either over the mountains to the north and east, or over Mexico to the south, or the vast Pacific ocean to the west.

It has a delightful all the year round climate, and in Balboa park it possesses one of the most beautiful city parks in the world. In this park are its picture gallery and a large music pavilion, both of which provide the residents with excellent art.

And just south of this charming city is Mexico, green, mysterious, lonely, and at Agua Caliente [Hot Water] offered our adventurous citizens are some of those illicit joys which have been snatched from them by the ghosts of their puritan ancestors. How they hurry there, these eager, thirsty, foolish Americans! Never was forbidden fruit so enthusiastically sought. To be able to gamble and drink ad libitum seems most enticing to lots of simple, smiling people.

Yet those who frequent the place say that almost never does one see there any one the worse for liquor. One reason is because the management, when its sees some one becoming a little tipsy, quietly takes him or her away to some shelter where it is possible to recover the normal state.

Not far from the beautiful casino and the charming hotel with its pretty cottages, the proprietors have built a fine race track where some good horses are run. There, also, they show a spirit quite the opposite of that of Monte Carlo and other such institutions, for they warn those who have won extra large sums gambling or betting on the races that they must leave the place before they spend their winnings, which is quite different from European customs.

Any one who has visited the famous gambling places of Europe will remember the tense look on the faces of those crowding about the tables, that expression of feverish hope, or even more anguished despair, as fortune lures or disappoints its victims. At Agua Caliente there is no such deep absorption. Most people there have a smile or at least an air of amusement and gay expectancy. If it only were possible to practice high psychology and pass laws obliging every one in the country of full age to gamble so much each day and drink so much liquor between midnight and midnight in six months we'd be a nation abhorring both drink and games of chance. But when has psychology been put to such service?

A Wise Precaution.

Still one more instance [illegible] wa [illegible] lation in the west came [illegible] tion while I was in Californ [illegible] trons of hairdressing establish. "vanity shoppes," as the owne [illegible] light to call them, are protected f [illegible] the devilish machinations of modern inventions in a way worth our copying. Not only is it forbidden there to use celluloid combs in the curling or waving of hair, but a further warning is printed on the inside rim of the electric drying machines so that, as they are placed over the head, the user cannot fail to read words somewhat like this: "It is forbidden to use this machine for any one who has combs in the head."

Had we such laws enforced in Ill-

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

sets [and don't forget that while it is easy to get laws passed here, their enforcement is quite another matter], had we. I say, such laws, the accidents that happen all too often when combs explode and burn hair, flesh and sometimes destroy sight would not be possible. Burns where hair grows are far more difficult to heal than those on other parts of the body.

A friend of the X. family was so burned Jan. 29 in a hairdressing establishment [an entirely unnecessary accident] and the head so stricken is still raw and unhealed. The shock and the exquisite and continuing pain of such a disaster are something not to be measured in dollars and cents.

A law should be on our statute books that would make such a disaster impossible. The French adage, "Il faut souffrir pour être belle" [one must suffer to be beautiful], is not an unavoidable price to pay for a hair wave. A hair wave is not a violent attempt at acquiring a measure of good looks which fate did not allot a human being such as would be dyeing the hair, or what is termed "lifting the face." It is a process that ought to be as safe as powdering the nose or using curl papers. But in the hands of the careless it can be as perilous as any fantastic operation such as one reads of so often in the daily press. To make it a safer enterprise the Californians have passed this wise law.

An Unsavory Reputation.

Apropos of our local deficiencies, I suppose that it is the customary experience of traveling Chicagoans to meet half joking, half serious comments on this great metropolis by the western lake. But it hurts the loyal citizens to find that our record of foul deeds, mostly the work of foreign born, is not merely the foremost thought in the minds of outsiders when they know that you are from Chicago, but it is the only conception that they have of our great city. Our splendid buildings with their soaring towers, our fine musical institutions, our great museums, our famous universities, our beautiful park system [the most extensive in the world], our notable philanthropists, our world famed financiers and industrial leaders, none of these stand out in the glare cast by the far famed criminals that continue to cast their black shadows across our façade.

Perhaps, if we pull off a second World's Fair, one outdoing that of 1893, we may be able to wipe out this other record. People outside Chicago talk much more about "Big Bill" than we do within the city's limits. Often days and days pass when we forget that we have him. Not so our countrymen on the Pacific coast. Is he the only mayor in the U. S. A.?

Returning to Chicago, I find its social leaders are, to speak in the vernacular, still on the job. The second evening that I was at home I attended the delightful supper and musicale which was given by the Arts club in its charming galleries and club rooms just north of the river on Michigan avenue.

Too much credit cannot be given its president, Mrs. John A. Carpenter, for the remarkable work she is doing in these meetings by giving the club members opportunities to keep up with all that is best and latest in the artistic development of today. The foremost painters and sculptors of the age are glad to show their handiwork there. The most modern musicians can there be heard in their latest works. It is a privilege so great that I doubt if my fellow citizens here quite realize its immeasurable value. Civilization's course is mirrored in its fine arts, in the works of its artists, writers, and musicians.

Noted Composer and Pianist.

Last Sunday evening after an excellent buffet supper the guests present were seated in the large galleries and there heard one of the most renowned Russian musical geniuses of the day, Serge Prokofieff, composer-pianist. He and Strawinsky are considered the foremost of their kind in Europe today. The former's best known work here is that delightful opera, "The Love of Three Oranges," which was given here in 1921 during the last season of the late Maestro Campanini, himself a great musical director.

Assisting Mr. Prokofieff in the musicale was his wife, Lina Llubera, a Spanish singer with a lovely voice. Among those in the audience were the Kellogg Fairbanks, the William Nitzes, the George T. Langhornes, the Tiffany Blakes, the John Basses, the John A. Carpenters, the Walter Brewsters, the John Paul Wellings, the William Prescott Hunts, the James Hamilton Lewises, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Miss Marie J. Rozet, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Waller Borden, Miss Margaret Hambleton, Miss Marion McFadden, James Keeley, Edwin Krenn, Arthur Meeker Jr., John W. Kirkland, and Boris Annisfeldt.

Boris Annisfeldt, by the way, is one of the most interesting visitors we have had here for a long time. He is probably the greatest scenic artist of the day. He is said to be a most interesting and worth while mortal. He is in appearance more Asiatic than European. He has the dark skin, regular features, and straight black hair of the oriental.

Art Loving Peoples.

Whatever we may think of the present political experiments of the Russians, we have to concede to them a genius for the high arts, music, painting, literature, that makes whatever they do along these lines of importance to the rest of the civilized world of their time. I wonder what ideas they take back to their own country from a tour of this country. Do they find us lacking in idealism and sold to sense, or do they admire and envy our air of freedom and plenty?

Americans who have only a glimpse of Russia today see little to make them dissatisfied with their native land. Nevertheless, the trip to Russia, by way of Iceland and the Scandinavian countries, is becoming one of the most popular on the list of tourist agencies. These companies enable tourists to visit with a minimum of discomfort places and races which would otherwise be quite inaccessible to the luxury loving Americans. More and more, also, are our country people adventuring in such northerly lands as Denmark, Sweden, Norway, where they find much to make them think on the present trend of civilization.

Especially has Sweden been discovered in recent years. It is now considered as in the vanguard of the new art. Its architecture and objects of art in silver, china and glass are gaining world-wide celebrity. Stockholm is considered one of the gayest and most attractive capitals of Europe. Certainly it does not put up its prices when Americans come to buy, as do gay Paree and other continental resorts for traveling Americans.

Both Italy and France are complaining of the decrease in visitors from this country to theirs. Perhaps this is somewhat due to this habit of raising rates for us above those charged other nationalities. No one likes such doings, no matter how much money there is in the pocket.

Among others headed for Sweden this season are the John T. McCutcheons and the Tiffany Blakes, who are sailing on the fine new ship Europa of the German line on April 20 for a two months' stay abroad. They go first to England, where they will be under the special wing of the American ambassador, General Dawes, who is an intimate friend of both Mr. McCutcheon and Mr. Blake. Thence they go to Sweden, sailing from there back to the U. S. A. in June.

June! That sounded far away last Tuesday when one of the season's fiercest storms was bombarding the lake shore from Chicago's northernmost tip to its southernmost curve. Looking out on the drive from the corner of Elm street the writer counted thirteen motor cars stalled on the intersection of Division street and the drive a block above, and three more stalled at the crossing below the windows. The wide waste of water was lashed into such a fury that it did not seem that it could be that friendly lake in which the X family had paddled and waded in childhood, and which had always given those who lived on its shores such a changing vision of fair dawns, bright noons, lovely reflected sunsets and heavenly moonlit nights.

By the time this reaches your eye it may be as placid and gentle as ever. Let's hope so!

MISS BYRDETTA EVANS.

[Barron Photo.]

The engagement of Miss Byrdetta Evans, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Hoffman of 147 North La Porte avenue, to Roy J. Cook is to be announced this evening at a dinner to be given by Mrs. Hoffman at her residence. Miss Evans is a former member of the cast of "The Ziegfeld Follies" and of "The Three Musketeers." The wedding will take place in the fall.

MISS KATHERINE E. LINDSKOG.

[Carlo Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lindskog of 1317 Lunt avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Elizabeth, to Walter Richard Neubacher, son of Mr. dnd Mrs. Frank O. Neubacher of Winnetka. Miss Lindskog is a student at the Starrett School for Girls. She formerly attended the University of Illinois. Mr. Neubacher attended Beloit college.

Wedding Bells Soon to Begin Merry Tolling

Will Fete Large Crop of Brides and Grooms.

By Mildred Jaklon.

WEDDING bells will toll merrily during late spring and early summer this year, and there will be a large and important crop of brides and grooms to be fêted. The succession of weddings will begin shortly after Easter and will continue through June.

The marriage of Miss Edwina Litsinger, daughter of the Edward R. Litsingers, and Wilbur Smith, son of Mrs. Theodore White Smith, will be the first of the large spring nuptials. When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd, of New York.

Chicago, Feb. 6, 1871.

DEAR JULIA:

Will has gone over to a meeting of the Chicago Historical society and little Martha is safely tucked away in bed, so while the house is quiet I will begin a letter to you.

Will has become much interested in the historical society, for he thinks Chicago especially needs such an institution. We are making history so rapidly in our young city out on the prairie—the tendency is to look forward constantly, not backward—but some day our descendants will be glad of such records as we have kept, Will says. Already, during my residence here, there have been many changes in Chicago. Little Martha, for instance, will not know what Chicago looked like in the fifties at all. She will think of Wabash avenue, north of Madison street, as a business street. So I am glad some people are interested in preserving the records of the past. Then, too, Will enjoys meeting the really remarkable men who are concerning themselves with the history of the city.

Father's friend, William H. Brown, was the society's first president and is so missed by every one. He died abroad some years ago—a great loss to Chicago. Luther Haven, another leading citizen of Chicago, was one of its earliest friends. He has passed away, now, too. The present president is J. Young Scammon, and others of the directors are Dr. N. S. Davis, George Manierre, and I. N. Arnold.

The society has lately put up a fine building on Ontario street, and the members are so glad to have a fireproof edifice in which the treasures already collected can be housed safe from fear of destruction. One of the most valuable articles is the original copy of the emancipation proclamation. This was donated by President Lincoln, to be sold at the sanitary fair. It was bought by Thomas B. Bryan, and by him presented to the Soldiers' home. It has been deposited in the Historical society's building for safe keeping. It would be a calamity, indeed, if that historic document should burn.

Bret Harte, the novelist, has been visiting in Chicago and has been lionized by society. Will met him at the Chicago club and we are both invited to meet him at the Wirt Dexters'. Don't you like "The Luck of Roaring Camp"? I think it is splendid.

I gave Martha a little bookcase and desk for her birthday, and she has been arranging her books along the small shelf. "Little Women" is the favorite, and I don't wonder. Miss Alcott's young people are real, not the goody-goody juveniles I had to read about when I was young. "The Lamplighter," though not new, is another book she is fond of.

I have just been looking out the window to see if Will is coming. The north side streets are very dark. Although they are provided with gas lamps at convenient distances, frequently there is not a single lamp lighted in such streets as Huron and Superior, east of Clark. Boys are employed to light the lamps, and they shin up the posts on the rare occasions when they do their work, and strike a match. The wind is often strong and the matches go out, and the poor youngsters are discouraged, I suppose, and sometimes they give it up as a bad job, and go away.

I noticed, when I was in Albany with Will, last summer, that they had men lamplighters, who worked quickly and effectively, with a short ladder and a lighted lantern. I do wish we had a better system here.

Feb. 12.

The next day after I wrote the foregoing Will was called to Philadelphia by the death of his mother. I could not go because my own mother was quite ill, and I feared to leave her. But I have been busy getting my mourning made up. I had met Will's mother only once, but I feel it due to him, as showing respect to her memory, to wear deep black. I don't believe in going to extremes, as they do in Philadelphia, where, a friend of mine tells me, the piano in her home was locked for a year after the death of a 12 year old sister, and the front shutters were never opened during that period.

But I do think it correct to wear a black veil for one so closely connected as a parent or parent-in-law. My new dress is of black bombazine, made with a hoop skirt, graceful in outline and modest in circumference—about eighty inches around at the base.

I have some new jet for my mourning costume; much better taste, I think, than diamonds or colored stones. My bonnet has a veil a yard long, with a deep hem. I have just had a pair of dull kid boots made to order, which are most satisfactory. They are laced over the instep, and it seems to me that makes the foot seem smaller than a buttoned boot.

With love,
Your old friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Footnotes.

The fireproof building in which the Chicago Historical society was rejoicing at the time this letter was written went up in flames in the great fire of 1871, and the precious document mentioned by Martha, the original of the emancipation proclamation, was destroyed, with other treasures.

Charles B. Pike is president of the Chicago Historical society, and some of the most influential people in the city are interested in its work. Mrs. George A. Carpenter is chairman of the woman's auxiliary board. Plans are being made for a new building in Lincoln park to house the really remarkable exhibits of the society in a proper manner.

Luther Haven, mentioned in this letter, was father of Mrs. Charles ReQua and grandfather of Haven ReQua of Lake Forest; of Charles H. ReQua Jr., and of Mrs. Stewart Johnson of Winnetka.

Dr. N. S. Davis of that day was grandfather of the present Dr. N. S. Davis.

It is interesting to note that there is a George Manierre IV., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Manierre III. of Milwaukee.

Wirt Dexter was father of Mrs. Stanley McCormick.

In wearing deep mourning for her husband's mother, Martha followed the fashion of her day. Philadelphia had a particularly flair for "weeds," and when the fashionables of that city mourned they mourned a-plenty. The physicians of that period tried to combat the fashion of heavy veils on the ground of health, but it remained firmly fixed for years.

Gas lamps still were used for lighting streets at this time, and many were the complaints about the poor service given by the small boys who undertook the task of lighting the gas each evening.

Delphic Fetes, Yacht Cruises Draw Travelers

By Mae Birkhead.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS. — [Special.] — European travelers include many of our countrymen interested in the forthcoming excursions and fêtes at Delphi, especially those making Mediterranean yacht cruises as far as Greece. Mrs. Harry Brown of Washington and Pittsburgh has just arrived and chartered the yacht, Queen of Scots, belonging to Anthony J. Drexel Jr., for a cruise of the islands in the Aegean. Among her guests will be Stephen Van Rensselaer and Mrs. R. W. Cryan.

Three years ago under the inspiration of Angelos Sikheliance, a well known Greek poet and his American wife, the former Miss Palmer, Aeschylus' "Prometheus Bound" was performed at a theater in Delphi and the festival was completed with a visit to the ruins, with local dances and ancient games in the stadium and a visit to the museum which contains among its treasures the statue of the Charioteer.

At Oberammergau.

This year under the same auspices Prometheus is again being given and also the "Suppliant Women." A Greek navigation company known as Neptos is arranging several cruises including the performances at Delphi for May 1, 6, and 11.

Oberammergau is also drawing many Americans traveling in central Europe. Among the Chicagoans who have engaged places at the Passion play are Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Hessert, who are planning to arrive here in July and motor to Oberammergau. A party arriving in Naples early in April composed of Bruce MacLeish, his wife, his daughter, Jean, and his son, Hugh, and also Mrs. Ralph Brown with her son will visit Rome and motor through the Italian hills and towns before coming to Paris.

Chicagoans in Paris.

Chicagoans now in Paris are Mrs. Catherine Carr with Madeline Decroix, who after having spent the winter in the Riviera are stopping at the Hotel Prince de Galles during their visit here. Mr. and Mrs. F. Thompson are here for a short stay before traveling Europe, also Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Place are here for a few days before going to Germany. Charles Hart is on the way to the Riviera to spend April before sailing for home. Mr. and Mrs. F. Neilson have just arrived from Monte Carlo and are staying at the Hotel Crillon.

Joseph Blackman with his wife and daughter, Dorothy, who have been at the Riviera are here now before sailing for home, also Mr. and Mrs. Edgar H. Stanton, who are sailing April 9. Charles Breasted who first visited London is now in Paris for some weeks. Mrs. Harry Channon is now visiting Prof. Pierre Montet at his camp in Tanis near the Suez canal. Prof. Montet is a renowned French Egyptologist and is head of an archaeological mission in Africa.

Society Enjoys Gotham Interim Between Florida and Europe

By Nancy Randolph.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 29. — [Special.]—There isn't much doubt that spring has come. We've had nothing but rain all week, and the Florida regulars are back in town, tanned to a startling darkness and sighing for the fair Florida sun. Every one is preparing to depart for Europe and waiting impatiently for Easter to come and go.

In the meantime there has been quite a reunion of southern winterers. Tony Biddle Jr. was the leading light at a party given at the Central Park casino this week to welcome home all those who had been at Palm Beach. The Josef Urbans were there, the Dudley Field Malones, Mrs. Watson B. Dickerman, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sage, Count Di Zoppola, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien A. Hold, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. John Sloan, and Raoul Alevra.

The Week's Divorce.

What would the week be without its divorce? This week the parting concerns the Haliburton Fales, who for almost two decades have graced New York society. No one would ever have thought that Ellen Dexter that was and her Yale husband could ever consider breaking up what New York has long considered an ideal menage.

But there you are. Some little while ago whispers began to run around, as they have a habit of doing, that the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis O. Dexter was preparing to make a trip to Reno. Such denials immediately were forthcoming that one was convinced there was smoke behind the fire of rumor. And now, confirmation comes that Mrs. Fales had secured her Reno freedom and will henceforth be known as Mrs. Dexter Fales.

The Fales are one of our oldest families, being descendend from James Fales, who settled in Massachusetts in 1650. For almost fifty years they have lived in New York. It was only a year ago that Haliburton Fales' father passed on, leaving him and his brother, De Courcey Fales, a million each.

Social Rise of Storrs.

But who cares about divorces when there is entertainment on tap? It is rather astonishing to contemplate the social rise of the family Storrs.

It is not so many years ago that Frank Vance Storrs was Frank V. Strauss with a penchant for giving rather good parties. That penchant has continued all during the time that the Storrs have been living at the Ritz. And, of course, Mr. Storrs has become exceedingly wealthy and, with Mrs. Storrs, gives some of the jolliest parties New York has seen in an age when jolly parties are few and far between.

But the kernel of the Storrs family has been the daughters, Anne and Carolyn, always dressed alike, always smiling, and quite willing to be seen along the avenue.

Now Carolyn is engaged to marry Daniel Sickles next month. At the Ritz the other night the huge occasion was a party given by Rolf Waegen and J. St. Laurence O'Toole in honor of the bride to be. And there was the most amazing collection of social notables and social nobodies present.

Prince George Present.

H. H. Prince George was there, but George is a young lad who adores to go places and do things and is always amused by New York society. Then there were the other foreign notabilities, from the Paul Chavchavadzes and the Hohenlohe-Schillingfursts, the Lobkowiczes and the Mercatis, to Baron Von Mumm and Baron Von Bismarck.

Our New York native nobles were present, too. I saw the George F. Baker Jrs., Mr. and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Esmond P. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rhinelander King, Mr. and Mrs. J. Theus Munds, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis de L'Aigle Munds.

There, too, were the Carroll Livingston Wainwrights, Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, the Thomas Welles Durants, Belle Da Dosta Greene, Allison Armour II., Frank Crowninshield, Lawrence Smith Butler, and Clyfford Trevor.

And then there were some several score people also present who have nothing social in their favor but a desire to be in society. The Storrs, it seems, like not only quality but quantity as well.

Earl of Derby's Coming Visit.

The early of Derby is to arrive soon. Derby is an old man now, and famous for the untidy way he wears his clothes, but despite the fact that one hears little of him other than in connection with racing he is one of England's biggest men.

Louisville and Washington will not keep his entirely. New York will fête his lordship, and I have a keen idea that Boston is going to get hold of him. Derby is colonel of the honourable artillery company of London, which recently sent to the honourable artillery company of Boston a picture of the prince of Wales painted by Gerald Hudson. Hudson and Capt. Knight, both of the H. A. C. of London, sailed Friday on the Olympic, and you may be sure that the H. A. C. of Boston will inquire as to what the chances are of the earl of Derby being the guest of his fellow colonel and the latter's staff.

Balmy Sun Causes Guests to Linger Longer at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—Cabana luncheon parties at the Roney Plaza hotel continue in popularity with the late winter contingent, among them being Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Lowman of Johnstown, Pa., who entertained recently. Their guests were: Mrs. Carl Stuckrath, Mrs. M. M. Meder, Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan H. Sharpe, all of Chicago; Mrs. Cecil Dykstra of Manhattan, Kas., Thomas Hanlon of Cleveland, and Brink Tyler of Louisville.

A marriage of interest in Chicago, La Garnge, Ill., and Miami, was that of Miss Helen Louise Schlake and Emil John Whitman, which took place last Monday at the St. Mathew's Lutheran church with the Rev. H. Niewald performing the ceremony. Friends and relatives, including the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. William Schalke, were present.

Returns from Havana.

Following the service Mr. and Mrs. Whitman left for a honeymoon trip to Havana. Upon their return they will motor to Chicago, where they w make their home.

John D. Hertz returned to his beac winter place the "Three Johns," fro Havana, where he has been visitin for a week.

CLUB ETHICS . . . .

By Maude Swalm Evans

THE social chairman and the treasurer were sitting together in the club lounge after luncheon discussing plans, when Mrs. Garwood came eup to them.

"I hope you have more of your committee members out today than you did last meeting," she said to the social chairman. "Some of the new members were standing around by themselves looking lonesome during the social hour and a number of the others had to go home without their tea, it was so slow coming."

"I'm sorry," answered the social chairman. "We had an unusually large attendance that day and two of my committee members were sick, but I expect them all to be on hand today and we'll try to take care of everything. Thanks for telling me."

"O, that's all right. I just thought you'd like to know," Mrs. Garwood replied as she caught sight of a friend and hurried after her.

"Well! I declare!" exclaimed the treasurer. "Why on earth didn't she speak to the new members, herself, if they were standing around looking lonesome? As far as I know we haven't any by-law saying that the social committee, only, may do it. As for the tea drinkers—some of the members never take it—Miss Akin and Mrs. Pruney and Jerry Talley. I didn't notice that any of the others weren't served."

"Neither did I," admitted the social chairman.

"Then, why did you listen to her?"

"I sort of think it's a part of a club official's job to listen to the complaints of the members, and so I listen. Usually that's about all I can do."

"You certainly are good natured," declared the treasurer. "We had a social chairman once who would never listen to any one. You couldn't tell her a thing. She was self-sufficient and always right."

"I remember one like that when I was a new member in my first club," recalled the social chairman. "That's why I believe that every member has a right to complain and a right to be listened to."

Question.

"There was so much disagreement over the location of a club house we plan that a bare majority voted to build. Is this enough? MRS. W. B."

Reply.

Legally, yes, but it would seem that a big majority should be behind such an important undertaking to carry it through successfully.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By RUTH WAITE

Every woman with gray, faded or streaked hair is entitled to do something about it, for it is every woman's birthright to retain her youthfulness and charm as long as she can. When a woman mentions gray hair to me, I don't hesitate to advise the use of a restorer and I recommend sage tea and sulphur.

A brew of common garden sage, when properly combined with sulphur, restores gray hair to its original color, lustre and beauty. So perfectly does it do the work that its use is undetectable. You may either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the prepared article and it costs only 75c a bottle at druggists. Hence there's no need of your bothering to prepare the mixture yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. The very first application banishes the gray and one or two more sees the hair beautifully restored to its original life and color. One would be surprised if she or he knew of the thousands who use this preparation.

TIME LEAVES A WARNING SIGN ON EYE, ON THROAT, ON CHIN

LOOK to the corners of your eyes and mouth, study your throat, and the line of your chin! It is in these three places that the effects of time, or neglect, first show. Heed the warning signs, and you can preserve your youthful loveliness. Disregard them, and your appearance will age rapidly.

Dorothy Gray discovered that beauty begins to fade as soon as:

. . . lines appear at the corners of eyes and mouth, or
. . . the underchin begins to droop, or
. . . the throat develops a crêpe-like texture.

These three conditions are caused by neglect and haphazard facial care, as well as by the passing of time. To avoid double chin, crêpy throat and wrinkles, follow the simple and successful treatments which Dorothy Gray evolved.

These treatments are given at the Dorothy Gray salon, conveniently situated at 900 North Michigan Avenue. Here, and at leading Chicago shops, you may also obtain for your home use the same Dorothy Gray preparations used in the salons. Won't you drop in tomorrow and let us give you a valuable booklet on scientific home care of the skin?

In a lovely old house in Paris is the newest of the Dorothy Gray salons, where you are most cordially welcome. Conveniently located at number 34, Avenue George V, expertly staffed by skilled operators, the new Paris salon offers you the same Dorothy Gray treatments so justly famous in America.

Exhibitions at Art Institute

Water Colors Present Varied, Vivid Array

Collection of Foreign Glass on View.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THERE are so many fascinating things this week at the Art institute to which to call attention that it is nearly impossible to make a start. The farthest away, in point of distance from the front door, is the exhibit of foreign glass which is installed in the Decorative Arts gallery in Hutchinson wing. The gallery is beyond the period rooms downstairs in the long wing. But the pilgrimage is forgotten in the perfection of the exhibit.

To Miss Bessie Bennett, curator of decorative arts, must go a good measure of praise and great credit for the excellence of the installation. For the glass itself credit must go to a number of gifted craftsmen in half a dozen countries, as France, Sweden, Austria, England, Germany, Holland, Italy, and the United States are variously represented.

One of the unique, spirited, and altogether delightful creations is the group of Jazz Musicians, from Italy. Crystal clear, with reddish brown instruments and touches of deep blue, these slight figures stand out in whimsical pose. They are extraordinarily attractive and clearly decorative. Across the room is another Italian contribution, a green rabbit, large and squatting, sitting back on its haunches, with a soft muzzle lifted searchingly upward.

Decorative Animals.

Scattered through the room are all sorts and kinds of delicious animals. There are seals and polar bears, squirrels and monkeys, an alligator and an armadillo, tigers and birds — two tiny canaries in a cage is a delightful incident. There are many bowls, plates, boxes, and vases for those whose tastes do not run to animals. There are enticing sets of pitchers and goblets. One of these is engraved with pictures of various sports, such as fishing, riding, golfing, and swimming.

On the walls are hung a number of panels in mosaic. These are of interest, too. One finds a stalwart fisherman, a huge fish hung fetchingly over his shoulder; one sees an Egyptian horseman; one discovers a modernist motif of skyscrapers; one enjoys various panels of glass, one extremely stunning panel in black, strikingly etched.

The rugs which were to have been a part of this exhibit have been reserved because there was not space enough in which to show them satisfactorily and also because the rugs, themselves, were not as interesting as had been hoped. The exhibit does not need them. It stands on its own feet, delicately swaying in the breath of popular approval like a lily in a summer breeze.

The Delacroix Exhibition.

Upstairs is the tenth annual international water color exhibition hung in the east wing galleries in company with a memorial exhibition of paintings and drawings by Eugene Delacroix. The Delacroix paintings afford a substantial door through which to pass to the water colors.

Delacroix lived from 1798 to 1863 and although he is recognized now as one of the greatest of the romantic painters and the father of modern color in nineteenth century painting, he was not particularly honored during his lifetime. In fact, he was treated in a most cavalier fashion.

His paintings were greeted with derision and scorn, and insults were more plentiful than plaudits. In 1824 his second great canvas [submitting his "Dante and Virgil" shown in the 1816 salon to be his first], "Scenes of the Massacre of Scio" was exhibited and aroused both horror and enthusiasm. That was the turning point in his career. From then on until his death Delacroix was the acknowledged leader of romantic painting in France.

In the current exhibit are a number of important canvases and it is a pleasant surprise to find that a good part of them are owned by the Chicago Art institute. Particularly stirring is the "Arab Rider Attacked by Lion" and "The Lion Hunt." Both of these are full of dramatic action, violence, and color. The portrait of "An Arab Spy" is a quiet piece of resolute painting and exceedingly fine. Delicate and charming, in the mood of Romney and Gainsborough, is the exquisite "Portrait of a Woman." The "Chess Players of Jerusalem" is another story telling canvas of special beauty and import.

Master of Color and Anatomy.

Through early training one has grown to associate the name of Delacroix with the execution of animal paintings. That these earliest memories are not far wrong is proved in this exhibit. Many of the paintings and of the drawings deal with lions, horses, and tigers. The "Wounded Lioness," belonging to the Art institute, is a characteristic canvas, familiar to many of us, extremely well done. No man could paint a great beast so perfectly unless his flair for animals was based on knowledge of structure.

In the warring pictures of conflict between savage animals and horses and riders, no one could get those poses and postures unless he was trained in anatomy, the science of bones. And in color—was Delacroix trained in color? Again, yes. No one with an inexperienced eye or hand could have so successfully handled the robust and sensuous canvas of "L'Enlevement de Rebecca." Delacroix may be called the "father of modernism," but he was a father well equipped with a knowledge, which is all too readily derided by his children of today.

Treasures of Araby.

There is another introductory passage to the water color exhibit. It is the room given over to the exotic poems in color by Charles S. Chapman. Quite tersely, Mr. Chapman describes himself as a colorist. His paintings enlarge the theme. He is a colorist, a remarkable colorist, and more, beside. He is a musician playing on the colors like an Elman on the infinite gradations of sound; he is a poet with the lyrical imagination of a Keats.

Words can do little to define the softly petaled beauty of these paintings. Mr. Chapman has explained his methods of making these pictures in a thin booklet which leaves a great deal unsaid. The mechanical part may be a dropping of oil upon water, but the essential inwardness of the resulting loveliness is more, much more. It seems a pity to try to explain how this painting is done. It is as much a sacrilege as to tear apart a butterfly's wing, seeking the cause of its dusted magic. Far better is it to look and wonder and enjoy. Here are the treasures of Araby spread for our pleasure; look and inquire no further.

One of these paintings, "The Passing Crowd," was awarded the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize of $150 and, speaking of money, it might be as well to suggest that these pictures are not expensive. To the right on the east wall of the room are three perfectly lovely fantasies, blue and rose and gold, marvelously delicate, $125 each.

Virile Array of Water Colors.

This brings us easily to the water color exhibit, itself. A finer exhibition has rarely been staged. It is immense. Contemporary art at its best is shown. There is nothing gruesome, morbid, or repulsive in the whole extent of the galleries and there is a great deal which is extraordinarily good. It is a vital, alive, virile, forceful, gorgeous array of paintings.

When it comes to a long mention of the exhibit, space lacks today for more than a brief mention. There are some things you cannot miss. There are some artists whose work stands out. You cannot help but be impressed by George (Pop) Hart, W. Emerton Heitland, John Whorf, Lucien Simon (in that strong and homely but so powerful water color, "Breton Group"—there is something to carry home with you in memory), Berthe Morisot (with her delicate, lovely, and tiny "The Balcony"), Frederick Tellander, Robert Lee Eskridge, Harry Alan Weston, W. Russell Flint, and Paul Signac.

Among the Chicago artists who are represented are Increase Robinson, Louis Weiner, Emil Arnim, Lotan Welshans, Harry Pink, Laura Van Pappelendam, Flora Schofield, Frederick V. Poole, H. Amiard Oberteuffer, Philip Nesbitt, Glen Mitchell, Anna Lynch, Fred T. Larson, Joseph W. Jicha, J. Theodore Johnson, Holger W. Jensen, Helen West Heller, Emile J. Grumieaux, Edgar Forkner, Roy H. Collins, Richard A. Chase, Francis Chapin, Frances Badger, Boris Anisfeld, Malvin Marr Albright, and Jean Crawford Adams.

The prizes were awarded as follows: "Winter Landscape," by Henry Keller, was given the new Watson F. Blair prize of $600; the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal and $500 to "Patricia," by Emil Holzhauer; the Watson F. Blair prize of $400 (another new award) to Gifford Beal for "Fishing Boats, Rockport"; the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize of $250 to "On the Balcony," by Ethel Walker; the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prize of $150 to "The Passing Crowd," by Charles S. Chapman; the William H. Tuthill prize of $100 went to "The Artist," by Lloyd R. Jones.

Arthur B. Davies Exhibit.

In the print galleries of the Art institute is an interesting memorial exhibit of prints and drawings by Arthur B. Davies, whose death in the fall of 1928 was a distinct blow to contemporary art.

Paintings by Robert Kilbert and Edna Vognild are on view in the Revell Art gallery, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts. The exhibition will continue to April 14. It will well repay a visit.

Robert Kilbert has a group of landscapes from Berrien county, Michigan, which give in glowing colors the beauties of that playground of the summer tourist. Aside from the rich coloring of the autumn trees, perhaps the most beautiful and striking of his paintings are "The Last Load," "Witching Waves," "The Rippling Brook," and "Reflections."

Edna Vognild has a varied exhibit. She shows a number of portraits, one of the strongest of them being the likeness of Mrs. Robnett, dean of women at Northwestern university, and the most adorable of them being "Baby," who dimples at you from a fascinating color blend. Among the pastels the portrait of Edwin Johnson stands out, a remarkable piece of fine painting.

There are a number of Gloucester boat scenes and a number of landscapes. They are bright, cheerful, colorful, and competently handled. They are joyous arrangements of sun and shadows. Among the most effective are "Gloucester Harbor," "The Hilltop," "February Afternoon," "The White Sail," and "The Sunlit Prow." There are four still life paintings, each of interest. "The Referee" and "The Cat and the Canary" are irresistible.

At the Anderson Galleries.

At the Anderson galleries is an exhibit of paintings by Edward Bruce and of portraits in sepia by Rafael Sanchis Yago. The portraits are extremely nice, some of them lovely. They are representative of many Chicagoans of note and they credit the young artist with a keen flair for character and an intelligent use of his tools. The portraits are among the best portraits, not in color, that have been put on exhibit this year.

The Edward Bruce paintings are reflective studies in the classical landscape of Italy. They are still and cool and a little gray. The burning blue of Italian skies, the bright glitter of its seas, the brilliant green of orange trees with their white blossoms and golden fruit, the magic and mystery and riot and passion and smell, which is Italy, have been put to one side. Mr. Bruce walks in Virgil's tranquil lanes, on the high road of classicism, and his paintings reflect the spirit in which he sees the countryside.

They are lovely and exquisitely precise; modulated, reserved and logical. They leave one a little cold and yet pleased. It is assuring to know that men can take the time in this age to do something which pleases their souls. That Mr. Bruce paints first for his own satisfaction is a foregone conclusion; that we, the public, enjoy it is a secondary thought.

Among the loveliest of the paintings are "A Vista," "Castle at Assisi," "Tulips," "A Peasant Farm Yard," and "Florence—Olives in Blossom."

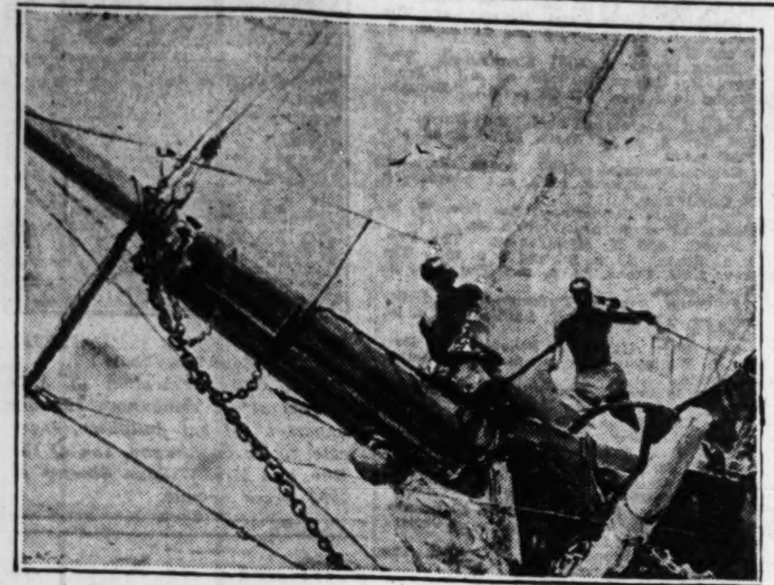
News of Art and Artists.

The Knoedler gallery announces an exhibit of lithographs by Joseph Pennell and etchings by Zorn, Whistler, Lepere, and McBey.

The Midland club is opening its lounge to paintings. The first exhibit is of canvases by Karl Ouren. The exhibit runs to April 2.



"BOWSPRIT," by John Whorf, in the Tenth Annual International Water Color exhibition, current in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. The exhibition is superb; one of the best Chicago has seen in any gallery in any year.

John Whorf is a Boston painter, famous for his work in water color. He has made immense strides in this medium. His paintings are colorful, virile and almost epic in their imaginative realism. The exhibition will continue through April 20.

What is Elizabeth Arden's VIENNA YOUTH MASK?

THERE is no secret about it, for the truth itself is so impressive there is no need of mystery.

The Vienna Youth Mask causes electric stimulation of the circulation, producing health as Nature herself does, through a constantly renewed blood supply.

The amazing value of this treatment lies in the depth to which it penetrates, causing the blood to flow in a rich purifying stream to underlying tissues and muscles . . . charging them with new youth and vigor. It stirs the circulation as no external friction or massage can possibly do.

Concentrated on the face and neck, as the treatment is given in Miss Arden's Salons, it is as though electric energy were poured into your very veins. Fresh red blood flushes the surfaces, carrying away impurities. The skin is cleared and brightened. Best of all, there comes an exuberant, glad-to-be-alive feeling, a freedom from fatigue that is the true measure of health.

Now, due to a recent improvement, the Vienna Mask is more remarkable than ever. Its new "differential" form has a flexibility which makes it possible to focus treatment on one's weakest spots . . . the lines at the side of the mouth, puckery places under the eyes, sagging contours. It is as though the finger of youth touched, and revived, every spot threatened by age.

But you must see for yourself. Visit Miss Arden's Salon and talk to the Trained Diathermic Nurse whose whole time is devoted to work with the Mask. She will tell you in detail exactly what it has done for others . . . and what it can do for you.

For an appointment please telephone Superior 6952.

Churches Offer Loop Noonday Lenten Services

Seventeen Beliefs Participate.

By the Rev. John Evans.

EIGHT HUNDRED churches of 17 denominations will participate in the two weeks' series of noonday Lenten meetings to be held at the Chicago Temple April 7-18, according to announcement by George W. Dixon, vice president of the Chicago Church federation. A feature of the daily programs will be Lenten organ recitals by Arthur Dunham.

"Never has there been a greater interest in religion by people of affairs than there is today," said Mr. Dixon. "The growing spirit of Christian unity is indicated by the willingness of those of different beliefs to unite in these noontime devotions in the heart of the loop during the two weeks preceding Easter. All races and creeds are invited. The messages are along broad, inspirational lines, such as are appropriate for any Christian pulpit. The aim is to emphasize the great truths of religion and to inspire people to better living. We have drawn upon our own churches for our speakers, and the list is impressive."

Services each day will be an hour in length, excepting Good Friday, when they will run for three hours. Mr. Dunham will give an organ recital from 12 to 12:15 o'clock; from 12:15 to 12:45 the devotional service will be held, including prayer, congregational singing, and sermon; and from 12:45 to 1 o'clock Mr. Dunham will play. People are invited to attend the services in whole or in part.

Following are the speakers:

Monday, April 7, the Rev. Ernest F. Tittle.
Tuesday, April 8, the Rev. William H. Boddy.
Wednesday, April 9, Dean Shailer Mathews.
Thursday, April 10, the Rev. Albert W. Palmer.
Friday, April 11, Bishop Edwin M. Hughes.
Monday, April 14, the Rev. Ewing Vale.
Tuesday, April 15, the Rev. Herbert L. Willett.
Wednesday, April 16, the Rev. Hugh Elmer Brown.
Thursday, April 17, the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey.

On Good Friday, April 18, services run from 12 to 3 o'clock, with the presentation of "The Seven Words from the Cross" by the Rev. John Thompson, the Rev. David Hugh Jones, the Rev. Rolland W. Schloerb, the Rev. E. J. Randall, the Rev. J. Allen Leas, the Rev. C. W. Longman, and the Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen. Presiding officers for the two weeks' services are the Rev. C. Claud Travis, George W. Dixon, and Dean Shailer Mathews.

The Chicago Church federation and the First Methodist Episcopal church are uniting in holding the services.

A three weeks' mission opens today in St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets, of which Rev. William J. McNamee is pastor. High mass at noon will be the opening service. The first week will be for married men and women, the second for unmarried men and women and the third for non-Catholics as well as Catholics. A feature of the mission devotions will be noonday mass and short sermon daily for the convenience of loop workers.

Missionaries of the Oblate Order of Priests, the Rev. Patrick J. Phelan and the Rev. Francis W. Fleming, will conduct the mission. The three weeks' devotions will end on Easter Sunday.

The Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, national director of young people's work in the Episcopal church, is to be the Lenten noonday speaker at the Church club services in the Garrick theater next week. Mr. Glenn will also conduct services each evening at various churches in and around Chicago. He will be at Emmanuel church, La Grange, Monday; at St. Peter's church, 621 Belmont avenue, Tuesday; St. Luke's, Evanston, Wednesday; and the Church of the Redeemer, 56th street and Blackstone avenue on Thursday evening.

Missouri synod Lutheran churches of Chicago and vicinity will conduct noonday Lenten services beginning tomorrow at the Great Northern theater, 126 West Jackson boulevard. The services will continue daily except Saturdays and Sundays from 12:05 to 12:35 until Good Friday. The Rev. F. J. Frankenau, Napoleon, O., second vice president of the synod, will be the speaker during the first week. The services are under the direction of the Chicago Lutheran Publicity association. During the second week, April 7-11, the speakers will be as follows: Monday, the Rev. H. E. Brauer, St. Martini church, Chicago; Tuesday, the Rev. E. F. Haertel, Christ church, Chicago; Wednesday, the Rev. K. F. Lohrmann, Berwyn; Thursday, the Rev. T. J. Gesswein, La Porte, Ind.; Friday, the Rev. W. A. Setzer, Elmhurst.

Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale University Divinity school, known as the "dean of preachers," will speak tonight before the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall. Sharing in the program will be Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, and a former student of Dean Brown's. The Yale dean's subject will be addressed to the "restless age" under the title, "How Much Do You Want?"

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Chicago area, Methodist Episcopal church, will address the clergy round table of the Episcopal church tomorrow morning at St. James' cathedral. His subject will be "Reunion."

NewSynagogue, Temple Sholom, OpensThisWeek

Dedication Services Start Friday.

ADDED to Chicago's impressive group of edifices devoted to religious purposes is the new Temple Sholom, Sheridan road at Stratford place. The temple has been in process of construction for the last three years and its cost is placed at $1,700,000.

Temple Sholom will be dedicated in ceremonies lasting three days, beginning Friday evening. Assisting in the exercises will be Gov. Emmerson, Chicago congressmen, and officials of Northwestern university and the University of Chicago.

The new temple, combined with the Frankenstein Memorial center, will be one of the largest and most elaborate synagogues in America. The congregation erecting the new edifice is the pioneer of the north side and will celebrate its sixty-third anniversary this year. Ground for the new temple was broken on the sixtieth anniversary.

The temple proper has a seating capacity of 1,600, but on high holidays and on special occasions it can be expanded to seat 3,000. Full equipment for religious education and social activities of the congregation, including a gymnasium, is amply provided.

In its sixty-three years of existence the congregation has had only three rabbis—Drs. A. Ollendorf, Aaron Norden, and the present rabbi, Abram Hirschberg, who has served for thirty-two years. W. B. Frankenstein, vice president of the temple, will make the presentation speech at the opening service and will be answered by Benjamin M. Englehard, president of the temple.

On Saturday and Sunday mornings following the dedication services of prayer, sermons and musical programs will be held. The following named Jewish religious leaders will aid Rabbi Hirschberg in the services dedicating the temple:

Sea Food at Its Best

NOWHERE on earth have the details of preparing and serving meals approached more closely to the precision of an exact science than in the restaurants at Chicago's Morrison Hotel.

Three Generations of Dinner Guests

As in every science, long experience and study have developed a rare proficiency. Through three generations, the perfect sea food of the Boston Oyster House has satisfied the tastes of Chicago's epicures; yet the prices have maintained a consistent economy. Note the charges for fixed-price meals:

BREAKFAST, 35c to $1 LUNCHEON, 80c DINNER, $1.25

The Famous Terrace Garden Menus

Though established later than the first-named restaurant, the "Garden" has equaled it in popularity by offering, in the most artistic surroundings, a special type of "dine-and-dance" entertainment at noon luncheon, dinner and after theatre supper.

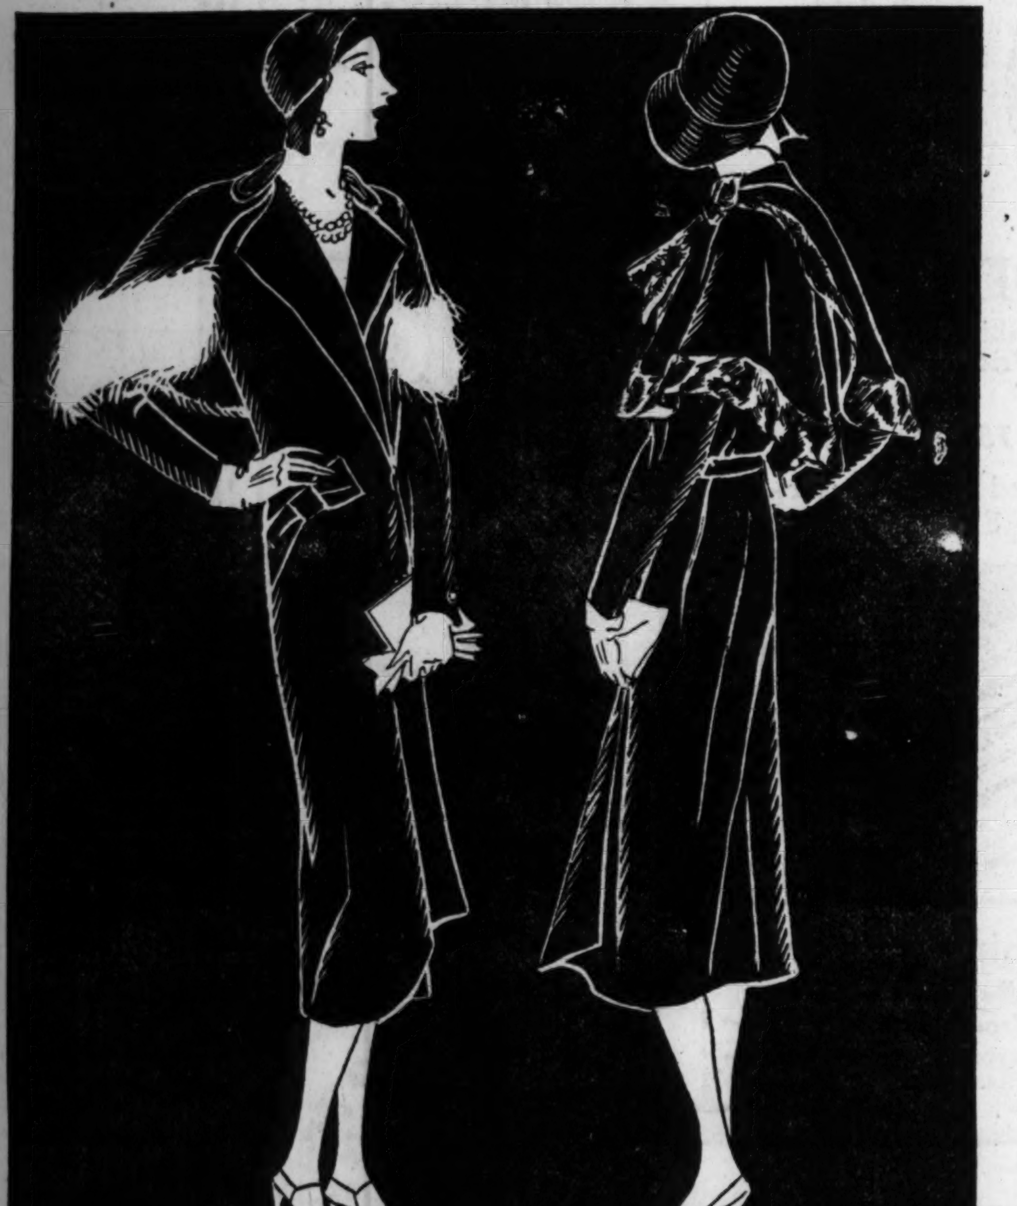
It's Easy to Wear Coat Fashions FIRST--When They're New and



Just $68

Seen at the Openings—Copied —and Rushed to Mandel's

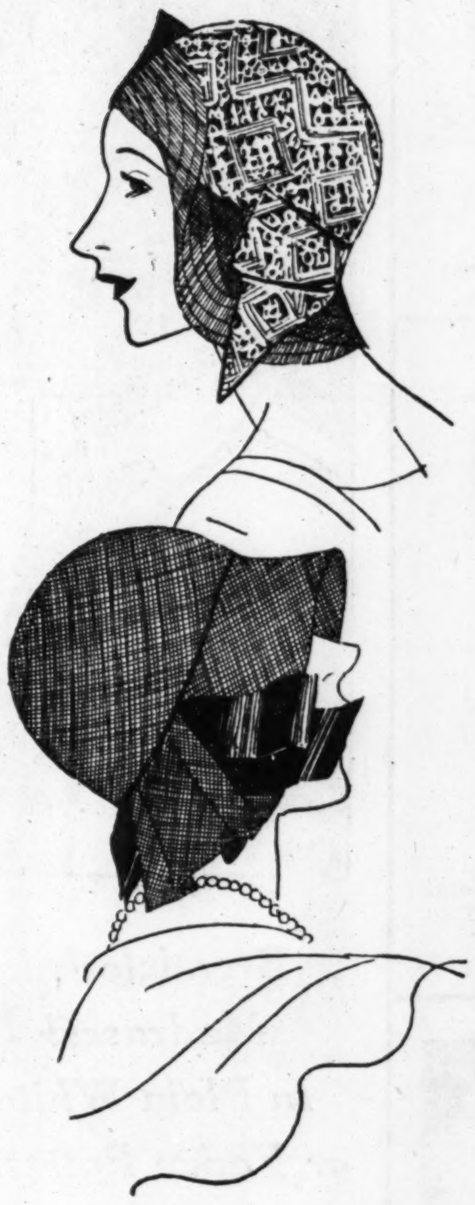
We know Paris liked these coats best —but we found out that a lot of smart Chicagoans liked them, too—so we bought more of them! They're copies and adaptations of the most important models of the Openings. But usually the people who wear them first pay a great deal more than $68 for them!

For Every Figure . . . .

They're so becoming—these 1930 coats . . the CAPE COAT, for instance, fitted at the shoulder to make you look slim . . Vionnet's WRAPPED COAT . . Patou's FITTED WAISTLINE COAT (that's so perfect with new silhouette frocks!)—and many others from Paquin, Redfern, Drecoll, Beer—with galyak, ermine, kolinsky, wolf, fox. And in sizes 14-20, 34-44, 40½ to 50½.

Mandel's Coats—Fourth Floor.

These Baku Hats Are Such a Great Success!



at $8

So Here Are MORE for Another Anniversary Event

They are successful, first, because Baku Hats are the big fashion of the Spring . . . and, second, because they're usually expensive—and $8 is an almost unheard of price for them!

And Besides . .

The collection also includes the same ballibuntls, Porte Bonheur, lacy straws, taffetas, and felts that are used in higher-priced hats . . so that there's a hat fashion—as low priced as $8—to suit every type of costume.

Brims and Bows . .

—and tiny little tucks and pleats . . off-the-face silhouettes that are tremendously becoming because they show the new width . . the shallow crowns that created such excitement at the Openings—they're all here—in every headsize—at just $8.

Mandel's Millinery Salon—Fifth Floor—State.

Famous FROCKS You've Been Seeing at Smart Places!

$38

—But Never Expected to Find at This Price!

There are a lot of smart women that gasped at these frocks last Monday—because they couldn't believe they were only $38. In fact, there were too many women—and not enough frocks! So here are more just like them!

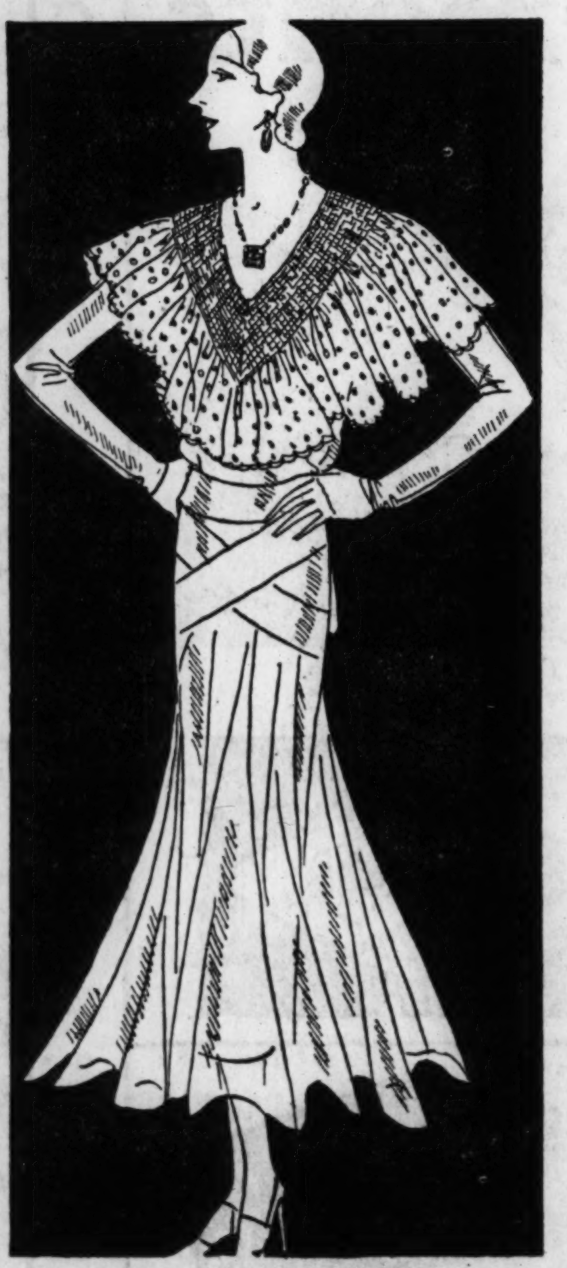
For Every Hour . .

There's the casual crepe suit that everybody's wearing under tweed coats! . . frilly, feminine frocks with little capes, and those awfully smart short sleeves that take years off everybody . . lovely, graceful chiffon and lace frocks that sometimes have little jackets!

For Every Figure . .

No matter if you're short or tall or thin there are frocks of every type for you . . sizes 34-44 for average figures, sizes 35½-43½ for shorter figures, and sizes 42½-46½ for larger figures!

Mandel's Women's Frocks—Fourth Floor—Madison.



These Misses' FROCKS Are Just As Exciting!

$28

—At Just as Famous An Anniversary Price!

These frocks caused a lot of excitement yesterday—smart young things "oh'd" and "ah'd" about them—and bought not one, but several—for all the formal and informal affairs they will be going to this Spring!

Some Are Frilly . .

. . with little capelets or cunning ruffled short sleeves and flaring skirts . . and others are the casual sort of things that every one's wearing to luncheon —and to school—and for street. There are even jacket frocks— the "little suits" that one simply must have at least one of— to be chic in 1930!

Printed and Plain . .

Those bright Spring prints that go so well with any coat are here . . the dots that Paris likes so well . . lovely plain crepes and chiffons—in new Spring colors. They're in sizes 14-18.

Mandel's Misses' Frocks—Fourth Floor—State.

1930 Suits Like These Fox Scarfs

Particularly when they know they could be a lot more expensive . . being in such demand as they are with Spring suits! They're exceptionally large and soft—and it's only because of Mandel's 75th Anniversary that they submit to such price tags!

Every Smart Fox Is Here . .

It's almost unbelievable that dyed pointed fox . . natural red fox . . dyed Hudson Bay blue fox . . dyed blonde fox . . dyed amber fox . . dyed cross fox are just $75—BUT IT'S TRUE!

Mandel's Furs—Fifth Floor—Wabash.
